The applicant must send copies of the application and of the affidavit in support to the official receiver, who may attend the hearing and may make any representations which he thinks appropriate; and, if for any reason it is not practicable to comply with this provision, the official receiver must be informed of the application in sufficient time for him to be able to attend¹⁵.

The court may on the application, if satisfied that sufficient grounds are shown, make the appointment on such terms as it thinks fit¹⁶. An application may, if necessary, be made in private¹⁷.

Where a provisional liquidator has been appointed, the court must forthwith give notice of the fact to the official receiver¹⁸; and a copy of that notice must at the same time be sent by the court to the provisional liquidator where he is not the official receiver¹⁹.

If a person other than the Financial Services Authority applies to have a provisional liquidator appointed²⁰ in respect of an authorised person²¹ with permission to effect or carry out contracts of insurance, the applicant must serve a copy of the application on the Authority²².

¹ See under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 135: see para 491 ante. The application must be made direct to the Companies Court Judge, not a registrar: see Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(4).

Before an order appointing the official receiver as provisional liquidator is issued, the applicant for it must deposit with him, or otherwise secure to his satisfaction, such sum as the court directs to cover the official receiver's remuneration and expenses¹. If the sum deposited or secured subsequently proves to be insufficient, the court may, on application by the official receiver, order that an additional sum be deposited or secured; and, if the order is not complied with within two days after service of it on the person to whom it is directed, the court may discharge the order appointing the provisional liquidator². If a winding-up order is made after a provisional liquidator has been appointed, any money so deposited must, unless it is required by reason of insufficiency of assets for payment of remuneration and expenses of the provisional liquidator, be repaid to the person depositing it, or as that person may direct, out of the assets, in the prescribed order of priority³.

Of the two copies of the order sent to the official receiver, or other person appointed, one copy must in each case be sent by the recipient to the company or, if a liquidator has been appointed for the company's voluntary winding up, to him⁵.

495 Security to be provided by an insolvency practitioner appointed as provisional liquidator

TEXT AND NOTES 1-4--SI 1986/1925 r 4.28(2) amended: SI 2008/737.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(4) PROVISIONAL LIQUIDATOR AND SPECIAL MANAGER/496. Remuneration of provisional liquidator.

496. Remuneration of provisional liquidator.

The remuneration of the provisional liquidator, other than the official receiver, must be fixed by the court from time to time on his application¹. In fixing his remuneration, the court must take into account:

- 958 (1) the time properly given by him, as provisional liquidator, and his staff in attending to the company's affairs²;
- 959 (2) the complexity, or otherwise, of the case³;
- 960 (3) any respects in which, in connection with the company's affairs, there falls on the provisional liquidator any responsibility of an exceptional kind or degree⁴;
- 961 (4) the effectiveness with which the provisional liquidator appears to be carrying out, or to have carried out, his duties⁵; and
- 962 (5) the value and nature of the property with which he has to deal⁶.

In appropriate cases, on an application to fix remuneration, the court may refer the matter to a costs judge for a report⁷. The court also has power to appoint assessors to assist it⁸.

Without prejudice to any order the court may make as to costs, the provisional liquidator's remuneration, whether the official receiver or another, must be paid to him, and the amount of any expenses incurred by him, including the remuneration and expenses of any special manager⁹, reimbursed, if a winding-up order is not made, out of the property of the company¹⁰, and, if a winding-up order is made, out of the assets, in the prescribed order of priority¹¹, or, in either case, out of the deposit paid by the applicant¹² where the relevant funds are insufficient¹³.

The order appointing provisional liquidators may, where the provisional liquidation is likely to be protracted, authorise the provisional liquidators to draw amounts on account of their remuneration in anticipation of fixing by the court, which should generally be limited to two-thirds of the amount estimated by the provisional liquidators¹⁴.

Where a person other than the official receiver has been appointed provisional liquidator, and the official receiver has taken any steps for the purpose of obtaining a statement of affairs or has performed any other statutory duty¹⁵, he must pay the official receiver such sum, if any, as the court may direct¹⁶.

1 Insolventcy Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.30(1). As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq post. As to the official receiver's fees etc see para 548 et seq post. A clause in a draft order appointing provisional liquidators whereby the provisional liquidators were to be entitled to draw their remuneration from the unencumbered assets of the company to be calculated on a time cost basis in accordance with their normal hourly rates was deemed inappropriate, on the basis that this should be considered by the court when the company's assets, the time spent and the disbursements were known: Re Goodwill Merchant Financial Services Ltd [2001] 1 BCLC 259. See also Re Independent Insurance Co Ltd (in provisional liquidation) [2002] EWHC 1577 (Ch) at [4]-[8], [2002] 2 BCLC 709 at [4]-[8] per Ferris J. The incurring and satisfaction of liabilities to third parties (ie disbursements) is a matter for the provisional liquidators themselves, and the court does not fix or approve such disbursements on application under the Insolventcy Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended): see r 4.30 (as amended); and the text and notes 2-16 infra.

8 Ie under Supreme Court Act 1981 s 70: see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 863. In respect of any application for the fixing and approval of remuneration made by, inter alia, a provisional liquidator after 1 October 2004, Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) will apply. The objective of the practice statement is to ensure that the remuneration of, inter alia, the provisional liquidator which is fixed and approved by the court is fair, reasonable and commensurate with the nature and extent of the work properly undertaken by the provisional liquidator in any given case and is fixed and approved by reference to a process which is consistent and predictable: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 3.2. The practice statement sets out guiding principles, by reference to which such applications are to be considered both by applicants, in the preparation and presentation of their application, and by the court which is required to determine the application: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) paras 3.3-3.4.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court having regard to the particular circumstances of the application, all such applications are to be made in the first instance, where the court is the High Court, to a registrar or district judge in the appropriate district registry of the High Court or, where the court is county court, to a district judge in the appropriate county court: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 4.1. The directions which may be given on the application include, in appropriate cases, a direction that an assessor or costs judge prepare a report to the court in respect of the remuneration or that the registrar or district judge sit with an assessor or costs judge when hearing the application, though in the usual course the registrar or district judge will determine the application without the assistance of an assessor or costs judge: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) paras 4.2-4.3. The costs of any such assessor must be paid from the assets under the control of the provisional liquidator: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 4.6. Detailed guidance is given as to the evidence to be placed before the court on such application: see Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) paras 5.1-5.6. On such an application, the court may make an order permitting payments of remuneration to be made on account, subject to final approval (whether by the court or otherwise): Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 5.7.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court (or as may otherwise be provided for in any enactment or rules of procedure) the costs of and occasioned by an application for the fixing and/or approval of the remuneration of a provisional liquidator are to be paid from the assets under the control of the provisional liquidator: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 5.8.

In such a case, unless the court otherwise directs, the provisional liquidator may retain out of the company's property such sums or property as are or may be required for meeting his remuneration and expenses: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.30(3A) (as so added). 497. Termination of appointment.

The appointment of the provisional liquidator may be terminated by the court on his application, or on that of any of the persons entitled to make an application for the appointment of a provisional liquidator¹. It is inappropriate for the court to appoint provisional liquidators as liquidator of a company, although leave may be given to the liquidator to retain the services of the former provisional liquidators as special managers².

If the provisional liquidator's appointment terminates, in consequence of the dismissal of the winding-up petition or otherwise, the court may give such directions as it thinks fit with respect to the accounts of his administration or any other matters which it thinks appropriate³.

497 Termination of appointment

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 1986/1925 r 4.31(3) added (SI 2009/642), substituted by r 4.31(4), (5) (SI 2010/686).

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(4) PROVISIONAL LIQUIDATOR AND SPECIAL MANAGER/498. Application for appointment of special manager.

498. Application for appointment of special manager.

Where a company has gone into liquidation¹ or a provisional liquidator has been appointed, the court may appoint any person to be the special manager of the business or property of the company². The application may be made by the liquidator or provisional liquidator in any case where it appears to him that the nature of the business or property of the company, or the interests of the company's creditors, contributories³ or members⁴ generally, require the appointment of another person to manage the company's business⁵ or property⁶. Such an application by the liquidator or provisional liquidator must be supported by a report setting out the reasons for the application; and the report must include the applicant's estimate of the value of the assets in respect of which the special manager is to be appointed⁷.

In appointing the official receiver as interim provisional liquidator, the court may also restrict his power to that of applying for the appointment of a special manager⁸.

499. Powers and remuneration of special manager and contents of order.

The special manager has such powers as may be entrusted to him by the court¹. The court's power to entrust powers to the special manager includes power to direct that any statutory provision² that has effect in relation to the provisional liquidator or liquidator of a company is to have the like effect in relation to the special manager for the purposes of the carrying out by him of the functions of the provisional liquidator or liquidator³.

The court's order appointing the special manager must specify the duration of his appointment, which may be for a period of time, or until the occurrence of a specified event; alternatively, the order may specify that the duration of the appointment is to be subject to a further order of the court⁴.

The appointment of a special manager may be renewed by order of the court⁵; and the special manager's remuneration must be fixed from time to time by the court⁶. The acts of the special manager are valid notwithstanding any defect in his appointment or qualifications⁷.

500. Security to be provided by special manager.

The special manager must give the prescribed security¹. The appointment of the special manager does not take effect until the person appointed has given or, being allowed by the court to do so, undertaken to give, security to the person who applies for him to be appointed². It is not necessary that security should be given for each separate company liquidation; but it may be given either specially for a particular liquidation, or generally for any liquidation in relation to which the special manager may be employed as such³. The amount of the security must be not less than the value of the assets in respect of which he is appointed, as estimated by the applicant in his report⁴. When the special manager has given security to the person applying for his appointment, that person must file in court⁵ a certificate as to the adequacy of the security⁶. The cost of providing the security must be paid in the first instance by the special manager; but:

- 963 (1) in a case other than a creditors' voluntary winding up, where a winding-up order is not made, he is entitled to be reimbursed out of the property of the company, and the court may make an order on the company accordingly; and, where a winding-up order is made, he is entitled to be reimbursed out of the assets in the prescribed order of priority⁷;
- 964 (2) in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, he is entitled to be reimbursed out of the assets, in the prescribed order of priority⁸.

If the special manager fails to give the required security within the time stated for that purpose by the order appointing him, or any extension of that time that may be allowed, the liquidator⁹ must report the failure to the court, which may thereupon discharge the order appointing the special manager¹⁰.

If the special manager fails to keep up his security, the liquidator must report his failure to the court, which may thereupon remove the special manager, and make such order as it thinks fit as to costs¹¹.

If an order is made removing the special manager, or discharging the order appointing him¹², the court must give directions as to whether any, and if so what, steps should be taken for the appointment of another special manager in his place¹³.

(5) OFFICIAL RECEIVER

(i) Appointment and Status

503. Appointment of official receiver.

The official receiver, in relation to any winding up¹, is any person who is authorised² to act as the official receiver in relation to that winding up³. The Secretary of State may, subject to the approval of the Treasury as to numbers, appoint persons to the office of official receiver, and a person appointed to that office⁴ must be paid out of money provided by Parliament such salary as the Secretary of State may with the concurrence of the Treasury direct⁵, must hold office on such other terms and conditions as the Secretary of State may with the concurrence of the Treasury direct⁶, and may be removed from office by a direction of the Secretary of State⁷. Where a person holds the office of official receiver, the Secretary of State must from time to time attach him either to the High Court or to a county court having jurisdiction for the purposes of the provisions⁸ dealing with the insolvency of individuals and bankruptcy⁹.

Subject to any directions¹⁰ by the Secretary of State, an official receiver attached to a particular court is the person authorised to act as the official receiver in relation to every bankruptcy, winding up or individual voluntary arrangement falling within the jurisdiction of that court¹¹. The Secretary of State must ensure that there is, at all times, at least one official receiver attached to the High Court and at least one attached to each county court having jurisdiction for the purposes of the provisions dealing with the insolvency of individuals and bankruptcy, but he may attach the same official receiver to two or more different courts¹². The Secretary of State may give directions with respect to the disposal of the business of official receivers¹³, and such directions may, in particular, authorise an official receiver attached to one court to act as the official receiver in relation to any case or description of cases falling within the jurisdiction of another court¹⁴, and provide, where there is more than one official receiver authorised to act as the official receiver in relation to cases falling within the jurisdiction of the court, for the distribution of the business between or among themselves¹⁵. Judicial notice must be taken of the appointment of official receivers¹⁶.

504. Functions and status of official receiver.

In addition to any functions conferred on him by the Insolvency Act 1986, a person holding the office of official receiver¹ must carry out such other functions as may from time to time be conferred on him by the Secretary of State². In the exercise of the functions of his office a person holding the office of official receiver must act under the general directions of the Secretary of State and is also an officer of the court³ in relation to which he exercises those functions⁴.

The official receiver may apply to the court for directions in relation to any matter arising in insolvency proceedings⁵.

Any property vested in his official capacity in a person holding the office of official receiver vests, on his dying, ceasing to hold office or being otherwise succeeded in relation to the winding up in question by another official receiver, in his successor without any conveyance, assignment or transfer⁶.

In so far as the official receiver attached to any court does not already have power to do so, he may authorise an officer of his to exercise any function of his which is conferred by or under any enactment⁷. Anything done or omitted to be done by an officer so authorised in, or in connection with, the exercise or purported exercise of the function is to be treated for all purposes as done or omitted to be done by the official receiver in his capacity as such⁷; but this provision does not apply for the purposes of any criminal proceedings brought in respect of anything so done or omitted to be so done⁸.

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(5) OFFICIAL RECEIVER/(i) Appointment and Status/505. Power to contract out official receiver's functions.

505. Power to contract out official receiver's functions.

If the Secretary of State by order so provides, any function of the official receiver which is conferred by or under any enactment and which, by virtue of any enactment or rule of law, may be exercised by an officer of his and which is not otherwise excluded¹ may be exercised by, or by employees of, such person (if any) as may be authorised in that behalf by the official receiver or the Secretary of State². The Secretary of State may not, however, make such an order in relation to the official receiver without first consulting him³.

An order so made may provide that any such function may be exercised, and an authorisation given by virtue of such an order may, subject to the provisions of the order, authorise the exercise of such a function:

- 965 (1) either wholly or to such extent as may be specified in the order or authorisation⁴;
- 966 (2) either generally or in such cases or areas as may be so specified⁵; and
- 967 (3) either unconditionally or subject to the fulfilment of such conditions as may be so specified⁶.

An authorisation given by virtue of such an order:

- 968 (a) must be for such period, not exceeding ten years, as is specified in the authorisation⁷;
- 969 (b) may be revoked at any time by the Secretary of State or the official receiver⁸; and
- 970 (c) must not prevent the Secretary of State or the official receiver or any other person from exercising the function to which the authorisation relates⁹.

Where by virtue of such an order a person is authorised to exercise any function of the Secretary of State or the official receiver, anything done or omitted to be done by or in relation to the authorised person (or an employee of his) in, or in connection with, the exercise or purported exercise of the function is to be treated for all purposes as done or omitted to be done by or in relation to the Secretary of State or the official receiver in his capacity as such¹⁰; but this provision does not apply for the purposes of so much of any contract made between an authorised person and the Secretary of State or the official receiver as relates to the exercise of the function¹¹ or for the purposes of any criminal proceedings brought in respect of anything done or omitted to be done by the authorised person (or any employee of his)¹².

Where by virtue of such an order a person is authorised to exercise any function of the Secretary of State or the official receiver and the order or authorisation is revoked at a time when a relevant contract¹³ is subsisting, the authorised person is entitled to treat the relevant contract as repudiated by the Secretary of State or the official receiver (and not as frustrated by reason of the revocation)¹⁴.

¹ ie by the Deregulation and Contracting Out Act 1994 s 71 (as amended). A function is excluded from s 69 (see the text and notes 2-9 infra) if: (1) its exercise would constitute the exercise of jurisdiction of any court or of any tribunal which exercises the judicial power of the state (s 71(1)(a)); (2) its exercise, or a failure to exercise it, would necessarily interfere with or otherwise affect the liberty of any individual (s 71(1)(b)); (3) it is a power or right of entry, search or seizure into or of any property (s 71(1)(c)); or (4) it is a power or duty to make subordinate legislation (s 71(1)(d)). Section 71(1)(b), (c) do not exclude any function of the official receiver attached to any court: s 71(2).

2 Ibid ss 69(1), (2). As to the appointment of the official receiver see paras 503-504 ante. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante. In exercise of the powers so conferred the Secretary of State, after consulting all official receivers, has made the Contracting Out (Functions of the Official Receiver) Order 1995, SI 1995/1386: see para 506 post.

510. Official receiver as liquidator.

Subject to certain exceptions¹, on the making of a winding-up order by the court in England and Wales, the official receiver, by virtue of his office, becomes the liquidator of the company and continues in office until another person becomes liquidator². Upon becoming liquidator, the official receiver is under a duty to take the company's property into his custody or under his control³ and has all the powers of a liquidator⁴. The official receiver does not become liquidator where a winding-up order is made:

- 994 (1) immediately upon the appointment of an administrator ceasing to have effect⁵ and the court exercises its power to appoint as liquidator of the company the person whose appointment as administrator has ceased to have effect⁶; or
- 995 (2) at a time when there is a supervisor of a voluntary arrangement approved in relation to the company⁷ and the court exercises its power to appoint as liquidator of the company the person who was the supervisor at the time when the winding-up order was made⁸.

The official receiver is, by virtue of his office, the liquidator during any vacancy⁹.

In a winding up by the court in England and Wales, the official receiver may, at any time when he is the liquidator of the company, apply to the Secretary of State for the appointment of a person as liquidator in his place¹⁰. On such an application, the Secretary of State must either make an appointment or decline to make one¹¹.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(5) OFFICIAL RECEIVER/(iii) Statement of Affairs and Accounts/520. Submission, verification and filing of statement of affairs.

520. Submission, verification and filing of statement of affairs.

Where the court has made a winding-up order¹ or appointed a provisional liquidator², the official receiver may require some or all of certain persons³ to make out and submit to him a statement in the prescribed form⁴ as to the affairs of the company⁵.

Where the official receiver determines to require a statement of the company's affairs to be made out and submitted to him⁶, he must send notice to each of the persons ('the deponents') whom he considers should be made responsible for making out and submitting the statement⁷, requiring them to prepare and submit the statement⁸. The notice must inform each of the deponents of the names and addresses of all others, if any, to whom the same notice has been sent⁹, of the time within which the statement must be delivered¹⁰, of the penalty for non-compliance¹¹, and of the application to him, and to each of the other deponents, of the duty¹² to provide information, and to attend on the official receiver if required¹³. The official receiver must, on request, furnish a deponent with instructions for the preparation of the statement and with the forms¹⁴ required for that purpose¹⁵.

The statement must be verified by affidavit¹⁶ by the persons required to submit it and must show:

- 996 (1) particulars of the company's assets, debts and liabilities¹⁷;
- 997 (2) the names and addresses of the company's creditors¹⁸;
- 998 (3) the securities held by them respectively¹⁹;
- 999 (4) the dates when the securities were respectively given²⁰; and
- 1000 (5) such further or other information as may be prescribed or as the official receiver may require²¹.

The statement of affairs must be in the prescribed form²² and must contain all the particulars required by that form and be verified by affidavit by the deponents, using the same form²³. The official receiver may require any of the specified persons to submit an affidavit of concurrence, stating that he concurs in the statement of affairs²⁴. Such an affidavit of concurrence may be qualified in respect of matters dealt with in the statement of affairs, where the maker of the affidavit is not in agreement with the deponents, or he considers the statement to be erroneous or misleading, or he is without the direct knowledge necessary for concurring in the statement²⁵. The statement of affairs must be delivered to the official receiver by the deponent making the affidavit of verification (or by one of them, if more than one), together with a copy of the verified statement²⁶. Every affidavit of concurrence must be delivered to the official receiver by the person who makes it, together with a copy²⁷. The official receiver must file the verified copy of the statement and affidavits of concurrence, if any, in court²⁸. The affidavit may be sworn before an official receiver or a deputy official receiver, or before an officer of the Department of Trade and Industry or the court duly authorised in that behalf²⁹.

Where the official receiver thinks that it would prejudice the conduct of the liquidation for the whole or part of the statement of affairs to be disclosed, he may apply to the court for an order of limited disclosure in respect of the statement, or any specified part of it³⁰. The court may on the application order that the statement or, as the case may be, the specified part of it be not filed, or that it is to be filed separately and not be open to inspection otherwise than with leave of the court³¹.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(5) OFFICIAL RECEIVER/(iii) Statement of Affairs and Accounts/522. Time for submitting or dispensing with statement of affairs.

522. Time for submitting or dispensing with statement of affairs.

Where any persons are required to submit a statement of affairs to the official receiver, they must do so before the end of the period of 21 days beginning with the day after that on which the prescribed notice¹ of the requirement is given to them by the official receiver²; but the official receiver, if he thinks fit, may at any time release a person from an obligation imposed upon him to make out and submit a statement of affairs³ or, either when giving the notice or subsequently, extend the period for delivering the statement of affairs⁴; and, where the official receiver has refused to exercise this power, the court, if it thinks fit, may exercise it⁵.

The power of the official receiver to give such a release, or to grant such an extension of time, may be exercised at the official receiver's own discretion, or at the request of any deponent⁶. A deponent may, if he requests a release or extension of time and it is refused by the official receiver, apply to the court for it⁷. The court may, if it thinks that no sufficient cause is shown for the application, dismiss it; but it must not do so unless the applicant has had an opportunity to attend the court for a hearing, of which he has been given at least seven days' notice; and, if the application is not so dismissed, the court must fix a venue⁸ for it to be heard, and give notice⁹ to the deponent accordingly¹⁰. The deponent must, at least 14 days before that hearing, send to the official receiver a notice stating the venue, accompanied by a copy of the application, and of any evidence which he, the deponent, intends to adduce in support of it¹¹. The official receiver may appear and be heard on the application; and, whether or not he appears, he may file a written report of any matters which he considers ought to be drawn to the court's attention; and, if such a report is filed, a copy of it must be sent by the official receiver to the deponent, not later than five days before the hearing¹². Sealed copies of any order made on the application must be sent by the court to the deponent and the official receiver¹³. On any such application, the applicant's costs must be paid in any event by him and, unless the court otherwise orders, no allowance towards them should be made out of the assets¹⁴.

523. Expenses of statement of affairs.

If any deponent¹ cannot himself prepare a proper statement of affairs, the official receiver may, at the expense of the assets, employ some person or persons to assist in the preparation of the statement². At the request of any deponent, made on the grounds that he cannot himself prepare a proper statement, the official receiver may authorise an allowance, payable out of the assets, towards expenses to be incurred by the deponent in employing some person or persons to assist him in preparing it³. Any such request by the deponent must be accompanied by an estimate of the expenses involved; and the official receiver may only authorise the employment of a named person or a named firm, being in either case approved by him⁴. Such authorisation given by the official receiver must be subject to such conditions, if any, as he thinks fit to impose with respect to the manner in which any person may obtain access to relevant books and papers⁵. Nothing in these provisions relieves a deponent from any obligation with respect to the preparation, verification and submission of the statement of affairs, or to the provision of information to the official receiver or the liquidator⁶. Any payment out of the assets under such provisions must be made in the prescribed order of priority⁷. Where a winding-up order has been made in relation to a company, specified persons¹ are required to give to the official receiver, whether or not he is the liquidator, such information concerning the company and its promotion, formation, business, dealings, affairs or property as the official receiver may reasonably require, and attend on the official receiver at such times as the latter may reasonably require². Any of such specified persons must, at the request of the official receiver, furnish him with accounts of the company of such nature, as at such date, and for such period, as he may specify³. The period specified may begin from a date up to three years preceding the date of the presentation of the winding-up petition, or from an earlier date to which audited accounts of the company were last prepared⁴. The official receiver must also include in the report estimates⁴ of the value of the prescribed part⁵ and of the company's net property⁶, both to the best of his knowledge and belief⁷, and whether, and if so why, he proposes to make an application to the court for an order on the ground that the cost of making a distribution to unsecured creditors would be disproportionate to the benefits⁸. (v) First Meeting of Creditors and Contributories

532. Duties in relation to first meetings.

At any time when he is liquidator of the company, the official receiver may summon separate meetings of the company's creditors and contributories¹ for the purpose of choosing a person to be liquidator of the company in place of the official receiver².

It is the duty of the official receiver as soon as practicable in the period of 12 weeks beginning with the day on which the winding-up order was made to decide whether to exercise his power to summon meetings³. If the official receiver decides to summon meetings of the company's creditors and contributories for the purpose of nominating a person to be liquidator in place of himself, he must fix a venue⁴ for each meeting, in neither case more than four months from the date of the winding-up order⁵. When for each meeting a venue has been fixed, notice⁶ of the meetings must be given to the court and, in the case of the creditors' meeting, to every creditor who is known to the official receiver or is identified in the company's statement of affairs; and, in the case of the contributories' meeting, to every person appearing, by the company's books or otherwise, to be a contributory of the company⁷. Notice to the court must be given forthwith, and the other notices must be given at least 21 days before the date fixed for each meeting respectively⁸. The notice to creditors must specify a time and date, not more than four days before the date fixed for the meeting, by which they must lodge proofs and, if applicable, proxies, in order to be entitled to vote at the meeting; and the same applies in respect of contributories and their proxies⁹. Notice of the meetings must also be given by public advertisement¹⁰.

If the official receiver decides not to exercise his power to summon meetings¹¹, he must give notice, before the end of that 12-week period, to the court and to the company's creditors and contributories¹².

Whether or not he has decided to exercise this power, he must exercise his power to summon meetings if he is at any time requested¹³ to do so by one-quarter, in value, of the company's creditors¹⁴. Accordingly, where the duty imposed by such a request arises before the official receiver has performed his duty to decide whether to summon meetings, or to give notice of his decision not to¹⁵, he is not required to perform the latter duty¹⁶. A notice given of the official receiver's decision not to summon meetings of the company's creditors and contributories¹⁷ must contain an explanation of the creditors' power¹⁸ to require the official receiver to summon meetings of the company's creditors and contributories¹⁹.

Where the official receiver receives a request by creditors for meetings of creditors and contributories to be summoned²⁰, and it appears to him that the request is properly made²¹, he must withdraw any notice previously given by him that he has decided not to summon such meetings²², fix the venue of each meeting for not more than three months from his receipt of the creditors' request, and act in accordance with the provisions which would have applied²³ had he decided to summon the meetings²⁴.

Meetings summoned by the official receiver under these provisions are known respectively as 'the first meeting of creditors' and 'the first meeting of contributories', and jointly as 'the first meetings in the liquidation'²⁵.

Where the company is an authorised deposit-taker²⁶ or former authorised deposit-taker²⁷, additional notices are required²⁸.

537. Handover of assets to liquidator.

Where the liquidator in a winding up by the court is appointed in succession to the official receiver acting as liquidator, the official receiver must, when the liquidator's appointment takes effect, forthwith do all that is required for putting him into possession of the assets¹. On taking possession of the assets, the liquidator must discharge any balance due to the official receiver on account of expenses properly incurred by him and payable², and any advances made by him in respect of the assets, together with interest on such advances³ at the date of the winding-up order⁴. Alternatively, the liquidator may, before taking office, give to the official receiver a written undertaking to discharge any such balance out of the first realisation of assets⁵. The official receiver has a charge on the assets in respect of such sums due to him; but, where the liquidator has realised assets with a view to making those payments, the official receiver's charge does not extend in respect of sums deductible by the liquidator from the proceeds of realisation, as being expenses properly incurred therein⁶. The liquidator must from time to time out of the realisation of assets discharge all guarantees properly given by the official receiver for the benefit of the estate, and must pay all the official receiver's expenses⁷. The official receiver must give to the liquidator all such information relating to the affairs of the company and the course of the winding up as he, the official receiver, considers to be reasonably required for the effective discharge by the liquidator of his duties as such⁸. The liquidator must also be furnished with a copy of any report made by the official receiver to creditors and contributories⁹. All fees, costs, charges and other expenses incurred in the course of winding up are to be regarded as expenses of the winding up¹⁰.

A liquidator in a winding up by the court, if he is not the official receiver, is under a duty to provide the official receiver with information and assistance in order to enable the official receiver to carry out his functions in relation to the winding up¹¹.

538. Public examination of officers.

Where a company is being wound up by the court, the official receiver may at any time before the dissolution of the company apply to the court¹ for the public examination of any person who:

- 1012 (1) is or has been an officer² of the company³;
- 1013 (2) has acted as liquidator or administrator of the company or as receiver or manager⁴; or
- 1014 (3) not being or having been any such person, is or has been concerned, or has taken part, in the promotion, formation or management of the company⁵.

These provisions have no territorial limits and all relevant persons are accordingly liable to be publicly examined⁶.

539. Request by creditors or contributories for public examination.

Unless the court otherwise orders, the official receiver must make an application for a public examination¹ if he is requested² to do so by one-half, in value, of the company's creditors or three-quarters, in value, of the company's contributories³.

Such a request⁴ to the official receiver by creditors or contributories must be made in writing and be accompanied by a list of the creditors concurring with the request and the amounts of their respective claims in the liquidation or, as the case may be, of the contributories so concurring, with their respective values, and from each creditor or contributory concurring, written confirmation of his concurrence; but, if the requisitioning creditor's debt or, as the case may be, requisitioning contributory's shareholding, is alone sufficient, the request may be made by that creditor or contributory without the concurrence of others⁵. The request must specify the name of the proposed examinee, the relationship which he has, or has had, to the company and the reasons why his examination is requested⁶. Before an application to the court is made on the request, the requisitionists must deposit with the official receiver such sum as the latter may determine to be appropriate by way of security for the expenses of the hearing of a public examination, if ordered⁷. The official receiver must, within 28 days of receiving the request, make the application to the court⁸, unless he is of opinion that the request is an unreasonable one in the circumstances, in which case he may apply to the court for an order relieving him from the obligation to make the application for a public examination⁹; but, if the court so orders, and that application was made without notice, notice of the order must be given forthwith by the official receiver to the requisitionists; and, if that application is dismissed, the official receiver's application for a public examination¹⁰ must be made forthwith on conclusion of the hearing of that application¹¹.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(5) OFFICIAL RECEIVER/(vii) Public Examination/540. Order for public examination.

540. Order for public examination.

On an application by the official receiver for a public examination¹, the court must² direct that a public examination of the person to whom the application relates be held on a day to be appointed by the court and that person must attend on that day and be publicly examined as to the promotion, formation or management of the company, or as to the conduct of its business³ and affairs, or his conduct or dealings in relation to the company⁴.

If the official receiver applies to the court for the public examination of any person, a copy of the court's order⁵ must, forthwith⁶ after its making, be served on that person⁷. Where the application relates to a person other than a person who is or was an officer of the company or who has acted as liquidator or administrator of the company or as receiver and manager of its property⁸, it must be accompanied by a report by the official receiver indicating the grounds on which the person is supposed to be a person who is or has been concerned, or has taken part, in the promotion, formation or management of the company, and whether, in the official receiver's opinion, it is likely that service of the order on the person can be effected by post at a known address⁹. If in his report the official receiver gives it as his opinion that in these circumstances there is no reasonable certainty that service by post will be effective, the court may direct that the order be served by some means other than, or in addition to, post¹⁰. In such a case, the court must rescind the order if satisfied by the person to whom it is directed that he is not a person¹¹ who is or has been concerned, or has taken part, in the promotion, formation or management of the company¹².

The proposed examinee is entitled to apply to rescind or vary the order under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47 (see para 1030 post). However, the order will only be rescinded if the court concludes that there is some factor which should lead the court to conclude that it would not be proper to put any questions or to require any questions to be answered (eg if the examinee was liable to some sanction of a foreign jurisdiction which would make it wholly oppressive for him to answer any question): Re Casterbridge Properties Ltd (in liquidation), Jeeves v Official Receiver supra.

The question to be considered was whether the report was so flimsy, so sketchy, or so unfair that the court exceeded its jurisdiction or erred in the exercise of its discretion in making the order: Tejani v Official Receiver [1963] 1 All ER 429, [1963] 1 WLR 59, PC. The application to discharge the order had to be made within a reasonable time: Re Civil, Naval, and Military Outfitters Ltd [1899] 1 Ch 215, CA; Re National Stores Ltd [1900] 1 Ch 27, CA. The court's order for a public examination¹ must appoint a venue² for the examination of the person to whom it is directed ('the examinee'), and direct his attendance there³. The official receiver must give at least 14 days' notice⁴ of the hearing:

- 1015 (1) if a liquidator has been nominated or appointed, to him⁵;
- 1016 (2) if a special manager has been appointed, to him⁶; and

The official receiver may, if he thinks fit, cause notice of the order to be given, by advertisement in one or more newspapers, at least 14 days before the date fixed for the hearing; but, unless the court otherwise directs, there must be no such advertisement before at least seven days have elapsed since the examinee was served with the order⁸.

543. Failure to attend public examination.

If a person without reasonable excuse fails at any time to attend his public examination¹, he is guilty of a contempt of court and liable to be punished accordingly².

In a case where a person without reasonable excuse fails at any time to attend his public examination or there are reasonable grounds for believing that a person has absconded, or is about to abscond, with a view to avoiding or delaying his public examination, the court may cause a warrant³ to be issued to a constable or prescribed officer of the court⁴ for the arrest of that person and for the seizure of any books, papers, records, money or goods in that person's possession⁵; and may authorise a person arrested under such a warrant to be kept in custody, and anything seized under such a warrant to be held, until such time as the court may order⁶. When a person is arrested under such a warrant, the officer apprehending him must give him into the custody of the governor of the prison named in the warrant, who must keep him in custody until such time as the court otherwise orders and must produce him before the court as it may from time to time direct; and any property⁷ in the arrested person's possession which may be seized must be either lodged with, or otherwise dealt with as instructed by, whoever is specified in the warrant as authorised to receive it, or kept by the officer seizing it pending the receipt of written orders from the court as to its disposal as may be directed by the court in the warrant⁸.

Where the examinee is suffering from any mental disorder or physical affliction or disability rendering him unfit to undergo or attend for public examination, the court may, on application in that behalf¹, either stay the order for his public examination or direct that it is to be conducted in such manner and at such place as it thinks fit². Such an application must be made by a person who has been appointed by a court in the United Kingdom or elsewhere to manage the affairs of, or to represent, the examinee, or by a relative or friend of the examinee whom the court considers to be a proper person to make the application, or by the official receiver³. 545. Procedure at public examination.

The examinee must at the hearing be examined on oath; and he must answer all such questions as the court may put, or allow to be put, to him¹. The discretionary power of allowing a question to be put is in no way limited by the other statutory provisions, but must be judicially and carefully exercised in all the circumstances of each particular case². The fact that a question asked has some bearing on the issues in a claim against the person being examined is no ground for refusal to answer³. Any of the persons allowed to question the examinee⁴ may, with the approval of the court, made known either at the hearing or in advance of it, appear by solicitor or counsel; or he may in writing authorise another person to question the examinee on his behalf⁵. The examinee may at his own expense employ a solicitor with or without counsel, who may put to him such questions as the court may allow for the purpose of enabling him to explain or qualify any answers given by him, and may make representations on his behalf⁶.

There must be made in writing such record of the examination as the court thinks proper⁷. The record must be read over either to or by the examinee, signed by him, and verified by affidavit at a venue⁸ to be fixed by the court⁹. The written record may in any proceedings¹⁰ be used as evidence against the examinee of any statement made by him in the course of his public examination¹¹.

If criminal proceedings have been instituted against the examinee, and the court is of opinion that the continuance of the hearing would be calculated to prejudice a fair trial of those proceedings, the hearing may be adjourned¹².

(viii) Official Receiver's Fees, Expenses and Costs

548. Official receiver's remuneration as liquidator.

When the official receiver acting as liquidator¹ makes a distribution to creditors or supervises a special manager², or when he is an interim receiver³ or is the provisional liquidator of a company being wound up, or where as official receiver he performs any duty as liquidator for which a fee is not provided⁴, the official receiver's remuneration for the services provided by himself and his officers in that capacity must be calculated on the total specified hourly rate⁵. Some of this remuneration is in respect of realising the assets, and other elements are in respect of distribution⁶. In a suitable case remuneration may be directed to be paid out of a suspense account in the official receiver's hands, which may not belong to the company⁷. The court has an inherent jurisdiction to order payment to the official receiver of his costs and charges out of assets held by the company on trust⁸.

(6) FUNCTIONS OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

551. Rules and regulations and appointment of officers.

The Secretary of State¹ has many statutory powers and duties with respect to the winding up of companies². The concurrence of the Secretary of State is required for the making of general rules relating to the insolvency or winding up of companies, and matters connected with or arising out of insolvency or winding up³.

The Secretary of State may⁴, subject to the Insolvency Act 1986 and the Insolvency Rules 1986⁵, make regulations with respect to any matter provided for in the rules as relates to the carrying out of the functions of a liquidator, provisional liquidator, administrator or administrative receiver of a company including, without prejudice to the generality of the above, provision with respect to the following matters arising in companies winding up:

- 1026 (1) the preparation and keeping by liquidators, provisional liquidators, and the official receiver, of books, accounts and other records, and their production to such persons as may be authorised or required to inspect them⁶;
- 1027 (2) the auditing of liquidators' accounts⁷;
- 1028 (3) the manner in which liquidators are to act in relation to the insolvent company's books, papers and other records, and the manner of their disposal by the responsible insolvency practitioner⁸ or others⁹;
- 1029 (4) the supply by the liquidator to creditors and members of the company, to contributories in its winding up, and to the liquidation committee¹⁰ of copies of documents relating to the insolvency and the affairs of the insolvent company, on payment, in such cases as may be specified by the regulations, of the specified fee¹¹;
- 1030 (5) the manner in which insolvent estates are to be distributed by liquidators, including provision with respect to unclaimed funds and dividends¹²;
- 1031 (6) the manner in which moneys coming into the hands of a liquidator in the course of his administration are to be handled and invested, and the payment of interest on sums which, in pursuance of statutory regulations¹³, have been paid into the Insolvency Services Account¹⁴;
- 1032 (7) the amount (or the manner of determining the amount) to be paid to the official receiver by way of remuneration when acting as provisional liquidator or liquidator¹⁵.

Such regulations may confer a discretion on the court, make non-compliance with any of the regulations a criminal offence, and make different provision for different cases, including different provision for different areas, and may contain such incidental, supplemental and transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State necessary or expedient¹⁶.

The Secretary of State appoints, removes, defines the duties of, and fixes the salaries of officers who are concerned in the winding up of companies, such as official receivers¹⁷ and the registrar of companies¹⁸.

There are three kinds of liquidators in a winding up by order of the court:

- 1033 (1) a provisional liquidator, who may be appointed at any time after the winding-up petition has been presented and before the winding-up order has been made¹;
- 1034 (2) the official receiver acting as liquidator ex officio from the time the winding-up order is made until he is displaced by the appointment of some other person as liquidator²; and
- 1035 (3) a liquidator appointed by the creditors or contributories, by the court or by the Secretary of State instead of, or to replace, the official receiver³.

557. Appointment by creditors or contributories.

At any time when he is the liquidator of the company, the official receiver may summon separate meetings of the company's creditors and contributories for the purpose of choosing a person to be liquidator in his place¹. If necessary or convenient, these meetings may be reconvened².

Where a person is appointed as liquidator either by a meeting of creditors or by a meeting of contributories, the chairman of the meeting must certify the appointment, but not unless and until the person appointed has provided him with a written statement to the effect that he is an insolvency practitioner, duly qualified to be the liquidator³, and that he consents so to act⁴. The liquidator's appointment is effective from the date on which the appointment is certified, that date to be indorsed on the certificate⁵. The chairman of the meeting, if not himself the official receiver, must send the certificate to the official receiver⁶; and the official receiver must in any case send the certificate to the liquidator and file a copy of it in court⁷. On receiving his certificate of appointment, the liquidator must give notice of his appointment in such newspaper as he thinks most appropriate for ensuring that it comes to the notice of the company's creditors and contributories⁸.

557 Appointment by creditors or contributories

TEXT AND NOTES--See SI 1986/1925 r 4.101B (Official receiver not to be appointed liquidator) (added by SI 2010/686).

TEXT AND NOTE 8--SI 1986/1925 r 4.106(1) substituted: SI 2009/642.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(i) Appointment of Liquidator/558. Appointment of liquidator by the court.

558. Appointment of liquidator by the court.

Where a winding-up order is made immediately upon the appointment of an administrator ceasing to have effect¹, the court may appoint as liquidator of the company the person whose appointment as administrator has ceased to have effect². Where a winding-up order is made at a time when there is a supervisor of a voluntary arrangement³ approved in relation to the company, the court may appoint as liquidator of the company the person who is the supervisor at the time when the winding-up order is made⁴. Where the court appoints a liquidator⁵, the official receiver does not become the liquidator as otherwise provided⁶, and he has no duty⁷ in respect of the summoning of creditors' or contributories' meetings⁸.

It is inappropriate for the court to appoint a provisional liquidator as liquidator of a company, although leave may be given to the liquidator to retain the services of the former provisional liquidators as special managers⁹.

Where different persons are nominated liquidator at meetings of creditors and contributories held for the purpose of appointing a liquidator, the court has power, on the application of any creditor or contributory, to appoint a liquidator or joint liquidator¹⁰.

Where the liquidator is appointed by the court under these provisions, the court's order must not issue unless and until the person appointed has filed in court¹¹ a statement to the effect that he is an insolvency practitioner, duly qualified to be the liquidator¹², and that he consents so to act¹³. Thereafter the court must send two copies of the order to the official receiver; one of the copies must be sealed, and this must be sent to the person appointed as liquidator¹⁴. The liquidator's appointment takes effect from the date of the order¹⁵. The liquidator must, within 28 days of his appointment, give notice¹⁶ of it to all creditors and contributories of the company of whom he is aware in that period; alternatively, if the court allows, he may advertise his appointment in accordance with the court's directions¹⁷. In any such notice or advertisement, the liquidator must state whether he proposes to summon meetings of creditors and contributories of the company for the purpose of establishing a liquidation committee¹⁸, or proposes to summon only a meeting of creditors for that purpose; and, if he does not propose to summon any such meeting, he must set out the powers of the creditors¹⁹ to require him to summon one²⁰.

Where the official receiver applies to the Secretary of State to appoint a liquidator in place of himself¹, or refers to the Secretary of State the need for an appointment², then, if the Secretary of State makes an appointment, he must send two copies of the certificate of appointment to the official receiver, who must transmit one such copy to the person appointed, and file the other in court³. The certificate must specify the date from which the liquidator's appointment is to be effective⁴.

566. Liquidator's status.

Whether he is the official receiver or some other person, the liquidator in a winding up by the court is an officer of the court¹, at any rate for some purposes². He is the governing body of the company³ and also the receiver and manager of its assets, and he fills the character of an accountant to make up the books and accounts so as to ascertain each contributory's or member's share of liability and of any surplus⁴. In receiving calls, the liquidator receives them as trustee⁵.

Since, in a winding up, the company's assets must be collected and applied in discharge of its liabilities, its property is in the nature of trust property, affected with an obligation to be dealt with by the liquidator in a particular way; and this trust is constituted for the benefit of all the creditors⁶. The liquidator is not, however, a trustee, in the strict sense of being a trustee, for each creditor or contributory of the company⁷.

567. Fiduciary position of liquidator.

A liquidator stands in a fiduciary position towards the company. Thus where he has sold its property nominally to another company, but really to himself, he is accountable for the secret profit as a trustee for the company¹.

If, in the administration of the estate, the liquidator enters into any transaction with a person who is an associate² of his, the court may, on the application³ of any person interested, set the transaction aside and order the liquidator to compensate the company for any loss suffered in consequence of it⁴. This does not apply, however, if either the transaction was entered into with the prior consent of the court, or it is shown to the court's satisfaction that the transaction was for value, and that it was entered into by the liquidator without knowing, or having any reason to suppose, that the person concerned was an associate⁵. Nothing in these provisions is to be taken as prejudicing the operation of any rule of law or equity with respect to a liquidator's dealings with trust property, or the fiduciary obligations of any person⁶.

569. Liquidator's general duty.

As an officer of the court¹, the liquidator in a winding up by the court must maintain an even and impartial hand between all the individuals whose interests are involved in the winding up. It is his duty to the whole body of creditors, the whole body of shareholders, and to the court to make himself thoroughly acquainted with the company's affairs, and to suppress or conceal nothing coming to his knowledge in the course of his investigation which is material to ascertain the exact truth in every case before the court; and it is for the judge to see that he does his duty in this respect².

After a winding-up order has been made, creditors and contributories have no right to inspect the company's books and papers except under a court order³, although this must not be taken as excluding or restricting any statutory rights of a government department⁴ or person acting under the authority of such a department⁵. As regards a person who is not a creditor or contributory, however much he may be interested, the liquidator is not even under such obligations as to allowing inspection as attach to the officers of a company before it is in liquidation⁶.

Where a person is entitled to see books or papers, the liquidator must not only give him access to them, but must give him every assistance and facility in finding out what relevant books and papers he requires, placing any information already obtained at his service. Nevertheless, he is not obliged, at the instance of every person interested in every question arising, to make such fresh and careful investigation of books and documents in his possession as would be necessary to enable him to make the ordinary list of documents required from a party ordered to give disclosure⁷.

570. Enforcement of duty to make returns etc.

If a liquidator who has made any default in filing, delivering or making any return, account or other document, or in giving any notice which he is by law required to file, deliver, make or give fails to make good the default within 14 days after the service on him of a notice requiring him to do so, the court may, on the application¹ of any creditor or contributory of the company or the registrar of companies, make an order directing the liquidator to make good the default within such time as may be specified in the order². The order may provide that all costs of and incidental to the application are to be borne by the liquidator³. 571. Control of liquidator by the court.

The court will not encourage a liquidator in resisting, especially on technical procedural grounds, claims to which there is manifestly no defence¹. It will insist that the liquidator, as its officer, acts fairly and honourably in dealing with persons who have claims adverse to his own, and does not merely stand on his rights at law or in equity². In general the liquidator will not be permitted to retain money paid under a mistake of law³ or under an agreement with the company which the company has failed to fulfil⁴, or to which in point of moral justice and honest dealing someone else has a superior claim⁵; but the liquidator must not be generous at the creditors' expense⁶.

The court may sanction the making of an immediate ex gratia payment by a liquidator to a person who has rendered special services in relation to the company's affairs⁷, even though that person has been held to be disentitled to prove for his services in the winding up⁸.

The liquidator of a company which is being wound up by the court in England and Wales may summon general meetings of the creditors or contributories for the purpose of ascertaining their wishes; and it is his duty to summon meetings at such times as the creditors or contributories by resolution, either at the meeting appointing the liquidator¹ or otherwise, may direct, or whenever requested in writing to do so by one-tenth in value of the creditors or contributories, as the case may be². The liquidator may apply to the court for directions in relation to any particular matter arising in the winding up³. Subject to the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986, he must use his own discretion in the management of the assets and their distribution among the creditors⁴. When a company is being wound up by the court, the court may, on the application¹ of the liquidator, by order direct that all or any part of the property² of whatsoever description belonging to the company or held by trustees on its behalf is to vest in the liquidator by his official name; and thereupon the property to which the order relates vests accordingly³. The liquidator may, after giving such indemnity, if any, as the court may direct, bring or defend in his official name⁴ any claim or other legal proceeding which relates to that property or which it is necessary to bring or defend for the purpose of effectually winding up the company and recovering its property⁵.

A vesting order vests the property in the liquidator only in his official capacity, so that he is not liable personally to burdens upon it, such as rentcharges⁶.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(iv) Liquidator's Powers/578. Liquidator's powers exercisable with sanction.

578. Liquidator's powers exercisable with sanction.

In a winding up by the court, the liquidator with the sanction either of the court¹ or of the liquidation committee², has the following powers³:

- 1047 (1) to bring or defend any claim or other legal proceeding in the name and on behalf of the company⁴;
 - 1048 (2) to carry on the business of the company, so far as may be necessary for its beneficial winding up⁵;
 - 1049 (3) to pay any classes of creditors in full⁶;
 - 1050 (4) to make any compromise or arrangement with creditors, or persons claiming to be creditors, or having or alleging themselves to have any claim, present or future, certain or contingent, ascertained or sounding only in damages against the company, or whereby the company may be rendered liable⁷;
 - 1051 (5) to compromise, on such terms as may be agreed:
- 7 (a) all calls and liabilities to calls, all debts and liabilities capable of resulting in debts, and all claims, present or future, certain or contingent, ascertained or sounding only in damages, subsisting or supposed to subsist between the company and a contributory or alleged contributory or other debtor or person apprehending liability to the company⁸; and
 - 8 (b) all questions in any way relating to or affecting the assets or the winding up of the company⁹,
- 8 1052 and to take any security for the discharge of any such call, debt, liability or claim, and give a complete discharge in respect of it¹⁰; and
 - 1053 (6) to bring legal proceedings under the provisions relating to fraudulent trading¹¹, wrongful trading¹², transactions at an undervalue¹³, preferences¹⁴ and transactions defrauding creditors¹⁵.

Any permission given by the liquidation committee or the court¹⁶ must not be a general permission but must relate to a particular proposed exercise of the liquidator's power in question; and a person dealing with the liquidator in good faith and for value is not concerned to inquire whether any such permission has been given¹⁷. Where the liquidator has done anything without that permission, the court or the liquidation committee may, for the purpose of enabling him to meet his expenses out of the assets, ratify what he has done; but neither must do so unless satisfied that the liquidator has acted in a case of urgency and has sought ratification without undue delay¹⁸.

2 As to the liquidation committee see para 629 et seq post.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 167(1)(a).

4 Ibid s 167, Sch 4 para 4. This provision enables the liquidator to sue in the name of a dissolved company which is being wound up under s 221(5)(a) (see para 1151 post): Russian and English Bank and Florence

6 Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 4 para 1. Where it is desired to distribute assets otherwise than in strict accordance with the creditors' rights, an application under this provision is normally not the proper procedure: Re Trix Ltd, Re Ewart Holdings Ltd [1970] 3 All ER 397, [1970] 1 WLR 1421; cf Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 3) [1993] BCLC 1490, sub nom Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 2) [1992] BCC 715, CA. The preferred method of procedure is by a scheme of arrangement under the Companies Act 1985 s 425 (as amended): Re Trix Ltd, Re Ewart Holdings Ltd supra. However, where it is not practicable to hold meetings of creditors as required by the Companies Act 1985 s 425 (as amended), the liquidator may exercise his powers under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) rather than proceed by a scheme of arrangement and it is permissible to depart from the pari passu principle of distribution where this is ancillary to the exercise of such powers: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 3) supra; Taylor v Morris [1993] BCLC 1343, [1992] BCC 440, Ct of Sess. The power to pay any classes of creditors in full may apply to the payment in full of creditors owed very small amounts: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 3) supra; Taylor v Morris supra. The power may extend to payment of classes of creditors where such payment is beneficial to the winding up of the company in that the collection and distribution of the company's assets for the general benefit of its creditors will be, or are likely to be, thereby facilitated, eg where a liquidator runs the business as a going concern necessitating the payment in full of certain classes of essential trade creditors: Re Walker Hare Pty Ltd (in liquidation) [1968] VR 447, Vict SC.

8 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(a).

9 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(b).

10 Ibid Sch 4 para 3. On application by the liquidator for sanction of a compromise, in the ordinary case where the liquidator is not suggested to have acted in bad faith or been partisan, the court will attach considerable weight to the liquidator's views: Re Edenote Ltd (No 2) [1997] 2 BCLC 89, CA; Re Greenhaven Motors Ltd (in liquidation) [1999] 1 BCLC 635, [1999] BCC 463, CA.

12 See note 11 supra.

13 Ie the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) (see paras 844, 847 post).

14 Ie ibid s 239 (see para 846 et seq post).

15 Ibid Sch 4 para 3A (added by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 253). The addition of this provision does not apply in relation to any such proceedings which were commenced before 15 September 2003: see the Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 5. Legal proceedings under the provisions relating to transactions defrauding creditors are brought under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423 (see para 854 post).

16 Ie under ibid s 167(1)(a) or the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended). Where a liquidator intends to compromise a claim, he should apply for court sanction under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 167(1); it is not for a creditor or contributory to apply under s 167(3) (see para 580 post): Re Greenhaven Motors Ltd (in liquidation) [1999] 1 BCLC 635, [1999] BCC 463, CA. On such an application, any person claiming bona fide to be a creditor or contributory is entitled to be heard and it is a matter for the court as to the weight to be given to their views: Re Greenhaven Motors Ltd (in liquidation) supra. In deciding whether to sanction a compromise, the court must consider whether the interests of those, whether creditors or contributories, who have a real interest in the assets of the company are likely to be best served by permitting or not permitting the company to enter into the compromise; it is not for the court to speculate on whether a better compromise might have been achieved: Re Greenhaven Motors Ltd (in liquidation) supra; Re Barings Plc (No 7) (in liquidation) [2002] 1 BCLC 401 (where the objection of preference shareholders who had no real interest in the compromise was discounted).

Where the liquidator, not being the official receiver, in exercise of his powers¹, disposes of any property² of the company to a person who is connected with the company³ or employs a solicitor⁴ to assist him in the carrying out of his functions, he must, if there is for the time being a liquidation committee established⁵, give notice to the committee of that exercise of his powers⁶.

581. Litigation by liquidator.

The sanction to bring legal proceedings¹ should be obtained before they are begun, although there is power to give the sanction subsequently². A third party has no right, however, to object to the proceedings brought by a liquidator in the company's name without the sanction of the court³.

A liquidator may validly adopt proceedings irregularly commenced in the company's name before the liquidation⁴. The court may give leave for proceedings to be begun in the name of the company, or of the liquidator or of the official receiver, by creditors or contributories⁵, but not by other persons⁶. As a term of giving leave to begin the proceedings, the court usually requires an indemnity against the costs from the person obtaining leave⁷; and no proceedings may be begun until the indemnity is completed⁸. A liquidator or official receiver should not allow his name to be added without an indemnity, and then only in a clear case⁹.

Without obtaining the sanction of either the court or the liquidation committee, a liquidator may bring or defend proceedings in the winding up¹⁰.

582. Employment of solicitor by liquidator.

The liquidator does not need express sanction to employ a solicitor, but he must give notice to the liquidation committee¹, if there is one established for the time being, if he does so². The solicitor acting for the liquidator in a winding up has no claim against the liquidator personally for the costs, even though the liquidator has obtained an order that the costs are to be taxed and paid by him to the solicitor³. Where the attendance of the solicitor⁴ is required in any proceedings whether in court or in chambers, the liquidator need not attend unless directed by the court⁵. The solicitor's retainer is not revoked by the removal of the liquidator who retained him⁶. If the liquidator is a solicitor and employs his own firm, or any partner in it, to act on behalf of the company, profit costs must not be paid unless this is authorised by the liquidation committee, the creditors or the court⁷.

It is generally acceptable for a firm of solicitors which has acted for the petitioning creditor on a winding-up petition to be retained by the liquidator when the company has been wound up⁸.

582 Employment of solicitor by liquidator

NOTE 4--SI 1991/2684 renamed the Solicitors' Recognised Bodies Order 1991: SI 2009/500. See also SI 1991/2684 arts 3, 5 (art 3 amended by SI 2009/500).

NOTE 5--SI 1986/1925 r 7.54 revoked: SI 2010/686.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(iv) Liquidator's Powers/583. Power to ensure continuation of essential supplies by utilities.

583. Power to ensure continuation of essential supplies by utilities.

Where a company goes into liquidation or a provisional liquidator is appointed and, if a request is made by or with the concurrence of the liquidator or provisional liquidator for the giving after the effective date¹ of:

- 1054 (1) a supply of gas by a gas supplier²;
- 1055 (2) a supply of electricity by an electricity supplier³;
- 1056 (3) a supply of water by a water undertaker⁴; or
- 1057 (4) a supply of communications services⁵ by a provider of a public electronic communications service⁶, the supplier:

- 1058 (a) may make it a condition of the giving of the supply that the liquidator or provisional liquidator personally guarantees the payment of any charges in respect of that supply⁷; but
- 1059 (b) must not make it a condition of the giving of the supply, or do anything which has the effect of making it a condition of the giving of the supply, that any outstanding charges in respect of a supply given to the company before the effective date are paid⁸.

No such power to ensure the continuation of supplies by a trader, other than the utilities described above, exists, subject to the terms of the underlying supply contract⁹.

1 For these purposes, 'the effective date' is the date on which the company went into liquidation or the date on which the provisional liquidator was appointed: Insolvency Act 1986 s 233(1)(d), (e), (4)(d), (e). Section s 233 (as amended) is also modified in its application to insolvency proceedings involving limited liability partnerships: see the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1309 post. The court has no jurisdiction to compel a liquidator to consent to a compromise or arrangement with a creditor or contributory¹. Any creditor or contributory may appear either to support or to oppose an application for the court's sanction to a compromise or arrangement². If the sanction is obtained by misrepresentation, it will be rescinded³.

585. Compromises with contributories.

A general compromise of claims upon contributories as a class may be sanctioned¹, but not so as to be binding on an unwilling minority². A compromise with individual contributories on the 'A' list does not release contributories on the 'B' list³ or affect the liability of other contributories on the 'A' list⁴.

A power to compromise rights presupposes some dispute about them or difficulties in enforcing them⁵. A compromise is good, however, if the parties in good faith believe that there is a question to be decided between them, even though it ultimately turns out that there was no doubt upon the point in dispute⁶. When many years have elapsed since a contributory was discharged from further liability by compromise with a liquidator, every presumption is made in favour of the discharge⁷.

588 Rules governing exercise of liquidator's powers

NOTES 1-6--Insolvency Act 1986 s 160(1) amended: SI 2009/1941.

(v) Liquidator's Remuneration and Costs

589. Liquidator's remuneration.

The liquidator is entitled to receive remuneration for his services as such¹. The remuneration must be fixed either:

- 1065 (1) as a percentage of the value of the assets which are realised or distributed, or of the one value and the other in combination²; or
- 1066 (2) by reference to the time properly given by the insolvency practitioner, as liquidator, and his staff in attending to matters arising in the winding up³.

Where the liquidator is other than the official receiver, it is for the liquidation committee⁴, if there is one, to determine by which of these measures remuneration is to be fixed and, if remuneration is to be fixed as a percentage of the value of the realised and/or distributed assets, to determine any percentage to be applied⁵. If there is no liquidation committee, or the committee does not make the requisite determination, the liquidator's remuneration may be fixed⁶ by a resolution of a meeting of creditors⁷.

In arriving at that determination, the liquidation committee or the creditors, as the case may be, must have regard to:

- 1067 (a) the complexity, or otherwise, of the case⁸;
- 1068 (b) any respects in which, in connection with the winding up, there falls on the insolvency practitioner, as liquidator, any responsibility of an exceptional kind or degree⁹;
- 1069 (c) the effectiveness with which the insolvency practitioner appears to be carrying out, or to have carried out, his duties as liquidator¹⁰; and
- 1070 (d) the value and nature of the assets with which the liquidator has to deal¹¹.

Where the liquidator is not the official receiver and his remuneration is not fixed in accordance with these provisions, the liquidator is entitled by way of remuneration for his services as such to such sum as may be arrived at by first applying the relevant realisation scale¹² to the monies received by him from the realisation of the assets of the company¹³, and then by adding to that sum such sum as is arrived at by applying the relevant distribution scale¹⁴ to the value of the assets distributed to creditors of the company¹⁵ and to contributories¹⁶.

The liquidator may request or apply to the court for an increase in his remuneration where he considers it to be insufficient¹⁷.

The amendments made to these provisions do not apply where, before 1 April 2004, a winding-up order is made or a resolution for the winding-up of the company is passed and the liquidator is entitled to remuneration, in which circumstances it is instead provided that if the liquidator's remuneration is not fixed as set out in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.127(1)-(5) (see the text and notes 1-11 supra), it must be in accordance with the scale laid down for the official receiver under general regulations (see para 548 ante): Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.127(6) (as originally enacted); Insolvency (Amendment) Rules 2004, SI 2004/584, rr 1(2), 3(1)(a), (2)(a).

For these purposes, the monies received by the liquidator from the realisation of the company's assets include any value added tax thereon, but sums paid to secured creditors in respect of their securities and any sums spent out of money received in carrying on the business of the company are deducted: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.127A(2)(a) (as so added).

14 Ie the distribution scale set out in ibid Sch 6 (as added). 589 Liquidator's remuneration

TEXT AND NOTES 4-12--SI 1986/1925 r 4.127(3) substituted by r 4.127(3A)-(3C); r 4.127(5A), (7-CVL) added: SI 2010/686.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/ (v) Liquidator's Remuneration and Costs/590. Other matters affecting remuneration.

590. Other matters affecting remuneration.

Where the liquidator is not the official receiver and sells on behalf of a secured creditor¹ assets subject to a charge which when created was a mortgage or a fixed charge, the liquidator is entitled to such sum as is arrived at by applying the relevant realisation scale² to the monies received by him in respect of the assets realised³. Where the liquidator is not the official receiver⁴ and sells on behalf of a secured creditor assets subject to a charge which when created was a floating charge, the liquidator is entitled to such sum by way of remuneration as is arrived at by first applying the relevant realisation scale⁴ to monies received by him from the realisation of those assets⁵, and then by adding to that sum such sum as is arrived at by applying the relevant distribution scale⁶ to the value of the assets distributed to the holder of the charge⁷.

Where there are joint liquidators, it is for them to agree between themselves as to how the remuneration payable should be apportioned; and any dispute arising between them may be referred to the court, for settlement by order, or to the liquidation committee⁸ or a meeting of creditors, for settlement by resolution⁹. If the liquidator is a solicitor¹⁰ and employs his own firm, or any partner in it, to act on behalf of the company, profit costs must not be paid unless this is authorised by the liquidation committee, the creditors or the court¹¹. Where there has been improper solicitation by or on behalf of the liquidator in obtaining proxies or procuring his appointment, the court may disallow remuneration to the liquidator¹².

It is questionable whether, as with remuneration calculated by reference to the value of the realised assets or to the professional time committed to the winding up¹³, the liquidator is entitled to request or apply to the court for an increase in his remuneration where he considers it to be insufficient¹⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'secured creditor' see para 109 note 10 ante.

2 I.e. the realisation scale set out in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, Sch 6 (as added): see para 589 note 12 ante.

3 Ibid r 4.127B(1), (2)(a) (r 4.127B added by SI 2004/584). The addition of this provision does not apply where, before 1 April 2004, a winding-up order is made or a resolution for the winding-up of the company is passed, in which circumstances it is instead provided that where the liquidator sells assets on behalf of a secured creditor, he is entitled to take for himself, out of the proceeds of sale, a sum by way of remuneration equivalent to that which is chargeable in corresponding circumstances by the official receiver under general regulations (see para 548 ante): Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.128(1) (as originally enacted); Insolvency (Amendment) Rules 2004, SI 2004/584, rr 1(2), 3(1)(a), (2)(a).

For these purposes, the monies received by the liquidator from the realisation of the company's assets include any sums received in respect of value added tax thereon, but sums spent out of money received in carrying on the business of the company are deducted: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.127B(2)(a) (as so added).

4 As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante.

5 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.127B(1), (3)(a) (as added: see note 3 supra). For these purposes, the monies received by the liquidator from the realisation of the company's assets include any sums received in respect of value added tax thereon, but sums received which are spent in carrying on the business of the company are ignored: r 4.127B(3)(a) (as so added).

6 I.e. the distribution scale set out in ibid Sch 6 (as added): see para 589 note 14 ante.

591. Recourse of liquidator to meeting of creditors and to the court.

If the liquidator's remuneration has been fixed by the liquidation committee¹, and he considers the rate or amount to be insufficient, he may request that it be increased by resolution of the creditors². If the liquidator considers that the remuneration fixed for him by the liquidation committee, or by resolution of the creditors³, or (where he is not the official receiver), the remuneration arrived at by application of the relevant realisation and distribution scales⁴ is insufficient, he may apply to the court for an order increasing its amount or rate⁵. The liquidator must give at least 14 days' notice of his application to the members of the liquidation committee; and the committee may nominate one or more members to appear or be represented, and to be heard, on the application⁶. If there is no liquidation committee, the liquidator's notice of his application must be sent to such one or more of the company's creditors as the court may direct, which creditors may nominate one or more of their number to appear or be represented⁷. The court may, if it appears to be a proper case, order the costs of the liquidator's application, including the costs of any member of the liquidation committee appearing or being represented on it, or any creditor so appearing or being represented, to be paid out of the assets⁸.

5 Ibid r 4.130(1). The onus is upon the liquidator applying for an increase in remuneration to explain why his entitlement under r 4.127 (as amended) (see para 589 ante) is insufficient; but, once the onus is discharged by the liquidator showing that the remuneration is insufficient, the court has an unfettered discretion as to basis and amount: Re Tony Rowse NMC Ltd [1996] 2 BCLC 225, [1996] BCC 196 (application by former voluntary liquidator).

In respect of any application for the fixing and approval of remuneration made by, inter alia, a liquidator after 1 October 2004, Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) will apply: para 2.1(2). The practice statement will apply also to applications by a creditor of the company for the liquidator's remuneration to be reduced under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.131 (see para 592 post) or, it seems, to an application by an interested party to invoke the court's power of supervision of a liquidator appointed in a compulsory winding up as officer of the court to reduce his remuneration: Practice Statement para 2.1(3). As to the exercise of such jurisdiction by the court over a trustee in bankruptcy see Upton v Taylor and Colley [1999] BPIR 168, DC; Engel v Peri [2002] EWHC 799 (Ch), [2002] BPIR 961. The objective of Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) is to ensure that the remuneration of, inter alia, a liquidator which is fixed and approved by the court is fair, reasonable and commensurate with the nature and extent of the work properly undertaken by the liquidator in any given case and is fixed and approved by reference to a process which is consistent and predictable: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 3.2. The practice statement sets out guiding principles, by reference to which such applications are to be considered both by applicants, in the preparation and presentation of their application, and by the court which is required to determine the application: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) paras 3.3-3.4.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court having regard to the particular circumstances of the application, all such applications are to be made in the first instance, where the court is the High Court, to a registrar or district judge in the appropriate district registry of the High Court or, where the court is county court, to a district judge in the appropriate county court: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 4.1. The directions which may be given on the application include, in appropriate cases, a direction that an assessor or costs judge prepare a report to the court in respect of the remuneration or that the registrar or district judge sit with an assessor or costs judge when hearing the application, though in the usual course the registrar or district judge will determine the application without the assistance of an assessor or costs judge: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) paras 4.2-4.3. The costs of any such assessor must be paid from the assets under the control of the liquidator: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 4.6. Detailed guidance is given as to the evidence to be placed before the court on such application: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) paras 5.1-5.6. On such application, the court may make an order permitting payments of remuneration to be made on account subject to final approval, whether by the court or otherwise: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 5.7.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court (or as may otherwise be provided for in any enactment or rules of procedure), the costs of and occasioned by an application for the fixing and/or approval of the remuneration of a liquidator are to be paid from the assets under the control of the liquidator: Practice Statement--The Fixing and Approval of Remuneration of Appointees (2004) para 5.8.

592. Creditors' claim that remuneration is excessive.

Any creditor of the company may, with the concurrence of at least 25 per cent in value of the creditors, including himself, apply to the court for an order that the liquidator's remuneration be reduced, on the grounds that it is, in all the circumstances, excessive¹. The court may, if it thinks that no sufficient cause is shown for a reduction, dismiss the application; but it must not do so unless the applicant has had an opportunity to attend the court for a hearing, of which he has been given at least seven days' notice; and, if the application is not so dismissed, the court must fix a venue² for it to be heard, and give notice to the applicant accordingly³. The applicant must, at least 14 days before that hearing, send to the liquidator a notice stating the venue and accompanied by a copy of the application, and of any evidence which the applicant intends to adduce in support of it⁴. If the court considers the application to be well-founded, it must make an order fixing the remuneration at a reduced amount or rate⁵. Unless the court orders otherwise, the costs of the application must be paid by the applicant, and are not payable out of the assets⁶.

593. Limits of liquidator's rights.

Where a winding-up order is discharged, the liquidator under it is not entitled as against any person to any remuneration or costs¹. The liquidator's claim to remuneration and costs is against the assets of the company, and then only so far as they exist without interfering with the rights of secured creditors². Where, however, the property is realised or preserved in the winding-up proceedings for their benefit, the costs of realisation and preservation may be retained out of the fund in priority to their claims³, if those costs can be distinguished from the general costs of the winding up⁴.

A liquidator may, in appropriate circumstances, be allowed his expenses and remuneration out of assets which do not fall within the liquidation (such as trust assets)⁵.

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/ (v) Liquidator's Remuneration and Costs/594. Costs of outside litigation.

594. Costs of outside litigation.

Where a liquidator sues or defends claims or other proceedings in the name of the company, he is not a party to the claim and cannot, save in exceptional circumstances, be ordered to pay the costs personally¹; but, when he is the applicant in proceedings brought by him as liquidator, an order for costs will usually be made against the liquidator personally, where his claim fails², even if he is also the official receiver³. If the proceedings in which the order is made are not in the winding up, the order may be made without prejudice to any application he may make to have the costs allowed out of the assets⁴, or the court may order that he is to be repaid the costs out of the company's assets⁵. As a general rule the liquidator is entitled to his costs of litigation out of the assets⁶, but he may be deprived of them for making a mistake, or where the proceedings are improperly taken by him, even if sanctioned by the liquidation committee⁷ (although it seems that the order depriving him of costs is subject to appeal⁸). Where the liquidator is the respondent in proceedings brought against him as liquidator and is unsuccessful, the costs should be ordered to be paid out of the assets⁹.

A liquidator who is unsuccessful on appeal will usually be ordered to pay the costs if he is appellant¹⁰, but not if he is respondent¹¹. In that event the appellant is entitled only to costs out of the assets, unless the liquidator has done something to make himself personally liable for costs¹². In proceedings brought by the liquidator, the court may order the liquidator personally to pay the costs, and, in considering whether to make such an order, in a case where he has opposed an application for security, the court would have regard to his opposition; accordingly, a liquidator taking proceedings in his own name will not as a rule be ordered to give security for costs¹³.

A successful litigant in proceedings either with the liquidator, or with the company through its liquidators, or with the company after liquidation has begun, is prima facie entitled to be paid immediately the costs ordered to be paid to him, and to be paid in full. The onus is on the liquidator to show that immediate payment cannot be made, or that other persons have claims in priority or ranking pari passu¹⁴. The court has jurisdiction to order that the costs of litigation which has been continued by the liquidator be paid as an expense of the winding up in priority to the general costs of the winding up¹⁵.

Costs of outside litigation are not specifically referred to in the general rules as to the priority of payment of the expenses of the liquidation out of the assets¹⁶; but nothing in the Insolvency Rules 1986 applies to or affects the power of any court, in proceedings by or against the company, to order costs to be paid by the company, or the liquidator, and nor do they affect the rights of any person to whom such costs are ordered to be paid¹⁷.

In Re Romar Engineering Co Ltd supra, some doubt was cast on the proposition in Re Wilson Lovatt & Sons Ltd supra that the liquidator was entitled to recoup himself unless he has been guilty of misconduct; an application by a liquidator for recoupment in respect of costs already incurred was refused, because it was premature (since the litigation had not yet been tried, and the application was in respect of costs already incurred rather than costs to be incurred in the litigation) and in any event the evidence before the court was insufficient to allow the court to conclude that the liquidator had proceeded properly in pursuing the litigation.

Where the liquidator is succeeded in office by another liquidator, such records must be delivered to that successor forthwith, unless, in the case of a winding up by the court, the winding up is for practical purposes complete and the successor is the official receiver, in which case the records are only to be delivered to the official receiver if the latter so requests⁶.

599. Provision and audit of accounts.

The liquidator¹ must, if required by the Secretary of State at any time, send to the Secretary of State an account in relation to the company of the liquidator's receipts and payments covering such period as the Secretary of State may direct; and such account must, if so required by the Secretary of State, be certified by the liquidator².

Where the liquidator in a winding up by the court vacates office prior to the holding of the final general meeting of creditors³, he must within 14 days of vacating office send to the Secretary of State an account of his receipts and payments as liquidator for any period not covered by an account previously so sent by him or, if no such account has been sent, an account of his receipts and payments in respect of the whole period of his office⁴.

In the case of a winding up by the court, where a final general meeting of creditors has been held or is deemed to have been held, the liquidator must send to the Secretary of State an account of his receipts and payments as liquidator which are not covered by any previous account so sent by him or, if no such account has been sent, an account of his receipts and payments in respect of the whole period of his office⁵.

In the case of a winding up by the court where a statement of affairs has not been submitted, any account sent under these provisions must be accompanied by a summary of all known assets and their estimated values and must show the amounts actually realised and explain the reasons for any non-realisation of any assets not realised⁸.

Any account sent to the Secretary of State must, if he so requires, be audited; but, whether or not the Secretary of State requires the account to be audited, the liquidator must send to the Secretary of State on demand any documents, including vouchers and bank statements, and any information relating to the account¹³.

605. Local bank account; handling of funds not belonging to the company.

Where the liquidator¹ intends to exercise his power to carry on the business of the company, he may apply to the Secretary of State for authorisation to open a local bank account², and the Secretary of State may authorise him to make his payments into and out of a specified bank, subject to a limit, instead of into and out of the Insolvency Services Account³ if satisfied that an administrative advantage will be derived from having such an account⁴.

Money received by the liquidator relating to the purpose for which the account was opened may be paid into the local bank account to the credit of the company to which the account relates⁵. Where money which is not an asset of the company is provided by the liquidator for a specific purpose, it must be clearly identifiable in a separate account⁶.

The liquidator must keep proper records, including documentary evidence of all money paid into and out of every local bank account opened and maintained under these provisions⁷, and must pay⁸ without deduction into the Insolvency Services Account any surplus over any limit imposed by an authorisation so granted⁹.

As soon as the liquidator ceases to carry on the business of the company or vacates office or an authorisation so given is withdrawn, he must close the account and pay¹⁰ any balance into the Insolvency Services Account¹¹.

2 For these purposes, 'local bank account' means, in the case of a winding up by the court, a current account opened with a local bank under the Insolvency Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2507, reg 6(2); and 'local bank' means any bank in, or in the neighbourhood of, the district in respect of which the court has winding-up jurisdiction, in which the proceedings are taken, or in the locality in which any business of the company is carried on: reg 3(1). 606. Investment or otherwise handling of funds and payment of interest.

When the cash balance standing to the credit of the company in the account in respect of that company kept by the Secretary of State is in excess of the amount which, in the opinion of the liquidator¹, is required for the immediate purposes of the winding up, and should be invested, he may request the Secretary of State to invest the amount not so required in government securities, to be placed to the credit of that account for the company's benefit². When any of the money so invested is, in the opinion of the liquidator, required for the immediate purposes of the winding up, he may request the Secretary of State to raise such sum as may be required by the sale of such of those securities as may be necessary³.

In cases where investments have been so made at the request of the liquidator and additional sums to the amounts so invested, including money received in respect of investments and interest⁴, are paid into the Insolvency Services Account⁵ to the credit of the company, a request must be made to the Secretary of State by the liquidator if it is desired that these additional sums should be invested⁶.

Any request relating to the investment in, or sale of, as the case may be, treasury bills so made⁷ must be made on a form obtainable from the Department of Trade and Industry⁸ or on one that is substantially similar; and any request relating to the purchase or sale, as the case may be, of any other type of government security so made must be made in writing⁹. Any request so made¹⁰ is sufficient authority to the Secretary of State for the investment or sale, as the case may be¹¹.

At any time after 1 April 2004¹² whenever there is any money standing to the credit of the company in the Insolvency Services Account, the company is entitled to interest on that money¹³.

All money received in respect of investments and interest earned under these provisions must be paid into the Insolvency Services Account to the credit of the company¹⁴.

However, interest ceases to accrue from the date of receipt by the Secretary of State of a notice in writing from the liquidator that in the opinion of the liquidator it is necessary or expedient in order to facilitate the conclusion of the winding up that interest should cease to accrue; although interest will start to accrue again where the liquidator gives a further notice in writing to the Secretary of State requesting that interest should start to accrue again: Insolvency Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2507, reg 9(6A) (as so added). NOTE 13--Amount varied to 4.75% per annum with effect from 11 November 2008: the London Gazette, 7 November 2008.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(vii) Banking Accounts and Investment of Funds; Unclaimed Funds and Dividends/607. Payment of unclaimed or undistributed assets, dividends or other money on dissolution of company.

607. Payment of unclaimed or undistributed assets, dividends or other money on dissolution of company.

In the case of a company which has been dissolved, notwithstanding anything in the Insolvency Regulations 1994¹, any money in the hands of any, or any former, liquidator² at the date of the dissolution of the company or his earlier vacation of office, representing unclaimed or undistributed assets of the company or dividends or held by the company in trust in respect of dividends or other sums due to any person as a member or former member of the company³, must forthwith be paid by him into the Insolvency Services Account⁴.

1 le the Insolvency Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2507 (as amended).

2 For the meaning of 'liquidator' see para 595 note 1 ante.

3 The words 'as to money held in trust' were introduced in 1948, and their meaning as regards dividends is obscure. A company is a debtor, not a trustee, in respect of unclaimed dividends, and the keeping of an unclaimed dividends account in its books does not create a trust: Re Severn and Wye and Severn Bridge Rly Co [1896] 1 Ch 559 at 565. As regards dividends being a debt cf COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1415. Moreover, sums due in respect of dividends are postponed to the claims of other creditors by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 74(2)(f) (see Re Consolidated Goldfields of New Zealand Ltd [1953] Ch 689, [1953] 1 All ER 791; and para 719 post) and the creation of an expenses trust would, it seems, be void (cf Re Apex Supply Co Ltd [1942] Ch 108, [1941] 3 All ER 473). No doubt the words (which do not extend to unclaimed debenture interest) are declaratory, and the money referred to would be comprised in 'undistributed assets' without such words. See also Re Compania de Electricidad de la Provincia de Buenos Aires Ltd [1980] Ch 146, [1978] 3 All ER 668.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

(viii) Resignation, Removal or Vacancy in Office of Liquidator

609. Resignation of liquidator.

A liquidator appointed by the court may, by giving notice to the court, resign his office either:

- 1077 (1) on grounds of ill-health¹;
- 1078 (2) because he intends ceasing to be in practice as an insolvency practitioner²;
or
- 1079 (3) because there is some conflict of interest or change of personal circumstances which precludes or makes impracticable the further discharge by him of the duties of liquidator³.

Before resigning his office, the liquidator must call a meeting of creditors for the purpose of receiving his resignation; and the notice summoning the meeting⁴ must indicate that this is the purpose, or one of the purposes of it, and must draw the attention of creditors to the provisions with respect to the liquidator's release⁵. A copy of the notice must at the same time also be sent to the official receiver⁶. The notice to creditors summoning the meeting must be accompanied by an account of the liquidator's administration of the winding up, including a summary of his receipts and payments, and a statement by him that he has reconciled his account with that which is held by the Secretary of State in respect of the winding up⁷.

Where two or more persons are acting as liquidator jointly, any one of them may proceed under these provisions (without prejudice to the continuation in office of the other or others) on the ground that, in his opinion and that of the other or others, it is no longer expedient that there should continue to be the present number of joint liquidators⁸.

If there is no quorum present⁹ at the meeting summoned to receive the liquidator's resignation, the meeting is deemed to have been held, a resolution is deemed to have been passed that the liquidator's resignation be accepted and the creditors are deemed not to have resolved against the liquidator having his release¹⁰. In such a case, any reference in the Insolvency Rules 1986 to a resolution that the liquidator's resignation be accepted is replaced by a reference to the making of a written statement, signed by the person who, had there been a quorum present, would have been chairman of the meeting, that no quorum was present and that the liquidator may resign¹¹.

Where a meeting is summoned to receive the liquidator's resignation, the chairman, if he is not the official receiver, must within three days send to the official receiver a copy of any resolution passed at the meeting that the liquidator's resignation be accepted, that a new liquidator be appointed, or that the resigning liquidator be not given his release¹². If it has been resolved to accept the liquidator's resignation, the chairman must also send to the official receiver a certificate to that effect¹³. If the creditors have resolved to appoint a new liquidator, the certificate of his appointment must also be sent to the official receiver within that time, and the formalities relating to the certificate of appointment of a liquidator¹⁴ must be complied with in respect of it¹⁵. If the liquidator's resignation is accepted, the requisite notice of it¹⁶ must be given by him forthwith after the meeting; and he must send a copy to the official receiver; and the notice must be accompanied by a copy of the account¹⁷ sent to creditors¹⁸. The official receiver must file a copy of the notice in court¹⁹. The liquidator's resignation is effective as from the date on which the official receiver files the copy notice in court, that date to be indorsed on the copy notice²⁰.

610. Leave to resign granted by the court.

If at a creditor's meeting summoned to accept the liquidator's resignation it is resolved that it be not accepted, the court may, on the liquidator's application, make an order giving him leave to resign¹. The court's order may include such provisions as it thinks fit with respect to matters arising in connection with the resignation, and must determine the date from which the liquidator's release is effective². The court must send two sealed copies of the order to the liquidator, who must send one of the copies forthwith to the official receiver³. On sending notice of his resignation to the court following leave granted by the court, the liquidator must send a copy of it to the official receiver⁴.

Where a liquidator seeks to resign on grounds of ill-health, the court will invariably make an order giving leave to resign⁵. In cases where a practitioner seeks to be removed from several offices at once, the court has been willing to bypass the procedures for investigation and make orders removing the practitioner and appointing a suitable replacement⁶.

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

609-622 Resignation, Removal or Vacancy in Office of Liquidator

See SI 1986/1925 Pt 7 Ch 1A (rr 7.10A-7.10D) (block transfer of cases where insolvency practitioner has died etc) (added by SI 2010/686).

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(viii) Resignation, Removal or Vacancy in Office of Liquidator/616. Removal of liquidator by the court.

616. Removal of liquidator by the court.

The court has a general discretion to remove any liquidator appointed by it¹. Where application is made to the court for the removal of the liquidator, or for an order directing the liquidator to summon a meeting of creditors for the purpose of removing him², the court may, if it thinks that no sufficient cause is shown³ for the application, dismiss it, but it may not do so unless the applicant has had an opportunity to attend the court for a hearing, of which he has been given at least seven days' notice; if the application is not so dismissed, the court must fix a venue⁴ for it to be heard⁵. The court may require the applicant to make a deposit or give security for the costs to be incurred by the liquidator on the application⁶. The applicant must, at least 14 days before the hearing, send to the liquidator and the official receiver a notice stating the venue and accompanied by a copy of the application, and of any evidence which he intends to adduce in support of it⁷. Subject to any contrary order of the court, the costs of the application are not payable out of the assets⁸. Where the court removes the liquidator, it must send copies of the order of removal to him and to the official receiver⁹; and the order may include such provision as the court thinks fit with respect to matters arising in connection with the removal¹⁰. If the court appoints a new liquidator, the provisions relating to the appointment of a liquidator by the court¹¹ apply¹².

An application to the court to remove a liquidator must be made by a person with an interest in the outcome of the liquidation¹³. Hence, in an insolvent liquidation, a contributory will not have locus standi to apply¹².

1 See para 612 ante; cf para 984 post (voluntary winding up).

2 For the prescribed form of court order removing a liquidator or directing a liquidator to summon a meeting of creditors for the purpose of his removal see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, rr 4.119, 12.7, Sch 4 Form 4.39.

3 Under the Companies Act 1948 s 242(1) (repealed), the liquidator could be removed by the court on cause shown on the application of a creditor or contributory. Thus he might have been removed if the court was satisfied that his removal would be for the general advantage of all who were interested in the company's assets: Re Adam Eyton Ltd, ex p Charlesworth (1887) 36 ChD 299, CA; cf Re Tavistock Iron Works Co (1871) 24 LT 605 (where proceedings were continued contrary to the creditors' wishes); Re Rubber and Produce Investment Trust [1915] 1 Ch 382; Re Baron Cigarette Machine Co Ltd (1912) 28 TLR 394; Re Scotch Granite Co (1867) 17 LT 533. Though the court did not have a general discretion, its jurisdiction was not confined to cases where there was personal unfitness in the liquidator (see the cases mentioned above), but extended to cases where the unfitness was occasioned by his connection with other parties, or by the circumstances of the particular case: Re Old Wheal Neptune Mining Co, ex p Pulbrook, ex p Rawlings (1864) 2 De GJ & Sm 348; Re Marseilles Extension Rly and Land Co (1867) LR 4 Eq 692; Re British Nation Life Assurance Association (1872) LR 14 Eq 492; Re Sir John Moore Gold Mining Co (1879) 12 ChD 325, CA; Re Charterland Goldfields Ltd (1909) 26 TLR 132; Re Amalgamated Properties of Rhodesia Ltd (1914) 30 TLR 405. In considering whether a liquidator should be removed, importance was attached to such factors as that the majority of the company's creditors would be paid off by a large creditor if his nominee were appointed (Re Adam Eyton Ltd, ex p Charlesworth supra) or that the majority was dissatisfied with the existing liquidator (Re Oxford Building and Investment Co (1883) 49 LT 495; Re Land Financiers Association (1878) 10 ChD 269; cf Re Civil Service and General Stores [1884] WN 158). A contributory in arrear to his calls could not apply for a liquidator's removal: Re Norwich Provident Insurance Society (1879) 49 LJ Ch 187. The publication of a circular sent by an applicant shareholder to the other shareholders on whose behalf the application was made, setting out the grounds of the application, and asking for their support to the summons, would not be restrained as a contempt of court: Re New Gold Coast Exploration Co [1901] 1 Ch 860 (disapproving Re Crown Bank, Re O'Malley (1890) 44 ChD 649 and J & P Coats Ltd v Chadwick [1894] 1 Ch 347). If the assets belonged substantially to the shareholders, the court, before removing a liquidator, might have directed the wishes of the general body of shareholders to be ascertained at a general meeting: Re Consolidated Diesel Engine Manufacturers Ltd [1915] 1 Ch 192 (where a meeting of shareholders was ordered). It was doubtful whether the court had power as an alternative to removing a liquidator to appoint an additional liquidator to act with him: Re Consolidated Diesel Engine Manufacturers Ltd supra. A liquidator could appeal from an order for his removal: Re Adam Eyton Ltd, ex p Charlesworth supra. As to appeals see paras 1030-1031 post.

In Re Corbenstoke Ltd (No 2) [1990] BCLC 60, 5 BCC 767, a liquidator was removed by the court on an application by a creditor on grounds of conflict of interest. There is a general principle that a liquidator has to act in the interests of the general body of creditors and should not continue in office if the creditors, reasonably, no longer have confidence in his ability to realise the assets of the company to their best advantage and to pursue claims with due diligence: Re Edennote Ltd, Tottenham Hotspur plc v Ryman [1996] 2 BCLC 389, CA. The court will not remove its own officer lightly and will pay due regard to the impact of a removal on his professional standing and reputation: Re Edennote Ltd supra. A liquidator may be removed where he has shown insufficient vigour in carrying out his duties: Re Keypak Homecare Ltd [1987] BCLC 409, 3 BCC 558.

4 For the meaning of 'venue' see para 91 note 7 ante.

5 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.119(1), (2). As to the making of applications see para 1055 et seq post. The purpose of r 4.119(2) is to filter out applications with no realistic prospect of success: Re Buildlead Ltd, Quicksons (South and West) Ltd v Katz [2003] EWHC 1981 (Ch), [2003] 4 All ER 864, [2004] 1 BCLC 83 (decided under the analogous provisions in the context of voluntary winding up: see para 984 post).

6 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.119(3). The proper approach to the use of the power under r 4.119(3) is based on merits, and is to be used at the time that the court reaches a decision as to whether the application should proceed to hearing under r 4.119(2); if the court concludes at that stage that the application is arguable but likely to fail, the power to order a deposit or security under r 4.119(3) may then be exercised: Re Buildlead Ltd, Quicksons (South and West) Ltd v Katz [2003] EWHC 1981 (Ch), [2003] 4 All ER 864, [2004] 1 BCLC 83 (decided under the analogous provisions in the context of voluntary winding up: see para 984 post).

12 Ibid r 4.119(6)(c).

13 Re Corbenstoke Ltd (No 2) [1990] BCLC 60, 5 BCC 767. Where a person seeks the exercise of a statutory power, and the statutory power does not specify who may apply for its exercise, as a matter of judicial restraint the court will act only on the application of a person with a sufficient interest in the relief sought: Deloitte & Touche AG v Johnson [2000] 1 BCLC 485 (decided under analogous provisions of Cayman Islands law); cf Walker Morris (a firm) v Khalastchi [2001] 1 BCLC 1 (where although the applicants were creditors, they made the application in the guise of debtors).

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(viii) Resignation, Removal or Vacancy in Office of Liquidator/617. Removal of liquidator by Secretary of State.

617. Removal of liquidator by Secretary of State.

(ix) Release of Liquidator

623. Release of liquidator on removal etc.

A person other than the official receiver¹ who has ceased to be a liquidator in a winding up by the court by reason of his resignation, removal², or vacation of office³ has his release as follows. In the case of a person who has been removed from office by a general meeting of the company's creditors that has not resolved against his release or who has died, he has his release with effect from the time at which notice is given to the court that that person has ceased to hold office⁴. In the case of a person who has been removed from office by a general meeting of the company's creditors that has resolved against his release or by the court or by the Secretary of State or who has vacated office by reason of his ceasing to be qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner in relation to the company⁵, he has his release with effect from such time as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person⁶, determine⁷. In the case of a person who has resigned, where the liquidator's resignation is accepted by a meeting of creditors which has not resolved against his release⁸, he has his release from the date when his resignation is effective⁹. Where the liquidator resigns, and the creditors' meeting called to receive his resignation has resolved against his release, he must apply to the Secretary of State for his release¹⁰. When the Secretary of State gives the release, he must certify it accordingly, and send the certificate to the official receiver, to be filed in court¹¹. A copy of the certificate must be sent by the Secretary of State to the former liquidator, whose release is effective from the date of the certificate¹².

623 Release of liquidator on removal etc

NOTE 9--SI 1986/1925 r 4.121(1A) added: SI 2010/686.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(7) LIQUIDATOR/(ix) Release of Liquidator/624. Release of official receiver as liquidator.

624. Release of official receiver as liquidator.

Where the official receiver has ceased to be liquidator and a person becomes liquidator in his stead, the official receiver has his release either, in a case where that person was nominated by a general meeting of the company's creditors or contributories or was appointed by the Secretary of State, with effect from the time at which the official receiver gives notice to the court that he has been replaced¹, or, in a case where that person is appointed by the court, with effect from such time as the court may determine².

If the official receiver, while he is a liquidator, gives notice to the Secretary of State that the winding up is for practical purposes complete, he has his release with effect from such time as the Secretary of State may determine³. Before giving such notice, the official receiver must send out notice of his intention to do so to all creditors of which he is aware⁴; and the notice must in each case be accompanied by a summary of the official receiver's receipts and payments as liquidator⁵. When he has determined the date from which the official receiver is to have his release, the Secretary of State must give notice to the court that he has done so; and the notice must be accompanied by the summary of the official receiver's receipts and payments which accompanied the notice to creditors⁶. The court may, on the official receiver's application, relieve him of any of the duties⁷ imposed on him or authorise him to carry out the duty in a way other than that normally required⁸. In considering whether so to act, the court must have regard to the cost of carrying out the duty, to the amount of the assets available, and to the extent of the interest of creditors or contributories, or any particular class of them⁹.

626. Duty of liquidator to summon final meeting.

If it appears to the liquidator of a company which is being wound up by the court that the winding up of the company is for practical purposes complete and the liquidator is not the official receiver¹, the liquidator must summon a final general meeting of the company's creditors which must receive the liquidator's report of the winding up, and must determine whether the liquidator should have his release².

The liquidator may, if he thinks fit, give the notice summoning the final general meeting at the same time as giving notice of any final distribution of the company's property³; but, if summoned for an earlier date, that meeting must be adjourned, and, if necessary, further adjourned, until a date on which the liquidator is able to report to the meeting that the winding up of the company is for practical purposes complete⁴.

In the carrying out of his functions in the winding up it is the duty of the liquidator of the company to retain sufficient sums from the company's property to cover the expenses of summoning and holding the final general meeting⁵.

627. Final meeting of creditors and release of liquidator.

Where the liquidator in a winding up by the court is other than the official receiver¹, he must give at least 28 days' notice of the final meeting of creditors². The notice must be sent to all creditors of which the liquidator is aware; and the liquidator must cause it to be gazetted³ at least one month before the meeting is to be held⁴. The liquidator's report laid before the final meeting of creditors must contain an account of the liquidator's administration of the winding up, including a summary of his receipts and payments⁵ and a statement by him that he has reconciled his account with that which is held by the Secretary of State in respect of the winding up⁶. The report must also include a statement as to the amount paid to unsecured creditors pursuant to the statutory provisions governing distribution of assets to such creditors⁷. At the final meeting, the creditors may question the liquidator with respect to any matter contained in his report, and may resolve against him having his release⁸.

The liquidator must give notice to the court⁹ that the final meeting has been held, and the notice must state whether or not he has been given his release, and be accompanied by a copy of the report laid before the final meeting; a copy of the notice must be sent by the liquidator to the official receiver¹⁰. If there is no quorum present at the final meeting¹¹, the liquidator must report to the court that a final meeting was summoned¹², but there was no quorum present; and the final meeting is then deemed to have been held, and the creditors are deemed not to have resolved against the liquidator having his release¹³.

Where a person has vacated office after a final meeting of creditors has been held¹⁴, he has his release, in the case where the final meeting has resolved against his release, with effect from such time as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine¹⁵, and, if the meeting has not so resolved, the time at which that person vacated office¹⁶.

(8) LIQUIDATION COMMITTEE

(i) Liquidation Committee in Winding Up by the Court

629. Liquidation committee.

Where a winding-up order has been made by a court in England and Wales and separate meetings of creditors and contributories have been summoned for the purpose of choosing a person to be liquidator of the company¹, those meetings may establish a committee ('the liquidation committee') to exercise the functions conferred on it by or under the Insolvency Act 1986². The acts of the committee so established are valid notwithstanding any defect in the appointment, election or qualifications of any member of the committee or any committee member's representative or in the formalities of its establishment³.

The liquidator, not being the official receiver, may at any time, if he thinks fit, summon separate general meetings of the company's creditors and contributories for the purpose of determining whether such a committee should be established and, if it is so determined, of establishing it; and the liquidator, not being the official receiver, must summon such a meeting if he is requested⁴ to do so by one-tenth, in value, of the company's creditors⁵.

Where meetings are summoned under these provisions, or for the purpose of choosing a person to be liquidator, and either the meeting of creditors or the meeting of contributories decides that a liquidation committee should be established, but the other meeting does not so decide or decides that a committee should not be established, the committee must be established⁶, unless the court otherwise orders⁷.

The liquidation committee is not able or required to carry out its functions at any time when the official receiver is the liquidator of the company⁸.

630. Membership of committee.

Subject to the provisions relating to a liquidation committee established by contributories¹, the liquidation committee must consist in any case of at least three, and not more than five, creditors of the company, elected by the meeting of creditors², and also, in the case of a solvent winding up³, where the contributories' meeting so decides, of up to three contributories, elected by that meeting⁴. Any creditor of the company, other than one whose debt is fully secured⁵, is eligible to be a member of the committee, so long as he has lodged a proof of his debt, and his proof has neither been wholly disallowed for voting purposes, nor wholly rejected for purposes of distribution or dividend⁶. No person can be a member as both a creditor and a contributory⁷. A body corporate may be a member of the committee, but it cannot act as such otherwise than by a duly appointed representative⁸. Members of the committee elected or appointed to represent the creditors are called 'creditor members'; and those elected or appointed to represent the contributories are called 'contributory members'⁹.

631. Formalities of establishment.

The liquidation committee does not come into being, and accordingly cannot act, until the liquidator has issued a certificate of its due constitution¹. If the chairman of the meeting which resolves to establish the committee is not the liquidator, he must forthwith give notice of the resolution to the liquidator (or, as the case may be, the person appointed as liquidator by that same meeting), and inform him of the names and addresses of the persons elected to be members of the committee². No person may act as a member of the committee unless and until he has agreed to do so; and, unless the relevant proxy or authorisation contains a statement to the contrary, such agreement may be given by a proxy-holder or representative of a corporation³ present at the meeting establishing the committee⁴.

The liquidator's certificate of the committee's due constitution may not issue before the minimum number of persons⁵ who are to be members of the committee have agreed to act⁶. As and when the others, if any, agree to act, the liquidator must issue an amended certificate⁷. The certificate, and any amended certificate, must be filed in court⁸ by the liquidator⁹. 633. Obligations of liquidator to committee.

It is the duty of the liquidator to report to the members of the liquidation committee all such matters as appear to him to be, or as they have been indicated to him as being, of concern to them with respect to the winding up¹. In the case of matters so indicated to him by the committee, the liquidator need not, however, comply with any request for information where it appears to him that the request is frivolous or unreasonable, or the cost of complying would be excessive, having regard to the relative importance of the information, or there are not sufficient assets to enable him to comply².

Where the committee has come into being more than 28 days after the appointment of the liquidator, he must report to them, in summary form, what actions he has taken since his appointment, and must answer all such questions as they may put to him regarding his conduct of the winding up hitherto³. A person who becomes a member of the committee at any time after its first establishment is not entitled to require a report to him by the liquidator, otherwise than in summary form, of any matters previously arising⁴.

Nothing in these provisions disentitles the committee, or any member of it, from having access to the liquidator's records of the liquidation, or from seeking an explanation of any matter within the committee's responsibility⁵.

634. Meetings of the committee.

Meetings of the liquidation committee must be held when and where determined by the liquidator¹. The liquidator must, however, call a first meeting of the committee to take place within three months of his appointment or of the committee's establishment, whichever is the later; and thereafter he must call a meeting if so requested by a creditor member² of the committee or his representative, the meeting then to be held within 21 days of the request being received by the liquidator, and for a specified date, if the committee has previously resolved that a meeting be held on that date³.

The liquidator must give seven days' written notice of the venue⁴ of a meeting to every member of the committee or his representative⁵, if designated for that purpose, unless in any case the requirement of the notice has been waived by or on behalf of any member⁶.

A member of the liquidation committee may, in relation to the business of the committee, be represented by another person duly authorised by him for that purpose¹. A person acting as a committee member's representative must, however, hold a letter of authority entitling him so to act, either generally or specially, and signed by or on behalf of the committee member². The chairman at any meeting of the committee may call on a person claiming to act as a committee member's representative to produce his letter of authority, and may exclude him if it appears that his authority is deficient³. No member may be represented by a body corporate, or by a person who is an undischarged bankrupt or a disqualified director, or who is subject to a bankruptcy restrictions order, bankruptcy restrictions undertaking or an interim bankruptcy restrictions order⁴.

No person may act, on the same committee, at one and the same time as representative of more than one committee member, or may act both as a member of the committee and as representative of another member⁵.

637. Termination of membership and removal.

A member of the liquidation committee may resign by notice in writing delivered to the liquidator¹.

A person's membership of the liquidation committee is automatically terminated if he becomes bankrupt², or if he is neither present nor represented at three consecutive meetings of the committee (unless at the third of those meetings it is resolved that this provision is not to apply in his case)³. If, however, the cause of termination is the member's bankruptcy, his trustee in bankruptcy replaces him as a member of the committee⁴. The membership of a creditor member⁵ is also automatically terminated if he ceases to be, or is found never to have been, a creditor⁶.

A creditor member of the committee may be removed by resolution at a meeting of creditors; and a contributory member⁷ may be removed by a resolution of a meeting of contributories⁸. In either case, 14 days' notice must be given of the intention to move the resolution⁹.

638. Filling up vacancies.

If there is a vacancy among the creditor members¹ of the committee, the vacancy need not be filled if the liquidator and a majority of the remaining creditor members so agree, provided that the total number of members does not fall below the minimum required². The liquidator may appoint any creditor, being qualified³ to be a member of the committee, to fill the vacancy, if a majority of the other creditor members agree to the appointment, and the creditor concerned consents to act⁴. Alternatively, a meeting of creditors may resolve that a creditor be appointed, with his consent, to fill the vacancy; and, in this case, at least 14 days' notice must have been given of the resolution to make such an appointment, whether or not of a person named in the notice⁵. At any meeting of the committee, each member of it, whether present himself, or by his representative, has one vote; and a resolution is passed when a majority of the creditor members¹ present or represented have voted in favour of it². The votes of contributory members³ do not count towards the number required for passing a resolution, but the way in which they vote on any resolution must be recorded⁴, except where⁵ the only members of the committee are contributories⁶. In that case, the committee is to be treated for voting purposes as if all its members were creditors⁷. 640. Resolutions by post.

The liquidator may seek to obtain the agreement of members of the liquidation committee to a resolution by sending to every member, or his representative designated for the purpose, a copy of the proposed resolution¹. Where the liquidator makes use of this procedure, he must send out to members of the committee or their representatives, as the case may be, a copy of any proposed resolution on which a decision is sought, which must be set out in such a way that agreement with or dissent from each separate resolution may be indicated by the recipient on the copy so sent².

Any creditor member³ of the committee may, within seven business days⁴ from the date of the liquidator sending out a resolution, require him to summon a meeting of the committee to consider the matters raised by the resolution⁵. In the absence of such a request, the resolution is deemed to have been passed by the committee if and when the liquidator is notified in writing by a majority of the creditor members that they concur with it⁶.

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 1986/1925 r 4.169 amended: SI 2008/737.

643. Dealings by committee members and others.

Subject to the following provisions, any member of the liquidation committee, any committee member's representative¹, any person who is an associate² of a member of the committee or a committee member's representative, and any person who has been a member of the committee at any time in the last 12 months, may not enter into any transaction whereby he:

- 1082 (1) receives out of the company's assets any payment for services given or goods supplied in connection with the administration³;
- 1083 (2) obtains any profit from the administration⁴; or
- 1084 (3) acquires any asset forming part of the estate⁵.

Such a transaction may, however, be entered into by such a person:

- 1085 (a) with the prior leave of the court⁶;
- 1086 (b) if he does so as a matter of urgency, or by way of performance of a contract in force before the date on which the company went into liquidation, and obtains the court's leave for the transaction, having applied for it without undue delay⁷; or
- 1087 (c) with the prior sanction of the liquidation committee where it is satisfied, after full disclosure of the circumstances, that the person will be giving full value in the transaction⁸.

Where, in the committee, a resolution is proposed that sanction be accorded for a transaction to be entered into which, without that sanction or the leave of the court, would be in contravention of these provisions, no member of the committee, and no representative of a member, may vote if he is to participate directly or indirectly in the transaction⁹.

The court may, on the application of any person interested, set aside a transaction on the ground that it has been entered into in contravention of these provisions, and make with respect to the transaction such other order as it thinks fit, including an order requiring the person who entered into the transaction to account for any profit obtained from the transaction and to compensate the estate for any resultant loss¹⁰. Where a person enters into a transaction in contravention of these provisions as an associate of a member of the committee or of a committee member's representative, the court must not, however, make any such order, if satisfied that he entered into the relevant transaction without having any reason to suppose that, in doing so, he would contravene these provisions¹¹.

The costs of an application to the court for leave under these provisions are not payable out of the assets, unless the court so orders¹².

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(8) LIQUIDATION COMMITTEE/(i) Liquidation Committee in Winding Up by the Court/644. Composition of committee when creditors paid in full.

644. Composition of committee when creditors paid in full.

If the liquidator issues a certificate¹ that the creditors have been paid in full, with interest², which certificate must forthwith be filed in court³, the creditor members⁴ of the liquidation committee cease to be members of the committee⁵.

The committee continues in being unless and until abolished by decision of a meeting of contributories, and so long as it consists of at least three contributory members⁶. The committee does not, however, cease to exist on account of the number of contributory members falling below three, unless and until 28 days have elapsed since the issue of the liquidator's certificate⁷; but at any time when the committee consists of less than three contributory members, it is suspended and cannot act⁸.

Contributories may be co-opted by the liquidator, or appointed by a contributories' meeting, to be members of the committee; but the maximum number of members is five⁹.

The provisions relating to liquidation committees¹⁰ continue to apply to the liquidation committee, with any necessary modifications, as if all the members of the committee were creditor members¹¹.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(8) LIQUIDATION COMMITTEE/(ii) Liquidation Committee where Winding Up follows Immediately on Administration/647. Membership of committee and liquidator's certificate.

647. Membership of committee and liquidator's certificate.

Where a winding up follows immediately on administration¹, the liquidation committee must consist of at least three, and not more than five, creditors of the company, elected by the creditors' meeting establishing the creditors' committee² or, in order to make up numbers or fill vacancies, by a creditors' meeting summoned by the liquidator after the company goes into liquidation³. In the case of a solvent winding up⁴, however, the liquidator must, on not less than 21 days' notice, summon a meeting of contributories, in order to elect, if it so wishes, contributory members⁵ of the liquidation committee, up to three in number⁶.

The liquidator must issue a certificate of the liquidation committee's continuance, specifying the persons who are, or are to be, members of it⁷. It must be stated in the certificate whether or not the liquidator has summoned a meeting of the contributories⁸, and whether, if so, the meeting has elected contributories to be members of the committee⁹. Pending the issue of the liquidator's certificate, the committee is suspended and cannot act¹⁰. No person may act, or continue to act, as a member of the committee unless and until he has agreed to do so; and the liquidator's certificate must not issue until at least the minimum number of persons required¹¹ to form a committee have signified their agreement¹². As and when the others signify their agreement, the liquidator must issue an amended certificate¹³. The liquidator's certificate or, as the case may be, the amended certificate, must be filed by him in court¹⁴. If subsequently there is any change in the committee's membership, the liquidator must report the change to the court¹⁵.

Meetings of the company's creditors and contributories for the purpose of choosing a person to be liquidator in place of the official receiver may be summoned by the official receiver at any time when he is the liquidator of the company¹. It is the duty of the official receiver as soon as practicable in the first 12 weeks beginning with the day on which the winding-up order was made to decide whether to exercise his power to summon such meetings². It is also the duty of the official receiver to summon such meetings of the creditors and contributories if he is at any time requested, in accordance with the rules³, to do so by one-quarter, in value, of the company's creditors⁴. The business at such meetings is limited to specified matters⁵; and rules have been made which have special reference to such meetings⁶.

Meetings so summoned by the official receiver are known respectively as 'the first meeting of creditors' and 'the first meeting of contributories', and jointly as 'the first meetings in the liquidation'⁷.

652. Meetings called by liquidator; requisitioned meetings.

In addition to the first meetings of creditors and contributories¹ and to meetings directed to be held by the court², the official receiver or the liquidator in a winding up by the court may at any time summon and conduct meetings of creditors or of contributories for the purpose of ascertaining their wishes in all matters relating to the liquidation³. It is his duty to summon meetings at such times as the creditors or contributories, by resolution, either at the meeting appointing the liquidator or otherwise, may direct, or whenever requested in writing to do so by one-tenth in value of the creditors or contributories, as the case may be⁴.

Any such request by creditors or contributories to the liquidator, whether or not the official receiver, for a meeting of creditors or contributories, or meetings of both, to be summoned must be accompanied by:

- 1088 (1) a list of the creditors concurring with the request and the amount of their respective claims (or, in the case of the requisitioning of a contributories' meeting by contributories, the contributories' respective values) in the winding up⁵;
- 1089 (2) written confirmation of his concurrence from each creditor concurring⁶; and
- 1090 (3) a statement of the purpose of the proposed meeting⁷, although the list of concurring creditors and written confirmation of creditors' concurrence need not be supplied if the requisitioning creditor's debt is alone sufficient, without the concurrence of other creditors⁸.

The liquidator must, if he considers the request to be properly made⁹, fix a venue¹⁰ for the meeting, not more than 35 days from his receipt of the request¹¹. The liquidator must give 21 days' notice of the meeting, and the venue for it, to creditors (or, in the case of the requisitioning of a contributories' meeting by contributories, those appearing, by the company's books or otherwise, to be contributories' of the company)¹².

The provisions relating to meetings¹³ generally apply to such meetings called by the liquidator, except where and so far as the nature of the subject matter or the context otherwise requires.

653. Mode of summoning meetings.

When a venue¹ for the meeting has been fixed, notice of it must be given by the convener², in the case of a creditors' meeting, to every creditor who is known to him or is identified in the company's statement of affairs, and, in the case of a meeting of contributories, to every person appearing, by the company's books or otherwise, to be a contributory of the company³. Notice of the meeting must be given at least 21 days before the date fixed for it, and must specify the purpose of the meeting⁴. The notice must specify a time and date, not more than four days before the date fixed for the meeting, by which, and the place at which, creditors must lodge proofs⁵ and proxies⁶, in order to be entitled to vote at the meeting; and the same applies in respect of contributories and their proxies⁷. Additional notice of the meeting may be given by public advertisement if the convener thinks fit, and must be so given if the court orders⁸.

In the case of any meeting of creditors or contributories⁹, the court may order that notice of the meeting be given by public advertisement, and not by individual notice to the persons concerned¹⁰. In considering whether to make such an order, the court must have regard to the cost of public advertisement, to the amount of the assets available, and to the extent of the interest of creditors or of contributories, or any particular class of either of them¹¹.

In fixing the venue for a meeting of creditors or contributories, the convener must have regard to the convenience of the persons, other than whoever is to be chairman¹², who are invited to attend¹³. Meetings must in all cases be summoned for commencement between the hours of 10.00 and 16.00 hours on a business day¹⁴, unless the court otherwise directs¹⁵. 654. The chairman at meetings.

In the case of a meeting of creditors and of a meeting of contributories, where the convener of the meeting is the official receiver¹, he, or a person nominated by him, must be the chairman; and a nomination must be in writing, unless the nominee is another official receiver or a deputy official receiver². Where the convener is other than the official receiver, the chairman must be the convener, or a person nominated in writing by him; and a person so nominated must be either one who is qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner in relation to the company³, or an employee of the liquidator or his firm who is experienced in insolvency matters⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'the convener' see para 652 note 3 ante. As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante.

655. Attendance at meetings of company's personnel.

Whenever a meeting of creditors or of contributories is summoned, the convener¹ must give at least 21 days' notice to such of the company's personnel² as he thinks should be told of, or be present at, the meeting³. If the meeting is adjourned, the chairman of the meeting must, unless for any reason he thinks it unnecessary or impracticable, give notice of the adjournment to such, if any, of the company's personnel as he considers appropriate, being persons who were not themselves present at the meeting⁴. The convener may, if he thinks fit, give notice to any one or more of the company's personnel that he is, or they are, required to be present at the meeting, or to be in attendance⁵.

In the case of any meeting, any one or more of the company's personnel, and any other persons, may be admitted, but they must have given reasonable notice of their wish to be present, and it is a matter for the chairman's discretion whether they are to be admitted or not, and his decision is final as to what, if any, intervention may be made by any of them⁶. If it is desired to put questions to any one of the company's personnel who is not present, the chairman may adjourn the meeting with a view to obtaining his attendance⁷. Where one of the company's personnel is present at a meeting, only such questions may be put to him as the chairman may in his discretion allow⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'the convener' see para 652 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'the company's personnel' means the persons referred to in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 235(3)(a)-(d) (see para 678 post): Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.58(2).

656. Expenses of summoning meetings.

The expenses of summoning and holding a meeting of creditors or contributories at the instance of any person other than the official receiver or the liquidator must ordinarily be paid by that person, who must deposit with the liquidator security for their payment¹. The sum to be deposited must be such as the official receiver or liquidator, as the case may be, determines to be appropriate; and neither must act without the deposit having been made².

Where a meeting of creditors is so summoned, it may, however, vote that the expenses of summoning and holding it, and of summoning and holding any meeting of contributories requisitioned at the same time, are to be payable out of the assets, as an expense of the liquidation³. Where a meeting of contributories is summoned on the requisition of contributories, it may vote that the expenses of summoning and holding it be payable out of the assets, but subject to the right of creditors to be paid in full, with interest⁴.

To the extent that any deposit made under these provisions is not required for the payment of expenses of summoning and holding a meeting, it must be repaid to the person who made it⁵.

657. Proxies.

A proxy is an authority given by a person ('the principal') to another person ('the proxy-holder') to attend a meeting and speak and vote as his representative¹. Proxies are for use at creditors', company or contributories' meetings².

Only one proxy may be given by a person for any one meeting at which he desires to be represented; and it may only be given to one person, being an individual aged 18 or over; but the principal may specify one or more other such individuals to be proxy-holder in the alternative, in the order in which they are named in the proxy³. A proxy for a particular meeting may be given to whoever is to be the chairman of the meeting⁴; and for a meeting held as part of the proceedings in a winding up by the court it may be given to the official receiver⁵. Where the chairman or official receiver is given such a proxy, he cannot decline to be the proxy-holder in relation to that proxy⁶.

A proxy requires the holder to give the principal's vote on matters arising for determination at the meeting, or to abstain, or to propose, in the principal's name, a resolution to be voted on by the meeting, either as directed or in accordance with the holder's own discretion⁷.

658. Issue and use of forms.

When notice is given of a meeting to be held of creditors or contributories, and forms of proxy are sent out with the notice, no form so sent out may have inserted in it the name or description of any person¹; and no form of proxy may be used at any meeting except that which is sent out with the notice summoning the meeting, or a substantially similar form². A form of proxy must be signed by the principal³, or by some person authorised by him, either generally or with reference to a particular meeting; and, if the form is signed by a person other than the principal, the nature of the person's authority must be stated⁴.

659. Use of proxies at meetings.

A proxy given for a particular meeting may be used at any adjournment of that meeting¹. Where the official receiver holds proxies for use at any meeting, his deputy, or any other official receiver, may act as proxy-holder in his place²; or alternatively, the official receiver may in writing authorise another officer of the Department of Trade and Industry to act for him at the meeting and use the proxies as if that other officer were himself proxy-holder³. Where the liquidator⁴ holds proxies to be used by him as chairman of a meeting, and some other person acts as chairman, the other person may use the liquidator's proxies as if he were himself proxy-holder⁵.

Where a proxy directs a proxy-holder to vote for or against a resolution for the nomination or appointment of a person as the liquidator, the proxy-holder may, unless the proxy states otherwise, vote for or against, as he thinks fit, any resolution for the nomination or appointment of that person jointly with another or others⁶.

A proxy-holder may propose any resolution which, if proposed by another, would be a resolution in favour of which by virtue of the proxy he would be entitled to vote⁷. Where a proxy gives specific directions as to voting, this does not, unless the proxy states otherwise, preclude the proxy-holder from voting at his discretion on resolutions put to the meeting which are not dealt with in the proxy⁸.

660. Retention and inspection of proxies.

Proxies used for voting at any meeting must be retained by the chairman of the meeting¹. The chairman must, however, deliver the proxies, forthwith after the meeting, to the liquidator², where that is someone other than himself³.

The liquidator must, so long as proxies lodged with him are in his hands, allow them to be inspected, at all reasonable times on any business day⁴, by the creditors⁵, in the case of proxies used at a meeting of creditors, and by a company's contributories, in the case of proxies used at a meeting of contributories⁶. Such right of inspection is also exercisable by the company's directors⁷.

Any person attending a meeting of creditors or contributories is entitled, immediately before or in the course of the meeting, to inspect proxies and associated documents, including proofs, sent or given, in accordance with directions contained in any notice convening the meeting, to the chairman of that meeting or to any other person by a creditor, member or contributory for the purpose of that meeting⁸.

A proxy-holder¹ may not vote in favour of any resolution which would directly or indirectly place him, or any associate² of his, in a position to receive any remuneration out of the company's assets, unless the proxy specifically directs him to vote in that way³. Where a proxy-holder has signed the proxy as being authorised to do so by his principal and the proxy specifically directs him to vote in that way, he may nevertheless not vote in that way unless he produces to the chairman of the meeting written authorisation from his principal sufficient to show that the proxy-holder was entitled so to sign the proxy⁴. 664. Resolutions.

At a meeting of creditors or contributories, a resolution is passed when a majority, in value, of those present and voting, in person or by proxy, have voted in favour of the resolution; and the value of contributories is determined by reference to the number of votes conferred on each contributory by the company's articles¹.

However, in the case of a resolution for the appointment of a liquidator:

- 1091 (1) if on any vote there are two nominees for appointment, the person who obtains the most support is appointed²;
- 1092 (2) if there are three or more nominees, and one of them has a clear majority over both or all the others together, that one is appointed³; and
- 1093 (3) in any other case, the chairman of the meeting must continue to take votes (disregarding at each vote any nominee who has withdrawn and, if no nominee has withdrawn, the nominee who obtained the least support last time), until a clear majority is obtained for any one nominee⁴.

The chairman may at any time put to the meeting a resolution for the joint appointment of any two or more nominees⁵.

Where a resolution is proposed which affects a person in respect of his remuneration or conduct as liquidator, or as proposed or former liquidator, the vote of that person, and of any partner or employee of his, must not be reckoned in the majority required for passing the resolution; and this applies with respect to a vote given by a person, whether personally or on his behalf by a proxy-holder, either as creditor or contributory or as proxy-holder for a creditor or a contributory but is subject to the provisions⁶ relating to proxy-holders with a financial interest⁷.

Where the chairman at a meeting of creditors or contributories holds a proxy which requires him to vote for a particular resolution, and no other person proposes that resolution, he must himself propose it, unless he considers that there is good reason for not doing so; and, if he does not propose it, he must forthwith after the meeting notify his principal of the reason why not⁸.

666. Suspension and adjournment of meetings.

Once only in the course of any meeting of creditors or of contributories the chairman may, in his discretion and without an adjournment, declare the meeting suspended for any period up to one hour¹.

The chairman at any such meeting may in his discretion, and must, if the meeting so resolves, adjourn it to such time and place as seems to him to be appropriate in the circumstances². If, within a period of 30 minutes from the time appointed for the commencement of a meeting, a quorum³ is not present, the chairman may, at his discretion, adjourn the meeting to such time and place as he may appoint⁴. Any such adjournment may not be for a period of more than 21 days; and the provisions relating to the fixing of a venue for meetings⁵ apply⁶.

If there is no person present to act as chairman, some other person present, being entitled to vote, may make the appointment for the adjourned meeting with the agreement of others present, being persons so entitled; and, failing agreement, the adjournment must be to the same time and place in the next following week or, if that is not a business day⁷, to the business day immediately following⁸.

Where a meeting is so adjourned, proofs and proxies may be used if lodged at any time up to midday on the business day immediately before the adjourned meeting⁹.

667. Quorum.

Any meeting of creditors or contributories¹ is competent to act if a quorum is present². A quorum is:

- 1094 (1) in the case of a creditors' meeting, at least one creditor entitled to vote³; and
- 1095 (2) in the case of a meeting of contributories, at least two contributories so entitled, or all the contributories, if their number does not exceed two⁴.

For these purposes, however, the reference to the creditor or contributories necessary to constitute a quorum is to those persons present or represented by proxy by any person, including the chairman, and includes duly authorised representatives of corporations⁵.

Where, at any meeting of creditors or contributories, these provisions as to a quorum being present are satisfied by the attendance of the chairman alone, or one other person in addition to the chairman, and the chairman is aware, by virtue of proofs and proxies received or otherwise, that one or more additional persons would, if attending, be entitled to vote, the meeting may not commence until at least the expiry of 15 minutes after the time appointed for its commencement⁶.

TEXT AND NOTE 5--SI 1986/1925 r 12.4A(3) amended: SI 2009/2472.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(9) MEETINGS OF CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/668. Entitlement to vote of creditors and contributories; lodging of proofs.

668. Entitlement to vote of creditors and contributories; lodging of proofs.

At a meeting of creditors in a winding up by the court, a person is entitled to vote as a creditor only if:

- 1096 (1) there has been duly lodged by the time and date stated in the notice of the meeting¹, a proof of the debt claimed to be due to him from the company², or in relation to a member state liquidator³, is claimed to be due to creditors in proceedings in relation to which he holds office, and the claim has been admitted⁴ for the purpose of entitlement to vote⁵; and
- 1097 (2) there has been lodged by the time and date stated in the notice of the meeting, any proxy⁶ requisite for that entitlement⁷.

The court may, in exceptional circumstances, by order declare the creditors, or any class of them, entitled to vote at creditors' meetings, without being required to prove their debts; and, where a creditor is so entitled, the court may, on the application of the liquidator, make such consequential orders as it thinks fit, as, for example, an order treating a creditor as having proved his debt for the purpose of permitting payment of a dividend⁸.

A creditor may not vote in respect of a debt for an unliquidated amount⁹, or any debt whose value is not ascertained, except where the chairman agrees to put upon the debt an estimated minimum value for the purpose of entitlement to vote and admits his proof for that purpose¹⁰.

A secured creditor¹¹ is entitled to vote only in respect of the balance, if any, of his debt after deducting the value of his security as estimated by him¹².

A creditor may not vote in respect of a debt on, or secured by, a current bill of exchange or promissory note, unless he is willing:

- 1098 (a) to treat the liability to him on the bill or note of every person who is liable on it antecedently to the company, and against whom a bankruptcy order has not been made (or, in the case of a company, which has not gone into liquidation), as a security in his hands¹³; and
- 1099 (b) to estimate the value of the security and (for the purpose of entitlement to vote, but not for dividend) to deduct it from his proof¹⁴.

No vote may be cast by virtue of a debt more than once on any resolution put to the meeting¹⁵.

Where a creditor is entitled to vote under these provisions and the claim has been admitted for the purposes of entitlement to vote¹⁶, and he has lodged his claim in one or more sets of other proceedings in another member state and votes, either in person or by proxy, on a resolution put to the meeting, only the creditor's vote will be counted¹⁷.

Where a creditor has lodged his claim in more than one set of other proceedings and more than one member state liquidator seeks to vote by virtue of that claim, the entitlement to vote by virtue of that claim is exercisable by the member state liquidator in main proceedings, whether or not the creditor has lodged his vote in the main proceedings¹⁸.

At a meeting of contributories, voting rights are as at a general meeting of the company¹⁹, subject to any provision in the articles affecting entitlement to vote, either generally or at a time when the company is in liquidation²⁰.

The chairman's decision in respect of any matter arising under these provisions is subject to appeal to the court by any creditor or contributory²¹.

669. Admission and rejection of proof.

At any creditors' meeting the chairman has power to admit or reject a creditor's proof for the purpose of his entitlement to vote; and the power is exercisable with respect to the whole or any part of the proof¹. The chairman's decision under this provision is subject to appeal to the court by any creditor or contributory². If the chairman is in doubt whether a proof should be admitted or rejected, he must mark it as objected to and allow the creditor to vote, subject to his vote being subsequently declared invalid if the objection to the proof is sustained³.

If, on an appeal, the chairman's decision is reversed or varied, or a creditor's vote is declared invalid, the court may order that another meeting be summoned, or make such other order as it thinks just⁴. Neither the official receiver, nor any person nominated by him to be chairman, is personally liable for costs incurred by any person in respect of an application under these provisions; and the chairman, if other than the official receiver or a person so nominated, is not so liable, unless the court makes an order to that effect⁵.

671. Additional provisions as regards certain meetings in winding up of authorised institutions etc.

Where the company being wound up by the court is an authorised deposit-taker¹ or former authorised deposit-taker², notice of the first meetings of creditors and contributories³ must be given to the Financial Services Authority⁴ and the scheme manager⁵ by the official receiver⁶.

Where in the winding up of such a company a meeting of creditors or contributories or of the company is summoned for the purpose of receiving the liquidator's resignation⁷, removing the liquidator⁸, or appointing a new liquidator⁹, the person summoning the meeting and giving notice of it must also give notice to the Financial Services Authority and the scheme manager¹⁰.

The scheme manager is entitled to be represented at any meeting of which it is entitled to be given notice¹¹, and in relation to any such meeting may submit in the liquidation, instead of a proof, a written statement of voting rights¹². Such statement must contain details of:

- 1100 (1) the names of creditors of the company in respect of whom an obligation of the scheme manager has arisen or may reasonably be expected to arise as a result of the liquidation or proposed liquidation¹³;
- 1101 (2) the amount of the obligation so arising¹⁴; and
- 1102 (3) the total amount of all such obligations specified in the statement¹⁵.

The scheme manager's statement is, for the purpose of voting at a meeting, but for no other purpose, to be treated in all respects as if it were a proof¹⁶.

Any voting rights which a creditor might otherwise exercise at a meeting in respect of a claim against the company are reduced by a sum equal to the amount of that claim in relation to which the scheme manager, by virtue of its having submitted a statement, is entitled to exercise voting rights at that meeting¹⁷. The scheme manager may from time to time submit a further statement, and, if it does so, that statement supersedes any statement previously submitted¹⁸.

(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES

(i) In general

672. Assets in winding up.

On the winding up of a company, all its assets, other than assets which it holds as trustee¹, are collected and realised and applied in payment of its debts; and, when these are satisfied, in returning to its members the sums which they have contributed to the company, or paying them other money due to them in their character of members.

Besides the company's ordinary property, the assets include all contributions which the liquidator is entitled to obtain from members or persons who have been members within a certain time before the winding up commenced², and all assets which have been misappropriated as against creditors and which a creditor has a right to have recouped³. All these assets form a common fund⁴ to be applied in the manner directed by the Insolvency Act 1986 after the claims of the secured creditors⁵ have been met. The latter are not, however, bound to avail themselves of the winding-up proceedings, but may, with the leave of the court, pursue the remedies which they possessed before it commenced⁶.

Subject to the rights of the secured creditors and of certain creditors to be paid in priority, the assets in winding up are subject to a statutory trust for the benefit of all the creditors to the extent of their debts, and must be distributed upon the footing of equality⁷.

673. Company's rights against insurers.

Where, under any contract of insurance¹, a company is insured against liabilities to third parties which it may incur, then, in the event of a winding-up order being made², if either before or after that event it incurs any such liability, its rights against the insurer under the contract in respect of the liability are transferred to, and vest in, the third party to whom the liability was so incurred³.

Where the Secretary of State has entered into an agreement for the reinsurance of a ship, aircraft or cargo against war risk and the original insurer or any intermediate insurer commences to be wound up, any sum payable by the Secretary of State or any intermediate insurer subsequent to that insurer must be paid direct to the assured and the assured's right to receive payment from that insurer is extinguished to the extent to which the risk has been so insured⁴.

1 The Third Parties (Rights against Insurers) Act 1930 does not apply where a company is wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of amalgamation with another company: see s 1(6)(a); and INSURANCE vol 25 (2003 Reissue) para 679.

2 See ibid s 1(1)(b) (as amended); and INSURANCE vol 25 (2003 Reissue) para 679. Section 1(1) (as amended) also applies in the event of a resolution for a voluntary winding-up order being passed in respect of the company (see para 939 et seq post), the company entering administration (see para 145 et seq ante) or a voluntary arrangement proposed for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt I (ss 1-7B) (as amended) (see para 71 et seq ante) being approved thereunder: see the Third Parties (Rights against Insurers) Act 1930 s 1(1) (b) (as amended); and INSURANCE vol 25 (2003 Reissue) para 679. As to the application of this provision where a receiver is appointed see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1354.

As to the effect of this provision in relation to the jurisdiction to wind up foreign companies see para 1157 post; and as to the right of proof where the liability of the insurer is less than the liability of the company see para 755 post. In the case of compulsory motor vehicle insurance, the transfer of rights against the insurer by virtue of the Third Parties (Rights against Insurers) Act 1930 does not affect the company's liability to the third party: see the Road Traffic Act 1988 s 153 (as amended); and ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(2) (2007 Reissue) para 953.

Winding up differs from bankruptcy in this respect, that in bankruptcy the whole estate, both legal and equitable, is taken out of the bankrupt and is vested in his trustee¹; whereas on a winding up the legal estate then in the company still remains in it until its dissolution, unless disposed of in due course of winding up², or unless vested in the liquidator by order of the court³, and the equitable estate is taken out of the company⁴.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(i) In general/675. Delivery and seizure of assets and documents.

675. Delivery and seizure of assets and documents.

Where a winding-up order has been made or a provisional liquidator has been appointed and any person has in his possession or control any property¹, books, papers or records to which the company appears to be entitled, the court may require that person forthwith, or within such period as the court may direct, to pay, deliver, convey, surrender or transfer the property, books, papers or records to the liquidator or provisional liquidator, as the case may be².

The powers conferred on the court by these provisions are exercisable by the liquidator in a winding up by the court or, where a provisional liquidator has been appointed, by him³. Any person on whom a requirement under this provision is imposed by the liquidator or provisional liquidator must, without avoidable delay, comply with it⁴.

Where the liquidator or provisional liquidator, as the case may be, seizes or disposes of any property which is not property of the company⁵, and at the time of seizure or disposal the liquidator or provisional liquidator, as the case may be, believes, and has reasonable grounds for believing, that he is entitled, whether in pursuance of an order of the court or otherwise, to seize or dispose of that property⁶, the liquidator or provisional liquidator, as the case may be:

- 1103 (1) is not liable to any person in respect of any loss or damage resulting from the seizure or disposal, except in so far as that loss or damage is caused by the negligence of the liquidator or provisional liquidator, as the case may be⁷; and
- 1104 (2) has a lien on the property, or the proceeds of its sale, for such expenses as were incurred in connection with the seizure or disposal⁸.

2 Insolvency Act 1986 s 234(1)(c), (d), (2). Section 234 (as amended) (see also the text to note 4 infra) also applies where a company enters administration (see para 145 et seq ante) or an administrative receiver is appointed (see para 380 et seq ante); and in such cases references to the liquidator or provisional liquidator should be read as references to the administrator or administrative receiver, as the case may be: s 234(1)(a), (b) (s 234(1)(a) substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 23). The Insolvency Act 1986 s 234 (as amended) also applies to a liquidator in a voluntary winding up (see note 5 infra) and may be used to decide disputed questions of ownership (the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, Pt 7 (rr 7.1-7.64) (as amended) providing a flexible procedure to allow resolution of such disputes): Re London Iron and Steel Co Ltd [1990] BCLC 372, [1990] BCC 159. 676. Unenforceability of liens.

Where a company is being wound up by the court, a lien or other right to retain possession of any of the books, papers or other records of the company is unenforceable to the extent that its enforcement would deny possession of any books, papers or other records to the liquidator¹. This does not, however, apply to a lien on documents which give a title to property and are held as such².

² Insolvency Act 1986 s 246(3). The words 'as such' do not mean that the documents are held so as to confer on the holder a proprietary interest in the property to which they relate, but merely mean that the circumstances, manner or capacity in which they are held are such as to give rise to a lien: Brereton v Nicholls [1993] BCLC 593.

The Insolvency Act 1986 s 246 (as amended) also applies where a provisional liquidator is appointed (see s 246(1)(c); and para 491 ante), the company enters administration (see s 246(1)(a) (as amended); and para 145 ante) or where the company goes into voluntary liquidation (see para 939 et seq post).

(ii) Disclosure of Property; Information

678. Duty to co-operate with liquidator.

Certain persons are under a duty to give to the liquidator, provisional liquidator or official receiver¹, as the case may be, such information concerning the company and its promotion, formation, business², dealings, affairs or property³ as the liquidator, provisional liquidator or official receiver, as the case may be, may at any time after the effective date⁴ reasonably require, and to attend on him at such times as he may reasonably require⁵.

The persons who are under such duty to co-operate are:

- 1105 (1) those who are or have at any time been officers⁶ of the company⁷;
- 1106 (2) those who have taken part in the formation of the company at any time within one year before the effective date⁸;
- 1107 (3) those who are in the employment of the company, or have been in its employment, including employment under a contract for services, within that year, and are in the opinion of the liquidator, provisional liquidator or official receiver, as the case may be, capable of giving information which he requires⁹;
- 1108 (4) those who are, or have within that year been, officers of, or in the employment (including employment under a contract for services) of another company which is, or within that year was, an officer of the company in question¹⁰; and
- 1109 (5) in the case of a company being wound up by the court, any person who has acted as administrator, administrative receiver or liquidator of the company¹¹.

If a person without reasonable excuse fails to comply with any such obligations, he is liable on conviction on indictment to a fine, or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-tenth of the statutory maximum¹².

1 le whether or not, in a winding up by the court, the official receiver is the liquidator: Insolvency Act 1986 s 235(1). As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante. Section 235 also applies where a company has entered administration (see s 234(1)(a) (as amended), s 235(1); and para 167 ante), where an administrative receiver is appointed (see ss 234(1)(b), 235(1); and para 400 ante), and in a voluntary winding up (see para 962 post); and references to the liquidator should be read in such cases as including the liquidator in a voluntary winding up, administrator or administrative receiver, as the case may be (see s 234(1) (as amended), s 235(1)).

2 As to the meaning of 'business' see para 156 note 1 ante.

3 As to the meaning of 'property' see para 489 note 8 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'the effective date' is whichever is applicable of the following dates: (1) the date on which the company entered administration; (2) the date on which the administrative receiver was appointed or, if he was appointed in succession to another administrative receiver, the date on which the first of his predecessors was appointed; (3) the date on which the provisional liquidator was appointed; and (4) the date on which the company went into liquidation: Insolvency Act 1986 s 235(4) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 24). For the meaning of 'go into liquidation' see para 9 note 3 ante.

5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 235(1), (2). The use in disqualification proceedings of statements obtained under s 235 does not necessarily involve a breach of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969) art 6(1) (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) para 134 et seq): see Official Receiver v Stern [2001] 1 All ER 633, [2000] 1 WLR 2230, CA. Moreover, since the purpose of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 235 includes the identification of potential criminal or other misconduct and the taking of appropriate steps in relation to it, information given thereunder may be disclosed to another prosecuting authority, without an order of the court or notice to the person who had provided it, if required by that authority for the purpose of investigating crime: see R v Brady [2004] EWCA Crim 1763, [2004] 3 All ER 520.

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(ii) Disclosure of Property; Information/679. Inquiry into company's dealings.

679. Inquiry into company's dealings.

The court may¹, on the application of the liquidator, provisional liquidator or official receiver², as the case may be, summon to appear before it³:

- 1110 (1) any officer⁴ of the company⁵;
- 1111 (2) any person known or suspected to have in his possession any property⁶ of the company or supposed to be indebted to the company⁷; or
- 1112 (3) any person whom the court thinks capable of giving information concerning the promotion, formation, business⁸, dealings, affairs or property of the company⁹.

The court may require any such person to submit an affidavit to the court containing an account of his dealings with the company or to produce any books, papers or other records in his possession or under his control relating to the company or the promotion, formation, business, dealings, affairs or property of the company¹⁰.

Any person who appears or is brought before the court under these provisions may be examined on oath, either orally or by interrogatories, concerning the company or the promotion, formation, business, dealings, affairs or property of the company¹¹.

A person against whom an order for examination has been obtained may be restrained by injunction from leaving the jurisdiction pending the examination¹².

Where an order for the production of documents is sought, and the documents belong to a third party, the owner of the documents should normally be given the opportunity to appear¹³.

1 The court's power to order an examination is discretionary and the power must be exercised after the court has carefully balanced the interests involved; on the one hand, the need of the office-holder to carry out his task and, on the other hand, the need to avoid making an order which is wholly unreasonable, unnecessary or oppressive to the person concerned: British and Commonwealth Holdings plc (joint administrators) v Spicer and Oppenheim (a firm) [1993] AC 426, [1992] 4 All ER 876, HL. The cases cited in note 3 infra must be read subject to the decision in British and Commonwealth Holdings plc (joint administrators) v Spicer & Oppenheim (a firm) supra. The scope of the order is not limited to information needed to reconstitute the knowledge of the company: British and Commonwealth Holdings plc (joint administrators) v Spicer & Oppenheim (a firm) supra. Factors which may be taken into account by the court in exercising its discretion include:

- 33 (1) whether the order is sought against those under a duty to co-operate with the office-holder already, such as those under a duty by virtue of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 235 (as amended) (see para 678 ante);
- 34 (2) the views of the office-holder are to be given great weight;
- 35 (3) the office-holder is entitled not only to general information but to specific information concerning possible claims against specific persons;
- 36 (4) the mere fact that an office-holder has commenced or is about to commence proceedings against the respondent is not an absolute bar to the making of an order;
- 37 (5) the risk that a respondent might expose himself to liability is merely a factor to be taken into account; the risk of exposure to a fraud claim is not conclusive;

- 38 (6) the fact that a respondent may have to answer questions which expose him to a criminal liability is not decisive;
- 39 (7) an oral examination is likely to be more oppressive than the other possible orders under s 236.

For examples of the exercise of this discretion see Re AE Farr Ltd [1992] BCLC 333, [1992] BCC 150 (investigations by the Serious Fraud Office); Re PFTZM Ltd (in liquidation), Jourdain v Paul [1995] 2 BCLC 354, [1995] BCC 280 (questions against third parties designed to prove liability as shadow directors); Re Arrows Ltd (No 2) [1994] 1 BCLC 355, CA (preferring of criminal charges); Re Adviser (188) Ltd & Bishopsgate Investment Management Ltd, ex p Trachtenberg [1993] BCC 492, CA (risk of self-incrimination); Re RBG Resources Ltd, Shierson v Rastogi [2002] EWCA Civ 1624, [2003] 1 WLR 586 (where proceedings had been commenced against the examinees but an order was made).

Orders made pursuant to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 (see the text and notes 2-10 infra; and para 685 post) are binding on the Crown: Soden v Burns, R v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, ex p Soden [1996] 3 All ER 967.

The court has power to make orders for disclosure of documents situated abroad where the liquidator reasonably requires to see the documents in order to carry out his statutory functions and production does not impose an unnecessary or unreasonable burden on the respondent: Re Mid-East Trading Ltd, Lehman Bros Inc v Phillips [1998] 1 All ER 577, [1998] 1 BCLC 240, CA. Where there is a real risk that production would expose the respondent to claims for breach of confidence or criminal liability, the court will be slow to order production: Re Mid-East Trading Ltd, Lehman Bros Inc v Phillips supra.

The court had no power to order production of documents where disclosure was prohibited by the Banking Act 1987 s 82 (now repealed) but could order disclosure of documents redacted so that there would be no such breach: Re Galileo Group Ltd, Ellis v Hambros Bank Ltd (Bank of England Intervening) [1999] Ch 100, [1998] 1 All ER 545.

The documents which the court may order to be produced are not confined to those which were in existence at the date of the company's insolvency, and hence the court may order documents brought into existence by the administrative receivers of a company: Re Trading Partners Ltd, Akers v Lomas [2002] 1 BCLC 655.

The official receiver is entitled to use his power under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 for the sole purpose of obtaining evidence for use in disqualification proceedings against a director: Re Pantmaenog Timber Co Ltd (in liquidation) [2003] UKHL 49, [2004] 1 AC 158, [2003] 4 All ER 18.

Save where a liquidator shows a clear necessity for such an order, an order will not be made to enable a liquidator to obtain information relating to a proof of debt, the correct course being for the liquidator to reject the proof: see Bellmex International Ltd (in liquidation) v British American Tobacco Ltd [2001] 1 BCLC 91; and para 783 post.

2 le whether or not in a winding up by the court the official receiver is the liquidator: Insolvency Act 1986 s 236(1). As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante. As to the official receiver's power to apply for a public examination see para 538 et seq ante. Section 236 (see also para 685 post) and s 237 (see the text and note 11 infra; and para 686 post) apply in a voluntary winding up (see para 962 post), where a company enters administration (see s 234(1)(a) (as amended), s 236(1); and para 167 ante) and where an administrative receiver is appointed (see ss 234(1)(b), 236(1); and para 400 ante); and references to the liquidator should in such cases be read as including the liquidator in a voluntary winding up, administrator or administrative receiver, as the case may be (see s 234(1) (as amended), s 236(1)). Where a company in provisional liquidation has entered into a scheme of arrangement with its creditors, and the provisional liquidators have been appointed scheme administrators, an order obtained by the scheme administrators prior to the termination of the provisional liquidation will be discharged: Re Kingscroft Insurance Co Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 80, [1994] BCC 343; cf Re Maxwell Communications Corp plc (No 3) [1995] 1 BCLC 521, sub nom Re Maxwell Communications Corp plc, Homan v Vogel [1994] BCC 741. A creditor in a voluntary winding up is not able to apply under Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 for a private examination to be held: Re James McHale Automobiles Ltd [1997] 1 BCLC 273, [1997] BCC 202.

Where application is made to the English court to issue a letter of request to a foreign court, that application is not made under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 but under the court's inherent jurisdiction: Re Anglo-American Insurance Co Ltd [2002] BCC 715, [2003] BPIR 793.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 236(2). See Re Overend, Gurney & Co, ex p Musgrave (1867) 16 LT 378; Re Rolls Razor Ltd (No 2) [1970] Ch 576, [1969] 3 All ER 1386. The object of the analogous provision in the Companies Act 1948 s 268(1) (repealed) was to enable the liquidator to carry out his duties more efficiently, speedily and economically than would otherwise be the case, and applications were accordingly judged on that basis: Re Rolls Razor Ltd [1968] 3 All ER 698; and see Re Castle New Homes Ltd [1979] 2 All ER 775, [1979] 1 WLR 1075; Re Spirafite Ltd (1974) [1979] 2 All ER 766, [1979] 1 WLR 1096n (the provision was not to be used to enable the liquidator merely to improve his position as a litigant in subsisting litigation). The court would not allow an examination under the provision where this would be oppressive, vexatious or unfair (see Re Embassy Art Products Ltd [1988] BCLC 1, 3 BCC 292); but this principle had to be applied in the light of the requirement that a person who had been involved in the affairs of an insolvent company had a public duty to assist the liquidator to investigate the affairs of the company in the interest of its creditors (Re JT Rhodes Ltd [1987] BCLC 77). The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, rr 9.1-9.6 (as amended) (see paras 680-687 post) apply to applications to the court for an order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.1(1)(a). 8 As to the meaning of 'business' see para 156 note 1 ante.

See also Re Highgrade Traders Ltd [1984] BCLC 151, CA (reports held by insurance company claims officer relating to fire damage privileged; an examination under the Companies Act 1948 s 268 (repealed) did not therefore extend to them). 11 Insolvency Act 1986 s 237(4). Under the Companies Act 1948 s 268 (repealed), it was held that there was no invariable requirement that a private examination under that provision should be preceded by written questions; it was a matter for the unfettered discretion of the court which had to determine how the investigation could best be carried out, balancing the views of the liquidator, which were entitled to great weight, with the requirement that the investigation should not be carried out in a way which was oppressive or unfair to persons ordered to be examined: Re Norton Warburg Holdings Ltd and Norton Warburg Investment Management Ltd [1983] BCLC 235.

680. Obtaining order for examination.

The application¹ must be in writing, and must be accompanied by a brief statement of the grounds on which it is made². The respondent³ must be sufficiently identified in the application⁴. There must be stated in the application whether it is an application for the respondent:

- 1113 (1) to be ordered to appear before the court⁵;
- 1114 (2) to be ordered to clarify any matter which is in dispute in the proceedings or to give additional information in relation to any such matter⁶;
- 1115 (3) to submit affidavits (if so, particulars to be given of the matters to which he is required to swear)⁷; or
- 1116 (4) to produce books, papers or other records (if so, the items in question to be specified)⁸, or for any two or more of those purposes⁹.

The application may be made without notice¹⁰.

1 le for an order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236: see para 679 ante. As to the prescribed form of order see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, rr 9.1, 12.7, Sch 4 Form 9.1. In principle, deponents to affidavits in respect of the application may be subjected to cross-examination unless contrary affidavits are sworn raising issues of fact which can only be resolved by cross-examination: Re Cloverbay Ltd (No 2) [1990] BCLC 449, [1990] BCC 229.

2 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.2(1). The statement made by the liquidator is prima facie confidential by reason of r 9.5(3) and is not open to inspection by the respondent without leave of the court: see para 683 post. If inspection is sought by a respondent seeking to set aside an order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236, the court will allow inspection where it thinks that it may not be able properly to dispose of the application without allowing inspection; the office-holder would then need to satisfy the court of the need to maintain confidentiality: Re British and Commonwealth Holdings plc (Nos 1 and 2) [1992] Ch 342, [1992] 2 All ER 801, CA (affd sub nom British and Commonwealth Holdings plc (joint administrators) v Spicer and Oppenheim (a firm)) [1993] AC 426, [1992] 4 All ER 876, HL); Re Murjani (a bankrupt) [1996] 1 All ER 65, [1996] 1 BCLC 272 (decided under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 366 (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) paras 307, 313)); Re Anglo-American Insurance Co Ltd [2002] BCC 715, [2003] BPIR 793 (on the inherent jurisdiction of the court on issuing a letter of request for an examination order to be made by a foreign court). The proper course for an office-holder making an application is for him to put sensitive information in an annexure: Re British and Commonwealth Holdings plc (Nos 1 and 2) supra; Re Murjani (a bankrupt) supra. Whilst it might be appropriate for the office-holder to refer to without prejudice negotiations, it is generally inappropriate to refer to the content of the negotiations or to exhibit them: Re Anglo-American Insurance Co Ltd supra.

3 For these purposes, 'the respondent' means the person in respect of whom an order is applied for: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.1(2)(a).

4 Ibid r 9.2(2).

5 Ibid r 9.2(3)(a).

6 Ibid r 9.2(3)(b). If it is stated that the application is for the respondent to be so ordered, CPR Pt 18 (further information: see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARAS 611-612) applies to any such order: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.2(3)(b) (substituted by SI 1999/1022).

7 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.2(3)(c).

8 Ibid r 9.2(3)(d).

9 Ibid r 9.2(3). Where documents are disclosed by mistake, then, unless the office-holder knew of the mistake, or they were obtained by fraud, the documents remain disclosed: Re Polly Peck International plc [1992] BCLC 1025.

10 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.2(4). As to the making of applications see para 1055 et seq post. If the application is made without notice, there is a duty to place all material facts before the court: Re John T Rhodes Ltd (No 2) (1987) 3 BCC 588. An application under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 must not be seen as an all-embracing exception to the general rule that a person is entitled to be heard before an order of the court is made against him, and some good reason must be shown as justifying a without notice application: Re Maxwell Communications Corp plc (No 3) [1995] 1 BCLC 521, sub nom Re Maxwell Communications Corp plc, Homan v Vogel [1994] BCC 741; Re PFTZM Ltd (in liquidation), Jourdain v Paul [1995] 2 BCLC 354, [1995] BCC 280; Re Murjani (a bankrupt) [1996] 1 All ER 65, [1996] 1 BCLC 272 (decided under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 366); cf Re First Express Ltd [1992] BCLC 824, [1991] BCC 782.

The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, Pt 9 (rr 9.1-9.6) (as amended) does no more than reflect how the court would have previously exercised its inherent jurisdiction under the predecessor provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 (ie the Insolvency Act 1985 ss 95(1), (1), 100(1), (2), (6) (repealed)): Re Anglo-American Insurance Co Ltd [2002] BCC 715, [2003] BPIR 793.

681. Order for examination.

The court may, whatever the purpose of the application, make any order which it has power¹ to make². The court, if it orders the respondent³ to appear before it, must specify a venue⁴ for his appearance, which must be not less than 14 days from the date of the order⁵. The court may, if it thinks fit, order that any person who, if within the jurisdiction of the court, would be liable to be summoned to appear before it⁶ be examined in any part of the United Kingdom where he may for the time being be, or in a place outside the United Kingdom⁷.

If the respondent is ordered to submit affidavits, the order must specify the matters which are to be dealt with in his affidavits, and the time within which they are to be submitted to the court⁸. If the order is to produce books, papers or other records, the time and manner of compliance must be specified⁹.

The order must be served forthwith on the respondent; and it must be served personally, unless the court otherwise orders¹⁰.

681 Order for examination

NOTE 2--SI 1986/1925 Sch 4 Form 9.1 amended: SI 2009/2472.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(ii) Disclosure of Property; Information/682. Procedure at examination.

682. Procedure at examination.

At any examination of the respondent¹, the applicant may attend in person, or be represented by a solicitor with or without counsel, and may put such questions to the respondent as the court may allow². Any other person who could have applied for an order³ in respect of the company's affairs may, with the leave of the court and if the applicant does not object, attend the examination and put questions to the respondent but only through the applicant⁴. If the respondent is ordered to clarify any matter or to give additional information, the court must direct him as to the questions which he is required to answer, and as to whether his answers, if any, are to be made on affidavit⁵.

Where the application has been made on information provided by a creditor of the company, that creditor may, with the leave of the court and if the applicant does not object, attend the examination and put questions to the respondent, but only through the applicant⁶. The respondent may at his own expense employ a solicitor with or without counsel, who may put to him such questions as the court may allow for the purposes of enabling him to explain or qualify any answers given by him, and may make representations on his behalf⁷.

² Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 9.4(1). As to whether a claim for legal professional privilege is overridden by an order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 see Re Aveling Barford Ltd [1988] 3 All ER 1019, [1989] 1 WLR 360; Re Brook Martin & Co (Nominees) Ltd [1993] BCLC 328; Re Murjani (a bankrupt) [1996] 1 All ER 65, [1996] 1 BCLC 272 (decided under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 366 (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) paras 307, 313)). In Re Aveling Barford Ltd supra, it was assumed that legal professional privilege was not overridden, although details had to be given (in the case of documents) of the document in respect of which privilege was claimed, the client claiming the privilege and the grounds on which the claim was made. In Re Brook Martin & Co (Nominees) Ltd supra, where the directors were solicitors, legal professional privilege could not be claimed where the claim inhered in the company and the office-holder was able to waive any such claim. This applied even when the privilege was not only that of the company but also of a third party. It was further indicated that legal professional privilege might be overridden in exceptional circumstances. In Re Murjani (a bankrupt) supra, it was held that any information or documentation, which, if possessed by the clients, would be disclosable by the clients under an order for private examination, was likewise disclosable by the solicitors, if possessed by the solicitors. It is not usual to spell out the entitlement to claim the privilege in the order itself: Re Cloverbay Ltd [1989] BCLC 724, 5 BCC 732.

The privilege against self-incrimination is not available to any person who is under a duty under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 235 (as amended) (see para 678 ante) to co-operate with the office-holder: Bishopsgate Investment Management Ltd (in provisional liquidation) v Maxwell [1993] Ch 1, [1992] 2 All ER 856, CA; Re Jeffrey S Levitt Ltd (in administrative receivership) [1992] Ch 457, [1992] 2 All ER 509; Re AE Farr Ltd [1992] BCLC 333, [1992] BCC 150. It seems that the privilege may be claimed by persons not subject to such duty: Bishopsgate Investment Management Ltd v Maxwell supra; Re Jeffrey S Levitt Ltd supra; Re AE Farr Ltd supra; O'Toole v Mitcham (1977) 2 ACLR 471, Vict SC.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(ii) Disclosure of Property; Information/683. Record of examination.

683. Record of examination.

There must be made in writing such record of the examination as the court thinks proper; and the record must be read over either to or by the respondent¹ and signed by him at a venue² fixed by the court³. The written record may in any proceedings⁴ be used as evidence against the respondent of any statement made by him in the course of his examination⁵.

Unless the court otherwise directs, the written record of the respondent's examination, and any answer given by him to requests for information, and any affidavits submitted by him in compliance with an order of the court⁶ must not be filed in court⁷. The written record, answers and affidavits must not be open to inspection, without an order of the court, by any person other than the applicant for an order, or any person who could have applied for such an order in respect of the affairs of the same company⁸. This applies also to so much of the court file as shows the grounds of the application for an order and to any copy of proposed requests for information⁹. The court may from time to time give directions as to the custody and inspection of any such documents and as to the furnishing of copies of, or extracts from, such documents¹⁰.

Transcripts of proceedings¹¹ may be the subject of legal professional privilege¹².

Information obtained by the liquidator is prima facie to be used for the beneficial winding up of the company and for no other purpose¹³. This principle is, however, displaced where the liquidator is authorised or required to produce the information in question to the person seeking it¹⁴.

684. Nomination and appointment of shorthand writers.

The judge, in the High Court, and the registrar, in a county court, may in writing nominate one or more persons to be official shorthand writers to the court¹. The court may, at any time in the course of insolvency proceedings², appoint a shorthand writer to take down the evidence of a person examined³. Where the official receiver applies to the court for an order appointing a shorthand writer, he must name the person he proposes for appointment; and that appointment must be made, unless the court otherwise orders⁴.

The remuneration of a shorthand writer appointed in insolvency proceedings must be paid by the party at whose instance the appointment was made, or out of the company's assets, or otherwise, as the court may direct⁵. Any question arising as to the rates of remuneration so payable must be determined by the court in its discretion⁶.

Where in insolvency proceedings the court appoints a shorthand writer on the application of the official receiver, in order that a written record may be taken of the evidence of a person to be examined, the cost of the written record is deemed an expense of the official receiver in the proceedings⁷.

685. Failure to appear.

Where a person without reasonable excuse fails to appear before the court when he is summoned to do so¹ or there are reasonable grounds for believing that a person has absconded, or is about to abscond, with a view to avoiding his appearance before the court, the court may, for the purpose of bringing that person and anything in his possession before the court, cause a warrant to be issued to a constable or prescribed officer of the court² for the arrest of that person, and for the seizure of any books, papers, records, money or goods in that person's possession³. The court may also authorise a person arrested under such a warrant to be kept in custody, and anything seized under such a warrant to be held⁴ until that person is brought before the court under the warrant or until such other time as the court may order⁵.

When a person is arrested under such a warrant, the officer arresting him must forthwith bring him before the court issuing the warrant in order that he may be examined⁶. If he cannot immediately be brought up for examination, the officer must deliver him into the custody of the governor of the prison named in the warrant, who must keep him in custody and produce him before the court as it may from time to time direct⁷. After arresting the person named in the warrant, the officer must forthwith report to the court the arrest or delivery into custody, as the case may be, and apply to the court to fix a venue⁸ for the person's examination⁹. The court must appoint the earliest practicable time for the examination, and must direct the governor of the prison to produce the person for examination at the time and place appointed, and forthwith give notice of the venue to the person who applied for the warrant¹⁰.

Any property in the arrested person's possession which may be seized must, as may be directed by the court, be lodged with, or otherwise dealt with as instructed by, whoever is specified in the warrant as authorised to receive it, or kept by the officer seizing it pending the receipt of written orders from the court as to its disposal¹¹.

Where the court has ordered an examination of any person¹ and it appears to it that the examination was made necessary because information had been unjustifiably refused by the respondent², it may order that the costs of the examination be paid by him³.

Where the court makes an order against a person to deliver up property in his possession which belongs to the company⁴, or to pay any amount in discharge of a debt due to the company⁵, the costs of the application for the order may be ordered by the court to be paid by the respondent⁶. Otherwise the applicant's costs must be paid out of the company's assets, unless the court otherwise orders⁷. A person summoned to attend for examination must be tendered a reasonable sum in respect of travelling expenses incurred in connection with his attendance; but other costs falling on him are at the court's discretion⁸. If in the course of the winding up of a company¹ it appears that a person who is or has been an officer² of the company or who has acted as liquidator or administrative receiver³ of the company or who otherwise is or has been concerned, or has taken part, in the promotion⁴, formation or management of the company, has misapplied or retained or become accountable for, any money or other property of the company, or been guilty of any misfeasance or breach of any fiduciary or other duty⁵ in relation to the company, the court may, on the application⁶ of the official receiver or the liquidator, or of any creditor or contributory⁷, examine the conduct of that person and compel him to repay, restore or account for the money or property, or any part of it, with interest at such rate as the court thinks just⁸ or to contribute such sum to the company's assets by way of compensation in respect of the misfeasance or breach of fiduciary or other duty as the court thinks just⁹.

1 The Insolvency Act 1986 s 212 (as amended) applies whether the winding up is by the court or voluntary; and it may be invoked in the winding up of an unregistered company (Davies' Case (1890) 45 ChD 537) or of an industrial and provident society (Re Ferndale Industrial Co-operative Society [1894] 1 QB 828).

691. Nature of misfeasance proceedings.

The statutory provisions concerned with liability for misfeasance¹ do not create any new liability or new right; they provide only a summary mode of enforcing rights, including rights created by the winding up², which must otherwise have been enforced by the court's ordinary jurisdiction³. Their operation is not limited to plain cases in which no difficult question of fact or law is involved⁴, but they are not applicable to all cases in which the company has a right of action against an officer, as where the claim is for a simple contract debt or is an ordinary claim for unliquidated damages⁵.

The court's jurisdiction under the statutory provisions is discretionary, and it will exercise its discretion in refusing the relief claimed or limiting its extent in a proper case, notwithstanding that it would have had no such power had the relief been claimed by way of action⁶.

The remedy by misfeasance proceedings ceases to exist on the dissolution of a company⁷.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/ (iii) Misfeasance Proceedings/692. Misfeasance or breach of fiduciary or other duty.

692. Misfeasance or breach of fiduciary or other duty.

'Misfeasance or breach of any fiduciary or other duty'¹ includes a breach by a promoter, director, manager, auditor, liquidator, administrative receiver or officer of his duty to the company, the direct consequence of which has been a misapplication or loss of its assets, for which he could be made responsible². Even where there is no pecuniary loss, the court may order the respondents to a misfeasance application to pay the costs³ or may dismiss the summons without costs⁴. Allegations or proof of fraud are not essential⁵.

A transaction cannot be impeached as a misfeasance or breach of trust unless it is a misfeasance or breach of trust in relation to the company; for example, it cannot be impeached where the object of the transaction is not to obtain an undue advantage against the company but to obtain an undue advantage in the stock market as against persons likely to purchase its shares⁶.

The reference⁷ to any misfeasance or breach of any fiduciary or other duty in relation to the company includes, in the case of a person who has acted as liquidator of the company, a reference to any misfeasance or breach of any fiduciary or other duty in connection with the carrying out of his functions as liquidator of the company⁸.

¹ Ie as used in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 212(1) (as amended): see para 688 ante. As to breach of duty by a director see generally COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 586.

Under the Companies Act 1985 s 631 (repealed), derived from the Companies Act 1948 s 333 (repealed), the words used were 'misfeasance or breach of trust' and these did not include non-feasance, unless it amounted to a breach of trust, and loss of assets had resulted from it: Re Etic Ltd [1928] Ch 861; Marquis of Bute's Case [1892] 2 Ch 100; Re Liverpool Household Stores Association (1890) 59 LJ Ch 616; Re Forest of Dean Coal Mining Co (1878) 10 ChD 450; Re Wedgewood Coal and Iron Co (1882) 31 WR 181. 694. Directors.

The following are some of the cases in which a misfeasance application may be brought against directors¹: where they have received money from promoters in pursuance of an agreement to indemnify them against loss on qualification shares²; where they have received money from vendors to the company to pay for qualification shares³; where they receive debentures or their qualification or other shares from a promoter or a promoter pays for them⁴; where they are nominated by an underwriter of a further issue of capital and receive qualification shares from him⁵; where they have improperly received presents or remuneration out of the company's assets⁶; where they have purchased shares from promoters at less than par⁷; where they have procured the purchase from themselves by the company of shares in another company at a fraudulent over-valuation⁸; and where they fail to disclose the fact that they are vendors of property to the company⁹.

A misfeasance application is the proper mode of procedure where shares or debentures have been improperly issued to directors at a discount or undervalue¹⁰; or where directors have improperly paid dividends out of capital¹¹; or where they have knowingly allotted shares to minors¹²; or where they have improperly received directors' fees¹³; or where they have acted ultra vires¹⁴, or improperly invested or paid away the company's money¹⁵; or where they have improperly received commissions¹⁶; or where an act benefiting directors is a preference¹⁷.

A liquidator or administrative receiver may be brought to account on a misfeasance application when he has misapplied or become liable or accountable for the company's money, or been guilty of misfeasance or breach of fiduciary or other duty in relation to the company¹. In the case of a liquidator, the latter applies to any misfeasance or breach of any fiduciary or other duty in connection with the carrying out of his functions as liquidator of the company². The following are cases in which a misfeasance application may be brought against a liquidator: where he has distributed its assets without providing for the claim of a particular creditor³, or where he has on his own responsibility negligently compromised a claim against the company which was invalid and paid away the amount for which it was compromised⁴, or where he has negligently admitted a claim⁵. A liquidator cannot be brought to account on a summons for a wrong done to an individual shareholder⁶. Claims against the company cannot be set off against the amount ordered to be paid in misfeasance proceedings¹, nor may the liquidator set off the amount against an assignee of a dividend owing to the respondent as a creditor of the company².

Where the claim is founded upon any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust to which the respondent was party or privy, or is a claim to recover trust property or the proceeds of it in the possession of the respondent or previously received by him and converted to his use, no limitation period under the Limitation Act 1980 applies to the claim³. Where the claim is not of such a nature, that Act may effectively be pleaded, as, for example, by directors who have acted honestly but have made an improper investment⁴, or improperly paid dividends⁵, or by an auditor who has merely neglected his duties⁶, or by a secretary who has been negligent⁷.

699. Costs against official receiver or liquidator.

If the official receiver or liquidator institutes misfeasance proceedings, the court has jurisdiction to order him personally to pay the costs¹. A liquidator will not be ordered to give security for the costs of a misfeasance summons on the ground of poverty², or, apparently, in any other case³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(iv) Relation back of Winding-up Order/700. Retrospective effect of winding-up order.

(iv) Relation back of Winding-up Order

700. Retrospective effect of winding-up order.

A compulsory winding-up order has a retrospective effect¹. Any proceeding for rescinding contracts to take shares, commenced between the dates of the presentation of the petition and the winding-up order, is defeated². Every disposition of the company's property, including choses or things in action, made after the commencement of the winding up by the court³ is void unless the court otherwise orders⁴. In a proper case, the court may order otherwise while the petition is still pending and before an order has been made on it⁵. In the exercise of its discretion, the court will do its best to ensure that the interests of the unsecured creditors will not be prejudiced, and will validate transactions entered into in good faith in the ordinary course of trade and completed before the date of the winding-up order⁶, as where a charge on calls is made⁷ or a debenture is issued in good faith to avert the ruin of the company⁸. Where, in the case of a solvent company, evidence is placed before the court that the directors consider a particular disposition to be necessary or expedient in the interests of the company, for reasons which the court considers an intelligent and honest person could reasonably hold, the court will sanction the disposition even if a contributory opposes it, unless the contributory adduces compelling evidence proving that the disposition is likely to injure the company⁹.

The court will deal with each case on its own facts and particular circumstances, special regard being had to whether the disposition has reduced the assets available in the winding up¹⁰, and to the question of the good faith and honest intention of the parties concerned¹¹. The transaction must, however, be completed and not still remain in contract at the date of the winding-up order¹². A general lien taking effect on property after the commencement of the winding up is a disposition of property; but, if it takes effect prior to the winding-up order, it may be confirmed by the court¹³. Completion of a specifically enforceable contract for the sale of land, entered into before presentation of the winding-up petition, does not constitute a disposition of the company's property¹⁴.

The payment of past debts will not be sanctioned. A creditor who receives payment between the petition and the winding-up order will normally be compelled to refund¹⁵; and directors who make improper payments out of the company's assets are themselves liable to the company for the money paid away¹⁶. Where a creditor's winding-up petition is adjourned on the terms of the company's paying part of the debt and promising to pay the remainder, and, on failure to pay the remainder, the creditor brings on his petition and obtains a winding-up order, he is bound to repay the money already paid to him¹⁷.

In the event of a winding-up order being made, payment of a debt to the company after the presentation of the petition and before the making of the order is not a payment of the company's property to a wrong person, and the company may give a valid discharge for it¹⁸. A transfer of shares in favour of a company may be validly registered, even though proceedings have commenced for the winding up of the transferee company¹⁹.

Where validation of a disposition which has already been entered into is sought, the fact that the disposition would have been sanctioned, if sanction had been sought before the disposition was carried out, does not by itself justify its ex post facto validation²⁰.

A transaction may be validated in part only²¹.

The amendments made to these provisions do not apply in relation to special administration regimes (see para 145 ante) or where a petition for an administration order has been presented before 15 September 2003: Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 3(2)(a). The Insolvency Act 1986 s 127(1) (as renumbered) has no effect in respect of anything done by an administrator of a company while a winding-up petition is suspended under Sch B1 para 40 (as added) (see para 261 ante): s 127(2) (as so added).

Validatory orders will generally fall into one of three categories: (1) where a particular asset is to be sold; (2) where the company's business is to be continued for the benefit of creditors; (3) where the company is solvent: Re Fairway Graphics Ltd [1991] BCLC 468. Where the court is satisfied that the company is solvent and able to pay its debts as they fall due, then the court will generally grant a validating order where a winding-up petition has been presented by a creditor: Re Fairway Graphics Ltd supra. This general rule does not apply where a petition has been presented by the Secretary of State alleging improper conduct of the company vis-a-vis its members: Re a Company (No 007130 of 1998) [2000] 1 BCLC 582. Where a company's bankers receive notice of a winding-up petition presented against one of its customers, the bankers will almost invariably freeze the account, as a result of the decision in Re Gray's Inn Construction Co Ltd supra. Although it seems that the bank will not be liable in respect of payments after the presentation of a petition from the company's bank account (whether in credit or, obiter, in debit) the practice of banks in freezing accounts after they had notice of the petition has apparently met with approval: see Hollis Court (Contracts) Ltd v Bank of Ireland [2001] Ch 555 at 559, [2001] All ER 289 at 291, CA, per Mummery LJ. This practice continues to be the normal and prudent practice of banks and hence where the account is frozen, the company will need to apply for anticipatory relief. Anticipatory orders to allow the continuation of the company's trading may be granted if either the company is solvent or the continuation of trading will not prejudice the creditors: Re a Company (No 007523 of 1986) [1987] BCLC 200, 3 BCC 57. In Re a Company (No 00687 of 1991) [1992] BCLC 133 at 135, [1991] BCC 210 at 212, it was recommended that any validation order unfreezing the company's bank accounts should include the following proviso: 'Provided that [the relevant bank] should be under no obligation to verify for itself whether any transaction through the company's bank accounts is in the ordinary course of business, or that it represents full market value for the relevant transaction'.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(iv) Relation back of Winding-up Order/701. Transfer of shares.

701. Transfer of shares.

Any transfer of shares in a company¹ made after the commencement of the winding up² is void unless the court otherwise orders³. The validity of the transfer is not affected⁴ as between the parties to it, although the court will not alter the register to give effect to it except for the benefit of the company and those interested in its assets⁵.

Where a contract for transfer is made after the winding up commenced, both transferor and transferee being ignorant of the presentation of the petition, the court will not sanction the transfer and place the transferee on the register, because specific performance of the agreement would not be ordered⁶ in such a case⁷.

A transfer of shares made after the presentation of the petition is not avoided unless or until a winding-up order is made⁸.

1 Or, in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, any transfer by a member of the partnership of his interest in the property of the partnership: see s 127(1) (as renumbered: see note 3 infra); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

2 As to the commencement of the winding up see para 489 ante.

The amendments made to these provisions do not apply in relation to special administration regimes (see para 145 ante) or where a petition for an administration order has been presented before 15 September 2003: Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 3(2)(a). The court will not give effect to such a transfer where the provisions of the articles relating to transfer have not been complied with: see Re Overend, Gurney & Co, Walker's Case (1866) LR 2 Eq 554.

6 Cf Sullivan v Henderson [1973] 1 All ER 48, [1973] 1 WLR 333 (where, after the commencement of the winding up, the court refused to order the specific performance of a contract, previously made, for the sale of shares).

702. Alteration of members' status.

Any alteration in the status of members¹ made after the commencement of the winding up² other than that occasioned by a transfer sanctioned by the court³ is also void, unless the court otherwise orders⁴. Thus an arrangement, after the winding-up petition is presented, by which the shareholders on whose shares a sum is unpaid are to pay an amount equal to that sum, and the payment is to be treated either as a loan to the company or as payment of the sum unpaid on the shares, according as the company is able to continue its business or is wound up, is void⁵. Where by virtue of a six months' notice, expiring after the commencement of the winding up, preference shareholders exercise an option granted to them by the resolution creating their shares to convert the preference shares into ordinary shares, the exercise of this option does not effect an alteration in their status and the conversion becomes effective without a court order⁶.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES/703. Meaning of 'contributory'.

(v) Contributories

A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES

703. Meaning of 'contributory'.

'Contributory' means every person¹ liable to contribute to the assets of a company in the event of its being wound up, and includes, for the purposes of all proceedings for determining, and all proceedings prior to the final determination of, the persons who are to be deemed contributories, any person alleged to be a contributory². Thus, since every member of the company is primarily liable to contribute, subject to the proviso limiting the amount which he may be called upon to pay³, a holder of fully paid-up shares is a contributory⁴. Since he is no longer liable to make any contribution to the assets, the holder of fully paid-up shares will not, however, be placed on the list of contributories except at his own desire⁵ or where there is a likelihood of the return of surplus assets⁶.

A person who is merely a debtor to the company⁷, or who is liable to indemnify a trustee on the register⁸, is not a contributory. A person who is liable to contribute to the assets by virtue of a declaration by the court to such effect under the provisions relating to fraudulent trading⁹, wrongful trading¹⁰ or misfeasance¹¹ is also not a contributory¹².

A reference in a company's articles to a contributory does not, unless the context requires, include a person who is a contributory only by virtue of the statutory provisions¹³ imposing liability on past directors and shareholders¹⁴.

1 In relation to the winding up of a limited liability partnership, the reference to 'every person' is a reference to every past and present member of the partnership: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 79(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES/704. Members' liability to contribute.

704. Members' liability to contribute.

When a company is wound up, every present and past member is liable to contribute to its assets to any amount sufficient for payments of its debts and liabilities, and the expenses of the winding up, and for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves¹.

This liability is subject to the following qualifications:

- 1117 (1) in the case of a company limited by shares, no contribution is required from any member exceeding the amount, if any, unpaid on the shares in respect of which he is liable as a present or past member²;
- 1118 (2) in the case of a company limited by guarantee, no contribution is required from any member exceeding the amount undertaken to be contributed by him to the company's assets in the event of its being wound up³; and
- 1119 (3) if it is a company limited by guarantee and having a share capital, every member of it is liable, in addition to the amount so undertaken to be contributed to the assets, to contribute to the extent of any sums unpaid on shares held by him⁴.

The liability of a past member is limited⁵. Provisions in an insurance policy or other contract restricting the liability of individual members on it are valid⁶. A sum due to a member as such is not to be deemed a debt of the company as against an outside creditor, but may be taken into account as between the contributories themselves⁷.

'Member' is not confined to the persons whose names were actually on the register as present or past members when the winding up commenced, but includes persons whose names ought then to have been on it⁸, and also persons to whom shares may have been validly transferred after the winding up commenced⁹. A person whose shares have been forfeited¹⁰ is not liable to contribute as a present member¹¹, but he is liable as a past member¹² unless the forfeiture took place a year or more before the commencement of the winding up¹³. If, as is usually the case¹⁴, the articles of association make such a person a debtor to the company in respect of unpaid calls, he may be sued upon the articles for those calls even though the winding up does not commence until after the expiration of a year from the forfeiture, and thus he is not liable as a contributory¹⁵.

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 74(1). Where a limited liability partnership is wound up, it is instead provided that every present and past member of the limited liability partnership who has agreed with the other members or with the partnership that he will, in circumstances which have arisen, be liable to contribute to the assets of the partnership in the event that the partnership goes into liquidation is liable, to the extent that he has so agreed, to contribute to its assets to any amount sufficient for payment of its debts and liabilities, and the expenses of the winding up, and for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves; and that a past member will only be liable if the obligation arising from such agreement survived his ceasing to be a member of the partnership: see s 74; the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES/705. Past members' liability to contribute; in general.

705. Past members' liability to contribute; in general.

A past member is not liable to contribute:

- 1120 (1) if he has ceased to be a member for one year or more before the commencement of the winding up¹;
- 1121 (2) in respect of any debt or liability of the company contracted after he ceased to be a member²; and
- 1122 (3) unless it appears to the court that the existing members are unable to satisfy the contributions required³ to be made by them⁴.

He may, however, be liable in other cases, and the fact that within the period of one year or more before the commencement of the winding up his shares have been forfeited or he has transferred them will not exempt him from liability⁵.

In most cases past members are not liable to contribute at all, for the present members are primarily liable to make all the contributions required, and it is only when they are unable to make those contributions that any past member is liable⁶. If in the case of a limited company the present members have contributed to the full extent of their limited liability, but their contributions are insufficient to discharge the company's liabilities, the past members are not liable to contribute because the liability on the shares which they held has been discharged by the payments made by their present holders⁷.

To ascertain the extent of the liability of each past member, the amount of the present members' contributions must first be ascertained and applied in payment of the company's debts, without regard to the date when the debts were contracted, and any debts then remaining unsatisfied must be classified in accordance with the dates at which they were severally contracted; when the liability of past members has been so ascertained, their contributions form part of the company's general assets, and must not be applied exclusively in payment of debts contracted before they ceased to be members, but must be applied in payment of all debts without regard to the dates at which these were contracted⁸.

If, before a past member has contributed to the assets, the debts in respect of which he is liable are in any way paid off or released, so that there remains no debt or liability contracted before he ceased to be a member, his liability to contribute is extinguished⁹; but he may be liable to contribute towards the costs incurred in ascertaining and recovering the amount of the contributions of the past members¹⁰. If the sums contributed by the past members are more than sufficient to pay the unsatisfied debts for which they are liable, the balance belongs to them¹¹. A past member is not liable to contribute for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves.

A past member is a 'member' for the purpose of the provisions postponing debts due to members¹².

706. Past members' liability to contribute where company has been re-registered.

In the case of a company being wound up which was at some former time registered as limited but has re-registered as unlimited¹, a person who, at the time when the application for the company to be re-registered was lodged, was a past member of the company and did not after that again become a member of it, is not liable to contribute to the assets of the company more than he would have been liable to contribute had the company not been so re-registered².

In the case of a company being wound up which was at some former time registered as unlimited but has re-registered as a public company³ or as a limited company⁴:

1123 (1) a past member of the company who was a member of it at the time of re-registration is liable to contribute to the assets of the company in respect of debts and liabilities contracted before that time, if the winding up commences within the period of three years beginning with the day on which the company was re-registered⁵; and

1124 (2) if no persons who were members of the company at the time of re-registration are existing members of it, a person who at that time was a present or past member is liable to contribute in respect of the company's debts and liabilities contracted before that time, notwithstanding that the existing members have satisfied the contributions required to be made by them⁶.

There is no limit on the amount which a person who, at the time of re-registration, was a past or present member is liable so to contribute⁷.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES/708. Married woman's liability to contribute.

708. Married woman's liability to contribute.

The liability of a married woman who is placed on the list of contributories as a holder of shares is in general the same as that of any other contributory¹.

¹ See the Law Reform (Married Women and Tortfeasors) Act 1935 s 1 (which provides that the contractual liability of a married woman is the same as that of a single woman); and MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW vol 72 (2009) PARA 204. As to the abolition of restraints on anticipation see the Married Women (Restraint upon Anticipation) Act 1949. The liability of a contributory creates a debt accruing due from him at the time when his liability commenced (see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 80; and para 718 post); this is the date when the contributory entered into the contract under which he became a member (Re Vaughan, ex p Canwell (1864) 4 De GJ & Sm 539; Williams v Harding (1866) LR 1 HL 9). Hence a married woman who on 1 August 1935 held partly paid shares may still be made liable as a contributory in respect of them only to the extent of her property, and her liability cannot be enforced in bankruptcy: see the Law Reform (Married Women and Tortfeasors) Act 1935 s 4(1)(c). For instances of the liability of a married woman, before the passing of that Act, to the extent of her separate property, see Belcher's Case [1883] WN 94; Re Leeds Banking Co, Matthewman's Case (1866) LR 3 Eq 781.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES/709. Bankrupt's liability to contribute.

709. Bankrupt's liability to contribute.

If a contributory¹ becomes bankrupt, either before or after he has been placed on the list of contributories, his trustee in bankruptcy represents him for all the purposes of the winding up, and is a contributory accordingly². The trustee may be called on to admit to proof against the estate of the bankrupt, or otherwise to allow to be paid out of the bankrupt's assets in due course of law, any money due from the bankrupt in respect of his liability to contribute to the company's assets³. The estimated value of the bankrupt's liability to future calls as well as calls already made may be proved against his estate⁴. If he becomes bankrupt after he has been placed on the list, his name remains on it, but he is represented by his trustee⁵.

If, however, the appointment of the trustee in bankruptcy takes place before the winding up commences, the bankrupt may not be placed on the list, nor may his trustee if he has disclaimed⁶ the shares⁷. Disclaimer determines all the bankrupt's rights and liabilities in respect of the shares, and thus operates in effect as a forfeiture; it discharges the trustee from personal liability as from the commencement of his trusteeship, but does not, except so far as is necessary for releasing the bankrupt and his property and the trustee from liability, affect the rights or liabilities of any other person⁸. If the shares are disclaimed, the liquidator may prove in the bankruptcy not only for all calls made before the disclaimer, but also for the damages caused by the disclaimer. Where it is probable that the whole amount unpaid on the disclaimed shares will have to be called up to liquidate the company's liabilities, and the shares are of no value, the measure of damages is the amount unpaid on the shares, and a proof may be brought in for that amount⁹.

Where a contributory who is also a creditor of the company becomes bankrupt after the commencement of the winding up, the debt due to him from the company must, under bankruptcy law¹⁰, be set off against calls, whichever way the balance may be, and whether the claim is made in the bankruptcy or in the winding up¹¹. If the debt due to the bankrupt from the company has been assigned either before the bankruptcy¹², or after the bankruptcy otherwise than for value¹³, the assignee stands in the same position as regards set-off as the bankrupt's estate would have done.

710. Death of a contributory.

If a contributory¹ dies, either before or after he has been placed on the list of contributories, his personal representatives are liable in a due course of administration to contribute to the company's assets in discharge of his liability, and are contributories accordingly². A deceased member or his estate remains a member for the purposes of the articles of association so long as his name remains on the register without notice to the company of his death³. If shares are registered in joint names, and one of the shareholders dies before winding up, his estate is not liable⁴.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/A. WHO ARE CONTRIBUTORIES/711. Personal representatives' liability to contribute.

711. Personal representatives' liability to contribute.

Personal representatives are not personally liable in respect of shares belonging to a deceased member unless they are registered¹ with their consent as holders of the shares. In that case they are so liable and may be placed on the list in their own right even though described as executors in the register², and the same principle applies in the case of any further shares to which the estate is entitled which they accept³. A notification by a person that he is an executor does not authorise the placing of his name on the register so as to make him personally liable⁴, nor does the receipt of dividends by him of itself amount to a personal acceptance of the shares⁵.

The liability of personal representatives placed on the list in their representative capacity is limited to the assets in their hands properly administered⁶.

If they make default in paying any money ordered to be paid by them in their representative capacity, proceedings may be taken for administering the estate of the deceased contributory, and for compelling payment out of it of the money due⁷.

If, without availing themselves of the protection by means of advertisements afforded by statute⁸, the personal representatives pay a legacy without providing for the contingent liability on shares retained by them, they are personally liable in respect of the shares to an amount not exceeding the legacy⁹. As against the legatee, however, they may claim repayment of the legacy, or so much of it as is necessary to meet the liquidator's claims, even if at the time of payment they had notice of the contingent liability¹⁰, but not if it had then become an ascertained liability¹¹. The fact that the personal representatives are protected by statute does not prevent the liquidator from compelling the legatee to refund the legacy¹².

B. CONTRIBUTORIES' LIABILITY IN GENERAL

715. Liability in case of limited company.

In the case of a company limited by shares, the liability of a member to pay the amount for the time being remaining unpaid on his shares, when properly called up, may be terminated only by payment in full¹. Thus persons to whom shares have been illegally allotted at a discount² may be called upon in a winding up to pay in cash for their shares, not only to meet the claims of outside creditors, but also to adjust the rights of the contributories among themselves³.

In the case of a company limited by guarantee, no contribution is required from any member exceeding the amount undertaken to be contributed by him to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up⁴. If, however, the company limited by guarantee has a share capital, every member of it is liable, in addition to the amount undertaken to be contributed to the assets, to contribute to the extent of any sums unpaid on any shares held by him⁵.

The members may, by agreement among themselves, undertake an independent or collateral liability more extensive than the statutory liability⁶. Such a liability cannot be enforced against them as contributories in the winding up⁷, but may be enforced by bringing a claim⁸.

In the winding up of a limited company, any director or manager, whether past or present, whose statutory liability is unlimited¹ is, in addition to his liability, if any, to contribute as an ordinary member, liable to make a further contribution as if at the commencement of the winding up he were a member of an unlimited company². A past director or manager is not, however, liable to make such further contribution if he has ceased to hold office for a year or more before the commencement of the winding up³, or in respect of any debt or liability of the company contracted after he ceased to hold office⁴. Subject to the company's articles of association, a director or manager is not liable to make such further contribution unless the court deems it necessary to require that contribution in order to satisfy the company's debts and liabilities and the expenses of the winding up⁵.

718. Nature of contributory's liability.

The liability of a contributory creates a debt in the nature of a specialty accruing due from him at the time when his liability commenced, but payable at the times when calls are made for enforcing the liability¹.

A sum due to any member¹ of the company in his character of a member² by way of dividends³, profits or otherwise⁴ is not deemed to be a debt of the company, payable to that member in a case of competition between himself and any other creditor not a member of the company, but any such sum may be taken into account for the purpose of the final adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves⁵. Sums due to a director in respect of remuneration under the articles are not sums due to him in his character of a member⁶. Sums due as damages for misrepresentation inducing a purchase of shares are not due in the character of a member⁷.

Court's power to settle list of contributories.

C. SETTLEMENT OF LIST OF CONTRIBUTORIES

720. Court's power to settle list of contributories.

As soon as may be after making a winding-up order the court must settle a list of contributories, with power to rectify the register of members in all cases where rectification is required in pursuance of the Companies Act 1985 or the Insolvency Act 1986¹; but, if it appears to the court that it will not be necessary to make calls on or adjust the rights of contributories, it may dispense with the settlement of such a list². In settling the list, the court must distinguish between the persons who are contributories in their own right and persons who are contributories as being representatives of, or liable for the debts of, others³.

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 148(1). As to placing holders of fully paid shares on the list see para 704 ante. There is no power to rectify the register of members under s 148(1) in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership: see s 148(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. 720 Court's power to settle list of contributories

TEXT AND NOTE 1--Insolvency Act 1986 s 148(1) amended: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/C. SETTLEMENT OF LIST OF CONTRIBUTORIES/721. Liquidator's duty to settle list of contributories.

721. Liquidator's duty to settle list of contributories.

The duty of settling the list of contributories has been delegated to the liquidator¹; but the liquidator may not rectify the register of members without the special leave of the court².

The liquidator must, as soon as may be after his appointment, exercise the court's power to settle a list of the company's contributories³ and, with the court's approval, rectify the register of members⁴. This duty of the liquidator is performed by him as an officer of the court subject to the court's control⁵.

The list must identify the several classes of the company's shares, if more than one, and the several classes of contributories, distinguishing between those who are contributories in their own right and those who are so as representatives of, or liable for the debts of, others⁶. In the case of each contributory, the list must contain a statement of his address, the number and class of shares, or the extent of any other interest to be attributed to him, and, if the shares are not fully paid up, the amounts which have been called up and paid in respect of them, and the equivalent, if any, where his interest is other than shares⁷. If the liquidator has already commenced a claim for calls, this does not preclude him from discontinuing and settling the defendant on the list; but the defendant's taxed costs of the claim will be deducted from the amount recovered⁸.

1 Insolventcy Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.195. As to the settlement of the list of contributories generally see rr 4.196-4.201; the text and notes 2-8 infra; and para 723 et seq post. As to the power to delegate see the Insolventcy Act 1986 s 160(1)(b); and para 588 ante.

5 Insolventcy Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.196(2).

6 Ibid r 4.197(1). The persons whose names are placed on the list in a representative capacity are the personal representatives or trustees in bankruptcy of persons who, when the winding up commenced, were registered members, but who, either before or after the commencement, have died or become bankrupt. In the absence of any provision in the articles as to the liability of joint holders of shares, the survivor at the commencement of the winding up is alone liable as a contributory, and the personal representatives of a deceased joint holder cannot be placed on the list: Re Maria Anna and Steinbank Coal and Coke Co, Maxwell's Case, Hill's Case (1875) 66 LJ Ch 675 at 681, CA. Where executors of a deceased shareholder had inquired into his liability and were informed that it was in respect of a limited number of shares, it was held that after the lapse of eight years they could not be placed on the list of contributories in respect of additional shares which the deceased had agreed to take: Meux's Executors' Case (1852) 2 De GM & G 522.

In many cases there is not only a list of present members ('the 'A' list'), but also a list of past members, who have ceased to be members within a year of the beginning of the winding up ('the 'B' list'). The liquidator may settle the 'A' list without application to the court. Before settling the 'B' list he must, however, apply to the court for directions, and the court, before directing the settlement of the 'B' list, must be satisfied that the present members will probably be unable to meet their obligations¹. When a duly executed transfer has been lodged shortly before the winding up and not registered, then, unless the company was in default in failing to register the transfer before the winding up, the transferor's name must be put on the 'A' list².

723. Procedure for settling list.

Having settled the list of contributories, the liquidator must forthwith give notice, to every person included in the list, that he has done so¹. The notice given to each person must state:

- 1130 (1) in what character, and for what number of shares or what interest, he is included in the list²;
- 1131 (2) what amounts have been called up and paid up in respect of the shares or interest³; and
- 1132 (3) that in relation to any shares or interest not fully paid up, his inclusion in the list may result in the unpaid capital being called⁴.

The notice must inform any person to whom it is given that, if he objects to any entry in, or omission from, the list, he should so inform the liquidator in writing within 21 days from the date of the notice⁵.

On receipt of any such objection, the liquidator must within 14 days give notice to the objector either that he has amended the list, specifying the amendment, or that he considers the objection to be not well-founded and declines to amend the list; and the notice must in either case inform the objector of his right⁶ to apply to the court for variation of the list⁷.

724. Application to court for variation of the list.

If a person objects to any entry in, or exclusion from, the list of contributories as settled by the liquidator and, notwithstanding notice by the liquidator declining to amend the list, maintains his objection, he may apply to the court for an order removing the entry to which he objects or, as the case may be, otherwise amending the list¹. The application must be made within 21 days of the service on the applicant of the liquidator's notice² that he has amended or declined to amend the list³. Where a person has successfully applied for the removal of his name from the list in one capacity, the liquidator cannot on the same application apply for his retention in another capacity to which no reference is made in the list⁴.

The official receiver is not personally liable for any costs incurred by a person in respect of an application to set aside or vary his act or decision in settling the list of contributories, or varying or adding to the list; and the liquidator, if other than the official receiver, is not so liable unless the court makes an order to that effect⁵.

729. Principles guiding the court.

The principles upon which the court exercises the power of rectifying the register of members after the commencement of a winding up¹ are similar to those upon which it exercises the power of rectifying the register while the company is a going concern². Where, however, a person whose name is duly entered on the register as a member at the date of the commencement of the winding up seeks to have his name removed on the ground that, although he agreed to become a member, the agreement is voidable at his option, as, for example, where the contract was induced by fraud, it is necessary that he should have definitely and effectively repudiated the agreement before the winding up commenced, and followed up his repudiation by active measures to have his name removed from the register³; but, if the purported agreement was wholly void and not merely voidable, rectification may be obtained, even though no steps are taken before winding up⁴. The rectification may be made retrospectively if no injustice will thereby be done to third parties⁵.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(v) Contributories/D. RECTIFICATION OF REGISTER OF MEMBERS AND LIST OF CONTRIBUTORIES/730. Where rectification will be ordered.

730. Where rectification will be ordered.

The court may rectify the register of members and, if necessary, the list of contributories, where, without sufficient cause¹, a person's name is entered in or omitted from the register or list, or if default has been made or unnecessary delay has taken place² in entering on the register the fact of any person's having ceased to be a member³. The court must inquire into the circumstances of the case and consider what equity the applicant has to call for its interposition⁴. Where a transfer has not been registered, or an informal transfer has been registered, before winding up, owing to the company's default, the court will not, at the liquidator's instance, rectify the register⁵, although it will do so on the application of the transferor or transferee by substituting the transferee's name for that of the transferor⁶. It will not, however, do so where there has been no default or unnecessary delay on the company's part⁷. Where a sale and transfer of shares are made after the winding-up order, the court will direct the registration of the transfer only if it is for the benefit of the company or of those interested in its assets⁸.

If a person's name is improperly entered or omitted, it must be considered to be entered or omitted without sufficient cause within the meaning of the enactment⁹. A person's name is deemed to be entered on the register without sufficient cause if it has been originally registered without his authority¹⁰ and he has not assented to it¹¹. Where shareholders' names have been improperly removed from the register before a winding up commenced, the court will rectify the register on the liquidator's application, by replacing their names¹².

In the absence of a clause in the articles empowering the directors to reject a transferee of whom they disapprove¹³, a transfer before the commencement of the liquidation¹⁴ is good even though it is made for the purpose of escaping liability, provided that it is an out-and-out transfer reserving to the transferor no beneficial right¹⁵. A transferor cannot, however, transfer the burden while reserving the benefit attaching to his shares¹⁶. A transfer is not necessarily invalidated by the fact that the transferor pays money to the transferee¹⁷ or covenants to indemnify him, though the existence of a covenant of indemnity may be material in determining whether the transferor has reserved the benefit¹⁸. Where the articles empower the directors to reject a transferee of whom they do not approve, the transferor cannot escape liability if he has actively by falsehood or passively by concealment induced them to pass and register a transfer which they would otherwise have refused to register¹⁹. A misdescription of the transferee does not of itself invalidate a transfer²⁰. Whether or not the articles confer on the directors a power to reject a transferee of whom they do not approve, the transferor cannot escape liability where he has obtained the opportunity of executing and registering his transfer fraudulently, for example by procuring the postponement of the commencement of the winding up, or where by collusion with the directors he has induced them to pass the transfer in breach of duty to the company²¹. Where the transfer is out-and-out, the liquidator cannot set up any right to have the transfer set aside, for example on the ground of fraudulent misrepresentation, which the transferee may have against the transferor²². Where, with intent to deceive a company, a person takes shares in the name of a fictitious person or of some other person without his authority, the liquidator may place his name on the list of contributories, and the court will rectify the register of members and, if necessary, the list of contributories²³.

Rectification by substituting the name of a beneficiary for that of his registered trustee cannot be obtained¹, unless the trustee was a minor² when the winding up commenced³. A transferor will be substituted for the transferee on the liquidator's application where the transferee was a minor when the winding up commenced⁴, unless the company has been guilty of laches⁵. After the company has once obtained an adult member, a prior transfer to a minor cannot be avoided, and the transferor to the minor cannot be placed on the 'B' list⁶.

The liquidator could not, by reason of the limitation on the liability of a married woman contributory before the passing of the Law Reform (Married Women and Tortfeasors) Act 1935⁷, have the name of a husband substituted for that of a wife, even though she had no separate estate and the shares were given to her by him⁸.

Where a person makes a binding agreement with a company to take shares but his name is not entered on the register as the holder, the register may be rectified and his name entered on the list of contributories¹. An agreement by a person to 'place' shares is not an agreement to accept an allotment, and his name cannot be entered on the register or list². Where fully paid shares have been given to a director as a bribe, he cannot be placed on the list in respect of those shares as if they were unpaid³, but he may be placed on the list in respect of shares which he agreed to take but which he purported to pay for with money obtained from the vendor to the company⁴. A shareholder's name will be taken off the register after winding up commenced where there was no contract by him to take the shares⁵.

E. CALLS

733. When calls may be made.

At any time after making a winding-up order and either before or after it has ascertained whether the company's assets will be sufficient, the court may make calls on all or any of the contributories for the time being settled on the list of the contributories, to the extent of their liability, for payment of any money which it considers necessary to satisfy the company's debts and liabilities and the expenses of winding up, and for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves, and may make an order for payment of any calls so made¹. In making a call, the court may take into consideration the probability that some of the contributories may partly or wholly fail to pay it².

The call may be made before or after ascertaining what claims against the company will be established as debts³, but the list of contributories must first have been settled⁴. The liquidator may be authorised to accept payment by instalments⁵. Shareholders are liable to pay calls made in the winding up even though, by the contract under which they took their shares, the calls are payable only by instalments, and the date for payments has not arrived⁶.

734. Liquidator's power to make calls.

In a winding up by the court, the court's powers in relation to making calls are exercisable by the liquidator as an officer of the court subject to the court's control, but only with the court's leave or the liquidation committee's sanction¹, and subject to the following provisions².

Where the liquidator proposes to make a call, and there is a liquidation committee, he may summon a meeting of the committee for the purpose of obtaining its sanction³; and at least seven days' notice of the meeting must be given by the liquidator to each member of the committee⁴. The notice must contain a statement of the proposed amount of the call, and the purpose for which it is intended to be made⁵.

For the purpose of obtaining the leave of the court for the making of a call on any contributories of the company, the liquidator must apply without notice, supporting his application by affidavit⁶. There must in the application be stated the amount of the proposed call, and the contributories on whom it is to be made⁷. RIGHTS OF CONTRIBUTORIES IN REGARD TO THE DEBTS DUE FROM AND TO THE COMPANY/737. Shareholder's claim as creditor.

F. RIGHTS OF CONTRIBUTORIES IN REGARD TO THE DEBTS DUE FROM AND TO THE COMPANY

737. Shareholder's claim as creditor.

A shareholder who is liable for unpaid calls cannot receive a dividend on a debt due to him by the company¹, but, when he has paid all calls which have become due, he is entitled to a dividend on the amount of any debt owing to him from the company pari passu with the other creditors².

A shareholder who claims as assignee of a debt due by the company may prove for the debt in competition with other creditors even if he is still liable for unpaid calls³, and even if he has bought up the debt for less than its full amount⁴; but, if after the winding up commences⁵ he assigns a debt due to him from the company, his assignee cannot receive any dividend upon it unless and until the shareholder has paid all calls due⁶. Where the assignment is made before the winding up commenced, the assignee is entitled to any dividend on the debt that may be declared, notwithstanding the non-payment by his assignor of calls on shares due from him to the company⁷. A shareholder whose shares have been improperly forfeited and sold may prove for damages in competition with creditors⁸.

A contributory who petitions for and obtains a winding-up order is entitled to be paid the costs of his petition before paying any calls due from him to the company⁹.

738. Set-off by contributory.

In a winding up a contributory cannot set off a debt owing to him by the company against a call¹, whether made before or after the winding up²; but his trustee in bankruptcy may do so³, and so may the assignee of a bankrupt contributory, even though the debt was assigned before the bankruptcy but after the winding up commenced⁴.

Where a company in liquidation is both a creditor and a shareholder of another company in liquidation, it cannot, even when insolvent, set off against calls made by the liquidator of the other company a debt owing to it by that company⁵ or take any dividend on the debt until it has paid up all calls in full⁶. A member who holds shares in trust for the company cannot set off against a call a claim to indemnity⁷. An agreement that any sum which a shareholder may be called upon to pay in respect of a guarantee by him of the company's debts must be treated at his option as a payment in advance of calls does not give him a right to set off payments made under the guarantee against calls subsequently made after the winding up has commenced⁸.

In the case of an unlimited company, where a contributory is ordered¹ to pay money due from him or the estate of the person whom he represents, not being money payable by virtue of a call², the court may allow to him, by way of set-off, any money due from the company to him or the estate which he represents on any independent dealing or contract with it, but not money due to him as a member in respect of any dividend or profit³.

In the case of a limited company, the court may make a similar allowance to any director or manager whose liability is unlimited, or to his estate⁴.

G. ORDERS AGAINST CONTRIBUTORIES

741. Orders against contributories.

Money payable on shares upon the terms of allotment or in respect of calls made before the winding-up order may be due when the winding up commences¹. At any time after making a winding-up order, the court may make an order against any contributory for the time being on the list of contributories² to pay, in manner directed by the order, any money due to the company from him, or from the estate of the person whom he represents, exclusive of any money payable by him or the estate by virtue of any call³.

The order may be enforced in the same way as a judgment or order of the court made in the exercise of its ordinary jurisdiction⁴, but it is not a judgment, and the right of action in respect of the amount due is not merged in or destroyed by the order, and may be sued upon⁵.

The court may order any contributory from whom money is due to the company to pay the amount into the Bank of England, or any branch of it, to the account of the liquidator instead of to the liquidator, and any such order may be enforced in the same manner as if it had directed payment to the liquidator⁶.

The liquidator in a winding up by the court has power to sell the company's property¹ by public auction or private contract, as a whole or in parcels², and to do all acts and to execute, in its name and on its behalf, all deeds, receipts and other documents, for which purpose he may use its seal when necessary³. The power may be exercised without the sanction of the court or of the liquidation committee⁴, although the exercise of the power is subject to the control of the court, and any creditor or contributory may apply to the court with respect to any exercise or proposed exercise of it⁵. The liquidator himself may apply to the court for directions as to the sale⁶. The property may be sold to a new company so as to effect a reconstruction, and the sale may be for a consideration other than cash⁷. A claim for misfeasance against directors or promoters may be sold⁸.

Since, in the absence of a special order¹, the property is not vested in the liquidator², he is not a necessary party to conveyances or transfers made by the company in liquidation unless a vesting order has been made. In practice a company in liquidation does not normally give any covenants for title, the conveyance or transfer providing that no covenants for title express or implied, whether by statute or otherwise, are given by the company. Even if the company were to give such covenants, they would be of little value as the company will eventually be dissolved.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(10) PROPERTY AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG CREDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORIES/(vii) Carrying on the Company's Business/747. Permission necessary to carry on the business.

(vii) Carrying on the Company's Business

747. Permission necessary to carry on the business.

With the sanction either of the court or of the liquidation committee¹, the liquidator may carry on the company's business so far as may be necessary² for the beneficial winding up of the company³. He cannot, however, carry on the business with the view of making a profit for the company⁴ or of facilitating reconstruction⁵. Contracts may be made for the purposes of the beneficial winding up of the company⁶, and the onus of proving that a contract is not beneficial lies upon the party objecting to it⁷. Debts and liabilities incurred in the course of carrying on the business for those purposes are in the nature of salvage and rank for payment in priority to the company's general debts and liabilities⁸. The liquidator is also entitled in priority to his proper remuneration⁹.

The rules impose on liquidators and members of the liquidation committee and their associates restrictions against receiving the company's property or deriving profits from the administration of the estate unless certain conditions are satisfied¹⁰.

1 See para 578 ante. Such sanction is not generally required in a voluntary winding up: see para 960 post.

2 'Necessary' means that the carrying on of the business must not merely be beneficial but something more, though the necessity must be determined by the court which is asked to give its sanction, having regard to all the circumstances of the case: Re Wreck Recovery and Salvage Co (1880) 15 ChD 353 at 360, CA. The liquidator's conduct is not to be judged by an objective standard set up after the event; it is sufficient if in good faith he reasonably forms the opinion that the carrying on of the business is necessary for the beneficial winding up of the company: Re Great Eastern Electric Co Ltd [1941] Ch 241 at 246, [1941] 1 All ER 409 at 412.

3 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 167(1)(a), Sch 4 para 5; and para 578 ante. In view of the existence of this power, a company cannot be treated as incapacitated from fulfilling a contract merely because it has gone into liquidation: British Waggon Co v Lea (1880) 5 QBD 149. 438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(11) PROOF OF DEBTS/(i) Provable Debts/749. What debts are provable; meaning of 'debt' and 'liability'.

(11) PROOF OF DEBTS

(i) Provable Debts

749. What debts are provable; meaning of 'debt' and 'liability'.

All claims by creditors are provable as debts against the company whether they are present or future¹, certain or contingent², ascertained or sounding only in damages³. Any obligation arising under a confiscation order⁴ is, however, not provable⁵; and certain claims⁶ are not provable except at a time when all other claims of creditors in the winding up have been paid in full with interest⁷. Notwithstanding these provisions, proof cannot be made where under any enactment or rule of law a particular kind of debt is not provable, whether on grounds of public policy or otherwise⁸.

In relation to the winding up of a company, 'debt' means any of:

- 1133 (1) any debt or liability to which the company is subject at the date on which it goes into liquidation⁹;
- 1134 (2) any debt or liability to which the company may become subject after that date by reason of any obligation incurred before that date¹⁰; and
- 1135 (3) any interest provable¹¹.

In determining¹² whether any liability in tort is a debt provable in the winding up, the company is deemed to become subject to that liability by reason of an obligation incurred at the time when the cause of action accrued¹³.

It is immaterial¹⁴ whether the debt or liability is present or future, whether it is certain or contingent, or whether its amount is fixed or liquidated, or is capable of being ascertained by fixed rules or as a matter of opinion¹⁵; and, subject to this, 'liability'¹⁶ means a liability to pay money or money's worth, including any liability under an enactment, any liability for breach of trust, any liability in contract, tort or bailment, and any liability arising out of an obligation to make restitution¹⁷.

The right of proof cannot be insisted upon in every case; it is a well established principle that there cannot be two proofs in respect of one debt, and this is so even if there are separate contracts in respect of the same debt¹⁸.

1 As to future claims see para 796 post.

2 As to contingent claims and claims bearing an uncertain value see para 790 post. Claims for unassessed costs are provable: Tottenham Hotspur plc v Edennote plc [1995] 1 BCLC 65, [1994] BCC 681.

752. Breach of contracts of service.

The making of a winding-up order¹ operates as a wrongful dismissal of the company's employees, and they may prove for damages for breach of the contract of service². Where by the contract a fixed sum is to be paid to an employee by way of liquidated damages in case the contract is determined before the expiration of the term of service, proof is allowed for the agreed sum³. If, however, the sum is fixed very much in excess of the damage suffered, the court will treat it as a penalty and will not allow a claim for the whole amount, but will give the employee leave to prove on the principles mentioned below⁴. Where no sum is fixed, proof is allowed for the present value of the salary for the remainder of the term, less a deduction in respect of the employee's being at liberty to obtain other employment⁵.

Where an agent is to be paid partly by salary and partly by a commission on business done, he is not as a rule entitled to prove for loss of commission⁶. The question whether he may recover damages for loss of commission depends on the construction of the contract and the actual loss suffered; and, where payment is entirely by commission, proof may be allowed in respect of commission which might have been earned during the remainder of the period of service fixed by the agreement⁷.

759. Landlords' rights.

Before the date of winding up the company may have owned leasehold property which it has subsequently assigned, or it may still be the owner of such property at the date of its winding up. In this case, there are three possible ways in which the liquidator may deal with it:

- 1136 (1) if the lease is a beneficial one, or at any rate not onerous, he may assign it for value;
- 1137 (2) if the lease is an onerous one, he may disclaim it under the statutory power on giving notice in the prescribed form¹; and
- 1138 (3) he may continue in beneficial occupation of the property comprised in the lease.

Where the property has been assigned, whether before or after the liquidation, then, if the company was in the position of an original tenant, so that upon the eventual dissolution of the company the landlord will lose the benefit of its covenant to pay the rent and perform the obligations of the lease during the remainder of the term, the landlord may prove for his loss, to be measured by the difference in the market value of his reversion with and without the company's covenant². If the company was not, or was not in the position of, an original tenant, the assignor of the lease to the company will similarly be entitled to prove for the value of the loss of its covenant of indemnity³. As an alternative to the landlord's proving, the court has a discretion to order the setting aside of a fund to meet the company's contingent obligations under its covenants; but the court will not make such an order save in the most exceptional circumstances⁴.

Where the liquidator disclaims, the landlord, if injured, is deemed to be a creditor of the company and may prove for his loss accordingly⁵; and the landlord may also prove for his loss if he is willing to accept a surrender, if he is allowed to prove⁶.

Where the liquidator continues in occupation for the benefit of the liquidation⁷, the landlord is entitled to receive his rent in full, and to have the covenants of the lease performed. Therefore, although he may prove only for rent accrued and breaches of covenant before the date of the proof⁸, the landlord may enter a claim for the whole of the company's future obligations under the lease⁹. Although he is not entitled to an immediate dividend, at the rate paid to other creditors, on the amount of this claim, distribution of the assets amongst contributories will not be allowed until a sufficient fund has been set aside to meet all his future claims¹⁰.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(11) PROOF OF DEBTS/(i) Provable Debts/760. Guarantees; other claims.

760. Guarantees; other claims.

When a guarantee limits a surety's liability to a fixed sum, the surety may be liable either to pay a limited sum towards the ultimate balance remaining due after all money obtainable from other sources has been applied in reducing the debt of the principal debtor or as surety for a part of the debt only¹. In the former case, the creditor has the right to prove against the company for the whole of his debt until he has received 100 pence in the pound, notwithstanding that he has received some payment from the surety; and the surety has not by reason of that payment any right of proof in preference or priority to the creditor². The creditor is not entitled to the benefit of a security obtained by the surety from the debtor, and so need have no regard to it in his proof³.

A creditor may not prove against the estate of an insolvent surety on his guarantee. He must, however, establish the surety's liability, and, in the absence of agreement, this cannot be done merely by showing that the debtor has admitted the debt, or that judgment for it has been signed against him⁴. The creditor must give credit for any amount which he has realised before proving, or for dividends which have been declared in the principal debtor's insolvency, even if not actually received⁵; but, where there are several sureties jointly and severally liable, the creditor is entitled to prove against the insolvent surety's estate for the whole of the debt, without giving credit for any sums received from the other co-sureties since the date of the winding-up order, provided that he does not recover more than 100 pence in the pound in all⁶. Money deposited with the creditor by a co-surety, to be appropriated by the creditor when he thinks fit towards payment, so far as it will go, of the debt, need not be deducted when the creditor proves against the surety's estate before the appropriation⁷.

A surety cannot exercise a right of proof in the debtor's winding up, so long as the principal creditor has not been paid in full in respect of the debt guaranteed and has himself proved or is entitled to prove⁸.

A surety has a right of proof against a co-surety for a just proportion of the debt when he has paid the creditor's debt and taken an assignment of his securities⁹; and, even if he has not paid the creditor, and his liability has not been ascertained, he will have a right to a declaration that, when he has paid more than his due proportion, the co-surety must contribute, and in respect of that right he will be entitled to prove against the co-surety's estate¹⁰.

Other claims which are provable in a winding up, including claims of an uncertain value, claims under negotiable instruments, debts in foreign currency, payments of a periodical nature, claims for interest, future debts, and claims by secured creditors, are considered elsewhere in this title¹¹.

763. Preferential debts generally.

A reference in the Insolvency Act 1986 to the preferential debts of a company is a reference to contributions to occupational pension schemes, the remuneration etc of employees, and levies on coal and steel production¹. In a winding up², the company's preferential debts must be paid in priority to all other³ debts⁴. Preferential debts rank equally among themselves after the expenses of the winding up⁵ and must be paid in full, unless the assets are insufficient to meet them, in which case they abate in equal proportions⁶. So far as the assets of the company available for payment of general creditors are insufficient to meet them, preferential debts have priority over the claims of holders of debentures secured by, or holders of, any floating charge created by the company, and must be paid accordingly out of any property comprised in or subject to that charge⁷.

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 386(1) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 251(3)). As to contributions to occupational pension schemes see para 767 post; as to the remuneration etc of employees see para 769 post; and as to levies on coal and steel production see para 768 post. 764. Debts due to the Inland Revenue.

Debts due to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue¹ no longer constitute preferential debts, except in relation to insolvency proceedings initiated before 15 September 2003². In those circumstances, sums due at the relevant date³ from the company: (1) on account of deductions⁴ of income tax from taxable earnings⁵ paid during the period of 12 months next before that date⁶; and (2) in respect of such deductions as are required to be made by the company for that period under the statutory provisions⁷ relating to sub-contractors in the construction industry⁸, are debts due to the Commissioners which constitute preferential debts.

1 As to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(1) (Reissue) para 31 et seq.

2 The Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 paras 1, 2, (as amended), which provided that debts due to the Inland Revenue were preferential debts for the purposes of the Act, have been repealed subject to the proviso that they continue to have effect in relation to insolvency proceedings initiated before 15 September 2003 (ie in the circumstances described in para 763 note 1 ante): see the Enterprise Act 2002 ss 251(1)(a), 278(2), Sch 26; and the Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 3(2)(a), (3). As to preferential debts generally see para 763 ante.

3 Where a company is being wound up in circumstances where money owed to the Inland Revenue for income tax deducted at source, value added tax, insurance premium tax, landfill tax, climate change levy, aggregates levy, car tax, beer duty, betting and gaming duties (including lottery duty), air passenger duty, and social security contributions continue to constitute preferential debts (ie in the circumstances set out in para 763 note 1 ante), 'the relevant date' is: (1) where the company is being wound up by the court and the winding-up order was made immediately upon the discharge of an administration order, the date of the making of the administration order; (2) if the winding up is by the court and the winding-up order was made following conversion of administration into winding up by virtue of EC Council Regulation 1346/2000 (OJ L160, 30.6.2000, p 1) on insolvency proceedings ('the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings') art 37, the date of the making of the administration order; (3) if the company is deemed to have passed a resolution for voluntary winding up by virtue of an order following conversion of administration into winding up under art 37, the date of the making of the administration order; (4) if not a case falling within head (1), (2) or (3) supra, where the company is being wound up by the court and had not commenced to be wound up voluntarily before the date of the making of the winding-up order, the date of the appointment, or first appointment, of a provisional liquidator or, if no such appointment has been made, the date of the winding-up order; (5) if none of heads (1) to (4) supra applies, the relevant date is the date of the passing of the resolution for the winding up of the company (or, in the case of insolvency proceedings concerning a limited liability partnership, the making of the determination by the partnership that it be wound up voluntarily): Insolvency Act 1986 s 387(1), (3) (s 387(3) amended by the Insolvency Act 1986 (Amendment) (No 2) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1240); Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 3(2)(a), (3). As to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings see para 46 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante; and see para 1309 post.

4 The deductions referred to are those which the company was liable to make under PAYE regulations, less the amount of the repayments of income tax which the debtor was liable to make during that period: see the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 para 1 (amended by the Income Tax (Earnings and Pensions) Act 2003 s 722, Sch 6 para 154). 768. Levies on coal and steel production.

Any sums due at the relevant date¹ from the company² in respect of the levies on the production of coal and steel³ or any surcharge for delay⁴ constitute preferential debts⁵.

1 'The relevant date' is: (1) where the company is being wound up by the court and the winding-up order was made immediately upon the discharge of an administration order, the date on which the company entered administration; (2) if the winding up is by the court and the winding up order was made following conversion of administration into winding up by virtue of EC Council Regulation 1346/2000 (OJ L160, 30.6.2000, p 1) on insolvency proceedings ('the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings') art 37, the date on which the company entered administration; (3) if the company is deemed to have passed a resolution for voluntary winding up by virtue of an order following conversion of administration into winding up under art 37, the date on which the company entered administration; (4) if not a case falling within head (1), (2) or (3) supra, where the company is being wound up by the court and had not commenced to be wound up voluntarily before the date of the making of the winding-up order, the date of the appointment, or first appointment, of a provisional liquidator or, if no such appointment has been made, the date of the winding-up order; (5) if not a case falling within head (1), (2), (3) or (4) supra and the company is being wound up following administration pursuant to the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch B1 para 83 (as added), the date on which the company entered administration; (6) if none of heads (1) to (5) supra applies, the relevant date is the date of the passing of the resolution for the winding up of the company: Insolvency Act 1986 s 387(1), (3) (s 387(3) amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 34(1), (3); and by the Insolvency Act 1986 (Amendment) (No 2) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1240). The amendment of these provisions does not apply in relation to special administration regimes (see para 145 ante) or where a petition for an administration order has been presented before 15 September 2003: Insolvency Act 1986 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 3(2)(a). In this case, head (5) does not apply, and all references to the date on which the company entered administration are to be read as references to the date on which the administration order was made. As to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings see para 46 et seq ante.

In relation to a company which is in administration and to which no other provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 387 (as amended) applies, the relevant date is the date on which the company enters administration: Insolvency Act 1986 s 387(1), (3A) (s 387(3A) added by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 34(1), (4)). The addition of this provision does not apply in relation to special administration regimes or where a petition for an administration order has been presented before 15 September 2003: Insolvency Act 1986 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 3(2)(a).

3 Ie the levies referred to in the Treaty Establishing the European Coal and Steel Community (Paris, 18 April 1951; TS 16 (1979); Cmnd 7461) ('the ECSC Treaty'), arts 49, 50.

4 Ie any surcharge for delay provided for in the ECSC Treaty art 50(3); ECSC High Authority Decision 3-52, art 6.

5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 386(1), Sch 6 para 15A (s 386(1) amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 251(3), subject to the savings set out in para 763 note 1 ante); Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 para 15A added by the Insolvency (ECSC Levy Debts) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/2093, reg 2(1)). As to preferential debts generally see para 763 ante. The Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 para 15A (as added) has effect in relation to a company whether the relevant date is a date falling before or after 1 January 1988, but does not affect any declaration or payment of a dividend made before that date: Insolvency (ECSC Levy Debts) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/2093, reg 2(3). Where the payment of preferential debts falls to be regulated by the law in force at any time before 29 December 1986, there must be treated as included among those debts any sums due from the company at the relevant date in respect of such levies or any such surcharge for delay: reg 4(1). In this provision, 'the relevant date' means the date by reference to which the company's preferential debts fall to be ascertained in accordance with the law referred to in reg 4(1): reg 4(2).

Orders made under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 para 9 or Sch 6 para 12 (see the text and notes 8-10 infra) may contain such transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State necessary or expedient and must be made by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Sch 6 para 16. The amount prescribed for the purposes of Sch 6 paras 9, 12 is £800: Insolvency Proceedings (Monetary Limits) Order 1986, SI 1986/1996, art 4. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

5 In a case in which a person's employment has been terminated by or in consequence of his employer going into liquidation, holiday remuneration is deemed to have accrued to that person in respect of any period of employment if, by virtue of that person's contract of employment or of any enactment or of an order or direction made under an enactment, that remuneration would have accrued in respect of that period if that person's employment had continued until he became entitled to be allowed the holiday: Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 para 14. For the meaning of 'go into liquidation' see para 9 note 3 ante. This provision also applies in a case in which a person's employment has been terminated, where his employer is a company not in liquidation, by or in consequence of: (1) a receiver being appointed as mentioned in s 40 (debenture holders secured by a floating charge: see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1334); (2) the appointment of a receiver under s 53(6) or s 54(5) (Scottish company with property subject to a floating charge); or (3) the taking of possession by debenture holders (so secured) as mentioned in the Companies Act 1985 s 196 (see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1334): Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 6 para 14(1)(a)-(c).

Without prejudice to these provisions, any remuneration payable by the company to a person in respect of a period of holiday is deemed to be wages or, as the case may be, salary in respect of services rendered to the company in that period; and, for these purposes, references to remuneration in respect of a period of holiday include any sums which, if they had been paid, would have been treated for the purposes of the enactments relating to social security as earnings in respect of that period: Sch 6 para 15. As to the enactments relating to social security see SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS.

7 Ibid Sch 6 para 11. Whether a wages cheque drawn by a company on an overdrawn account is regarded as paid out of money advanced for the purpose depends upon the way in which the account is kept: see Re Primrose (Builders) Ltd [1950] Ch 561, [1950] 2 All ER 334 (where payments credited to an account were not regarded as appropriated to sums advanced by a bank for wages); Re EJ Morel (1934) Ltd [1962] Ch 21, [1961] 1 All ER 796 (current account and wages account interdependent; contrary result). 772. Priority of secured debts.

Preferential debts¹ have no preference or priority over the claims of secured creditors in relation to their securities², except that, so far as the assets of the company available for payment of general creditors are insufficient to meet preferential debts, they have priority over the claims of holders of debentures secured by, or holders of, any floating charge created by the company³, and must be paid accordingly out of any property comprised in or subject to that charge⁴.

Where, in the case of a company which is being wound up by the court in England and Wales, and without prejudice to the provisions relating to the avoidance of attachments and distress⁵, any person, whether or not a landlord or person entitled to rent, has distrained upon the goods or effects of the company in the period of three months ending with the date of the winding-up order, those goods or effects, or the proceeds of their sale, are charged for the benefit of the company with the preferential debts of the company to the extent that the property of the company is for the time being insufficient for meeting them⁶. Where, by virtue of any such charge, any person surrenders any goods or effects to a company or makes a payment to a company, then, in respect of the amount of the proceeds of sale of those goods or effects by the liquidator of the company, or, as the case may be, the amount of the payment, that person ranks as a preferential creditor of the company, except as against so much of the company's property as is available for the payment of preferential creditors by virtue of the surrender or payment⁷.

772 Priority of secured debts

NOTE 3--However, see now the Insolvency Act 1986 s 176ZA (added by the Companies Act 2006 s 1282(1)) under which property subject to a floating charge may, where necessary, be used to fund the general expenses of winding up in priority to the floating charge holder and to any preferential creditors to be paid out of that property.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(11) PROOF OF DEBTS/(ii) Priority of Debts/773. Share of assets for unsecured creditors.

773. Share of assets for unsecured creditors.

Where a floating charge¹ relates to property of a company which has gone into liquidation, which is in administration, of which there is a provisional liquidator or of which there is a receiver, the liquidator, administrator or receiver, as the case may be, must make a prescribed² part of the company's net property³ available for the satisfaction of unsecured debts⁴ and must not distribute that part to the proprietor of a floating charge except in so far as it exceeds the amount required for the satisfaction of unsecured debts⁵.

These provisions do not apply to a company:

- 1148 (1) if the company's property is less than the prescribed minimum⁶ and the liquidator, receiver or administrator, as the case may be, thinks that the cost of making a distribution to unsecured creditors would be disproportionate to the benefits⁷;
- 1149 (2) if and in so far as they are disapplied by a voluntary arrangement⁸ in respect of the company⁹ or a compromise or arrangement¹⁰ agreed with creditors and members¹¹; or
- 1150 (3) if the liquidator, administrator or receiver applies to the court¹² for an order on the ground that the cost of making a distribution to unsecured creditors would be disproportionate to the benefits¹³ and the court orders that the provisions do not apply¹⁴.

The costs associated with the prescribed part must be paid out of the prescribed part¹⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'floating charge' means a charge which is a floating charge on its creation and which is created after the first order under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 176A(2)(a) (as added) (see the text and notes 2-4 infra) comes into force: s 176A(9) (s 176A added by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 252). The Insolvency Act 1986 s 176A has effect from 15 September 2003 (see the Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, art 2(1), Sch 1.

2 'Prescribed' means prescribed by order of the Secretary of State: Insolvency Act 1986 s 176A(9) (as added: see note 1 supra). Such an order must be made by statutory instrument and must be subject to annulment pursuant to a resolution of either House of Parliament (s 176A(8) (as so added)) and may include transitional or incidental provision (s 176A(9) (as so added)). An order prescribing part of a company's net property may, in particular, provide for its calculation as a percentage of the company's net property or as an aggregate of different percentages of different parts of the company's net property: s 176A(7) (as so added). As to the effect of the orders made under these provisions see notes 4, 6 infra. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

3 For these purposes, a company's net property is the amount of its property which would, but for ibid s 176A (as added), be available for satisfaction of claims of holders of debentures secured by, or holders of, any floating charge created by the company: s 176A(6) (as added: see note 1 supra).

4 Ibid s 176A(2)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra). The prescribed part of the company's net property to be made available for the satisfaction of unsecured debts of the company pursuant to ibid s 176A (as added) must be calculated as follows: (1) where the company's net property does not exceed £10,000 in value, 50% of that property; (2) where the company's net property exceeds £10,000 in value, the sum of 50% of the first £10,000 in value and 20% of that part of the company's net property which exceeds £10,000 in value (subject to a maximum of £600,000): Insolvency Act 1986 (Prescribed Part) Order 2003, SI 2003/2097, art 3. As to the making of orders see note 2 supra.

- 5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 176A(2)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra).
- 6 Ibid s 176A(3)(a) (as added: see note 1 supra). The minimum value of the company's net property is £10,000: Insolvency Act 1986 (Prescribed Part) Order 2003, SI 2003/2097, art 2.

(iii) Procedure for Proving

775. Meaning of 'prove'.

Where a company is being wound up by the court, a person claiming to be a creditor of the company and wishing to recover his debt¹ in whole or in part must² submit his claim in writing to the liquidator³. A creditor who claims, whether or not in writing, is referred to as 'proving' for his debt; and a document by which he seeks to establish his claim is his 'proof'⁴.

A proof must be in the form known as 'proof of debt', whether the form prescribed or a substantially similar form, which must be made out by or under the directions of the creditor, and signed by him or a person authorised in that behalf⁵. Where a debt is due to a Minister of the Crown or a government department, the proof need not be in that form, provided that there are shown all such particulars of the debt as are required in the form used by other creditors, and as are relevant in the circumstances⁶.

In certain circumstances⁷ the proof must be in the form of an affidavit⁸.

Where a winding up is immediately preceded by an administration, a creditor proving in the administration shall be deemed to have proved in the winding up⁹.

1 For the meaning of 'debt' see para 749 ante.

2 The subject to any order of the court under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.67(2): see para 668 ante. 776. Limitation of time for proving.

The court may fix a time or times within which creditors are to prove their debts or claims or to be excluded from the benefit of any distribution made before those debts are proved¹. This power may be delegated to the liquidator². Even though the time appointed for his bringing in his claim has long elapsed, a creditor is invariably allowed to prove whenever there are funds in court or otherwise available, subject to such terms as the court thinks fit as to costs and as to not disturbing dividends already paid³.

If a creditor is dissatisfied with the liquidator's decision with respect to his proof, including any decision on the question of preference¹, he may apply to the court for the decision to be reversed or varied; and the application² must be made within 21 days of his receiving the statement of reasons³ for rejecting the proof⁴. A contributory or any other creditor may, if dissatisfied with the liquidator's decision admitting or rejecting the whole or any part of a proof, make such an application within 21 days of becoming aware of the liquidator's decision⁵.

Where any such application is made to the court, the court must fix a venue⁶ for the application to be heard, notice of which must be sent by the applicant to the creditor who lodged the proof in question, if not himself the applicant, and to the liquidator⁷. The liquidator must, on receipt of the notice, file in court⁸ the relevant proof, together, if appropriate, with a copy of the statement of reasons rejecting the proof⁹. After the application has been heard and determined, the proof must, unless it has been wholly disallowed, be returned by the court to the liquidator¹⁰. The court may¹ expunge a proof or reduce the amount claimed:

- 1161 (1) on the liquidator's application², where he thinks that the proof has been improperly³ admitted, or ought to be reduced⁴; or
- 1162 (2) on the application of a creditor, if the liquidator declines to interfere in the matter⁵.

Mere lapse of time does not bar the court's right to expunge or reduce a proof⁹. (iv) Quantification of Claim 789. Estimate of quantum.

The liquidator must estimate the value of any debt which, by reason of its being subject to any contingency or for any other reason, does not bear a certain value; and he may revise any estimate previously made, if he thinks fit, by reference to any change of circumstances or to information becoming available to him¹. He must inform the creditor as to his estimate and any revision of it². Where the value of a debt is so estimated by the liquidator, or by the court³, the amount provable in the winding up in the case of that debt is that of the estimate for the time being⁴.

1 Insolventcy Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.86(1). Under the Bankruptcy Act 1914 s 30 (repealed), which applied to the winding up of insolvent companies by virtue of the Companies Act 1948 s 317 (repealed), claims contingent when the winding up commenced but ascertained during the winding up were admitted to proof for the ascertained amount, but not so as to disturb previous dividends: Re Northern Counties of England Fire Insurance Co, MacFarlane's Claim (1880) 17 ChD 337; cf Re Bridges, Hill v Bridges (1881) 17 ChD 342 (a case of administration); Holdich's Case (1872) LR 14 Eq 72 at 80. 792. Mutual credit and set-off.

Where, before the company goes into liquidation¹, there have been mutual credits, mutual debts or other mutual dealings between the company and any creditor of the company proving or claiming to prove for a debt in the liquidation², an account must be taken of what is due from each party to the other in respect of the mutual dealings, and the sums due from one party must be set off against the sums due from the other³. In taking this account, sums due from the company to another party must not be taken into account if that other party had notice at the time they became due that a meeting of creditors had been summoned⁴ or, as the case may be, a petition for the winding up of the company was pending⁵; nor if the liquidation was immediately preceded by an administration and the sums became due during the administration⁶; nor if the liquidation was immediately preceded by an administration and the other party had notice at the time that the sums became due that an application for an administration order was pending, or any person had given notice of intention to appoint an administrator⁷. Only the balance, if any, of the account is provable in the liquidation; alternatively as the case may be, the amount must be paid to the liquidator as part of the assets⁸.

In the winding up of a company entitled to set off a claim against a preferential creditor⁹ to which it also owes non-preferential debts, the company's claim must be set off against the creditor's claims rateably in proportion to the amounts of the preferential and non-preferential claims of the creditor¹⁰.

The right of set-off is subject to the rules against double proof, and is not available in favour of a surety when the principal creditor's right of proof in respect of the debt guaranteed is still subsisting¹¹.

The right of set-off and the obligation to set off cannot be excluded by contract¹².

Any net balance owing to the insolvent estate upon the taking of the account is capable of assignment¹³.

1 For the meaning of 'go into liquidation' see para 9 note 3 ante.

2 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90(1). Set-off in insolvency must be distinguished from set-off between two solvent parties: see Hanak v Green [1958] 2 QB 9, [1958] 2 All ER 141, CA; Handley Page Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs and Rockwell Machine Tool Co Ltd [1970] 2 Lloyd's Rep 459 (affd [1971] 2 Lloyd's Rep 298, CA).

3 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90(2). Under the Companies Act 1948 s 317 (repealed), which applied the mutual credit provisions in bankruptcy (now repealed) in the case of an insolvent company for the purposes of set-off, the winding up fixed the rights of the parties: Re Milan Tramways Co, ex p Theys (1884) 25 ChD 587 at 591, CA; Sankey Brook Coal Co Ltd v Marsh (1871) LR 6 Exch 185; Re United Ports and General Insurance Co, ex p Etna Insurance Co (1877) 46 LJ Ch 403; cf Re Eros Films Ltd [1963] Ch 565, [1963] 1 All ER 383. Thus a person could not set off a sum due to him when the company was wound up against a sum which the court had in the winding up ordered to be repaid by him on the grounds that it had been paid to him before the winding up as a preference (see para 846 et seq post) (Re a Debtor (No 82 of 1926) [1927] 1 Ch 410; Re BP Fowler Ltd [1938] Ch 113, [1937] 3 All ER 781); and a person having claims against the company prior to the winding up could not set off those claims against any sum ordered to be paid by him in misfeasance proceedings (Re Anglo-French Co-operative Society, ex p Pelly (1882) 21 ChD 492, CA; Flitcroft's Case (1882) 21 ChD 519; Re Carriage Co-operative Supply Association (1884) 27 ChD 322; Re Etic Ltd [1928] Ch 861). The position is the same under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90 (as amended) (see Manson v Smith (Liquidator of Thomas Christy Ltd) [1997] 2 BCLC 161, CA; Smith (Administrator of Cosslett (Contractors) Ltd) v Bridgend County Borough Council [2001] UKHL 58 at [35], [2002] 1 AC 336 at [35] per Lord Hoffmann); and it has been held that no set-off is available where the debt on which the company sues is a loan granted to a director in breach of the Companies Act 1985 s 330 (see Re a Company (No 1641 of 2003) [2003] EWHC 2652 (Ch), [2004] 1 BCLC 210). A contributory could not set off a debt due to him against a claim made in the winding up, unless he was a bankrupt: see para 739 ante. There was no right of set-off where the claim on one side was for the return of goods in specie: Re Robinson, ex p Flint (1818) 1 Swan 30; Key v Flint (1817) 8 Taunt 21; Rose v Hart (1818) 8 Taunt 499; Re Winter, ex p Bolland (1878) 8 ChD 225; Eberle's Hotels and Restaurant Co Ltd v Jonas (1887) 18 QBD 459, CA; Lord's Trustee v Great Eastern Rly Co [1908] 2 KB 54, CA (on appeal on another point sub nom Great Eastern Rly Co v Lord's Trustee [1909] AC 109, HL); Ellis & Co's Trustee v Dixon-Johnson [1925] AC 489, HL; Rolls Razor Ltd v Cox [1967] 1 QB 552, [1967] 1 All ER 397, CA; and see Handley Page Ltd v Customs and Excise Comrs and Rockwell Machine Tool Co Ltd [1970] 2 Lloyd's Rep 459 (affd [1971] 2 Lloyd's Rep 298, CA). Nor was there a right of set-off in respect of money or goods deposited for a specific purpose which had not been carried out or of a balance of such money remaining when it had been carried out (Buchanan v Findlay (1829) 9 B & C 738; Re Pollitt, ex p Minor [1893] 1 QB 455, CA; National Westminster Bank Ltd v Halesowen Presswork and Assemblies Ltd [1972] AC 785, [1972] 1 All ER 641, HL (where, at 808 and 812 and at 651 and 663, the cases on 'special purpose' are discussed)); money is paid for a special or specific purpose so as to exclude mutuality of dealing if the money is paid in such circumstances that it would be a misappropriation to use it for any other purpose than that for which it is paid (Re Mid-Kent Fruit Factory Ltd [1896] 1 Ch 567; Re City Equitable Fire Insurance Co (No 2) [1930] 2 Ch 293, CA). The right of set-off existed, however, where there was a debt on one side and a delivery of property with directions to turn it into money on the other: Naoroji v Chartered Bank of India (1868) LR 3 CP 444; Astley v Gurney (1869) LR 4 CP 714; Palmer v Day & Sons [1895] 2 QB 618, CA; Rolls Razor Ltd v Cox supra.

A debt owing by the company to one person could not be set off against a joint debt owing by him and another to the company: Re Pennington and Owen [1925] Ch 825, CA. In order that debts may be set off, they must be due respectively in the same right: see National Westminster Bank Ltd v Halesowen Presswork and Assemblies Ltd supra at 821-822 and at 663-664 per Lord Kilbrandon; Lister v Hooson [1908] 1 KB 174, CA.

Debts due to the company from one government department can be set off against moneys owed by the company to other government departments: Re DH Curtis (Builders) Ltd [1978] Ch 162, [1978] 2 All ER 183; Re Cushla Ltd [1979] 3 All ER 415. As to set-off by contributories and retainer against insolvent estates see paras 738, 739 ante.

Where a third party has deposited moneys with the insolvent company to stand as security for the liabilities of the solvent company, then, if the third party has assumed a personal obligation in respect of the liability of the solvent company, the liability of the solvent company and the third party will be reduced by the amount of the deposit, provided that all conditions precedent to the liability of the third party are satisfied: MS Fashions Ltd v Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (in liquidation) (No 2) [1993] Ch 425, [1993] 3 All ER 769, CA; cf Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 8) [1998] AC 214, [1997] 4 All ER 568, HL (there is no set-off unless the depositor has assumed personal liability in respect of the liability of the solvent company); Tam Wing Chuen v Bank of Credit and Commerce Hong Kong Ltd [1996] BCC 388, PC.

A proprietary claim cannot be set off against a claim for a simple debt, and thus a director of a company who has paid moneys to himself in breach of fiduciary duty and holds such moneys on constructive trust cannot set off a claim under his contract of employment with the company: Zemco Ltd v Jerrom-Pugh [1993] BCC 275 at 280, CA, per Hoffmann LJ.

A creditor who is secured in respect of one claim but not in respect of another is obliged to submit to set-off in respect of the unsecured claim, but not in respect of the secured claim: Re Norman Holding Co Ltd (in liquidation) [1990] 3 All ER 757, [1991] 1 WLR 10.

The requirement of mutuality under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90 (as amended) is not satisfied where a person's alleged beneficial interest in funds in a bank account cannot be established without further enquiry: Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (in liquidation) v Al-Saud [1997] 1 BCLC 457, [1997] BCC 63, CA.

Where a debtor of the insolvent company has sought to prove claims against that company, but the proofs have been rejected, the alleged claims against the company cannot be set-off against the debt due under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90 (as amended): Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Ltd (in liquidation) v Habib Bank Ltd [1998] 4 All ER 753, [1999] 1 WLR 42.

The court has no inherent or statutory power to disapply the statutory insolvency scheme, including the operation of the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90 (as amended): Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (in liquidation) (No 10) [1997] Ch 213, [1996] 4 All ER 796. The court may, in limited and plainly justified circumstances, sanction a scheme of arrangement which involves a departure from the rule under the Companies Act 1985 s 425: Re Anglo American Insurance Ltd [2001] 1 BCLC 755.

Where an insurer, in relation to which an administration order has been made, subsequently goes into liquidation, sums due from the insurer to another party are not to be included in the account of mutual dealings rendered under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90 (as amended) if at the time they became due: (1) an administration application had been made under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch B1 para 12 (as added) (see para 216 ante) in relation to the insurer; (2) in the case of an appointment of an administrator under Sch B1 para 14 (as added) (see para 228 ante), a notice of appointment had been filed with the court under Sch B1 para 18 (as added) (see para 232 ante); or (3) in the case of an appointment of an administrator under Sch B1 para 22 (as added) (see para 236 ante), a notice of intention to appoint had been filed with the court under Sch B1 para 27 (as added) (see para 238 ante): Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Administration Orders Relating to Insurers) Order 2002, SI 2002/1242, art 5 (substituted by SI 2003/2134). Subject to the rule against double proof (see para 749 ante), set-off under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.90 (as amended) applies in respect of a debt arising under a guarantee where the guarantor enters into the guarantee prior to liquidation, but has not paid off the guaranteed debt prior to liquidation: Re West End Networks Ltd (in liquidation) [2004] UKHL 24, [2004] 2 All ER 1042 (disapproving reasoning to the contrary effect in Re a Debtor (No 66 of 1955), ex p The Debtor v Trustee of the Property of Waite (a bankrupt) supra).

There is no need for a proof to be lodged to activate set-off in insolvency: Stein v Blake supra. Three principles apply to the provisions relating to set-off in insolvency: (1) 'the mandatory principle' (see the text and note 12 supra); (2) 'the retroactivity principle', whereby the account is taken at the date of the winding-up order, being a manifestation of a much wider principle of insolvency law, namely that the liquidation and distribution of the assets of the company are treated as notionally taking place simultaneously on the date of the winding-up order; (3) 'the hindsight principle', whereby the court, in taking the account, has regard to events which have occurred since the date of the winding up: MS Fashions Ltd v Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (in liquidation) (No 2) [1993] Ch 425 at 432, 433, [1993] 3 All ER 769 at 775-776 per Hoffmann LJ; Stein v Blake supra at 252-253 and at 964-965 per Lord Hoffmann.

TEXT AND NOTES 1-8--SI 1986/1925 r 4.90 substituted: SI 2005/527.

SI 1986/1925 rr 4.86 (see PARA 789) applies for the purposes of r 4.90 to any obligation to or from the company which, by reason of its being subject to any contingency or for any other reason, does not bear a certain value: r 4.90(5) (as so substituted). Rules 4.91, 4.93 (see PARAS 793, 795) apply for the purposes of r 4.90 in relation to any sums due to the company which (1) are payable in a currency other than sterling; (2) are of a periodical nature; or (3) bear interest: r 4.90(6) (as so substituted). Rule 11.13 (see PARA 826) applies for the purposes of r 4.90 to any sum due to or from the company which is payable in the future: r 4.90(7). 'Obligation' means an obligation however arising, whether by virtue of an agreement, rule of law or otherwise: r 4.90(9).

TEXT AND NOTE 3--SI 1986/1925 r 4.90(2) now r 4.90(3).

NOTE 3--Account must also be taken of any reasonable cross-claims: Swissport (UK) Ltd v Aer Lingus Ltd [2007] EWHC 1089 (Ch), [2007] All ER (D) 197 (May).

TEXT AND NOTES 4-7--Replaced. The reference in SI 1986/1925 r 4.90(1) to mutual credits, mutual debts or other mutual dealings does not include: (1) any debt arising out of an obligation incurred at a time when the creditor had notice that (a) a meeting of creditors had been summoned under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 98; or (b) a petition for the winding up of the company was pending; (2) any debt arising out of an obligation where (a) the liquidation was immediately preceded by an administration; and (b) at the time the obligation was incurred the creditor had notice that an application for an administration order was pending or a person had given notice of intention to appoint an administrator; (3) any debt arising out of an obligation incurred during an administration which immediately preceded the liquidation; or (4) any debt which has been acquired by a creditor by assignment or otherwise, pursuant to an agreement between the creditor and any other party where that agreement was entered into (a) after the company went into liquidation; (b) at a time when the creditor had notice that a meeting of creditors had been summoned under s 98; (c) at a time when the creditor had notice that a winding up petition was pending; (d) where the liquidation was immediately preceded by an administration, at a time when the creditor had notice that an application for an administration order was pending or a person had given notice of intention to appoint an administrator; or (e) during an administration which immediately preceded the liquidation: SI 1986/1925 r 4.90(2).

A sum is to be regarded as being due to or from the company for the purposes of r 4.90(3) whether (1) it is payable at present or in the future; (2) the obligation by virtue of which it is payable is certain or contingent; or (3) its amount is fixed or liquidated, or is capable of being ascertained by fixed rules or as a matter of opinion: SI 1986/1925 r 4.90(4).

TEXT AND NOTE 8--SI 1986/1925 r 4.90(5) now r 4.90(8). However, where all or part of the balance results from a contingent or prospective debt owed by the creditor and in such a case the balance, or that part of it which results from the contingent or prospective debt, must be paid if and when that debt becomes due and payable: SI 1986/1925 r 4.90(8).

793. Debt in foreign currency.

For the purpose of proving a debt incurred or payable in a currency other than sterling, the amount of the debt must be converted into sterling at the official exchange rate¹ prevailing on the date when the company went into liquidation².

1 For these purposes, 'the official exchange rate' is the middle exchange on the London Foreign Exchange Market at the close of business, as published for the date in question; and, in the absence of any such published rate, it is such rate as the court determines: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.91(2) (amended by SI 2003/1730).

795. Proof for interest.

Where a debt proved in the liquidation bears interest, that interest is provable as part of the debt except in so far as it is payable in respect of any period after the company went into liquidation¹.

In the following circumstances the creditor's claim may include interest on the debt at the prescribed rate² for periods before the company went into liquidation, although not previously reserved or agreed³. If the debt is due by virtue of a written instrument, and payable at a certain time, interest may be claimed for the period from that time to the date when the company went into liquidation⁴. If the debt is due otherwise, interest may only be claimed if, before that date, a demand for payment of the debt was made in writing by or on behalf of the creditor, and notice given that interest would be payable from the date of the demand to the date of payment⁵. In such event, interest may only be claimed for the period from the date of the demand to that of the company's going into liquidation; and⁶ interest is chargeable at a rate not exceeding the prescribed rate⁷.

(v) Secured Creditors

797. Position of secured creditors.

A secured creditor¹ need not prove at all, but may rely on his security. He may pursue the remedies which he possessed before the winding up².

¹ For the meaning of 'secured creditor' see para 109 note 10 ante.

Prior to the coming into force of the Insolvency Act 1986, the definition of 'secured creditor' in the Bankruptcy Act 1914 s 167 (repealed) (a secured creditor meant a person who held a mortgage, charge or lien on the company's property, or any part of it, as a security for a debt due to him from the company) applied in the winding up of insolvent companies: Re Lough Neagh Ship Co, ex p Thompson [1896] 1 IR 29; Re Leinster Contract Corpn Ltd [1903] 1 IR 517.

Besides mortgagees and holders of debentures or debenture stock entitled to the benefit of a charge on the company's assets, persons holding security under an execution put in, or under a garnishee order nisi (now called a third party debt order) which had been duly served (Re Stanhope Silkstone Collieries Co (1879) 11 ChD 160, CA; Re National United Investment Corpn [1901] 1 Ch 950), or under a charging order which had been duly served (Haly v Barry (1868) 3 Ch App 452), and persons holding security by agreement (Re Printing and Numerical Registering Co (1878) 8 ChD 535), were held to be secured creditors in a winding up. An execution creditor who had seized land under a writ of elegit (abolished by the Administration of Justice Act 1956 s 34(1)) was a secured creditor (Re Gourlay, ex p Abbott (1880) 15 ChD 447; Re Hobson (1886) 33 ChD 493); but a creditor who obtained the appointment of a receiver, or issued a writ of sequestration, was not a secured creditor except as regards property actually in the possession of the receiver or the sequestrator (Croshaw v Lyndhurst Ship Co [1897] 2 Ch 154; Re Potts, ex p Taylor [1893] 1 QB 648, CA). In England, a landlord with power to distrain was not a secured creditor (Re Oak Pitts Colliery Co (1882) 21 ChD 322, CA); but in Scotland a landlord was a secured creditor (Re Wanzer Ltd [1891] 1 Ch 305); and so was a creditor who had arrested in Scotland, jurisdictionis fundandae causa, property of a company which was subsequently ordered to be wound up (Re West Cumberland Iron and Steel Co [1893] 1 Ch 713; Re Queensland Mercantile and Agency Co, ex p Australasian Investment Co, ex p Union Bank of Australia [1892] 1 Ch 219, CA). In order to be a secured creditor of a company in liquidation, the creditor must hold a security on property of the company at the commencement of the liquidation; a security on the property of a third person is not enough: see Re Hallett & Co, ex p Cocks, Biddulph & Co [1894] 2 QB 256, CA. When security is taken without notice of an irregularity known to the directors, and is paid off by one of the directors, the security is valid: Owen and Ashworth's Claim, Whitworth's Claim [1901] 1 Ch 115, CA.

² In a winding up by the court, the enforcement by action of such remedies may not be proceeded with or commenced without leave: see para 896 post. In a voluntary winding up (see para 939 et seq post) no such leave is necessary.

The liquidator may at any time give notice to a creditor whose debt is secured¹ that he proposes, at the expiration of 28 days from the date of the notice, to redeem the security at the value put upon it in the creditor's proof². A secured creditor may at any time, by a notice in writing, call on the liquidator to elect whether he will or will not exercise his power to redeem the security at the value then placed on it; and the liquidator then has six months in which to exercise the power or determine not to exercise it⁷.

All fees, costs, charges and expenses properly incurred in the winding up¹, including the liquidator's remuneration, are payable out of the company's assets in priority to all other claims, although in a compulsory winding up there is no statutory provision to that effect². After the costs, charges and expenses have been paid, the assets are applied in payment of the company's debts and liabilities to creditors³. When the creditors have been paid in full, any surplus is distributed among the contributories according to their rights among themselves as adjusted by the court⁴.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(12) DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS/(ii) Payment of Costs, Charges and Expenses/808. Realisation of assets subject to security.

808. Realisation of assets subject to security.

Where property subject to a specific charge is realised by the liquidator in the winding up, the proceeds are applicable:

- 1165 (1) to the costs of realisation;
- 1166 (2) in payment of the costs of preservation; and
- 1167 (3) in payment of the principal, interest and mortgagees' costs, all of which have priority over the general costs of the liquidation¹.

When the money recovered by the liquidator in misfeasance proceedings² is subject to a debenture charge, the liquidator's costs of the proceedings, but not the costs of the petition for winding up, are payable out of the money so recovered in priority to the debentures³.

Where property is recoverable by the company by action, the liquidator's solicitor may be entitled to claim a common law lien on that property for his costs⁴, including the costs of establishing his retainer⁵. His bill of costs is part of the costs of winding up⁶.

The enforceability of a solicitor's lien in respect of costs incurred before winding up is limited⁷. To the extent that it is enforceable, a solicitor's lien may be enforced by a charging order after the winding up has commenced⁸. To the extent that he has an enforceable lien on documents, this may be enforced in respect of documents which came to his hands before, and not in the course of, the winding up⁹; but this does not apply in any event to books or documents on which the directors had no power to create a lien, such as the registers¹⁰ or other books or documents which are required to be kept at the company's office¹¹, or to the file of proceedings in the winding up, and the documents relating to them¹², nor may any lien on the company's books or documents be acquired in respect of costs incurred before the incorporation of the company¹³.

809. Immediate payment of costs.

The successful litigant whose costs are ordered to be paid by the liquidator of the company out of its assets is prima facie entitled to have his costs paid immediately, and the order of priority¹ does not affect the matter². The date of the order gives no priority, but payments will not be indefinitely postponed until all claims have come in³. The onus is on the liquidator to show that payment of the costs should be postponed until provision has been made for any prior claims⁴. Where the costs are to be paid by the liquidator personally, and he is to be at liberty to retain them out of the company's assets, those costs rank before the general costs of liquidation, except, it seems, for the costs of realisation⁵.

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(12) DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS/(ii) Payment of Costs, Charges and Expenses/810. Priority of payments.

810. Priority of payments.

In the event of the company's assets¹ being insufficient to satisfy the liabilities, the court may make an order as to the payment out of the assets of the expenses incurred in the winding up² in such order of priority as the court thinks just³.

Subject to any order of the court⁴, whether the assets are or are not insufficient to satisfy the liabilities⁵, the expenses of the liquidation are payable out of the assets in the following order of priority:

- 1168 (1) expenses or costs which are properly chargeable or incurred by the official receiver or the liquidator in preserving, realising or getting in any of the assets of the company or otherwise relating to the conduct of any legal proceedings which he has power to bring or defend whether in his own name or in the name of the company⁶;
- 1169 (2) expenses or costs which relate to the employment of a shorthand writer, if appointed by an order of the court made at the instance of the official receiver in connection with an examination⁷;
- 1170 (3) expenses or costs which are incurred in holding an examination of an unfit witness⁸ where the application for it was made by the official receiver⁹;
- 1171 (4) any other expenses incurred or disbursements made by the official receiver or under his authority, including those incurred or made in carrying on the business of the company¹⁰;
- 1172 (5) the fees payable under any fees order¹¹, including those payable to the official receiver¹², and any remuneration payable to him under general regulations¹³;
- 1173 (6) the fee payable under any order made¹⁴ for the performance by the official receiver of his general duties as official receiver¹⁵;
- 1174 (7) any repayable deposit lodged under any such order¹⁶ as security for such a fee¹⁷;
- 1175 (8) the cost of any security provided by a provisional liquidator, liquidator or special manager¹⁸;
- 1176 (9) the remuneration of the provisional liquidator, if any¹⁹;
- 1177 (10) any deposit lodged on an application for the appointment of a provisional liquidator²⁰;
- 1178 (11) the costs of the petitioner, and of any person appearing on the petition whose costs are allowed by the court²¹;
- 1179 (12) the remuneration of the special manager, if any²²;
- 1180 (13) any amount payable to a person employed or authorised²³ to assist in the preparation of a statement of affairs or of accounts²⁴;
- 1181 (14) any allowance made, by order of the court, towards costs on an application for release from the obligation to submit a statement of affairs or for an extension of time for submitting such a statement²⁵;
- 1182 (15) the costs of employing a shorthand writer in any case other than one appointed by an order of the court at the instance of the official receiver in connection with an examination²⁶;
- 1183 (16) any necessary disbursements by the liquidator in the course of his administration, including any expenses incurred by members of the liquidation

- committee or their representatives and allowed by the liquidator²⁷, but not including any payment of corporation tax in specified circumstances²⁸;
- 1184 (17) the remuneration or emoluments of any person who has been employed by the liquidator to perform any services²⁹ for the company³⁰;
- 1185 (18) the remuneration of the liquidator, up to any amount not exceeding that which is payable to the official receiver under general regulations³¹;
- 1186 (19) the amount of any corporation tax on chargeable gains accruing on the realisation of any asset of the company, without regard to whether the realisation is effected by the liquidator, a secured creditor, or a receiver or manager appointed to deal with a security³²;
- 1187 (20) the balance, after payment of any sums due to the liquidator³³, of any remuneration due to the liquidator³⁴; and
- 1188 (21) any other expenses properly chargeable by the liquidator in carrying out his functions in the liquidation³⁵.

This is a complete statement of liquidation expenses subject only to the qualifications contained in the Insolvency Rules 1986 themselves³⁶, and the court will not vary this order of priority except in exceptional circumstances³⁷.

1 'Assets' for this purpose do not include assets subject to a floating charge: Buchler v Talbot [2004] UKHL 9, [2004] 1 All ER 1289 (overruling Re Barleycorn Enterprises Ltd, Mathias and Davies (a firm) v Down (liquidator of Barleycorn Enterprises Ltd) [1970] Ch 465, [1970] 2 All ER 155, CA). Where a floating charge covers the entire undertaking of the company, the company's sole asset in the winding up is the equity of redemption in respect of the charged assets: Buchler v Talbot supra. Hence, where a floating charge has been granted over assets of a company, there are two distinct funds, namely assets subject to the floating charge, and assets not so subject. In respect of the fund of assets subject to a floating charge, the priorities are: (1) the costs of preserving and realising the assets; (2) the receiver's remuneration and the proper costs and expenses of the receivership; (3) the debts which are preferential in the receivership; (4) the principal and interest secured by the floating charge; (5) the company: Buchler v Talbot supra at [88] per Lord Millett. In respect of assets not subject to a floating charge, the priorities are: (a) the costs of preserving and realising the assets; (b) the liquidator's remuneration and the proper costs and expenses of the winding-up; (c) the debts which are preferential in the winding-up; (d) the charge holder to the extent that the preferential debts have been paid out of assets subject to the floating charge; (e) the general body of creditors: Buchler v Talbot supra at [88] per Lord Millett. The order of priorities must now be read subject to the effect of the provisions prescribing a share of assets for unsecured creditors: see para 773 ante. As to priorities in respect of assets subject to a fixed or specific charge see para 808 supra. The reasoning in cases such as Re MC Bacon Ltd [1991] Ch 127, [1990] 3 WLR 646, Re Portbase Clothing Ltd [1993] Ch 388, [1993] 3 All ER 829 and Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd, Mond v Hammond Suddards (a firm) (No 2) [2000] Ch 40, [1999] 3 WLR 697, [1999] 2 BCLC 485, CA, must be read in light of the fact that those cases were decided before Re Barleycorn Enterprises Ltd, Mathias and Davies (a firm) v Down supra, was overruled by the House of Lords in Buchler v Talbot supra.

2 All fees, costs, charges and other expenses incurred in the course of the winding up or administration are to be regarded as expenses of the winding up or the administration: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.2(1) (amended by SI 2003/1730). The amendment of this provision does not apply where a petition for an administration order was presented prior to 15 September 2003, in which event it is provided that all fees, costs, charges and other expenses incurred in the course of the winding up are to be regarded as expenses of the winding up: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.2 (as originally enacted); Insolvency (Amendment) Rules 2003, SI 2003/1730, r 1(2). The costs associated with the prescribed part must be paid out of the prescribed part: see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.2.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 156. This provision is concerned with priority only: Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd, Mond v Hammond Suddards (a firm) (No 2) [2000] Ch 40, [1999] 3 WLR 697, [1999] 2 BCLC 485, CA; and see para 1009 note 2 post. It has been held that costs incurred against liquidators in a winding up are not expenses incurred in the winding up within the meaning of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 156, and hence s 156 has no application to such costs: Re MT Realisations [2003] EWHC 2895 (Ch) at [19], [2004] 1 All ER 577 at [19], [2004] 1 WLR 1678 at [19] per Laddie J. Corporation tax on profits earned after the commencement of the winding up is an expense of the winding up: Re Beni-Felkai Mining Co Ltd [1934] Ch 406 (income tax). See also Re Mesco Properties Ltd [1979] 1 All ER 302, [1979] 1 WLR 558 (affd [1980] 1 All ER 117, [1980] 1 WLR 96, CA) (corporation tax); Re Grey Marlin Ltd [1999] 4 All ER 429, [2000] 1 WLR 370; Re Toshoku Finance UK plc (in liquidation), Kahn v IRC [2002] UKHL 6, [2002] 3 All ER 961; and heads (17) and (19) in the text.

4 See the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.220(1). Nothing contained in r 4.218 (as amended) (see the text and notes 6-35 infra) or r 4.219 (as amended) (see para 811 post) applies to or affects the power of any court, in proceedings by or against the company, to order costs to be paid by the company, or the liquidator; nor do they affect the rights of any person to whom such costs are ordered to be paid: r 4.220(2).

6 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.218(1)(a)(i) (r 4.218(1)(a) substituted by SI 2002/2712). The substitution of these provisions does not apply in relation to a winding up by the court where the petition was presented prior to 1 January 2003 or a voluntary winding up where the resolution for winding up was passed prior to that date, in which event the expenses or costs referred to in heads (1)-(3) in the text are instead expressed as the expenses properly chargeable or incurred by the official receiver or the liquidator in preserving, realising or getting in any of the assets of the company: r 4.218(1)(a) (as originally enacted); Insolvency (Amendment) (No 2) Rules 2002, SI 2002/2712, r 4(2). As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante.

Corporation tax is not a relevant expense for these purposes (see Re Beni-Felkai Mining Co Ltd [1934] Ch 406; and heads (13), (15) in the text), but the costs of a voluntary liquidator's opposition to a compulsory order may be (Re William Adler & Co Ltd [1935] Ch 138, CA). In relation to winding-up proceedings where, in the case of a winding up by the court, the petition was presented prior to 1 January 2003 or, in the case of a voluntary winding up, the resolution for winding up was passed prior to that date, the costs of unsuccessful claims under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 214 (wrongful trading: see para 914 post) and s 239 (preferences: see para 843 et seq post) are not such an expense, as the claim inheres in the liquidator and not the company and any sums recovered do not become part of the company's assets: Re MC Bacon Ltd [1991] Ch 127, [1990] 3 WLR 646 (read with the Insolvency (Amendment) (No 2) Rules 2002, SI 2002/2712, r 4(2)). Further, the costs of a failed attempt to realise or get in assets of the company are not such an expense: Re MC Bacon Ltd supra; and see further Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd, Mond v Hammond Suddards (a firm) (No 2) [2000] Ch 40, [1999] 3 WLR 697, [1999] 2 BCLC 485, CA (the liquidator had no right to payment of the costs of unsuccessful proceedings); Re Exchange Travel (Holdings) Ltd (in liquidation) (No 3), Katz v McNally [1997] 2 BCLC 579, CA (containing dicta of Phillips LJ and Morritt LJ to the contrary; the decision was not cited to the Court of Appeal in Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd supra); Re Floor Fourteen Ltd, Lewis v IRC [2001] 3 All ER 499, [2001] 2 BCLC 392, CA (where the Court of Appeal followed Re MC Bacon Ltd supra and Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd, Mond v Hammond Suddards (a firm) (No 2) supra, and disapproved the contrary dicta in Re Exchange Travel (Holdings) Ltd (in liquidation) (No 3), Katz v McNally supra). The reasoning in Re MC Bacon Ltd supra and Re RS & M Engineering Ltd, Mond v Hammond Suddards (a firm) (No 2) supra, in so far as it relates to the issue of whether liquidation expenses can be paid out of assets subject to a floating charge, is wrong: see Buchler v Talbot [2004] UKHL 9, [2004] 1 All ER 1289.

813. Manner of distributing assets.

Whenever the liquidator has sufficient funds in hand for the purpose, he must, subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the expenses of the winding up¹, declare and distribute dividends among the creditors in respect of the debts which they have respectively proved²; and the liquidator must give notice of his intention to declare and distribute a dividend³. Where the liquidator has declared a dividend, he must give notice of it to the creditors, stating how the dividend is proposed to be distributed; and the notice must contain such particulars with respect to the company, and to its assets and affairs, as will enable the creditors to comprehend the calculation of the amount of the dividend and the manner of its distribution⁴.

815. Notice of intended dividend.

Before declaring a dividend, the liquidator must give notice¹ of his intention to do so to all creditors² whose addresses are known to him and who have not proved their debts³ and where a member state liquidator has been appointed in relation to the insolvent company, to that person⁴. Before declaring a first dividend, the liquidator must, unless he has previously by public advertisement invited creditors to prove their debts, give notice of the intended dividend by public advertisement⁵. Any such notice must specify a date ('the last date for proving') up to which proofs may be lodged; the date must be the same for all creditors, and not less than 21 days from that of the notice⁶. The liquidator must in the notice state his intention to declare a dividend, specified as interim or final, as the case may be, within the period of four months from the last date for proving⁷.

1 As to the giving of notice see para 1088 post.

2 For these purposes, 'creditors' means those creditors of the company of whom the liquidator is aware, or who are identified in the company's statement of affairs: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 11.1(2). For these purposes, a member state liquidator is deemed to be a creditor: r 11.1(3) (added by SI 2002/1307). For the meaning of 'member state liquidator' see para 460 note 15 ante.

816. Failure of creditor to prove before dividend declared.

A creditor who has not proved his debt before the declaration of any dividend is not entitled to disturb, by reason that he has not participated in it, the distribution of that dividend or any other dividend declared before his debt was proved, but:

1189 (1) when he has proved that debt, he is entitled to be paid, out of any money for the time being available for the payment of any further dividend, any dividend or dividends which he has failed to receive¹; and

817. Final admission or rejection of proofs.

The liquidator must, within seven days from the last date for proving¹, deal with every creditor's proof, in so far as not already dealt with, by admitting or rejecting it in whole or in part, or by making such provision as he thinks fit in respect of it². The liquidator is not obliged, however, to deal with proofs lodged after the last date for proving; but he may do so, if he thinks fit³. In the declaration of a dividend no payment is to be made more than once by virtue of the same debt⁴. Save where the right to a dividend is assigned⁵, where a creditor has proved and a member state liquidator⁶ has proved in relation to the same debt, payment may be made only to the creditor⁷.

819. Decision to declare dividend.

If the liquidator has not, in the four-month period from the last date for proving¹ referred to in the notice of an intended dividend², had cause to postpone or cancel the dividend³, he must within that period proceed to declare the dividend of which he gave notice⁴. Except with the leave of the court, the liquidator may not declare the dividend so long as there is pending any application to the court to reverse or vary a decision of his on a proof⁵, or to expunge a proof or to reduce the amount claimed⁶; and, if the court gives such leave, the liquidator must make such provision in respect of the proof in question as the court directs⁷.

In the calculation and distribution of a dividend the liquidator must make provision:

- 1191 (1) for any debts which appear to him to be due to persons who, by reason of the distance of their place of residence, may not have had sufficient time to tender and establish their proofs⁸;
- 1192 (2) for any debts which are the subject of claims which have not yet been determined⁹; and

The liquidator must give notice¹ of dividend to all creditors who have proved their debts² and where a member state liquidator³ has been appointed in relation to the company, to that person⁴; and the notice must include the following particulars relating to the winding up and the administration of the company's estate:

- 1194 (1) amounts realised from the sale of assets, indicating, so far as practicable, amounts raised by the sale of particular assets⁵;
- 1195 (2) payments made by the liquidator in the administration of the company's assets⁶;

- 1197 (4) the total amount to be distributed, and the rate of dividend⁸;
- 1198 (5) whether, and if so when, any further dividend is expected to be declared⁹.

The dividend may be distributed simultaneously with the notice declaring it¹⁰.

Payment of dividend may be made by post, or arrangements may be made with any creditor for it to be paid to him in another way, or held for his collection¹¹; and, where a dividend is paid on a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, the amount of the dividend must be indorsed on the instrument, or on a certified copy of it, if required to be produced by the holder for that purpose¹².

827. Interest on debts.

In a winding up, interest is payable at the official rate¹ on any debt proved in the winding up, including so much of any such debt as represents interest on the remainder². Any surplus remaining after the payment of the debts proved in a winding up must, before being applied for any other purpose, be applied in paying interest on those debts in respect of the periods during which they have been outstanding since the company went into liquidation³. All such interest ranks equally, whether or not the debts on which it is payable rank equally⁴.

1 The official rate of interest payable in respect of any debt is whichever is the greater of: (1) the rate specified in the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 (as amended) on the day on which the company went into liquidation; and (2) the rate applicable to that debt apart from the winding up: Insolvency Act 1986 s 189(4). The rate currently specified is 8% per annum: Judgments Act 1838 s 17 (amended by the Judgment Debts (Rate of Interest) Order 1993, SI 1993/564, arts 1, 2). When the liquidator has realised all the company's assets or so much of them as can, in his opinion, be realised without needlessly protracting the liquidation, he must give notice¹, either of his intention to declare a final dividend, or that no dividend, or further dividend, will be declared². The notice must contain all such particulars as are required³ and must require claims against the assets to be established by a date specified in the notice⁴. After that date, the liquidator must defray any outstanding expenses of the winding up⁵ out of the assets; and, if he intends to declare a final dividend, he must declare and distribute that dividend without regard to the claim of any person in respect of a debt not already proved⁶. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(12) DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS/ (iii) Distribution of Assets among Creditors and Employees/830. Power to make over assets to employees.

830. Power to make over assets to employees.

On the winding up of a company¹ the liquidator may make any payment which the company has, before the commencement of the winding up², decided to make under the provisions giving power to provide for employees or former employees³ on cessation or transfer of business⁴. The power which a company may exercise by virtue only of those provisions may be exercised by the liquidator after the winding up has commenced if, after the company's liabilities have been fully satisfied and provision has been made for the expenses of the winding up, the exercise of that power has been sanctioned by such a resolution of the company as would be required of the company itself⁵ before that commencement⁶.

Any payment which may be made by a company under these provisions may be made out of the company's assets which are available to the members on the winding up⁷.

On a winding up by the court, the exercise by the liquidator of his powers under these provisions is subject to the court's control; and any creditor or contributory⁸ may apply to the court with respect to any exercise or proposed exercise of the power⁹.

(iv) Distribution of Assets among Contributories

831. Adjusting rights of contributories.

The court must adjust the rights of the contributories¹ among themselves and distribute any surplus among the persons entitled² to it³. Only the rights of contributories as contributories may be adjusted under this provision; hence it does not enable directors who are contributories to enforce against persons who also are contributories rights which have nothing to do with their position as contributories⁴. In a winding up, past and present members are liable to contribute to the company's assets to an extent sufficient, among other purposes, for the adjustment of the contributories' rights among themselves⁵.

The contributories obtain nothing until the expenses properly incurred in the winding up have been paid and the company's debts and liabilities have been discharged in full⁶. A sum due to a person in his character of a member⁷ by way of dividends, profits or otherwise is not deemed to be a debt of the company, payable to that member in a case of competition between himself and non-member creditors, but may be taken into account for the purposes of the final adjustment of contributories' rights among themselves⁸.

832. Distribution according to nominal capital.

Unless the memorandum or articles otherwise provide, and subject to the terms on which any capital has been issued, the company's surplus assets¹ are divided and losses are borne in proportion to the nominal amounts of the shares and not to the sums paid up; and, where some shareholders have paid up more than others, the court adjusts the amounts until all have paid up in the same proportion; and the surplus thus arrived at is then distributed in proportion to the nominal amounts of the shares².

The rights may be adjusted by making larger returns to those who have paid larger amounts³, or by making calls⁴. The articles may, however, be so framed as to prevent calls being made on the holders of partly paid shares to equalise the amounts paid up⁵.

A provision in the articles as to how dividends are to be distributed while the company is a going concern does not in itself govern or affect the distribution of surplus assets in a winding up⁶.

837. Surplus after refunding paid-up capital.

Where, after repayments to the shareholders of all paid-up capital, there is still a surplus remaining for distribution, then, subject to the provisions of the memorandum¹ or articles of association and the terms of issue², the surplus, so far as it represents capital, is divisible in proportion to the nominal amount of the shares, whether they are preference or ordinary shares, and whether at the winding up they were partly or fully paid up³.

The articles may, however, be so framed that the rule of division mentioned above is expressly or impliedly excluded. Thus where the preferential right to repayment of capital attached to the preference shares is, on the construction of the articles, meant to delimit the whole right of the holders of the preference shares and not merely to give them priority as to repayment, as is prima facie the case⁴, they are not entitled to share further in the surplus assets after repayment of capital⁵. Subject to any priority as to payment of arrears of dividend⁶, the surplus, so far as it represents undivided profits, must be divided in the same way as capital⁷, unless the articles or terms of issue indicate that it is to be divisible as if it were profit available for dividend⁸.

Unless the articles so provide, the holders of shares issued at a premium are not entitled to have the premium repaid in a winding up⁹.

Shareholders receive their distributions in the form of a distribution of assets which, apart from statutory provisions¹⁰, are capital in their hands¹¹.

The regulations of most companies authorise the distribution of surplus assets in specie¹².

(v) Payment of Dividends to Creditors and Returns of Capital to Contributories of a Company

841. Payments.

Subject to the power of the Secretary of State to make payments by electronic transfer¹, in the case of a winding up by the court, the liquidator² must pay every dividend by payment instruments³ which must be prepared by the Department of Trade and Industry on the application of the liquidator and transmitted to him for distribution amongst the creditors⁴. In the case of a winding up by the court, the liquidator must pay every return of capital to contributories by payment instruments which must be prepared by the Department of Trade and Industry on application⁵.

In respect of any such application made by the liquidator⁶, the Secretary of State, if requested to do so by the liquidator, may, at his discretion, as an alternative to the issue of payment instruments, make payment by electronic transfer to the persons to whom the liquidator would otherwise deliver payment instruments⁷, or make the payment which is the subject of the application to the liquidator by electronic transfer⁸.

Any such application for a payment instrument or payment by electronic transfer must be made by the liquidator on a form obtainable from the Department of Trade and Industry for the purpose or on a form which is substantially similar⁹.

In the case of a winding up by the court, the liquidator must enter the total amount of every dividend and of every return to contributories that he desires to pay under these provisions in the records to be kept¹⁰ by him in one sum¹¹.

On the liquidator vacating office, he must send to the Department of Trade and Industry any valid unclaimed or undelivered payment instruments for dividends or returns to contributories after indorsing them with the word 'cancelled'¹².

843. In general.

Provision has been made in connection with transactions at an undervalue and preferences¹. The provisions apply in the case of a company where the company enters administration² or the company goes into liquidation³, and to all such transactions entered into on or after 29 December 1986⁴.

The substitution of this provision does not apply where a petition for an administration order has been presented prior to 15 September 2003, or in respect of special administration regimes, in which circumstances the statutory provisions in connection with transactions at an undervalue and preferences apply where an administration order is made in respect of a company: Insolvency Act 1986 s 238(1)(a) (as originally enacted); Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2, 3. Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(i) Transactions at an Undervalue and Preferences/844. Transaction at an undervalue.

844. Transaction at an undervalue.

A company enters into a transaction¹ with a person² at an undervalue if the company makes a gift to that person or otherwise enters into a transaction with that person on terms that provide for the company to receive no consideration³, or if the company enters into a transaction with that person for a consideration the value of which, in money or money's worth, is significantly less than the value, in money or money's worth, of the consideration provided by the company⁴.

The creation by a company of a charge over its assets in favour of a creditor is not a transaction at an undervalue⁵.

1 'Transaction' includes a gift, agreement or arrangement, and references to entering into a transaction are to be construed accordingly: Insolvency Act 1986 s 436. It has been held that, apart perhaps from the case of a mere gift, a transaction involves at least some element of dealing between the parties to the transaction: Re Taylor Sinclair (Capital) Ltd (in liquidation), Knights v Seymour Pierce Ellis Ltd [2001] 2 BCLC 176.

2 The Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) applies to any person: s 238(2). In Re Paramount Airways Ltd (in administration) [1993] Ch 223, [1992] 3 All ER 1, CA, it was held that the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 was not territorially limited, or limited to British citizens. Since, however, the relief to be granted by the court is discretionary, the court would need to be satisfied at the hearing of the application that the defendant was sufficiently connected with England for it to be just and proper to make the order against him despite the foreign element: Re Paramount Airways Ltd (in administration) supra at 239-240 and at 11-12 per Sir Donald Nicholls V-C.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 238(4)(a). Section 238 does not specify from whom the consideration must move; and thus where the company agrees to sell an asset to A on terms that B enter into a collateral agreement, the consideration for the asset is the combined value of any consideration moving from A and that moving from B under the collateral agreement: Phillips v Brewin Dolphin Bell Lawrie Ltd [2001] UKHL 2, [2001] 1 All ER 673. In valuing the consideration, reality should be given precedence over speculation, and hence where value depends on future contingencies, the court may look to see what in fact happened: Phillips v Brewin Dolphin Bell Lawrie Ltd supra; Ramlort Ltd v Reid [2004] EWCA Civ 800. The consideration moving from and to the company need not necessarily be determined with certainty, provided that the court is able to conclude that one value is significantly less than the other: Ramlort Ltd v Reid supra.

Even where, as between transferor and transferee, full consideration is apparently given, there may be a transaction at an undervalue if the interests of a third party are prejudicially affected: Agricultural Mortgage Corp plc v Woodward supra (decided under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423 (see para 854 post) where a husband who had charged his agricultural holding to the plaintiff as security exercised his powers under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 99 (see AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 421) to create a lease in favour of his wife, thus reducing the value of the freehold and placing the wife in a 'ransom position' whereby she could bargain with the bank for payment in consideration of her surrendering the lease); cf Re Martin Coulter Enterprises Ltd [1988] BCLC 12, 4 BCC 210. Where a company has at a relevant time¹ entered into a transaction with any person at an undervalue², the liquidator³ may apply⁴ to the court for an order to restore the position to what it would have been if the company had not entered into that transaction⁵. Upon such an application, the court must make such order as it thinks fit for achieving this effect⁶; but the court must not make such an order in respect of a transaction at an undervalue if it is satisfied that the company which entered into the transaction did so in good faith and for the purpose of carrying on its business, and that, at the time it did so, there were reasonable grounds for believing that the transaction would benefit the company⁷.

A company gives a preference to a person¹ if that person is one of the company's creditors² or a surety or guarantor for any of the company's debts or other liabilities³, and if the company does anything or suffers anything to be done which, in either case, has the effect of putting that person into a position which, in the event of the company going into insolvent liquidation⁴, will be better than the position he would have been in if that thing had not been done⁵.

847. Remedy in respect of preference; requisite desire.

Where a company has at a relevant time¹ given a preference to any person², the liquidator³ may apply to the court for an order to restore the position to what it would have been if the company had not given that preference⁴. Upon such an application, the court must make such order as it thinks fit for achieving this effect⁵; but the court may not make such an order in respect of a preference given to any person unless the company which gave the preference was influenced in deciding to give it by a desire to produce, in relation to that person, the effect of putting that person into a position which, in the event of the company going into insolvent liquidation⁶, would be better than the position he would otherwise have been in⁷.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(i) Transactions at an Undervalue and Preferences/850. The relevant time.

850. The relevant time.

In order for there to be a remedy in respect of a transaction at an undervalue or the giving of a preference, the time at which a company enters into a transaction at an undervalue or gives a preference must be a 'relevant time'¹. If the transaction is entered into or the preference is given at the following times, it is a 'relevant time' for these purposes:

- 1199 (1) in the case of a transaction at an undervalue or a preference which is given to a person who is connected with the company², otherwise than by reason of being its employee, at a time in the period of two years ending with the onset of insolvency³;
- 1200 (2) in the case of a preference which is not such a transaction and is not so given, at a time in the period of six months ending with the onset of insolvency⁴;
- 1201 (3) in either case, at a time between the making of an administration application in respect of the company and the making of an administration order on that application⁵; and
- 1202 (4) in either case, at a time between the filing with the court of a copy of a notice of intention to appoint an administrator⁶ and the making of an appointment as a result⁷.

1 As to transactions at an undervalue see para 845 ante; and as to preferences see para 847 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'connected' with a company see para 5 ante. As to the presumed influence in such a case see para 848 ante.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 240(1)(a). For these purposes, the onset of insolvency is: (1) in a case where s 238 (as amended) (transactions at an undervalue: see paras 844-845 ante) or s 239 (preferences: see paras 846-849 ante) applies by reason of an administrator of a company being appointed by administration order, the date on which the administration application is made; (2) in a case where s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of an administrator of a company being appointed under Sch B1 para 14 (as added) or Sch B1 para 22 (as added) (see paras 228 et seq, 236 et seq ante) following filing of a notice to appoint under that provision, the date on which the copy of the notice is filed; (3) in a case where s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of an administrator of a company being appointed otherwise than as mentioned above, the date on which the appointment takes effect; (4) in a case where s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of a company going into liquidation either following conversion of administration into winding up by virtue of EC Council Regulation 1346/2000 (OJ L160, 30.6.2000, p 1) on insolvency proceedings ('the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings') art 37 or at the time when the appointment of an administrator ceases to have effect, the date on which the company entered administration (or, if relevant, the date on which the application for the administration order was made or a copy of the notice of intention to appoint was filed); or (5) in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of a company's going into liquidation at any other time, the date of the commencement of the winding up: see s 240(3)(a)-(e) (substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 26(1), (4)). The substitution of these provisions does not apply where a petition for an administration order has been presented prior to 15 September 2003, or in respect of special administration regimes (see para 145 ante), in which circumstances 'the onset of insolvency' is: (a) in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of the making of an administration order or of a company going into liquidation immediately upon the discharge of an administration order, the date of the presentation of the petition on which the administration order was made; (b) in a case where s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of a company going into liquidation following conversion of administration into winding up by virtue of the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings art 37, the date of the presentation of the petition on which the administration order was made; and (c) in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of a company going into liquidation at any other time, the date of the commencement of the winding-up: s 240(3)(a), (aa), (ab) (s 240(3)(a), (b) as originally enacted; s 240(3)(aa) added by the Insolvency Act 1986 (Amendment) (No 2) Regulations

Where a company enters into a transaction at an undervalue or gives a preference at the time referred to in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 240(1)(a) or s 240(1)(b), that time is not a 'relevant time' unless the company is at that time unable to pay its debts (ie within the meaning of s 123: see para 446 ante), or becomes unable to pay its debts in consequence of the transaction or preference; although these requirements are presumed to be satisfied, unless the contrary is shown, in relation to any transaction at an undervalue which is entered into by a company with a person who is connected with the company: s 240(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(i) Transactions at an Undervalue and Preferences/851. Orders which may be made.

851. Orders which may be made.

Without prejudice to the generality of the power of the court to make orders restoring the position to what it would have been if the company had not entered into the transaction at an undervalue or given the preference¹, an order with respect to such transactions or preferences entered into or given by a company may:

- 1203 (1) require any property transferred as part of the transaction, or in connection with the giving of the preference, to be vested in the company²;
- 1204 (2) require any property to be so vested if it represents in any person's hands the application either of the proceeds of sale of property so transferred or of money so transferred³;
- 1205 (3) release or discharge, in whole or in part, any security given by the company⁴;
- 1206 (4) require any person to pay, in respect of benefits received by him from the company, such sums to the liquidator⁵ as the court may direct⁶;
- 1207 (5) provide for any surety or guarantor whose obligations to any person were released or discharged, in whole or in part, under the transaction, or by the giving of the preference, to be under such new or revived obligations to that person as the court thinks appropriate⁷;
- 1208 (6) provide for security to be provided for the discharge of any obligation imposed by or arising under the order, for such an obligation to be charged on any property and for such security or charge to have the same priority as a security or charge released or discharged, in whole or in part, under the transaction or by the giving of the preference⁸; and
- 1209 (7) provide for the extent to which any person whose property is vested by the order in the company, or on whom obligations are imposed by the order, is to be able to prove in the winding up of the company for debts or other liabilities which arose from, or were released or discharged, in whole or in part, under or by, the transaction or the giving of the preference⁹.

Such an order¹⁰ may affect the property of, or impose any obligation on, any person whether or not he is the person with whom the company in question entered into the transaction or, as the case may be, the person to whom the preference was given; however, it may not:

- 1210 (a) prejudice any interest in property which was acquired from a person other than the company and was acquired in good faith and for value, or prejudice any interest deriving from such an interest¹¹;
- 1211 (b) require a person who received a benefit from the transaction or preference in good faith and for value to pay a sum to the liquidator, except where that person was a party to the transaction, or the payment is to be in respect of a preference given to that person at a time when he was a creditor of the company¹².

Where a person has acquired an interest in property from a person other than the company in question, or has received a benefit from the transaction or preference, and at the time of that acquisition or receipt:

- 1212 (i) he had notice of the relevant surrounding circumstances¹³ and of the relevant proceedings¹⁴; or
- 1213 (ii) he was connected¹⁵ with, or was an associate¹⁶ of, either the company in question or the person with whom that company entered into the transaction or to whom that company gave the preference¹⁷, then, unless the contrary is shown, it is to be presumed¹⁸ that the interest was acquired or the benefit was received otherwise than in good faith¹⁹.

12 Insolvency Act 1986 s 241(2)(b) (as amended: see note 11 supra).

13 For these purposes, the relevant surrounding circumstances are, as the case may require: (1) the fact that the company in question entered into the transaction at an undervalue; or (2) the circumstances which amounted to the giving of the preference by the company in question: ibid s 241(3)(a), (b) (s 241(3) substituted, and s 241(2A), (3A)-(3C) added, by the Insolvency (No 2) Act 1994 s 1(2), (3)).

14 Insolvency Act 1986 s 241(2A)(a) (as added: see note 13 supra).

A person has notice of the relevant proceedings in a case where s 238 (as amended) (transactions at an undervalue: see paras 844-845 ante) or s 239 (preferences: see paras 846-849 ante) applies by reason of the company entering administration, if he has notice that: (1) an administration application has been made; (2) an administration order has been made; (3) a copy of a notice of intention to appoint an administrator under Sch B1 para 14 (as added) or Sch B1 para 22 (as added) (see paras 228 et seq, 236 et seq ante) has been filed; or (4) notice of the appointment of an administrator has been filed under Sch B1 para 18 (as added) or Sch B1 para 29 (as added) (see paras 232, 241 ante): s 241(3A) (as added (see note 13 supra); and substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 27(1), (2)). The substitution of this provision does not apply where a petition for an administration order has been presented prior to 15 September 2003, or in respect of special administration regimes (see para 145 ante), in which circumstances a person has notice of the relevant proceedings in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of the making of an administration order if he has notice: (a) of the fact that the petition on which the administration order is made has been presented; or (b) of the fact that the administration order has been made (s 241(3A) (as so added); Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2, 3. For the meaning of 'go into liquidation' see para 9 note 3 ante.

A person has notice of the relevant proceedings in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of the company in question going into liquidation at the time when the appointment of an administrator of the company ceases to have effect, if he has notice that: (i) an administration application has been made; (ii) an administration order has been made; (iii) a copy of a notice of intention to appoint an administrator under Sch B1 para 14 (as added) or Sch B1 para 22 (as added) has been filed; (iv) notice of the appointment of an administrator has been filed under Sch B1 para 18 (as added) or Sch B1 para 29 (as added); or (v) the company has gone into liquidation: s 241(3B) (as added (see note 13 supra); and substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 Sch 17 paras 9, 27(1), (3)). The substitution of this provision does not apply where a petition for an administration order has been presented prior to 15 September 2003, or in respect of special administration regimes, in which circumstances a person has notice of the relevant proceedings in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 238 (as amended) or s 239 applies by reason of the company in question going into liquidation immediately upon the discharge of an administration order if he has notice: (A) of the fact that the petition on which the administration order is made has been presented; (B) of the fact that the administration order has been made; or (C) of the fact that the company has gone into liquidation: s 241(3B) (as so added); Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2, 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(ii) Transactions Defrauding Creditors/854. Transactions defrauding creditors; requisite intention.

854. Transactions defrauding creditors; requisite intention.

Where a person¹ enters into a transaction with another person at an undervalue, the court² may make such order as it thinks fit for restoring the position to what it would have been if the transaction had not been entered into³, and⁴ for protecting the interests of persons who are victims⁵ of the transaction⁶. For this purpose, a person enters into such a transaction if:

1214 (1) he makes a gift to the other person or he otherwise enters into a transaction with the other on terms that provide for him to receive no consideration⁷; or

1215 (2) he enters into a transaction with the other for a consideration, the value of which, in money or money's worth, is significantly less than the value, in money or money's worth, of the consideration provided by himself⁸.

However, in the case of a person entering into such a transaction, an order may only be made if the court is satisfied that it was entered into by him for the purpose:

1216 (a) of putting assets beyond the reach of a person who is making, or may at some time make, a claim against him⁹; or

1217 (b) of otherwise prejudicing the interests of such a person in relation to the claim which he is making or may make¹⁰.

Where the respondent has received legal advice in relation to the transaction, the applicant may be able to obtain disclosure of documents which would prima facie be subject to legal professional privilege¹¹.

1 For the meaning of 'person' see para 13 note 2 ante. It seems that the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423 is extra-territorial in its effect: Re Paramount Airways Ltd (in administration) [1993] Ch 223, [1992] 3 All ER 1, CA.

2 For these purposes, 'the court' means the High Court or, if the person entering into the transaction is a body capable of being wound up under the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt IV (ss 73-219) (as amended) or Pt V (ss 220-229) (as amended), any other court having jurisdiction to wind it up: s 423(4)(b). There are two conflicting decisions on whether an application under s 423 which is not made in existing insolvency proceedings or which was brought otherwise than by reason of a right to apply under any other provision of the Act in relation to existing proceedings could be commenced in any part of the High Court or solely in the Companies Court or the Bankruptcy Court, as the case may be: Moon v Franklin (1990) Independent, 22 June; TSB Bank plc v Katz [1997] BPIR 147. In the latter case, it was held that the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended), did not apply to the proceedings. As to the courts having jurisdiction to wind up companies see para 438 et seq ante. Where the person entering into the transaction is an individual, 'the court' means the High Court or any other court which would have jurisdiction in relation to a bankruptcy petition relating to him: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423(4)(a); and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) para 664.

3 Ibid s 423(2)(a).

4 The word 'and' is to be read conjunctively: Chohan v Saggat [1994] 1 BCLC 706, [1994] BCC 134, CA.

5 In relation to a transaction at an undervalue, references in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423 and s 424 (see para 855 post) to a victim of the transaction are to a person who is, or is capable of being, prejudiced by it: s 423(5). A person who cannot demonstrate that he will be worse off as a result of the transaction is not a victim, eg where the only assets of the transferor are fully charged: Pinewood Joinery (a firm) v Starelm Properties Ltd

[1994] 2 BCLC 412, [1994] BCC 569; cf Barclays Bank plc v Eustice [1995] 4 All ER 511, [1995] 1 WLR 1238, CA. A claimant in proceedings who has a chance of success is a 'victim' within the meaning of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423(5): Pinewood Joinery (a firm) v Starelm Properties Ltd supra.

Even where, as between transferor and transferee, full consideration is apparently given, there may be a transaction at an undervalue if the interests of a third party are prejudicially affected: Agricultural Mortgage Corp plc v Woodward supra; National Westminster Bank plc v Jones [2001] 1 BCLC 98; on appeal [2001] EWCA Civ 1541, [2002] 1 BCLC 55, CA. 8 Insolvency Act 1986 s 423(1)(c). See note 7 supra.

9 Ibid s 423(3)(a). A person cannot contend that his purpose falls outside the relevant purpose of s 423(3) simply by pointing to another purpose, such as the benefit of his family, friends or the advantage of business associates: Chohan v Saggar [1992] BCC 306; Royscot Spa Leasing Ltd v Lovett [1995] BCC 502, CA; Barclays Bank plc v Eustice [1995] 4 All ER 511, [1995] 1 WLR 1238, CA. The applicant need not show that one of the statutory purposes was the only or dominant purpose behind the transaction, merely that the donor, vendor or settlor was substantially motivated by one of those purposes: IRC v Hashmi [2002] EWCA Civ 981, [2002] 2 BCLC 489, [2002] BCC 943, CA (resolving the uncertain position under former case law: see Chohan v Saggar supra; cf Royscot Spa Leasing Ltd v Lovett supra; Pinewood Joinery (a firm) v Starelm Properties Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 412, [1994] BCC 569; Midland Bank plc v Wyatt [1995] 3 FCR 11, [1997] 1 BCLC 242). An applicant under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423 does not need to prove dishonesty or fraud; even if the thing was done after taking legal advice, and with honest motive, it may be set aside: Arbuthnot Leasing International Ltd v Havelet Leasing Ltd (No 2) [1990] BCC 636.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(ii) Transactions Defrauding Creditors/855. Who may apply.

855. Who may apply.

An application for any order under the provisions concerning transactions defrauding creditors¹ may not be made in relation to a transaction except:

- 1218 (1) in a case where the debtor² is a body corporate which is being wound up or is in administration, by the official receiver³, the liquidator or the administrator of the body corporate or, with the leave of the court, by a victim of the transaction⁴;
- 1219 (2) in a case where a victim of the transaction is bound by a voluntary arrangement⁵, by the supervisor of the voluntary arrangement or by any person who, whether or not so bound, is such a victim⁶; or
- 1220 (3) in any other case, by a victim of the transaction⁷.

An application made under any of these provisions is to be treated as made on behalf of every victim of the transaction⁸.

² For these purposes, in relation to a transaction at an undervalue, the person entering into the transaction is referred to in ibid s 424 (as amended) and s 425 (see para 856 post) as 'the debtor': s 423(5).

³ As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante.

In the case where an individual who has entered into the transaction at an undervalue has been adjudged bankrupt, the application may be made only by the official receiver, the trustee of the bankrupt's estate or, with the leave of the court, by the victim of the transaction: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 424(1)(a) (as originally enacted); and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) para 665.

As to the orders which may be made for the benefit of all persons on whose behalf the application for the order is treated as made see para 856 post. The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(ii) Transactions Defrauding Creditors/856. Orders which may be made.

856. Orders which may be made.

Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions concerning transactions defrauding creditors¹, an order made with respect to such a transaction may:

- 1221 (1) require any property transferred as part of the transaction to be vested in any person, either absolutely or for the benefit of all the persons on whose behalf the application for the order is treated as made²;
- 1222 (2) require any property to be so vested if it represents, in any person's hands, the application either of the proceeds of sale of property so transferred or of money so transferred³;
- 1223 (3) release or discharge, in whole or in part, any security⁴ given by the debtor⁵;
- 1224 (4) require any person to pay to any other person in respect of benefits received from the debtor such sums as the court may direct⁶;
- 1225 (5) provide for any surety or guarantor whose obligations to any person were released or discharged, in whole or in part, under the transaction to be under such new or revived obligations as the court thinks appropriate⁷;
- 1226 (6) provide for security to be provided for the discharge of any obligation imposed by or arising under the order, for such an obligation to be charged on any property and for such security or charge to have the same priority as a security or charge released or discharged, in whole or in part, under the transaction⁸.

An order made under these above provisions may affect the property of, or impose any obligation on, any person whether or not he is the person with whom the debtor entered into the transaction; but such an order:

- 1227 (a) may not prejudice any interest in property which was acquired from a person other than the debtor and was acquired in good faith, for value and without notice of the relevant circumstances⁹, or prejudice any interest deriving from such an interest¹⁰; and
- 1228 (b) may not require a person who received a benefit from the transaction in good faith, for value and without notice of the relevant circumstances, to pay any sum unless he was a party to the transaction¹¹.

1 le the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423: see para 854 ante.

2 Ibid s 425(1)(a). See para 855 ante.

3 Ibid s 425(1)(b).

4 For these purposes, 'security' means any mortgage, charge, lien or other security: ibid s 425(4).

5 Ibid s 425(1)(c). For the meaning of 'the debtor' see para 855 note 2 ante.

6 Ibid s 425(1)(d).

7 Ibid s 425(1)(e).

8 Ibid s 425(1)(f).

9 For these purposes, the relevant circumstances, in relation to a transaction, are the circumstances by virtue of which an order under ibid s 423 (see para 854 ante) may be made in respect of the transaction: s 425(3).

10 Ibid s 425(2)(a). In Arbuthnot Leasing International Ltd v Havelet Leasing Ltd (No 2) [1990] BCC 636, the property was ordered to be held on trust by the transferee for the company, but without prejudice to the claims of subsequent creditors. In Chohan v Saggar [1994] 1 BCLC 706, [1994] BCC 134, CA, it was held that the power under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 423(2) was not a power to restore the position generally, but to restore the position in so far as necessary to protect the interests of the victims. Section 423 has unlimited extra-territorial effect and hence the court has jurisdiction to make an order under s 425 against an Irish company in respect of a transaction which had no substantial connection with England and Wales: Jyske Bank (Gibraltar) Ltd v Spjeldnaes [1999] 2 BCLC 101.

859. Orders with respect to extortionate credit transactions.

On the application of the liquidator¹, the court may make an order with respect to the transaction if the transaction is or was extortionate² and was entered into in the period of three years ending with the day on which the company went into liquidation³. An order with respect to any such transaction may contain such one or more of the following provisions as the court thinks fit:

- 1230 (2) provision otherwise varying the terms of the transaction or varying the terms on which any security for the purposes of the transaction is held⁵;
- 1231 (3) provision requiring any person who is or was a party to the transaction to pay to the liquidator any sums paid to that person, by virtue of the transaction, by the company⁶;
- 1232 (4) provision requiring any person to surrender to the liquidator any property held by him as security for the purposes of the transaction⁷; and

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

862. Invalidity of floating charge.

A floating charge¹ on the company's undertaking or property created at a relevant time² is invalid except to the extent of the aggregate of:

- 1234 (1) the value of so much of the consideration for the creation of the charge as consists of money paid³, or goods or services supplied⁴, to the company at the same time as, or after, the creation of the charge⁵;
- 1235 (2) the value of so much of that consideration as consists of the discharge or reduction, at the same time as, or after, the creation of the charge, of any debt of the company⁶; and
- 1236 (3) the amount of such interest, if any, as is payable on the amount falling within either of heads (1) and (2) above in pursuance of any agreement under which the money was so paid, the goods or services were so supplied, or the debt was so discharged or reduced⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'floating charge' means a charge which as created was a floating charge and includes a floating charge within the Companies Act 1985 s 462 (Scottish floating charges): Insolvency Act 1986 s 251. As to floating charges generally see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1269.

2 For the meaning of 'a relevant time' see para 863 post. It was argued in Re Shoe Lace Ltd, Power v Sharp Investments Ltd [1994] 1 BCLC 111, [1993] BCC 609, CA, that the change in wording from the opening words of the Companies Act 1948 s 322 (repealed), that is to say from 'Where a company is being wound up ...' to 'This section applies as does section 238 ...' meant that the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245 took effect only on the making of a winding-up order rather than the date of presentation of the petition as under the Companies Act 1948 s 322 (repealed). As the company had sold its assets and accounted to the charge holder for the proceeds between presentation of the petition and the winding-up order, had the argument been correct, the charge holder could have retained the proceeds of sale: see Mace Builders (Glasgow) Ltd v Lunn [1987] Ch 191, [1986] 3 WLR 921, CA. The argument was rejected in Re Shoe Lace Ltd, Power v Sharp Investments Ltd supra and there is no relevant difference between the Companies Act 1948 s 322 (repealed) and the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245 in this respect.

5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 245(2)(a). Under the Companies Act 1948 s 322 (repealed) and earlier corresponding provisions, it was held that, notwithstanding the invalidation of the floating charge, the covenant to pay the sum secured by it remained valid; and, if the sum secured was paid before the winding up, the liquidator could not recover the sum so repaid (Re Parkes Garage (Swadlincote) Ltd [1929] 1 Ch 139; Mace Builders (Glasgow) Ltd v Lunn [1987] Ch 191, CA) unless the repayment could be set aside as a preference (see para 846 et seq ante). A floating charge given within the relevant period pursuant to the terms of an agreement made outside the period providing for its execution on the happening of a certain event which happened within that period has been held to be invalid: Re Gregory Love & Co [1916] 1 Ch 203.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

863. The relevant time.

The time at which a floating charge is created by a company is a relevant time for the purposes of the provisions relating to the invalidity of floating charges¹ if the charge is created:

- 1237 (1) in the case of a charge which is created in favour of a person who is connected with the company², at a time in the period of two years ending with the onset of insolvency³;
- 1238 (2) in the case of a charge created in favour of any other person, at a time in the period of 12 months ending with the onset of insolvency⁴;
- 1239 (3) in either case, at a time between the making of an administration application in respect of the company and the making of an administration order on that application⁵; or
- 1240 (4) in either case, at a time between the filing with the court of a copy of notice of intention to appoint an administrator⁶ and the consequent making of an appointment⁷.

1 le the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245 (as amended) (see the text and notes 3-7 infra; and para 862 ante).

2 For to the meaning of 'connected' with a company see para 5 ante.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 245(3)(a). For these purposes, the onset of insolvency is: (1) in a case where s 245 (as amended) applies by reason of an administrator of a company being appointed by administration order, the date on which the administration application was made; (2) in a case where s 245 applies by reason of an administrator of a company being appointed under Sch B1 para 14 (as added) or Sch B1 para 22 (as added) (see paras 228 et seq, 236 et seq ante) following filing with the court of a copy of notice of intention to appoint under that provision, the date on which the copy of the notice is filed; (3) in a case where s 245 applies by reason of an administrator of a company being appointed otherwise than as mentioned in head (1) or head (2) supra, the date on which the appointment takes effect; or (4) in a case where s 245 applies by reason of a company going into liquidation, the date of the commencement of the winding up: s 245(5)(a)-(d) (s 245(5)(a), (b) substituted, and s 245(c), (d) added, by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 31(1), (4)). The amendments made to these provisions do not apply where a petition for an administration order has been presented prior to 15 September 2003, or in respect of special administration regimes (see para 145 ante), in which circumstances 'the onset of insolvency' is: (a) in a case where the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245 applies by reason of the making of an administration order, the date of the presentation of the petition on which the administration order was made; or (b) in a case where s 245 applies by reason of a company going into liquidation, the date of the commencement of the winding up: Insolvency Act 1986 s 245(5)(a), (b) (as originally enacted); Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2, 3. As to entering administration see para 145 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'go into liquidation' see para 9 note 3 ante. As to the commencement of a winding up by the court see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 129 (as amended); and para 489 ante. As to the commencement of a voluntary winding up see s 86; and para 996 post. As to administration orders see para 145 et seq ante.

4 Ibid s 245(3)(b) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 278(2), Sch 17 paras 9, 31(1), (2), Sch 26). Where a company creates a floating charge in the period of 12 months ending with the onset of insolvency, and the person in favour of whom the charge is created is not connected with the company, that time is not a relevant time for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245 (as amended) unless the company is at that time unable to pay its debts (within the meaning of s 123: see para 446 ante), or becomes unable to pay its debts in consequence of the transaction under which the charge is created: s 245(4).

5 Ibid s 245(3)(c) (s 245(3)(c), (d) added by the Enterprise Act 2002 Sch 17 paras 9, 31(1), (3)). The addition of these provisions does not apply where a petition for an administration order has been presented prior to 15 September 2003 or in respect of special administration regimes: Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2, 3.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(iv) Avoidance of Certain Floating Charges/864. Payment at time of creation.

864. Payment at time of creation.

The question whether or not the consideration for the creation of the charge moved to the company at the same time as¹ the creation of the charge depends in the first instance on the question when the charge was created. In equity a floating charge is created by a contract evidenced in writing and for valuable consideration to execute, when required, a formal mortgage by way of floating charge². Thus, if the charge is created by such a contract, the date of that charge will be the relevant date for deciding whether the relevant consideration moved at the same time as the creation of the charge, notwithstanding the fact that formal charge documents are not drawn up or executed until a subsequent date. The consideration must move to the company contemporaneously with the creation of the charge, or the time by which it precedes the creation must be *de minimis*³.

1 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245(2)(a), (b); and para 862 ante.

2 Re Shoe Lace Ltd, Power v Sharp Investments Ltd [1993] BCC 609 at 615, CA, referring to Re Jackson & Bassford Ltd [1906] 2 Ch 467 at 477 (where the court distinguished between an agreement to give security which was so expressed as to create a present equitable right to a security (which was registrable) and an agreement to give security which was so expressed as to be merely an agreement that in some future circumstances a security should in the future be created. In the event that a charge is created, it will be void against the liquidator and any creditor of the company unless it is registered within 21 days of its date of creation: see the Companies Act 1985 s 395 (as amended)).

3 Re Shoe Lace Ltd, Power v Sharp Investments Ltd [1993] BCC 609 at 619, CA, per Sir Christopher Slade (giving the example of a 'coffee break') and at 625 per Ralph Gibson LJ; although Nolan LJ at 624 reserved his decision on the precise meaning of 'at the same time as', he decided that some degree of latitude might be permissible to take account of such matters as urgency, international transactions across different time zones and other factors which might make it difficult to determine at what precise time money was paid or a charge created.

Under the Companies Act 1948 s 322 (repealed) and earlier corresponding provisions, the payment need not have been unconditional for the floating charge to have been valid, and the payment could have been on the terms that it was to be used to extinguish an existing liability of the company: Re Matthew Ellis Ltd [1933] Ch 458, CA, disapproving a dictum in Re Hayman, Christy and Lilly Ltd, Christy v Hayman, Christy and Lilly Ltd [1917] 1 Ch 283. See also Revere Trust Ltd v Wellington Handkerchief Works Ltd [1931] NI 55, CA. See para 862 ante. The payment must not, however, have been illusory: Re Orleans Motor Co Ltd [1911] 2 Ch 41; Re Matthew Ellis Ltd [1933] Ch 458, CA. A payment to the payee of a company's bill of exchange was not a payment of cash to the company (Re WG McCleave & Co Ltd (1913) 47 ILT 214), but a payment to meet a cheque drawn by the company was such a payment (Re Yeovil Glove Co Ltd [1965] Ch 148, [1964] 2 All ER 849, CA). Nor must the payment have been made to benefit certain creditors of the company at the expense of others: Re Destone Fabrics Ltd [1941] Ch 319, [1941] 1 All ER 545, CA. Where a floating charge was given within 12 months before the winding up to a bank to secure loan and current accounts, and no advances were made after its issue on the loan account, it was valid only as to advances on the current account made after the date of charge and owing at the date of the winding up: Re Hayman, Christy and Lilly Ltd, Christy v Hayman, Christy and Lilly Ltd supra. A floating charge was invalid where its creation was in substance no more than the substitution of a secured for an unsecured debt, or of a better for an existing security; underhand conduct on the part of the chargee was unnecessary: Re GT Whyte & Co Ltd [1983] BCLC 311. It is unclear whether these cases remain authoritative under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 245 (as amended).

866. Disclaimer of onerous property.

The liquidator of a company that is being wound up in England and Wales may, by the giving of the prescribed notice¹, disclaim any onerous property² and may do so notwithstanding that he has taken possession of it, endeavoured to sell it or otherwise exercised rights of ownership in relation to it³.

Where:

- 1241 (1) a company which is being wound up is as a result of one or more assignments the tenant of part only of the premises demised by a tenancy; and
- 1242 (2) the liquidator exercises his power to disclaim property⁴ demised by the tenancy,

Without prejudice to its generality, s 1(3) applies to the grant of a tenancy where by virtue of any variation of a tenancy there is a deemed surrender and re-grant as it applies to any other grant of a tenancy: s 1(5). Where a tenancy granted on or after 1 January 1996 is so granted in pursuance of an option granted before that date, the tenancy is regarded for the purposes of s 1(3) as granted in pursuance of an agreement entered into before that date (and accordingly is not a new tenancy), whether or not the option was exercised before that date: s 1(6). NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733. Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in this paragraph are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions), see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

NOTE 1--See Environment Agency v Hillridge Ltd [2003] EWHC 3023 (Ch), [2004] JPL 1258 (company disclaiming onerous property no longer has rights in respect of such property).

868. Effect of disclaimer.

A disclaimer of onerous property¹ operates so as to determine, as from the date of the disclaimer, the rights, interests and liabilities of the company in or in respect of the property disclaimed; but it does not operate, except so far as is necessary for the purpose of releasing the company from any liability, so as to affect the rights or liabilities of any other person². Thus a disclaimer by a liquidator of a lease³ assigned to a company renders the assignor liable under his covenants for rent due after liquidation⁴. Further, where the company is the original tenant, the liability of persons who have guaranteed the due payment of rent under the lease and the performance of other covenants contained in it is not affected by the disclaimer⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'onerous property' see para 867 ante.

2 Insolvency Act 1986 s 178(4). Failure to disclaim a contract does not make a liquidator personally liable on it: Stead, Hazel & Co v Cooper [1933] 1 KB 840. A disclaimer does not extend to the undoing of contractual rights and benefits which have already been vested: Capital Prime Properties plc v Worthgate Ltd (in liquidation) [2000] 1 BCLC 647. As to disclaimer generally see LANDLORD AND TENANT vol 27(1) (2006 Reissue) para 642 et seq.

5 Hindcastle Ltd v Barbara Attenborough Associates Ltd [1997] AC 70, [1996] 1 All ER 737, HL, overruling Stacey v Hill [1901] 1 KB 660, CA (a bankruptcy case). In order to avoid the effect of the latter decision, leases sometimes included a clause to the effect that, in the event of disclaimer, a surety would take a new lease; such clauses are valid: Re Yarmarine (IW) Ltd [1992] BCLC 276, [1992] BCC 28; Murphy v Sawyer-Hoare (Stacey and Bowie, third parties) [1993] 2 EGLR 61, [1994] 2 BCLC 59. The notice requiring the surety to take a new lease does not need to comply with the Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1989 s 2 (as amended) (which requires contracts for the sale of land to be signed and in writing) (see SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) para 29): Active Estates Ltd v Parness [2002] EWHC 893 (Ch), [2002] BPIR 865. Where a head lease is disclaimed, then as between sub-landlord and sub-tenant, the head lease is to be treated as still in existence, although the landlord retains the right to distrain for rent and forfeit in the event that the terms of the disclaimed head lease are not complied with: Re AE Realisations (1985) Ltd [1987] 3 All ER 83, [1988] 1 WLR 200; cf Pellicano v MEPC plc [1994] 1 EGLR 104; Hill v Griffin [1987] 1 EGLR 81, CA. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(v) Disclaimer; Vesting Orders/870. Communication of disclaimer to persons interested.

870. Communication of disclaimer to persons interested.

Within seven days after the day on which the copy of the notice of disclaimer is returned to him by the court¹, the liquidator must send or give copies of the notice, showing the date indorsed by the court², to the following persons³:

- 1246 (1) where the property disclaimed is of a leasehold nature, he must send or give a copy of the notice to every person who, to his knowledge, claims under the company as underlessee or mortgagee⁴;
- 1247 (2) he must in any case send or give a copy of the notice to every person who, to his knowledge, claims an interest in the disclaimed property, or is under any liability in respect of the property, not being a liability discharged by the disclaimer⁵;
- 1248 (3) if the disclaimer is of an unprofitable contract, he must send or give copies of the notice to all such persons as, to his knowledge, are parties to the contract or have interests under it⁶.

If subsequently it comes to the liquidator's knowledge, in the case of any person, that he has such an interest in the disclaimed property as would have entitled him to receive a copy of the notice of disclaimer in pursuance of these provisions, the liquidator must then forthwith send or give to that person a copy of the notice; but compliance with this provision is not required if the liquidator is satisfied that the person has already been made aware of the disclaimer and its date, or the court, on the liquidator's application, orders that compliance is not required in that particular case⁷.

The liquidator disclaiming property may⁸, at any time, give notice of the disclaimer to any persons who in his opinion ought, in the public interest or otherwise, to be informed of it⁹.

A notice of disclaimer may not be given¹ in respect of any property if a person interested in the property has applied in writing to the liquidator or one of his predecessors as liquidator requiring the liquidator or that predecessor to decide whether he will disclaim or not², and the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which that application was made, or such longer period as the court may allow, has expired without a notice of disclaimer having been given in respect of that property³. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(v) Disclaimer; Vesting Orders/876. Orders vesting disclaimed property; in general.

876. Orders vesting disclaimed property; in general.

Where the liquidator has disclaimed property¹, an application may be made to the court² by any person who claims an interest in the disclaimed property³ or who is under any liability in respect of the disclaimed property, not being a liability discharged by the disclaimer⁴, and on such an application the court may make an order on such terms as it thinks fit⁵ for the vesting of the disclaimed property in, or for its delivery to:

- 1249 (1) a person entitled to it or a trustee for such a person⁶; or
- 1250 (2) a person subject to such a liability or a trustee for such a person⁷.

The court may not, however, make an order in favour of the persons referred to in head (2) above except where it appears to the court that it would be just to do so for the purpose of compensating the person subject to the liability in respect of the disclaimer⁸.

Such an order vesting property in any person need not be completed by conveyance, assignment or transfer⁹.

1 Under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 178: see para 866 et seq ante. As to the position where the disclaimed property is of a leasehold nature see para 877 post.

2 As to the making of applications see para 878 et seq post.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 181(1), (2)(a). A person in occupation of premises of which he had agreed to take an assignment, subject to the consent of the landlord, did not have an 'interest' in the disclaimed property within the meaning of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 181(2)(a): Lloyds Bank SF Nominees v Aladdin Ltd (in liquidation) [1996] 1 BCLC 720, CA. Statutory tenants have a sufficient interest to apply pursuant to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 181: Re Vedmay Ltd (1993) 69 P & CR 247, [1994] 1 BCLC 676.

4 Insolvency Act 1986 s 181(2)(b). A person whose liability is as guarantor of a company's debts to its bank, the disclaimed property being initially subject to a charge securing the company's indebtedness, is not 'under any liability in respect of the disclaimed property' within the meaning of s 181(2)(b): Re Spirit Motorsport Ltd (in liquidation) [1996] 1 BCLC 684.

6 Insolvency Act 1986 s 181(3)(a). Whilst the landlord of a lease disclaimed by the head lessee has an interest in the disclaimed property, he is not entitled to the property, within the meaning of s 181(3)(a), where there are sub-tenants, since the sub-tenants are entitled to possession of the disclaimed property: hence, such a landlord has no right to a vesting order: Re ITM Corp Ltd (in liquidation), Sterling Estates v Pickard UK Ltd (formerly Paxus Professional Systems Ltd) [1997] 2 BCLC 389, [1997] BCC 554.

877. Vesting of disclaimed property; leases.

The court may not make an order¹ vesting property of a leasehold nature in any person claiming under the company as underlessee or mortgagee except on terms making that person:

- 1251 (1) subject to the same liabilities and obligations as the company was subject to under the lease at the commencement of the winding up²; or
- 1252 (2) if the court thinks fit, subject to the same liabilities and obligations as that person would be subject to if the lease had been assigned to him at the commencement of the winding up³.

For the purposes of an order relating to only part of any property comprised in a lease, these conditions apply as if the lease comprised only the property to which the order relates⁴.

Where these conditions apply and no person claiming under the company as underlessee or mortgagee is willing to accept a vesting order on the terms required which satisfy the specified conditions, the court may, by order, vest the company's estate or interest in the property in any person who is liable, whether personally or in a representative capacity, and whether alone or jointly with the company, to perform the lessee's covenants in the lease; and the court may vest that estate and interest in such a person freed and discharged from all estates, incumbrances and interests created by the company⁵. Where these conditions apply and a person claiming under the company as underlessee or mortgagee declines to accept any vesting order, that person is excluded from all interest in the property⁶.

878. Application for vesting order.

An application by any person for an order of the court to vest or deliver disclaimed property¹ must be made within three months of the applicant becoming aware of the disclaimer, or of his receiving a copy of the liquidator's notice of disclaimer², whichever is the earlier³.

With his application, the applicant must file in court⁴ an affidavit:

- 1253 (1) stating whether he applies as a person who claims an interest in the disclaimed property⁵ or as a person who is under a liability in respect of the disclaimed property, not being a liability discharged by the disclaimer⁶;
- 1254 (2) specifying the date on which he received a copy of the liquidator's notice of disclaimer, or otherwise became aware of the disclaimer⁷; and
- 1255 (3) specifying the grounds of his application and the order which he desires the court to make⁸.

The court must fix a venue⁹ for the hearing of the application; and the applicant must, not later than seven days before the date fixed, give to the liquidator notice of the venue, accompanied by copies of the application and the affidavit in support¹⁰.

On the hearing of the application, the court may give directions as to other persons, if any, who should be sent or given notice of the application and the grounds on which it is made¹¹; and sealed copies of any order made on the application must be sent by the court to the applicant and the liquidator¹².

In a case where the property disclaimed is of a leasehold nature, and the effect of the disclaimer is suspended¹², a direction must be included in the court's order giving effect to the disclaimer, unless, at the time when the order is issued, other applications for vesting orders are pending in respect of the same property¹³.

(vi) Execution and Attachment

882. Restrictions on creditors' rights in general.

Where a creditor has issued execution¹ against the goods² or land of a company or has attached any debt due to the company and the company is subsequently wound up, he is not entitled to retain the benefit of the execution or attachment against the liquidator in the winding up unless he has completed³ the execution or attachment before the commencement⁴ of the winding up⁵. The benefit of the execution or attachment does not include money received by the creditor under it, but means the benefit of the charge which the creditor obtains by the issue of the execution or attachment⁶.

The rights so conferred on the liquidator may be set aside by the court in favour of the creditor to such extent and subject to such terms as the court thinks fit⁷; and a person who purchases in good faith under a sale by the enforcement officer⁸ or other officer charged with the execution of the writ any goods of a company on which execution has been levied acquires in all cases a good title to them against the liquidator⁹.

For the purposes of these provisions, an execution against goods is completed by seizure and sale, or by the making of a charging order¹⁰; an attachment of a debt is completed by receipt of the debt¹¹; and an execution against land is completed by seizure, by the appointment of a receiver, or by the making of a charging order¹².

The effect of winding up as regards execution afterwards put in force is considered elsewhere in this title¹³.

1 The arrest of a ship is not execution for this purpose: The Zafiro [1960] P 1, [1959] 2 All ER 537.

2 For these purposes, 'goods' includes all chattels personal: Insolvency Act 1986 s 183(4).

3 If the proceeds are in the enforcement officer's hands, the execution is not completed; thus the creditor's right to receive the money is divested by the liquidation, and the enforcement officer is under a duty to account instead to the liquidator: Bluston and Bramley Ltd v Leigh [1950] 2 KB 548, [1950] 2 All ER 29. The powers of the enforcement officer were formerly vested in the sheriff. As to the enforcement officer see note 8 infra.

4 As to the commencement of the winding up see para 489 ante. If any creditor has had notice of a meeting having been called at which a resolution for voluntary winding up is to be proposed, the date on which the creditor so had notice must be substituted, for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 183(1) (as amended), for the date of the commencement of the winding up: s 183(2)(a). Section 183(2)(a) does not apply in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership: see the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 183(1). See also Re Walkden Sheet Metal Co Ltd [1960] Ch 170, [1959] 3 All ER 333 (money paid to avoid sale not part of benefit of execution). A charging or garnishee order nisi (now called a third party debt order) will not be converted into an absolute order where the company has gone into liquidation: Roberts Petroleum Ltd v Bernard Kenny Ltd [1983] 2 AC 192, [1983] 1 All ER 564, HL; and see D Wilson (Birmingham) Ltd v Metropolitan Property Developments Ltd [1975] 2 All ER 814, CA. The Insolvency Act 1986 s 183(1) (as amended) does not apply to distress by a landlord: see Re Bellaglade Ltd [1977] 1 All ER 319; but see further para 887 et seq post. The Insolvency Act 1986 s 183 (as amended) has no extra-territorial effect: Mitchell v Carter, Re Buckingham International plc [1997] 1 BCLC 673, [1997] BCC 71, CA. An English court does, however, have jurisdiction to decide whether the fruits of foreign garnishment proceedings (analogous to English third party debt orders) should be retained by the garnishees: Mitchell v Carter, Re

Buckingham International plc supra. It seems that, whilst a liquidator may have standing to apply to set aside a charging order absolute as a person 'interested' under the Charging Orders Act 1979 s 3(5) (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 12 (2009) PARA 1484), any such application would ordinarily fail by reason of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 183 (as amended): Banque Nationale de Paris plc v Montman Ltd [2000] 1 BCLC 576.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

882 Restrictions on creditors' rights in general

TEXT AND NOTE 1--Distraint against goods for unpaid tax under the Taxes Management Act 1970 s 61 (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) PARA 1815) is not execution within the 1986 Act s 183(1): Re Modern Jet Support Centre Ltd [2005] EWHC 1611 (Ch), [2005] 1 WLR 3880.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(13) ADJUSTMENT OF PRIOR AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS/(vi) Execution and Attachment/883. Restrictions on creditors' rights in relation to Scottish assets.

883. Restrictions on creditors' rights in relation to Scottish assets.

Where a company registered in England and Wales which is being wound up has any estate or effects situated in Scotland, then as from the commencement of the winding up¹, the order of the court awarding winding up has effect, in relation to diligence done, whether before or after the date of winding up, in respect of any part of the company's estate, of:

- 1256 (1) a decree of adjudication of the heritable estate of the company for payment of its debts which has been duly recorded in the register of inhibitions and adjudications on that date²; and
- 1257 (2) an arrestment in execution and decree of furthcoming, an arrestment in execution and warrant of sale, and a completed poinding³, in favour of the creditors according to their respective entitlements. No inhibition on the estate of the company which takes effect within the period of 60 days before the date of winding up is effectual to create a preference for the inhibitor; and any relevant right of challenge⁴ vests, at the date of winding up, in the liquidator, as does any right of the inhibitor to receive payment for the discharge of the inhibition⁵.

No arrestment or attachment of the estate of the company, including any estate vesting in the liquidator⁶, executed within the period of 60 days before the date of winding up and whether or not subsisting at that date, or on or after the date of winding up, is effectual to create a preference for the arrester or attacher; and the estate so arrested or attached or the proceeds of sale thereof, must be handed over to the liquidator⁷. An arrester or attacher whose arrestment or attachment is executed within such period of 60 days is entitled to payment, out of the arrested or attached estate or out of the proceeds of sale thereof, of the expenses incurred:

- 1258 (a) in obtaining the extract of the decree or other document on which the arrestment or attachment proceeded⁸;
- 1259 (b) in executing the arrestment or attachment⁹; and
- 1260 (c) in taking any further action in respect of diligence¹⁰.

No poinding of the ground in respect of the estate of the company, including any estate vesting in the liquidator¹¹, executed within the period of 60 days before the date of the winding up or on or after that date is effectual, in a question with the liquidator, except for the interest on the debt of a secured creditor, being interest for the current half-yearly term and arrears of interest for one year immediately before the commencement of that term¹².

Any sale of the company's estate by the liquidator may be by either public sale or private bargain¹³. The following rules apply to the sale of any part of the company's heritable estate over which a heritable security is held by a creditor or creditors if the rights of the secured creditor or creditors are preferable to those of the liquidator:

- 1261 (i) the liquidator may sell that part only with the concurrence of every such creditor unless he obtains a sufficiently high price to discharge every such security¹⁴;

- 1262 (ii) subject to head (iii) below, the taking of steps by a creditor to enforce his security over that part after the liquidator has intimated to the creditor that he intends to sell it, and the commencement by the liquidator of the procedure for the sale of that part after a creditor has intimated to the liquidator that he intends to commence the procedure for its sale, are precluded¹⁵;
- 1263 (iii) where the liquidator or a creditor has given intimation under head (ii) above, but has unduly delayed in proceeding with the sale, then, if authorised by the court in the case of intimation under head (i) above, any creditor to whom intimation has been given may enforce his security, or in the case of head (ii) above, the liquidator may sell that part¹⁶.

The validity of the title of any purchaser is not challengeable on the ground that there has been a failure to comply with any of the statutory requirements relating to the management and realisation of assets¹⁷. It is incompetent for the liquidator or an associate of his or for any commissioner to purchase any of the company's estate in pursuance of those requirements¹⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'the commencement of the winding up of the company' means, where it is being wound up by the court, the day on which the winding-up order is made: Insolvency Act 1986 s 185(3).

4 For these purposes, 'any relevant right of challenge' means any right to challenge a deed voluntarily granted by the company, if it is a right which vested in the inhibitor by virtue of the inhibition: Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985 s 37(3); Insolvency Act 1986 s 185(1)(a), (2)(a), (4).

5 Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985 s 37(2); Insolvency Act 1986 s 185(1)(a), (2)(a)-(c), (4). This provision does not, however, entitle the liquidator to receive any payment made to the inhibitor before that date of winding up; nor does it affect the validity of any thing done before that date in consideration of such payment: Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985 s 37(2) proviso; Insolvency Act 1986 s 185(1)(a), (2)(b)-(d), (4).

Nothing in the Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985 s 37(4) (as amended) or s 37(5) (as amended) (see the text and notes 8-10 infra) applies to an earnings arrestment, a current maintenance arrestment, a conjoined arrestment order or a deduction from earnings order under the Child Support Act 1991: Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985 s 37(5A) (added by the Debtors (Scotland) Act 1987 s 108(1), Sch 6 para 27; and amended by the Child Support Act 1991 s 58(13), Sch 5 para 6(1), (3)); Insolvency Act 1986 s 185(1)(a), (4).

884. Enforcement officer's duties under execution.

Where any goods¹ of a company are taken in execution and, before their sale or the completion of the execution by the receipt or recovery of the full amount of the levy, notice is served on the enforcement officer² (or other officer) charged with the execution of the writ or other process³ that a provisional liquidator has been appointed or that a winding-up order has been made, or that a resolution for voluntary winding up has been passed⁴, the enforcement officer or other officer must, on being so required, deliver to the liquidator the goods and any money seized or received in part satisfaction of the execution⁵; but the costs of the execution are a first charge on the goods or money so delivered, and the liquidator may sell the goods or a sufficient part of them for the purpose of satisfying the charge⁶. The court may, however, set aside the rights thus conferred on the liquidator in favour of the creditor to such extent and subject to such terms as the court thinks fit⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'goods' includes all chattels personal: Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(6).

2 For these purposes, 'enforcement officer' means an individual who is authorised to act under the Courts Act 2003: Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(6) (s 184(1), (2), (6) amended by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 296).

3 A copy of a notice under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 98 calling the creditors' meeting (see para 945 post) is sufficient notice for this purpose: Engineering Industry Training Board v Samuel Talbot (Engineers) Ltd [1969] 2 QB 270, [1969] 1 All ER 480, CA.

4 Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(1) (as amended: see note 2 supra). In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, these provisions apply where the partnership has determined that it be wound up voluntarily: see s 184(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

5 Money paid to avoid sale is not received in part satisfaction of the execution for this purpose: see Re Walkden Sheet Metal Co Ltd [1960] Ch 170, [1959] 3 All ER 333.

6 Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(2) (as amended: see note 2 supra). The costs of execution refer only to the enforcement officer or other officers' costs and do not include the creditor's costs of issuing and serving the writ of fieri facias: Re Woods (Bristol) Ltd [1931] 2 Ch 320.

7 Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(5). As to the exercise of the court's discretion under this provision cf para 882 note 7 ante.

885. Retention of proceeds after sale.

Where, under an execution in respect of a judgment for a sum exceeding £500¹ the goods² of a company are sold, or money is paid in order to avoid a sale, the enforcement officer³ or other officer must deduct the costs of the execution from the proceeds of sale or the money paid, and retain the balance for 14 days⁴. If, within that time, notice⁵ is served on the enforcement officer or other officer of a winding-up petition having been presented, or of a meeting having been called at which there is to be proposed a resolution for the voluntary winding up of the company, and an order is made or a resolution is passed, as the case may be⁶, for the winding up of the company, the enforcement officer or other officer must pay the balance to the liquidator, who is then entitled to retain it as against the execution creditor⁷, subject to the court's power to set aside his right in favour of the creditor to such extent and subject to such terms as the court thinks fit⁸.

1 The Secretary of State may by order in a statutory instrument increase or reduce the sum for the time being specified in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(3) (as amended); and such order may contain such transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State necessary or expedient: ss 184(7), 416(1), (2). A statutory instrument containing an order under s 416 is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 416(4). The sum of £500 was substituted for the sum of £250 by the Insolvency Proceedings (Monetary Limits) Order 1986, SI 1986/1996, art 2, Schedule Pt I. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'goods' see para 884 note 1 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'enforcement officer' see para 884 note 2 ante.

4 Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(3) (amended by the Insolvency Proceedings (Monetary Limits) Order 1986, SI 1986/1996, art 2, Schedule Pt I s 184(3), (4); and by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 296(1), (3)). The 14 days commence from the date of payment by the company, not from the receipt of the money by the enforcement officer or other officer: Re Walkden Sheet Metal Co Ltd [1960] Ch 170, [1959] 3 All ER 333.

5 As to notice see para 884 note 3 ante.

6 The provision applies only if notice of a petition is followed by an order for compulsory winding up or notice of a meeting is followed by a resolution for voluntary winding up; it does not apply where notice of a meeting to be called to consider a resolution for voluntary winding up is followed by a resolution to wind up compulsorily (Bluston and Bramley Ltd v Leigh [1950] 2 KB 548, [1950] 2 All ER 29) or where the notice given is of a meeting which has not in fact been called (Re TD Walton Ltd [1966] 2 All ER 157, [1966] 1 WLR 869).

7 Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(4) (amended by the Courts Act 2003 Sch 8 para 296(1), (3)). This provision, being one which divests rights, must be strictly construed: Re TD Walton Ltd [1966] 2 All ER 157, [1966] 1 WLR 869. See also para 884 note 6 ante. In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, these provisions apply where a resolution is passed: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(4); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. 886. Assessment of enforcement officer's costs.

Where an enforcement officer¹ is required to deliver up goods or money², or has deducted costs from the proceeds of an execution or money paid to him³, the liquidator may require in writing that the officer's bill of costs be decided by detailed assessment⁴. Where such a requirement is made, the enforcement officer must commence detailed assessment proceedings⁵ within three months of the requirement being made, or within such further time as the court, on application, may permit; and, if the enforcement officer fails to comply with this requirement, the liquidator may deal with the company's assets without regard to any claim by the officer, whose claim is forfeited⁶.

Where, in the case of a deduction of costs from the proceeds of an execution or money paid to him, any amount is disallowed at the conclusion of the detailed assessment proceedings, the enforcement officer must forthwith pay a sum equal to that amount to the liquidator for the benefit of the company's assets⁷.

1 An enforcement officer is an individual who is authorised to act under the Courts Act 2003: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(6) (s 184(1), (2), (6) amended by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 296); and para 884 ante. The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.36 (as substituted) refers to 'a sheriff' for these purposes but, by virtue of the amendments made to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 184 by the Courts Act 2003 (see para 884 ante), this should be read as referring to an enforcement or other officer.

(i) Proceedings by or against the Company

887. Power to stay or restrain proceedings.

At any time after the presentation of a winding-up petition, and before a winding-up order has been made, the company, or any creditor or contributory, may, where any claim or proceeding¹ against the company is pending in the High Court or Court of Appeal in England and Wales or Northern Ireland, apply to the court in which the claim or proceeding is pending for a stay of proceedings in it²; and, where any other claim or proceeding³ is pending against the company, may apply to the court having jurisdiction to wind up the company⁴ to restrain further proceedings in the claim or proceeding⁵. The court to which application is so made may, as the case may be, stay or restrain the proceedings accordingly on such terms as it thinks fit⁶.

An application to stay any proceedings in the High Court must be made to the division in which the matter is pending⁷, and may be made without notice⁸. All claims pending against the company in any division of the High Court may be stayed by a single order of that division⁹.

The jurisdiction to stay is discretionary¹⁰; and in its exercise regard must be had to the primary object of winding up, namely the collection and distribution of the assets pari passu among unsecured creditors after payment of preferential debts¹¹.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(i) Proceedings by or against the Company/888. Execution after commencement of winding up.

888. Execution after commencement of winding up.

Where a company registered in England and Wales is being wound up by the court, any attachment, sequestration, distress or execution put in force¹ against the company's estate or effects after the commencement of the winding up is void², so that no interest in any goods of the company seized is acquired, even as against third persons³.

The statutory provision applies to distress for rent⁴ or rates⁵, to equitable execution⁶, to a third party debt order⁷, to arrest of vessels by the Admiralty Court⁸, and to an embargo on foreign assets⁹. Where, however, the successful party in a claim brought against him by the liquidator has obtained an order for payment of his costs, the court will direct payment of his costs in the same manner as if he were in a position to levy execution¹⁰. Where, before the presentation of a winding-up petition, an enforcement officer has seized in execution goods of a company, and after presentation of the petition the execution is allowed to proceed¹¹, the officer's duty to pay to the company's landlord arrears of rent not exceeding one year and the landlord's right to receive the arrears¹² are not affected by the statutory provision¹³.

The court may give leave to commence or proceed with any process falling within these provisions¹⁴.

When any such process is put in force after the winding up has commenced, a stay will be granted or leave to proceed refused¹⁵ except in very special circumstances¹⁶, as where, after the winding up, the liquidator, without taking any objection, allows the person proposing to levy execution to go on and alter his position¹⁷.

As the Crown is bound by the Insolvency Act 1986, the court can prevent the Crown from proceeding against a company in liquidation or from levying execution upon its property¹⁸.

In the case of a company being wound up by the court, where any person, whether or not a landlord or person entitled to rent, has distrained upon the goods or effects of the company in the period of three months ending with the date of the winding-up order, those goods or effects, or the proceeds of sale of those goods or effects, stand charged for the benefit of the company with the preferential debts of the company to the extent that the property of the company is for the time being insufficient for meeting them¹⁹.

1 As to when a process is put in force see the cases cited in notes 15, 17 infra. Cases decided before the enactment of the Companies Act 1929 must be read in the light of the Insolvency Act 1986 ss 183, 184 (as amended) (re-enacting, subject to qualifications, provisions contained in the Companies Act 1929), which relate to executions etc incomplete at the commencement of the winding up: see paras 882, 884 ante.

2 Insolvency Act 1986 s 128(1). Section 128 applies to a company registered in Scotland, so far as relates to any estate or effects of the company situated in England and Wales as it applies in the case of a company registered in England and Wales: s 128(2). As to the avoidance of dispositions after the commencement of winding up see para 700 ante; and as to the court's power to stay a distress or execution in a voluntary winding up see para 1014 post.

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

889. Distress for rent.

A landlord is not allowed¹ to distrain after the commencement of the winding up² for rent accrued due before the winding up commenced in respect of which he is a creditor of the company, but must prove his debt³. Where the rent is payable at stated periods and the winding-up order is made during the currency of a period, the rent is apportionable⁴.

The landlord may, however, be permitted to distrain for rent accrued due before or during the winding up where he is not a creditor and, therefore, cannot prove for the amount of his rent, as, for example, where the company is merely an undertenant⁵, or is only equitably entitled to the lease⁶ even though it has collaterally secured the rent⁷, or where the company's goods are merely on the tenant's⁸ premises. Where the landlord is not a legal creditor of the company, he cannot be deprived of his rights of distress by an offer by the liquidator to allow him to prove for the rent⁹.

The landlord is allowed to distrain where the goods are mortgaged for more than their value, in so far as the property has ceased to be the estate or effects of the company and the liquidator has no interest¹⁰; but the landlord will be restrained where the assets are insufficient to meet the company's preferential debts¹¹. If a distress has been put in before the winding up commenced, although not completed by sale, the landlord is a secured creditor; and the distress may be allowed to proceed unless the liquidator pays the debt¹², even when the distress is in respect of rent payable in advance¹³, unless there are special reasons rendering it inequitable to permit a distress¹⁴, such as the existence of fraud or unfair dealing¹⁵.

WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(i) Proceedings by or against the Company/890. Retention of possession after winding up.

890. Retention of possession after winding up.

The fact that the liquidator retains possession for the purposes of the winding up will not entitle the landlord to distrain for rent accrued before the winding up commenced¹. A distress is allowed in respect of rent accrued due after winding up where the liquidator has retained possession of the property with a view to working it² or carrying on the business upon it³ or for the purpose of disposing of it advantageously⁴, but only in respect of a period after the liquidator has determined to retain possession for this purpose⁵. It is not sufficient that the liquidator has merely abstained from any effort to rid himself of the property⁶, or that the liquidator has derived some indirect advantage from the tenancy⁷. If the liquidator has kept possession by arrangement with the landlord and for his benefit as well as the company's benefit, the landlord is not allowed to distrain unless the liquidator has agreed to pay rent⁸. Where the liquidator remains in beneficial occupation, any apportionment of rent at the date of the winding-up order will be without prejudice to the landlord's claim against the liquidator⁹.

Where the liquidator remains in beneficial occupation and subsequently disclaims, the landlord is entitled to the full rent up to the date of the service of the notice to disclaim¹⁰.

891. Recovery of possession.

Where a right of re-entry on failure to pay rent or on winding up is reserved in the lease and the liquidator refuses to pay the rent, the landlord will be given leave to re-enter¹. In such a case, the landlord may sue for recovery of possession² or may apply to the court in the winding up for possession; and, if the claim is one against which the liquidator would have no defence, the court will order the liquidator to give up possession and will not put the applicant to the expense of bringing a claim³.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(i) Proceedings by or against the Company/893. Proceedings against company after winding-up order.

893. Proceedings against company after winding-up order.

When a winding-up order has been made or a provisional liquidator has been appointed¹, then, except by leave of the court² and subject to such terms as it may impose, no claim or proceeding³ may be proceeded with or commenced against the company⁴ or its property by a person capable of proving in the winding up⁵. Where a winding-up order has been made in the case of a company not formed under the Companies Act 1985 but registered under that Act⁶, no claim or proceeding may be commenced or proceeded with against either the company or its property or any contributory of the company in respect of any of its debts except by leave of the court⁷ and subject to such terms as it may impose⁸. The court will set aside a judgment obtained without its leave after a winding-up order has been made⁹.

The proceedings which may be restrained, or as to which leave to commence or proceed is necessary, are proceedings against the company or against the liquidator as such, including, in the case of a company not formed under the Companies Act 1985 but registered under that Act, an claim against a contributory in that capacity, to enforce a debt of the company¹⁰. Applications for rectification of the register¹¹, an interpleader summons¹², a counterclaim which is not merely a defence¹³, and magistrates' court proceedings as to rates or penalties¹⁴, are included as is distress on the company's goods¹⁵; but not a counterclaim against the company in the nature of a defence¹⁶, or an inquiry under statutory provisions as to the solvency of promoters of a company in liquidation which carried on a statutory undertaking¹⁷.

Where the court stays proceedings or refuses leave to proceed, it generally requires the liquidator to admit the creditor to prove for the amount of his claim and his costs of the claim and of the application to stay¹⁸, or the costs until he had notice of the winding up¹⁹. If a claim is brought after notice of the winding up, the creditor may be ordered to pay the costs²⁰; and, if the company, before the application to stay is made, offers to allow the creditor to prove for his debt and costs, he is not allowed his costs of appearing upon the application to stay²¹.

Proceedings will also be allowed to continue where the company is a necessary party to a claim against it and other persons³; or where a claim is the most convenient method of trying a question⁴; or where a shareholder has begun proceedings for rescission and rectification of the register before the winding up⁵; or where the claim is for specific performance⁶ or for recovery of possession⁷. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(i) Proceedings by or against the Company/896. Application for leave to commence or continue proceedings.

896. Application for leave to commence or continue proceedings.

An application to commence or proceed with claims and proceedings against a company after a winding-up order must be made to the winding-up court¹ and must be served on the liquidator². The Court of Appeal does not interfere with the discretion of the winding-up judge when he has given leave to commence or to proceed with a claim³. Leave will be given where it has been refused in the winding-up court if the Court of Appeal considers that a wrong principle has been applied⁴.

1 The Insolvency Act 1986 s 130(2), (3) refers to 'the court' which, when used in relation to a company, except in so far as the context otherwise requires, means the court having jurisdiction to wind up the company: Companies Act 1985 s 744 (applied by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251). See further Fabric Sales Ltd v Eratex Ltd (Practice Note) [1984] 1 WLR 863n, CA; and para 439 ante. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(i) Proceedings by or against the Company/897. Proceedings outside the jurisdiction.

897. Proceedings outside the jurisdiction.

The winding-up court may restrain a person within its jurisdiction from taking or continuing claims or proceedings out of the jurisdiction¹. It will also restrain a person domiciled in Scotland or Northern Ireland from taking or continuing proceedings there², unless by means of such proceedings he has, before the winding up commenced, become a secured creditor³. Where, however, a person has obtained a judgment in rem in a foreign court against the property of a company in liquidation, the liquidator cannot maintain a claim against him to recover the amount received by him under the judgment, even though he is a British subject domiciled in England⁴.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(ii) Transfer of Winding-up Proceedings/899. Power to transfer winding-up proceedings.

(ii) Transfer of Winding-up Proceedings

899. Power to transfer winding-up proceedings.

The winding up of a company by the court in England and Wales, or any proceedings in it, may be transferred from one court to another in accordance with the provisions described below, or may be retained in the court in which the proceedings were commenced even though it is not the court in which they ought to have been commenced¹.

Where winding-up proceedings are pending in the High Court, the court may order them to be transferred to a specified county court²; and, where winding-up proceedings are pending in a county court, the court may order them to be transferred either to the High Court or to another county court³. In any case where proceedings are transferred to a county court, the transfer must be to a court which has jurisdiction to wind up companies⁴. Where winding-up proceedings are pending in a county court, a judge of the High Court may order them to be transferred to that court⁵.

A transfer of proceedings under these provisions may be ordered by the court of its own motion, on the application of the official receiver, or on the application of a person appearing to the court to have an interest in the proceedings⁶. An application by the official receiver for proceedings to be transferred must be made with a report by him setting out the reasons for the transfer, and including a statement either that the petitioner consents to the transfer, or that he has been given at least 14 days' notice of the official receiver's application⁷. If the court is satisfied from the official receiver's report that the proceedings can be conducted more conveniently in another court, the proceedings must be transferred to that court⁸.

Where an application for the transfer of proceedings is made otherwise than by the official receiver, at least 14 days' notice of the application must be given by the applicant to the official receiver attached to the court in which the proceedings are pending, and to the official receiver attached to the court to which it is proposed that they should be transferred⁹.

A transfer may be made where a petition has been presented, even though a winding-up order on it has not been made¹⁰, and may be ordered even after the petition has been opened¹¹. A transfer of proceedings to the High Court will be ordered where a difficult question of law is involved¹², or where the procedure in the High Court is more suitable to the conduct of the proceedings¹³. Any particular proceedings in the winding up may be transferred¹⁴.

Where two different petitioners petition for winding up, one in the High Court and the other in a county court, and the county court petition is due for virtually immediate hearing, the proceedings should continue as to both petitions; the High Court must resolve the matter, being informed by affidavit of the facts relating to the county court petition: Re Filby Bros (Provender) Ltd [1958] 2 All ER 458, [1958] 1 WLR 683. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(ii) Transfer of Winding-up Proceedings/901. Proceedings following order for transfer.

901. Proceedings following order for transfer.

The court making an order for the transfer of winding-up proceedings¹ must forthwith send to the transferee court a sealed copy of the order, and the file of the proceedings². On receipt of these, the transferee court must forthwith send notice of the transfer to the official receivers attached to that court and the transferor court respectively³. Where, however, the order is made by the High Court transferring winding-up proceedings to that court from a county court⁴, the High Court must send sealed copies of the order to the county court from which the proceedings are to be transferred, and to the official receivers attached to that court and the High Court respectively; and that county court must send the file of the proceedings to the High Court⁵.

Following compliance with these provisions, if the official receiver attached to the court to which the proceedings are ordered to be transferred is not already the official receiver in relation to those proceedings⁶, he becomes, in relation to those proceedings, the official receiver in place of the official receiver attached to the other court concerned⁷.

901 Proceedings following order for transfer

TEXT AND NOTES 6, 7--SI 1986/1925 r 7.14(4) revoked: SI 2010/686.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(iii) Stay of Winding-up Proceedings/902. Power to stay winding-up proceedings.

(iii) Stay of Winding-up Proceedings

902. Power to stay winding-up proceedings.

The court may, at any time after an order for winding up, make an order staying the proceedings, either altogether or for a limited time and on such terms and conditions as it thinks fit, on the application either of the liquidator, of the official receiver or of any creditor or contributory¹, and on proof to its satisfaction that all proceedings in relation to the winding up ought to be stayed². On any such application the court may, before making the order, require the official receiver to furnish to the court a report with respect to any facts or matters which are, in his opinion, relevant to the application³. The validity of the winding-up order cannot be questioned on such an application⁴. The order to stay may reserve liberty to any dissentient creditor or the official receiver to apply within a limited time to remove the stay⁵. If no creditor objects, the proceedings on a compulsory order made after the commencement of a voluntary winding up may be stayed so as to allow the voluntary winding up to continue⁶. A stay is often applied for in pursuance of a scheme of arrangement sanctioned⁷ by the court⁸.

1 In the case of an application by an alleged contributory, he may be required to admit that he is a contributory before an order is made on his application: Re Continental Bank Corpn, Re London and Mediterranean Bank (1867) 16 LT 112; affd on appeal [1867] WN 178. A bankrupt who is discharged, but in respect of whom the bankruptcy still subsists, who is the registered holder of fully paid-up shares in a company is not a contributory for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 147, whether he holds them as a beneficial owner or trustee; his place is taken by his trustee in bankruptcy or, if discharged, the official receiver: Re Wolverhampton Steel and Iron Co Ltd [1977] 3 All ER 467, [1977] 1 WLR 860, CA. As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante.

2 Insolvency Act 1986 s 147(1). A copy of every order made under s 147 must be forwarded by the company, or otherwise as may be prescribed, to the registrar of companies, who must enter it in his records relating to the company: s 147(3). As to the registrar of companies see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 131 et seq. The order may also be made where the winding up is voluntary: see s 112; and para 1012 post. See also Re Calgary and Edmonton Land Co Ltd [1975] 1 All ER 1046, [1975] 1 WLR 355. An order may be made under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 147 after the return has been made to the registrar of the conclusion of a voluntary winding up, and the period of three months after the expiration of which dissolution will follow (see paras 931, 932 post) may thus in effect be extended: Re Eastern Investment Co Ltd [1905] 1 Ch 352. Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(14) STAY AND TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS; SPECIAL CASE/(iii) Stay of Winding-up Proceedings/903. Exercise of power to stay winding-up proceedings.

903. Exercise of power to stay winding-up proceedings.

In the exercise of its jurisdiction to stay¹, the court will refuse to act upon the mere assent of the creditors in the matter, and will consider whether what is proposed is for their benefit², and also whether the stay will be conducive or detrimental to commercial morality and to the interests of the public at large. In particular, the court will have regard to the facts:

- 1264 (1) that directors have not complied with their statutory duties as to giving information to the official receiver or furnishing a statement of affairs;
- 1265 (2) that there has been an undisclosed agreement between the promoter and the vendor to the company as to the participation by the promoter in fully paid shares forming the consideration for the purchase of property by the company on its formation;
- 1266 (3) that the promoter has made gifts of fully paid shares to the directors; and
- 1267 (4) that there are any other matters connected with the promotion, formation or failure of the company, or the conduct of its business or affairs, which appear to the court to require investigation³.

The same principles are apparently applicable whether the company has or has not invited the public to subscribe for its shares except, possibly, in the case of a private company⁴, where all the shareholders have full knowledge of what has been done⁵.

A stay will not normally be granted pending appeal against the making of a winding-up order against a company carrying on a profitable business as it would hamper the official receiver in his duties if the appeal were dismissed, whereas, if a stay is refused, the business can be carried on and be handed back as a going concern should the appeal be allowed⁶.

1 le under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 147: see para 902 ante.

2 The position of the liquidator and, where there is a possibility of a surplus, the interests of the members will also need to be considered: Re Calgary and Edmonton Land Co Ltd [1975] 1 All ER 1046, [1975] 1 WLR 355. It seems that, even where a permanent stay of a winding up is granted, a company will still be deemed to have gone into liquidation: Re SN Group plc [1994] 1 BCLC 319, [1993] BCC 808.

If any question arises in any winding-up proceedings in a county court which all the parties to the proceedings, or which one of them and the judge of the court, desire to have determined in the first instance in the High Court, the judge in the county court must state the facts in the form of a special case for the opinion of the High Court¹. (15) OFFENCES; PERSONAL LIABILITY FOR THE COMPANY'S DEBTS; DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS

(i) Offences by Officers

905. Offences by officers in anticipation of winding up.

When a company¹ is ordered to be wound up by the court², or passes a resolution for voluntary winding up³, any person, being a past or present officer⁴ of the company, is deemed to have committed an offence if, within the 12 months immediately preceding the commencement of the winding up⁵, he has:

- 1268 (1) concealed any part of the company's property⁶ to the value of £500 or more, or concealed any debt due to or from the company⁷; or
- 1269 (2) fraudulently removed any part of the company's property to the value of £500 or more⁸; or
- 1270 (3) concealed, destroyed, mutilated or falsified any book or paper affecting or relating to the company's property or affairs⁹; or
- 1271 (4) made any false entry in any book or paper affecting or relating to the company's property or affairs¹⁰; or
- 1272 (5) fraudulently parted with, altered or made any omission in, any document affecting or relating to the company's property or affairs¹¹; or
- 1273 (6) pawned, pledged or disposed of any property of the company which has been obtained on credit and has not been paid for, unless the pawning, pledging or disposal was in the ordinary way of the company's business¹².

Such a person is deemed to have committed an offence if, within the period mentioned above, he has been privy to the doing by others of any of the things mentioned in heads (3) to (5) above; and he commits an offence if, at any time after the commencement of the winding up, he does any of the things mentioned in heads (1) to (6) above, or is privy to the doing by others of any of the things mentioned in heads (3) to (5) above¹³.

Where a person pawns, pledges or disposes of any property in circumstances which amount to an offence under head (6) above, every person who takes in pawn or pledge, or otherwise receives, the property, knowing it to be pawned, pledged or disposed of in such circumstances, is guilty of an offence¹⁴.

A person guilty of an offence under the provisions described above is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or a fine, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, or to both¹⁵.

It is, however, a defence for a person charged under head (1) or head (6) above¹⁶ to prove that he had no intent to defraud, and for a person charged under head (3) or head (4) above¹⁷ to prove that he had no intent to conceal the state of affairs of the company or to defeat the law¹⁸.

908. Transactions in fraud of creditors.

When a company¹ is ordered to be wound up by the court² or passes a resolution for voluntary winding up³, a person is deemed to have committed an offence if he, being at the time an officer⁴ of the company:

- 1279 (1) has made or caused to be made any gift or transfer⁵ of, or charge on, or has caused or connived at the levying of any execution against, the company's property⁶; or
- 1280 (2) has concealed or removed any part of the company's property since, or within two months before, the date of any unsatisfied judgment or order for the payment of money obtained against the company⁷.

A person guilty of an offence under these provisions is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, or to both⁸.

A person is not, however, guilty of any such offence by reason of conduct constituting an offence under head (1) above which occurred more than five years before the commencement of the winding up, or if he proves that, at the time of the conduct constituting the offence, he had no intent to defraud the creditors of the company⁹.

909. Material omissions from statement relating to company's affairs.

When a company¹ is being wound up, whether by the court or voluntarily², any person, being a past or present officer³ of the company, commits an offence if he makes any material omission in any statement relating to the company's affairs⁴.

When a company has been ordered to be wound up by the court, or has passed a resolution for voluntary winding up⁵, any such person is deemed to have committed that offence if, prior to the winding up, he has made any material omission in any such statement⁶.

It is, however, a defence for a person charged under these provisions prove that he had no intent to defraud⁸.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(15) OFFENCES; PERSONAL LIABILITY FOR THE COMPANY'S DEBTS; DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS/(ii) Liability for Fraudulent and Wrongful Trading/911. Declaration of liability for fraudulent trading.

(ii) Liability for Fraudulent and Wrongful Trading

911. Declaration of liability for fraudulent trading.

If, in the course of the winding up¹ of a company², it appears that any business³ of the company has been carried on with intent to defraud its creditors or creditors of any other person, or for any fraudulent purpose⁴, the court⁵, on the application of the liquidator⁶, may declare that any persons who were knowingly⁷ parties to the carrying on of the business⁸ in that manner are to be liable to make such contributions, if any, to the company's assets as the court thinks proper⁹.

1 As to winding up see para 432 et seq ante.

2 Cf the provisions dealing with criminal liability for fraudulent trading which apply whether or not the company has been, or is in the course of being wound up: see para 913 post. For the meaning of 'company' see the Companies Act 1985 s 735(1)(a) (definition applied by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251). See also COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 24.

3 As to the meaning of 'business' see para 156 note 1 ante.

4 'Defraud' and 'fraudulent purpose' connote actual dishonesty: Re Patrick and Lyon Ltd [1933] Ch 786. Hence, whilst the civil standard of proof on the balance of probabilities is the appropriate standard, the more inherently improbable the alleged dishonest act, the more compelling the evidence of such an act must be: Aktieselskabet Dansk Skibsfinansiering v Brothers [2001] 2 BCLC 324, HK CFA (decided under the analogous provisions of Hong Kong law); Bernasconi v Nicholas Bennett & Co (a firm) [2000] BCC 921, [2000] BPIR 8. It has been held that in order to establish dishonesty under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 213, the court must find that: (1) according to the ordinary standards of reasonable and honest people what was done was dishonest; and (2) that the actor himself must have realised that the act was by those standards dishonest: Morphites v Bernasconi [2001] 2 BCLC 1 (revsd without discussion of this point sub nom Morphitis v Bernasconi [2003] EWCA Civ 289, [2003] Ch 552). 'Intent to defraud creditors' may in general be properly inferred if the company continues to carry on business and incurs debts when to the knowledge of the persons liable there is no reasonable prospect of those debts being paid: Re William C Leitch Bros Ltd [1932] 2 Ch 71. One transaction may constitute fraudulent trading: Re Gerald Cooper Chemicals Ltd [1978] Ch 262, [1978] 2 All ER 49. Although a business may be found to have been carried on with intent to defraud creditors notwithstanding that only one creditor has been defrauded, and by a single transaction, it is not the case that whenever a fraud is perpetrated in the course of carrying on a business, it must necessarily follow that the business is being carried on with intent to defraud creditors: Morphitis v Bernasconi [2003] EWCA Civ 289, [2003] Ch 552. Where the only allegation is the bare fact of preferring one creditor to another, such preference per se cannot constitute fraud within the meaning of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 213: Re Sarflax Ltd [1979] Ch 592, [1979] 1 All ER 529. The mere fact of a preference is not fraud, since a company is entitled to discharge its liability in any order it wishes: Morphites v Bernasconi [2001] 2 BCLC 1; revsd without discussion of this point sub nom Morphitis v Bernasconi [2003] EWCA Civ 289, [2003] Ch 552. It is not necessary to prove knowledge that there was no reasonable prospect of the debts ever being paid; proof of knowledge that there was no reason for thinking that funds would become available to pay the debt when it became due or shortly thereafter may be sufficient: R v Grantham [1984] QB 675, [1984] 3 All ER 166, CA. See also R v Cox, R v Hodges [1983] BCLC 169, CA; R v Lockwood [1986] Crim LR 244, CA. An intent to defraud customers as potential creditors is sufficient even where those customers, through want of assets, have not obtained judgment or pursued other civil remedies against the company: R v Kemp [1988] QB 645, [1988] 2 WLR 975, CA. The word 'creditor' in its ordinary meaning denotes one to whom money is owed; and whether that debt can presently be sued for is immaterial: R v Smith [1996] 2 BCLC 109, CA. In order to fall within the Insolvency Act 1986 s 213, the behaviour of the respondent must be deserving of real moral blame: Re L Todd (Swanscombe) Ltd [1990] BCLC 454, [1990] BCC 125. A receiver carrying on the business of a company is exposed to a claim for fraudulent trading if he allows debts or liabilities to be incurred by a company under continuing contracts during the receivership for which he has no personal liability and in respect of which he knows that there is no good reason for thinking that they can or will be paid: Powdrill v Watson, Re Leyland DAF Ltd, Re Ferranti International plc [1995] 2 AC 394, [1995] 2 All ER 65, HL (receivers not liable where, in pursuance of their duties to the debenture holder, they postponed the sale of properties on which unoccupied business rates continued to accrue); cf Re Sobam BV (in receivership) [1996] 1 BCLC 446, [1996] BCC 351.

5 For the meaning of 'court' see para 4 ante.

6 As to the making of applications see para 1055 et seq post. On the hearing of such application, the liquidator may himself give evidence or call witnesses: Insolvency Act 1986 s 215(1). It may not be appropriate for the liquidator himself or his employees to give expert evidence in such cases: Re Continental Assurance Company of London plc [2001] BPIR 733 at 827-829 per Park J (a wrongful trading case: see para 914 post); Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA, Morris v State Bank of India [2003] EWHC 1868 (Ch) at [20], [2003] BCC 735 at [20] per Patten J. As to the liquidator see para 950 et seq post.

7 As to what constitutes knowledge for these purposes see Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA, Morris v State Bank of India [2003] EWHC 1868 (Ch), [2003] BCC 735; Morris v Bank of India [2004] EWHC 528 (Ch), [2004] All ER (D) 378 (Mar) (knowledge includes actual knowledge, deliberate blindness and reckless indifference, but not the failure, however negligent, to appreciate that a fraud is being perpetrated; deliberate blindness, referred to as blind eye knowledge, requires a firmly grounded suspicion and a deliberate decision to avoid confirming the facts suspected to exist). As to when the knowledge of an employee will be attributed to the defendant company, see Morris v Bank of India supra. See further Morris v Bank of America National Trust [2000] 1 All ER 954 at 963, [2001] 1 BCLC 771 at 782-783 per Morritt LJ.

8 The mere status of being a director of a company does not ipso facto mean that that person had full knowledge of all the company's transactions; he must have knowledge of the particular transaction relied upon: Rossleigh Ltd v Carlaw and Carlaw (1985) 1 BCC 99, 537, Ct of Sess. The secretary, whilst merely performing the duties appropriate to that office, is not a party to the carrying on of the business: Re Maidstone Buildings Provisions Ltd [1971] 3 All ER 363, [1971] 1 WLR 1085. A creditor who is paid with money procured by carrying on a business with intent to defraud may be personally responsible: Re Gerald Cooper Chemicals Ltd [1978] Ch 262, [1978] 2 All ER 49. 'Carrying on of the business' is not necessarily synonymous with actively carrying on trade: Re Sarflax Ltd [1979] Ch 592, [1979] 1 All ER 529. It is necessary to show an act which could be described as carrying on the business of the company: Re Augustus Barnett & Son Ltd [1986] BCLC 170 (letters of comfort provided by parent did not themselves constitute the carrying on of the subsidiary's business). A person need not be performing any managerial or controlling role within the company in liquidation to be held liable under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 213: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA, Banque Arabe Internationale d'Investissement SA v Morris [2001] 1 BCLC 263.

9 Insolvency Act 1986 s 213(1), (2). To come within the provision, mere inertia is not enough; some positive step is required: see Re Maidstone Building Provisions Ltd [1971] 3 All ER 363, [1971] 1 WLR 1085 (failure by financial adviser to give advice). The declaration should state a definite amount for which the person in question is liable, but this need not be limited to the amount of the debts of creditors proved to have been defrauded: Re William C Leitch Bros Ltd [1932] 2 Ch 71; Re a Company (No 001418 of 1988) [1991] BCLC 197, [1990] BCC 526. The court has no power to include a punitive element in the amount of the contribution: Morphitis v Bernasconi [2003] EWCA Civ 289, [2003] Ch 552; Morris v Bank of India [2004] EWHC 528 (Ch), [2004] All ER (D) 378 (Mar) (it seems that authority to the contrary in Re a Company (No 001418 of 1988) supra, and dicta of Lord Denning in Re Cyona Distributors [1967] 1 All ER 281 at 284, CA, under the statutory predecessors of the Insolvency Act s 213, not discussed by the Court of Appeal in Morphitis v Bernasconi supra, are wrong). The principle on which the power to order contribution should be exercised is that the contribution should reflect and compensate for the loss which has been caused to the creditors by the carrying on of the business in the manner which gave rise to the exercise of the power: Morphitis v Bernasconi supra. Sums of money recovered under the declaration are general assets available for all creditors; defrauded creditors are given no preferential rights: Re William C Leitch Bros Ltd (No 2) [1933] Ch 261; Re Esal (Commodities) Ltd, London and Overseas (Sugar) Co Ltd v Punjab National Bank [1993] BCLC 872. See also Re Oasis Merchandising Services Ltd, Ward v Aitken [1997] 1 BCLC 689, CA. A declaration under this provision may be made notwithstanding that the person concerned may be criminally liable in respect of the matters on the ground of which it is made: Insolvency Act 1986 s 215(5). As to the directions which the court may make to give effect to the declaration see para 912 post. Any recovery under this provision has to be in favour of the liquidator and not an individual creditor or shareholder: Re Esal (Commodities) Ltd, London and Overseas (Sugar) Co Ltd v Punjab National Bank [1997] 1 BCLC 705, CA.

912. Further directions which may be made to give effect to declaration.

Where the court¹ makes a declaration of liability for fraudulent trading², wrongful trading³, or wrongful withdraw of the property of a limited liability partnership which is being wound up⁴, it may give such further directions as it thinks proper for giving effect to the declaration; and, in particular, the court may provide for the liability of any person under the declaration to be a charge on any debt or obligation due from the company⁵ to him, or on any mortgage or charge, or any interest in a mortgage or charge on any assets of the company held by or vested in him, or any person on his behalf, or any person claiming as assignee⁶ from or through the person liable or any person acting on his behalf, and may from time to time make such further order as may be necessary for the purpose of enforcing any charge so imposed⁷.

Where the court makes such a declaration in relation to a person who is a creditor of the company, it may direct that the whole or any part of the debt owed by the company to that person and any interest on it is to rank in priority after all other debts owed by the company and after any interest on those debts⁸.

913 Penalty

TEXT AND NOTES--1985 Act s 458, Sch 24 now the Companies Act 2006 s 993 which provides that a person is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding ten years.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(15) OFFENCES; PERSONAL LIABILITY FOR THE COMPANY'S DEBTS; DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS/(ii) Liability for Fraudulent and Wrongful Trading/914. Declaration of liability for wrongful trading.

914. Declaration of liability for wrongful trading.

If, in the course of the winding up¹ of a company², it appears that:

- 1283 (1) the company has gone into insolvent liquidation³;
- 1284 (2) at some time before the commencement of the winding up⁴ of the company, a person who is or has been a director⁵ of the company knew or ought to have concluded that there was no reasonable prospect that the company would avoid going into insolvent liquidation⁶; and
- 1285 (3) that person was a director of the company at that time⁷, the court may, on the application⁸ of the liquidator, declare that that person is to be liable to make such contribution, if any, to the company's assets as the court thinks proper⁹.

The court may not make such a declaration with respect to any person if it is satisfied that, after the condition referred to in head (2) above was first satisfied in relation to him, that person took every step with a view to minimising the potential loss to the company's creditors as, assuming him to have known that there was no reasonable prospect that the company would avoid going into insolvent liquidation, he ought to have taken¹⁰.

For these purposes, the facts which a director of a company ought to know or ascertain, the conclusions which he ought to reach and the steps which he ought to take are those which would be known or ascertained¹¹, or reached or taken, by a reasonably diligent person having both: (a) the general knowledge, skill and experience that may reasonably be expected of a person carrying out the same functions as are carried out by that director in relation to the company¹²; and (b) the general knowledge, skill and experience that that director has¹³.

These provisions are without prejudice to the provisions¹⁴ relating to a declaration of liability for fraudulent trading¹⁵.

Without prejudice to these provisions, alternative provision is made in connection with limited liability partnerships which are being wound up. In such cases, where it appears that a person who is or has been a member¹⁶ of the partnership:

- 1286 (i) was a member of the partnership who, within the period of two years ending with the commencement of the winding up, withdrew partnership property¹⁷; and
- 1287 (ii) knew or had reasonable grounds for believing¹⁸ at the time of the withdrawal that the partnership was or would become unable to pay its debts¹⁹, the court may, on the application of the liquidator, declare that that person is to be liable to make such contribution, if any, to the partnership's assets as the court thinks proper²⁰. The court may not, however, make such a declaration: (A) in relation to any person the amount of which exceeds the aggregate of the amounts or values of all the withdrawals²¹; or (B) with respect to any person unless that person knew or ought to have concluded²² that after each such withdrawal there was no reasonable prospect that the partnership would avoid going into insolvent liquidation²³.

1 As to winding up see para 432 et seq ante.

2 For the meaning of 'company' see the Companies Act 1985 s 735(1)(a) (definition applied by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251). See also COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 24.

3 Ibid s 214(2)(a). For these purposes, a company goes into insolvent liquidation if it goes into liquidation at a time when its assets are insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of the winding up: s 214(6).

4 Other than in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership (see the text and notes 16-23 infra), the court may not make a declaration under ibid s 214 in any case where the time referred to in head (2) in the text was before 28 April 1986: s 214(2); Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3. See para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante. As to the commencement of the winding up see s 129 (winding up by the court: see para 489 ante) and s 86 (voluntary winding up: see para 996 post).

5 For these purposes, 'director' includes a shadow director: Insolvency Act 1986 s 214(7). For the meaning of 'director' generally see para 5 note 2 ante; and for the meaning of 'shadow director' see para 5 note 3 ante. In Re a Company (No 005009 of 1987), ex p Copp [1989] BCLC 13, 4 BCC 424, the court refused to strike out a claim that a bank was a shadow director, where the bank had commissioned a financial report on the company containing recommendations which the de jure directors then implemented. The claim was abandoned during the trial of the action: Re MC Bacon Ltd [1990] BCLC 324, [1990] BCC 78. The directors of a parent company are not, without more, shadow directors of a subsidiary: Re Hydrodam (Corby) Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 180, sub nom Re Hydrodan (Corby) Ltd [1994] BCC 161 (where the court accepted the concession of counsel that the Insolvency Act 1986 s 214 applied to de facto directors). De facto directors, who act as directors, and are held out to be directors, but are not validly appointed, and shadow directors, who are not held out as directors but operate behind the scenes, are normally mutually exclusive categories and to plead that the same person has acted as both a de facto and a shadow director will normally be embarrassing: Re Hydrodam (Corby) Ltd supra. A claim under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 214 may be brought against the personal representatives of a deceased director: Re Sherbourne Associates Ltd [1995] BCC 40.

6 Insolvency Act 1986 s 214(2)(b). If a liquidator fails to establish the material facts as to the dates pleaded as the dates at which the directors knew or ought to have concluded that there was no reasonable prospect that the company would avoid going into insolvent liquidation, he will not be allowed to contend that the directors knew or ought to have concluded such matters at any subsequent date: Re Sherbourne Associates Ltd [1995] BCC 40; and see also Re Brian D Pierson (Contractors) Ltd [2001] 1 BCLC 275 at 303, [1999] BCC 26 at 49-50 per Hazel Williamson QC; Re Continental Assurance Company of London plc [2001] BPIR 733 at 899 per Park J. As to the liquidator see para 950 et seq post.

8 As to the making of applications see para 1055 et seq post. On the hearing of such an application the liquidator may himself give evidence or call witnesses: ibid s 215(1). It may not be appropriate for the liquidator himself or his employees to give expert evidence in such cases: Re Continental Assurance Company of London plc [2001] BPIR 733 at 827-829 per Park J; Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA, Morris v State Bank of India [2003] EWHC 1868 (Ch), [2003] BCC 735 (a fraudulent trading case: see para 911 ante).

9 Insolvency Act 1986 s 214(1), (2). The purpose of an order is to compensate all the creditors and there is no jurisdiction to order payment to a certain class of creditors alone: Re Purpoint Ltd [1991] BCLC 491, [1991] BCC 121. Normally a comparison will be made between the net deficiency of the company's assets at the date at which it is contended that trading should have ceased as compared to the net deficiency of assets in the actual liquidation: Re Continental Assurance Co of London plc [2001] BPIR 733; Re Marini Ltd [2003] EWHC 334 (Ch), [2004] BCC 172 (where it was held that the existence of such an increase in the net deficiency is a precondition to the exercise of the court's powers under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 214). In Re DKG Contractors Ltd [1990] BCC 903, the court ordered that payments under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 212 and s 239 should go to satisfy the liability under s 214 and the cumulative liability was not to exceed the amount needed to pay all creditors and the costs of the liquidation; cf Re Purpoint Ltd supra (where cumulative orders were made). The proceeds of a successful claim under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 214 enure for the benefit of the unsecured creditors and do not fall within a charge: Re Oasis Merchandising Services Ltd, Ward v Aitken [1997] 1 BCLC 689, CA; cf Re Produce Marketing Consortium Ltd (No 2) [1989] BCLC 520 at 554, 5 BCC 569 at 598 per Knox J (where the point was not argued). Since neither the cause of action nor the fruits of the cause of action are property of the company, the liquidator has no power to sell the cause of action or the right to the fruits of that action: Re Oasis Merchandising Services Ltd, Ward v Aitken supra. Interest may be awarded from the date of the commencement of the winding up: Re Produce Marketing Consortium Ltd (No 2) supra. No defence may be claimed by a director under the Companies Act 1985 s 727: Re Produce Marketing Consortium Ltd [1989] BCLC 513, 5 BCC 399; Re Brian D Pierson (Contractors) Ltd [2001] 1 BCLC 275 at 309, [1999] BCC 26 at 55 per Hazel

Williamson QC. A declaration under this provision may be made notwithstanding that the person concerned may be criminally liable in respect of the matters on the ground of which it is made: Insolvency Act 1986 s 215(5). Where proceedings are issued against several directors, the liability of those directors is prima facie several and not joint, though the court has a discretion as to whether to impose joint, or joint and several, liability: Re Continental Assurance Co of London plc supra at 846-848 per Park J. It seems that in assessing the contribution to be ordered, the court will seek to establish to what extent the actions of the directors by reason of which they have been held liable have caused any losses suffered by the company: Re Continental Assurance Co of London plc supra at 844-848 per Park J. As to the directions which the court may make to give effect to the declaration see para 915 post.

11 The reference to 'ascertained' means that a director will be deemed to know the information in the annual accounts at the date when they ought to have been filed, not the date when they were in fact audited: Re Produce Marketing Consortium Ltd (No 2) [1989] BCLC 520, 5 BCC 569.

12 For these purposes, the reference to the functions carried out in relation to a company by a director of the company includes a reference to any functions which he does not carry out but which have been entrusted to him: Insolvency Act 1986 s 214(5).

13 Ibid s 214(4). In assessing what a director knew or ought to have concluded, the court will take into account what might reasonably be expected of a person fulfilling his functions and showing reasonable diligence in doing so, and have regard to the particular director in question, his functions and the particular company and its business: Re Produce Marketing Consortium Ltd (No 2) [1989] BCLC 520, 5 BCC 569. In Re D'Jan of London Ltd, Copp v D'Jan [1994] 1 BCLC 561, [1993] BCC 646, Hoffmann LJ considered that the duty as stated in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 214 stated accurately the duty of directors at common law. See also Daniels (formerly practising as Deloitte Haskins & Sells) v Anderson (1995) 118 FLR 248, 1995 13 ACLC 614, NSW SC.

14 Ie the Insolvency Act 1986 s 213: see para 911 ante.

15 Ibid s 214(8). The Limitation Act 1980 s 9(1) applies to a claim for wrongful trading, so that the liquidator has six years from the date at which the company entered insolvent liquidation within which to bring the claim: Re Farmizer (Products) Ltd, Moore v Gadd [1997] 1 BCLC 589, [1997] BCC 655, CA.

16 For these purposes, 'member' includes a shadow member: Insolvency Act 1986 s 214A(8) (s 214A added by the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3). For the meaning of 'shadow member' see para 5 note 4 ante.

17 Insolvency Act 1986 214A(1), (2)(a) (as added: see note 16 supra). This is a reference to all partnership property whether in the form of a share of profits, salary, repayment of or payment of interest on a loan to the partnership or any other withdrawal of property: s 214A(2)(a) (as so added).

18 These matters must be proved by the liquidator to the satisfaction of the court: ibid s 214A(2)(b) (as added: see note 16 supra).

19 Ibid s 214A(2)(b) (as added: see note 16 supra). The reference in the text to a person knowing or having reasonable grounds for believing that at the time of withdrawal the partnership was or would become unable to pay its debts is a reference to that person knowing or having reasonable grounds for believing that the partnership either was at the time of the withdrawal unable to pay its debts within the meaning of s 123 (see para 446 ante) (s 214A(2)(b)(i) (as so added)) or would become so after its assets had been depleted by that withdrawal taken together with all other withdrawals, if any, made by any members contemporaneously with that withdrawal or in contemplation when that withdrawal was made (s 214A(2)(b)(ii) (as so added)).

20 Ibid s 214A(3), (9) (as added: see note 16 supra). On the hearing of such an application, the liquidator may himself give evidence or call witnesses: s 215(1); Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3.

21 Insolvency Act 1986 s 214A(4) (as added: see note 16 supra). The reference in the text to the withdrawals is a reference to the withdrawals referred to in s 214A(2) (as added) (see the text and notes 16-18 supra) and made by the person in question within the two years referred to therein: s 214A(4) (as so added).

22 For these purposes, the facts which a member ought to know or ascertain and the conclusions which he ought to reach are those which would be known, ascertained, or reached by a reasonably diligent person having both the general knowledge, skill and experience that may reasonably be expected of a person carrying out the same functions as are carried out by that member in relation to the partnership and the general knowledge, skill and experience that that member has: ibid s 214A(6) (as added: see note 16 supra).

23 Ibid s 214A(5) (as added: see note 16 supra). For these purposes, a limited liability partnership goes into insolvent liquidation if it goes into liquidation at a time when its assets are insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of the winding up: s 214A(7) (as so added).

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/(15) OFFENCES; PERSONAL LIABILITY FOR THE COMPANY'S DEBTS; DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS/(iii) Restriction on Re-use of Company Names/916. Restriction on re-use of company names; meaning of 'prohibited name'.

(iii) Restriction on Re-use of Company Names

916. Restriction on re-use of company names; meaning of 'prohibited name'.

Where a company¹ ('the liquidating company') has gone into insolvent liquidation² on or after 29 December 1986, a person who was a director³ or shadow director⁴ of the company at any time in the period of 12 months ending with the day before it went into liquidation⁵ may not, at any time in the period of five years beginning with the day on which the liquidating company went into liquidation:

- 1288 (1) be a director of any other company that is known by a prohibited name⁶; or
- 1289 (2) in any way, whether directly or indirectly, be concerned or take part in the promotion, formation or management of any such company⁷; or
- 1290 (3) in any way, whether directly or indirectly, be concerned or take part in the carrying on of a business⁸ carried on, otherwise than by a company, under a prohibited name⁹, except with the leave of the court¹⁰ or in the prescribed excepted cases¹¹.

For these purposes, a name is a prohibited name in relation to a such person if it is:

- 1291 (a) a name by which the liquidating company was known at any time in the period of 12 months ending with the day before it went into liquidation; or
- 1292 (b) a name which is so similar to a name falling within head (a) above as to suggest an association with that company¹², and references, in relation to any time, to a name by which a company is known are references to the name of the company at that time or to any name under which the company carries on business at that time¹³.

1 For the meaning of 'company' see the Companies Act 1985 s 735(1)(a) (definition applied by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251). See also COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 24. For these purposes, 'company' includes a company which may be wound up under the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt V (ss 220-229) (as amended) (see para 1147 et seq post): s 216(8).

2 For these purposes, a company goes into insolvent liquidation if it goes into liquidation at a time when its assets are insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of the winding up: ibid s 216(7). For the meaning of 'go into liquidation' see para 9 note 3 ante.

3 As to the meaning of 'director' see para 5 note 2 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'shadow director' see para 5 note 3 ante.

5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 216(1).

6 Ibid s 216(3)(a).

7 Ibid s 216(3)(b).

8 As to the meaning of 'business' see para 156 note 1 ante.

9 Insolvency Act 1986 s 216(3)(c).

10 For these purposes, 'the court' means any court having jurisdiction to wind up companies: ibid s 216(5). As to application for leave see further para 917 post. For the meaning of 'court' generally see para 4 ante. As to the courts having winding-up jurisdiction see para 438 et seq ante. As to the making of applications see para 1055 et seq post. It is wrong in principle to treat an applicant under s 216 as if he were a director applying for leave to act as a director under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 17 (see para 1301 post); and the fact that an applicant intends to trade under a prohibited name does not, without more, entitle the court to impose restrictions on any grant of leave as would be appropriate under s 17: Penrose v Official Receiver [1996] 2 All ER 96, [1996] 1 BCLC 389; cf Re Bonus Breaks Ltd [1991] BCC 546 (where leave was granted on undertakings which were offered by the applicant); Re Lightning Electrical Contractors Ltd [1996] 2 BCLC 302, [1996] BCC 950 (where leave was granted in respect of dormant companies).

11 Insolvency Act 1986 s 216(3). As to the excepted cases see paras 918-920 post. As to the penalties and other consequences of contravening these provisions see paras 921-922 post.

12 Ibid s 216(2); and see Archer Structures Ltd v Griffiths [2003] EWHC 957 (Ch), [2004] 1 BCLC 201, [2003] BPIR 1071. In Ad Valorem Factors Ltd v Ricketts [2003] EWCA Civ 1706 at [30], [2004] 1 All ER 894 at [30], [2004] 1 BCLC 1 at [30], Simon Brown LJ stated that the similarity between the two names must be such as to give rise to a probability that members of the public, comparing the names in the relevant context, will associate the two companies with each other, whether as successor companies or as part of the same group. Although the Insolvency Act 1986 s 216 was enacted so as to curb the 'phoenix syndrome' involving the exploitation of the privileges of limited liability through the transfer of assets between successive undercapitalised companies, the scope of the provision is wider, and there is no precondition to the application of the provision that the case arose out of such circumstances, nor need anyone have been misled by the relevant names: Ad Valorem Factors Ltd v Ricketts supra at [15]-[18] per Mummery LJ.

918. First excepted case.

Where a company¹ ('the successor company') acquires the whole, or substantially the whole, of the business² of an insolvent company, under arrangements made by an insolvency practitioner acting as the insolvent company's liquidator³, administrator⁴ or administrative receiver⁵, or as supervisor of a voluntary arrangement⁶, the successor company may give notice to the insolvent company's creditors⁷.

To be effective, the notice must be given within 28 days from the completion of the arrangements to all creditors of the insolvent company of whose addresses the successor company is aware in that period; and it must specify:

- 1293 (1) the name and registered number of the insolvent company and the circumstances in which its business has been acquired by the successor company⁸;
- 1294 (2) the name which the successor company has assumed, or proposes to assume for the purpose of carrying on the business, if that name is or will be a prohibited name⁹; and
- 1295 (3) any change of name which it has made, or proposes to make¹⁰, for that purpose¹¹.

The notice may name a person to whom the provisions restricting the re-use of company names¹² may apply as having been a director¹³ or shadow director¹⁴ of the insolvent company, and give particulars as to the nature and duration of that directorship, with a view to his being a director of the successor company or being otherwise associated with its management¹⁵.

If the successor company has effectively given notice under these provisions to the insolvent company's creditors, a person who is so named in the notice may act in relation to the successor company in any of the ways otherwise prohibited¹⁶, notwithstanding that he has not obtained the leave of the court¹⁷.

(16) DISSOLUTION OF THE COMPANY

929. Early dissolution.

The official receiver¹ may at any time apply to the registrar of companies² for the early dissolution of a company³ in respect of which a winding-up order⁴ has been made by the court⁵ in England and Wales if he is the liquidator⁶ of the company, and it appears to him that the realisable assets of the company are insufficient to cover the expenses of the winding up⁷, and that the affairs of the company do not require any further investigation⁸.

Before making such an application, the official receiver must give not less than 28 days' notice of his intention to do so to the company's creditors and contributories⁹ and, if there is an administrative receiver¹⁰ of the company, to that receiver¹¹.

With the giving of such notice the official receiver ceases, subject to any directions made by the Secretary of State¹², to be required to perform any duties imposed on him in relation to the company, its creditors or its contributories by virtue of any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986, apart from a duty to make an application for the early dissolution of the company¹³.

On the receipt of the official receiver's application for the early dissolution of the company, the registrar must forthwith register it and, at the end of the period of three months beginning with the day of the registration of the application, the company is dissolved¹⁴; but the Secretary of State may, on the application of the official receiver or any other person who appears to the Secretary of State to be interested, give directions¹⁵ at any time before the end of that period¹⁶.

930. Consequence of notice of application for early dissolution.

Where a notice has been given by the official receiver¹ of his intention to apply for the early dissolution of a company², the official receiver or any creditor or contributory³ of the company or the administrative receiver⁴ of the company, if there is one, may apply to the Secretary of State⁵ for directions⁶. The directions may make such provision as the Secretary of State thinks fit for enabling the winding up of the company to proceed as if no such notice had been given and may, in the case of an application for directions after registration of the application for early dissolution⁷, include a direction deferring the date at which the dissolution of the company is to take effect for such period as the Secretary of State thinks fit⁸.

The grounds on which an application for directions may be made are:

- 1298 (1) that the realisable assets of the company are sufficient to cover the expenses of the winding up⁹;
- 1299 (2) that the affairs of the company do require further investigation; or
- 1300 (3) that, for any other reason, the early dissolution of the company is inappropriate¹⁰.

Where the Secretary of State gives such a direction, he must send two copies of the direction to the applicant for it¹¹. Of those copies one must be sent by the applicant to the registrar of companies¹².

An appeal to the court lies from any decision of the Secretary of State on an application for directions¹³. Following any such appeal, the court must send two sealed copies of its order to the person in whose favour the appeal was determined; and that party must send one of the copies to the registrar of companies¹⁴.

It is the duty of the person on whose application any directions are so given, or in whose favour an appeal with respect to an application for such directions is determined, within seven days after the giving of the directions or the determination of the appeal, to deliver to the registrar of companies for registration such a copy of the directions or determination as is prescribed¹⁵. If a person without reasonable excuse fails to deliver a copy as so required, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one-fifth of the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-fiftieth of the statutory maximum¹⁶.

931. Dissolution of the company.

On the receipt by the registrar of companies¹ of a notice from the liquidator² that the final meeting of the company's creditors has been held³, or of a notice from the official receiver⁴ that the winding up of a company by the court⁵ is complete, the registrar must forthwith register the notice and, subject to the provisions described below, at the end of the period of three months beginning with the day of the registration of the notice, the company⁶ is dissolved⁷.

The Secretary of State⁸ may, on the application of the official receiver or any other person who appears to the Secretary of State to be interested, give a direction deferring the date at which the dissolution of the company is to take effect for such period as the Secretary of State thinks fit⁹. 932. Effect of dissolution.

The dissolution puts an end to the existence of the company¹. Unless and until it has been set aside, it prevents any proceedings being taken against promoters, directors or officers of the company to recover money or property² due or belonging to it³ or to prove a debt due from it⁴. When the company is dissolved, the liquidator's⁵ statutory duty towards the creditors and contributories⁶ is gone; but, if he has committed a breach of his duty to any creditor by distributing the assets without complying with the requirements of the Insolvency Act 1986, he is liable in damages to him⁷.

A judgment obtained against a company after its dissolution is invalid; and the solicitor acting for the company is liable personally to pay the claimant's costs of the claim from the date of the dissolution and consequent revocation of his authority⁸. Where proceedings are pending against a company which is about to be dissolved, the court may stay proceedings in the winding up for the purpose of delaying the dissolution⁹.

932-933 Effect of dissolution, Property of dissolved company as bona vacantia

Certain persons or indorsements mentioned in these paragraphs are specified for the purposes of Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 37, Schs 5, 6 (meaning of 'regulator' for the purposes of imposing civil sanctions), see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) PARA 196A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/8. WINDING UP BY THE COURT/ (16) DISSOLUTION OF THE COMPANY/933. Property of dissolved company as bona vacantia.

933. Property of dissolved company as bona vacantia.

When a company¹ is dissolved, all property² and rights whatsoever vested in or held on trust for it immediately before its dissolution, including leasehold property but not including property held by the company on trust for any other person, are deemed to be bona vacantia³ and accordingly belong to the Crown, or to the Duchy of Lancaster, or to the Duke of Cornwall for the time being, as the case may be, and may be dealt with in the same manner as other bona vacantia accruing to the Crown, to the Duchy of Lancaster or to the Duke of Cornwall⁴. This has effect subject to certain exceptions⁵ and without prejudice to any order made by the court⁶ declaring the dissolution to have been void⁷, or restoring to the register⁸ a company which has been struck off as defunct⁹.

1 For the meaning of 'company' see the Companies Act 1985 s 735(1)(a); and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 24.

2 As to the meaning of 'property' see para 489 note 8 ante. For these purposes, 'property' does not include a waste management licence granted under the Environmental Protection Act 1990 Pt II (ss 29-78) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 620 et seq): Re Willmott Trading Ltd (in liquidation) (Nos 1 and 2) [1999] 2 BCLC 541, [2000] BCC 321.

3 As to bona vacantia see further CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) para 235 et seq.

4 Companies Act 1985 s 654(1). The corresponding provision of the Companies Act 1929 was not retrospective and did not affect the Crown's right to any property which had not accrued before that Act came into force: Re Sir Thomas Spencer Wells, Swinburne-Hanham v Howard [1933] Ch 29, CA. As regards the rights of the Crown on the dissolution of a company prior to that Act, the law relating to the dissolution of corporations generally applied: see Re Sir Thomas Spencer Wells, Swinburne-Hanham v Howard supra; applied in Re Strathblaine Estates Ltd [1948] Ch 228, [1948] 1 All ER 162 (land held by company on trust for its shareholders, and therefore exempt from the Companies Act 1948 s 354 (repealed and, in the material respects, replaced by the Companies Act 1985 s 654)). See also Hastings Corp'n v Letton [1908] 1 KB 378. As to the effect of dissolution of a corporation see CORPORATIONS vol 9(2) (2006 Reissue) para 1304. The Insolvency Act 1986 s 180 (see para 880 ante) applies to land in England and Wales which by operation of law vests subject to a rentcharge in the Crown or any other person on the dissolution of a company as it applies to land so vesting on a disclaimer under s 180: Companies Act 1985 s 658(1) (substituted by the Insolvency Act 1985 s 109, Sch 6 para 47; and amended by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 439(1), Sch 13 Pt I). For the purposes of the Companies Act 1985 s 658 (as amended), 'company' includes any body corporate: s 658(2). For the meaning of 'body corporate' see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 1. The provisions of s 654 are inapplicable to companies registered abroad (Russian and English Bank v Baring Bros & Co [1936] AC 405 at 439, [1936] 1 All ER 505 at 527, HL) nor do they prevent the liquidator from concluding the liquidation (Re Katherine et Cie Ltd [1932] 1 Ch 70 at 79). As to bona vacantia in the case of dissolution of a foreign company see para 1160 post.

5 Ie the Companies Act 1985 s 655: see para 934 post.

6 For the meaning of 'court' see para 4 ante.

7 Ie under the Companies Act 1985 s 651 (as amended): see para 937 post. Where an order is made under s 651 (as amended), any property which purported to vest in the Crown is to be deemed never to have so vested: see para 937 text and note 15 post.

8 Ie under ibid s 653 (as amended).

9 Ibid s 654(2). Section 654 refers to orders made under s 651 (as amended) or s 653 (as amended). Where an order is made under s 653 (as amended), no question as to bona vacantia can arise; but, if the court were to make an order for the compulsory winding up of a company which had been struck off the register without also ordering its restoration to the register, it is doubtful whether the Crown's claim to bona vacantia would be defeated, since it is not clear that such an order would be made 'under' s 653 (as amended) (which merely saves the power to make such an order), and it is doubtful whether such an order would be within the saving: Re Cambridge Coffee Room Association Ltd [1952] 1 All ER 112n. Where property¹ vests in the Crown as bona vacantia², the Crown's title to it may be disclaimed by a notice signed by the Treasury Solicitor³. The right to execute a notice of disclaimer may be waived by or on behalf of the Crown either expressly or by taking possession or other act evincing that intention⁴. The notice of disclaimer is of no effect unless it is executed within 12 months of the date on which the vesting came to the Treasury Solicitor's notice, or, if an application in writing is made to him by any person interested in the property requiring him to decide whether or not he will disclaim, within a period of three months after the receipt of the application or such further period as may be allowed by the court which would have had jurisdiction to wind up the company if it had not been dissolved⁵. The notice of disclaimer must be delivered to the registrar of companies⁶ and retained and registered by him; and copies must be published in the Gazette⁷ and sent to any persons who have given the Treasury Solicitor notice that they claim to be interested in the property⁸. These provisions apply with appropriate modification to property vested in the Duchy of Lancaster or the Duke of Cornwall⁹.

2 Ie under the Companies Act 1985 s 654: see para 933 ante. As to bona vacantia see further CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) para 235 et seq.

3 Ibid s 656(1). Where notice of disclaimer is so executed as respects any property, that property is deemed not to have vested in the Crown under s 654: s 657(1). The Insolvency Act 1986 s 178(4) (see para 868 ante) and ss 179-182 (see paras 874, 876-877, 880 ante) apply as if the property had been disclaimed by the liquidator under s 178 immediately before the dissolution of the company: Companies Act 1985 s 657(2) (substituted by the Insolvency 1985 s 109, Sch 6 para 46; and amended by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 439(1), Sch 13 Pt I); Re No 1 London Ltd [1991] BCLC 501, [1991] BCC 118. If the company is subsequently restored to the register, the property is deemed never to have vested in the Crown and the disclaimer is treated as never having occurred: Allied Dunbar Assurance plc v Fowle [1994] 2 BCLC 197, [1994] BCC 422.

4 Companies Act 1985 s 656(2).

5 Ibid s 656(3). Until the contrary is proved, a statement in a notice of disclaimer that the vesting came to the Treasury Solicitor's notice on a specified date, or that no such application was received by him with respect to the property before a specified date, is sufficient evidence of the fact stated: s 656(4).

UPDATE

438-938 Winding Up by the Court

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

937. Power to declare dissolution void.

Where a company¹ has been dissolved², the court³ may, on an application being made for the purpose by the liquidator⁴ of the company or by any other person appearing to the court to be interested⁵, make an order, on such terms as it thinks fit, declaring the dissolution to have been void⁶; and thereupon such proceedings may be taken as might have been taken if the company had not been dissolved⁷. Such an application may not be made after the end of the period of two years from the date of the dissolution of the company⁸. However, in the case of an application for the purpose of bringing proceedings against the company for damages in respect of personal injuries⁹ or for damages under the Fatal Accidents Act 1976¹⁰, an application may be made at any time; but no order may be made on such an application if it appears to the court that the proceedings would fail by virtue of any enactment as to the time within which proceedings must be brought¹¹.

As a rule the court will make the order if there are assets which belonged to or could have been recovered by the liquidator or the dissolved company, and if the applicant has a claim to be satisfied out of them¹². The order makes the dissolution void ab initio; any property¹³ of the company which on the dissolution was deemed to vest in the Crown as bona vacantia¹⁴ is to be treated as never having so vested¹⁵. The company is, however, to be treated as having been restored to life but not to activity in the interval between the dissolution and the order avoiding the dissolution, and the court order does not validate proceedings against the company taken between the date of dissolution and avoidance, nor does it revive a pending claim, which dies with the dissolution of the company¹⁶. Where a corporation is revived after dissolution, its rights prior to dissolution are not affected¹⁷.

An order will not be made unless it is proved that notice has been served on the Treasury Solicitor in order to ascertain whether he desires to intervene on behalf of the Crown¹⁸.

It is the duty of the person on whose application the order was made, within seven days after the making of the order or such further time as the court may allow, to deliver to the registrar of companies¹⁹ for registration an office copy of the order; and, if he fails to do so, he is liable to a fine not exceeding one-fifth of the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-fiftieth of the statutory maximum²⁰.

² This includes a dissolution following a voluntary winding up (see eg Re CW Dixon Ltd [1947] Ch 251, [1947] 1 All ER 279; and para 1020 et seq post) and dissolution consequent upon the company being struck off the register under the Companies Act 1985 s 652: Re Belmont & Co Ltd [1952] Ch 10, [1951] 2 All ER 898; followed in Re Test Holdings (Clifton) Ltd [1970] Ch 285, [1969] 3 All ER 517. Nothing in the Companies Act 1985 s 651(5) (as added) affects the power of the court on making an order to direct that the period between the dissolution of the company and the making of the order is not to count for the purposes of any such enactment as is referred to in s 651(5) (as added): s 651(6) (added by the Companies Act 1989 s 141(1), (3)).

When a restoration order is sought by a prospective claimant in a personal injuries claim, a direction that the period from dissolution to the date of the restoration order should not count for limitation purposes should not normally be made unless: (1) notice of the application has first been given to all those persons who may be expected to oppose the giving of such a direction, including the company's insurers; and (2) the court is satisfied that: (a) it has before it all the evidence which the parties would wish to adduce on an application by the prospective claimant under the Limitation Act 1980 s 33 (see LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARAS 1001-1002); and (b) an application under s 33 would be bound to succeed: Smith v White Knight Laundry Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 660, [2001] 3 All ER 862, [2001] 2 BCLC 206, CA. Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(1) REQUISITES FOR AND KINDS OF VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/939. Requisites for voluntary winding up.

9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP

(1) REQUISITES FOR AND KINDS OF VOLUNTARY WINDING UP

939. Requisites for voluntary winding up.

A company may be wound up voluntarily:

- 1303 (1) when the period, if any, fixed for its duration by its articles of association expires, or the event, if any, occurs on the occurrence of which the articles provide that it is to be dissolved, and the company in general meeting has passed a resolution requiring it to be wound up voluntarily¹;
- 1304 (2) if the company resolves by special resolution² that it be wound up voluntarily³;
- 1305 (3) if the company resolves by extraordinary resolution⁴ to the effect that it cannot by reason of its liabilities continue its business, and that it is advisable to wind up⁵.

In the Insolvency Act 1986 'a resolution for voluntary winding up' means a resolution passed under any of heads (1) to (3) above⁶. This power to wind up voluntarily cannot be excluded by any provision in the articles; but the right of the holders of certain classes of shares to vote at meetings of the company may be restricted or excluded⁷. The power applies also to registered industrial and provident societies⁸. An insurer effecting or carrying out contracts of long-term insurance may not be wound up voluntarily without the consent of the Financial Services Authority⁹.

Before a company passes a resolution for voluntary winding up it must give written notice of the resolution to the holder of any qualifying floating charge¹⁰ in respect of the company's property¹¹. Where such notice is given, a resolution for voluntary winding up may be passed only after the end of the period of five working days beginning with the day on which the notice was given, or if the person to whom the notice was given has consented in writing to the passing of the resolution¹².

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(1)(a). A limited liability partnership may be wound up voluntarily when it determines that it is to be wound up voluntarily: see s 84(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

Articles of association do not, as a rule, contain any provisions as to the duration of the company, or mention any event on the happening of which the company is to be dissolved. As to a company's articles of association see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 228 et seq.

See also para 944 post. As to the registrar of companies see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 131 et seq.

The provisions of s 84(2), (3) do not apply in relation to the winding up of a limited liability partnership, in connection with which it is instead provided that within 15 days after a limited liability partnership has determined that it be wound up there must be forwarded to the registrar of companies either a printed copy or else a copy in some other form approved by the registrar of the determination, and that if a limited liability partnership fails to comply with this provision it and every designated member of it who is in default is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: see s 84(3), (4); and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3. TEXT AND NOTE 6--1986 Act s 84(2) amended: SI 2007/2194.

NOTE 6--1986 Act s 84(3) substituted: SI 2007/2194.

940. Members' voluntary winding up and creditors' voluntary winding up.

A voluntary winding up may be either a members' voluntary winding up or a creditors' voluntary winding up¹. A winding up is termed a members' voluntary winding up where a declaration of solvency has been made and delivered in accordance with the statutory provisions²; and a winding up is termed a creditors' voluntary winding up where no such declaration has been made and delivered³. Certain provisions are applicable only to a members' voluntary winding up⁴; and certain provisions are applicable only to a creditors' voluntary winding up⁵. The law relating to voluntary winding up set out subsequently is applicable to both kinds of winding up except where expressly stated⁶.

1 The distinction between a members' voluntary winding up and a creditors' voluntary winding up was introduced by the Companies Act 1929 (repealed), and was intended to enable the creditors to secure control of any winding up in which they are primarily interested, namely any winding up in which the directors of the company cannot guarantee that the company will be solvent at the expiration of 12 months from the commencement of the winding up. Before the enactment of the Companies (Consolidation) Act 1908, the control of every voluntary liquidation was vested in the company and the liquidators appointed by it, unless the company delegated to its creditors the power of appointing their own nominee as liquidator. By the Companies (Consolidation) Act 1908 s 188 (repealed), the liquidator in a voluntary winding up was required to convene a meeting of creditors within seven days of his appointment at which they could determine whether to apply to the court to appoint a liquidator in place of or together with the liquidator appointed by the company, or to appoint a committee of inspection; application could then be made to the court to give effect to any such proposed appointment, and the court could make any order to give effect to it or such other order as, having regard to the creditors' and contributories' interests, might seem just (see para 953 note 4 post). Further, under s 190 (repealed) (which re-enacted the Companies Act 1862 s 135), a company could by extraordinary resolution delegate to the creditors or a committee of them the power of appointing liquidators or supplying vacancies, and arrange with the creditors as to the powers to be exercised by the liquidators. In practice, however, the shareholders usually retained control over a voluntary winding up except where the creditors were so prejudiced by the voluntary winding up as to justify the court in ordering the winding up of the company compulsorily or subject to the supervision of the court.

2 See para 941 post.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 90.

4 See ibid Pt IV Ch III (ss 91-96); and para 942 et seq post.

5 See ibid s 97, which applies Pt IV Ch IV (ss 98-106) (as amended) (see para 945 et seq post) to a creditors' voluntary winding up, except that ss 98, 99 do not apply where, under s 96 (see para 942 post), a members' voluntary winding up has become a creditors' voluntary winding up.

6 The provisions of ibid Pt IV Ch V (ss 107-116) (as amended) (see para 1009 et seq ante) apply to every voluntary winding up, whether a members' or a creditors' winding up.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(1) REQUISITES FOR AND KINDS OF VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/941. Statutory declaration of solvency.

941. Statutory declaration of solvency.

Where it is proposed to wind up a company voluntarily, the directors of the company¹, or, in the case of a company having more than two directors, the majority of them, may at a meeting of the directors make a statutory declaration² to the effect that they have made a full inquiry into the company's affairs and that, having done so, they have formed the opinion that the company will be able to pay its debts in full, together with interest at the official rate³, within such period, not exceeding 12 months from the commencement of the winding up, as may be specified in the declaration⁴. Such a declaration has no effect for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 unless it is made within the five weeks immediately preceding the date of the passing of the resolution for winding up, or on that date but before the passing of the resolution⁵, and it embodies a statement of the company's assets and liabilities as at the latest practicable date before the making of the declaration⁶.

The declaration must be delivered to the registrar of companies before the expiration of 15 days immediately following the date on which the resolution for winding up is passed⁷. If the declaration is not so delivered within the time prescribed, the company, and every officer who is in default, is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one-fifth of the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-fiftieth of the statutory maximum⁸.

A director so making a declaration without having reasonable grounds for the opinion that the company will be able to pay its debts in full, together with interest at the official rate, within the period specified is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, or to both⁹; and, if the company is wound up in pursuance of a resolution passed¹⁰ within five weeks after the making of the declaration, and its debts, together with interest at the official rate, are not paid or provided for in full within the period specified in the declaration, then, unless the contrary is shown, it is to be presumed that the director did not have reasonable grounds for his opinion¹¹.

A declaration of solvency is not binding on creditors and does not prevent them from presenting a petition to wind up the company, if they can prove that it is insolvent¹².

1 In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, references to 'directors' in the Insolvency Act 1986 ss 89, 90 should be read as references to designated members: see ss 89, 90; the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante. For the meaning of 'designated member' see para 109 note 3 ante.

2 For the prescribed form of declaration see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.7, Sch 4 Form 4.70 (substituted by SI 1987/1919).

3 The official rate, in relation to interest in respect of any debt, means whichever is the greater of: (1) the rate specified in the Judgments Act 1838 s 17 (as amended) on the day on which the company went into liquidation; and (2) the rate applicable to that debt apart from winding up: Insolvency Act 1986 ss 189(4), 251. The rate so specified is 8% per annum: Judgments Act 1838 s 17 (amended by the Judgment Debts (Rate of Interest) Order 1993, SI 1993/564, art 2).

4 Insolvency Act 1986 s 89(1). See para 940 note 1 ante.

5 Ibid s 89(2)(a). In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, it is instead provided that for these purposes the declaration must be made within the five weeks immediately preceding the date when the limited liability partnership determined that it be wound up voluntarily or on that date but before the making of the determination: see s 89(2)(a); and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3.

A declaration for this purpose need not include every asset or liability (De Courcy v Clements [1971] Ch 693, [1971] 1 All ER 681). Deficiencies in a statement of assets and liabilities do not deprive the statement of the quality of a statement of assets and liabilities for these purposes and would not therefore have the result that the declaration of solvency would have no effect: Re New Millennium Experience Co Ltd, Greenwich Millennium Exhibition Ltd v New Millennium Experience Co Ltd [2003] EWHC 1823 (Ch), [2004] 1 All ER 687.

6 Insolvency Act 1986 s 89(2)(b). See note 5 supra.

7 Ibid s 89(3). In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, it is instead provided that the declaration must be delivered to the registrar of companies before the expiration of 15 days immediately following the date on which the partnership determined that it be wound up voluntarily: see s 89(3); and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3. UPDATE

939-1024 Voluntary Winding Up

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(1) REQUISITES FOR AND KINDS OF VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/942. Effect of insolvency in members' voluntary winding up.

942. Effect of insolvency in members' voluntary winding up.

Where, in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, the liquidator is of the opinion that the company will be unable to pay its debts in full, together with interest at the official rate¹, within the period stated in the directors' declaration², the liquidator must:

- 1306 (1) summon a meeting of creditors for a day not later than the twenty-eighth day after the day on which he formed that opinion;
- 1307 (2) send notices of the creditors' meeting to the creditors by post not less than seven days before the day on which that meeting is to be held;
- 1308 (3) cause notice of the creditors' meeting to be advertised once in the Gazette³ and once at least in two newspapers circulating in the relevant locality, that is to say the locality in which the company's principal place of business⁴ in Great Britain was situated during the relevant period⁵; and
- 1309 (4) during the period before the day on which the creditors' meeting is to be held, furnish creditors free of charge with such information concerning the affairs of the company as they may reasonably require, and the notice of the creditors' meeting must state the duty imposed under head (4) above⁶.

The liquidator must also make out a statement in the prescribed form as to the affairs of the company, lay that statement before the creditors' meeting, and attend and preside at that meeting⁷. The statement as to the affairs of the company must be verified by affidavit by the liquidator and must show particulars of the company's assets, debts and liabilities, the names and addresses of the company's creditors, the securities held by them respectively, the dates when the securities were respectively given, and such further information as may be prescribed⁸.

If the liquidator without reasonable excuse fails to comply with the provisions described above, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum⁹.

As from the day on which the creditors' meeting is held, the Insolvency Act 1986 has effect as if the directors' declaration¹⁰ had not been made, and the creditors' meeting and (except in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership) the company meeting at which it was resolved that the company be wound up voluntarily were the first meetings required in a creditors' voluntary winding up¹¹, and, accordingly, the winding up becomes a creditors' voluntary winding up¹². Where, in such a case, a creditors' meeting is held in accordance with the provisions described above, any appointment made¹³ or committee established¹⁴ by that meeting is deemed to have been made or established by a meeting held in accordance with the statutory provisions¹⁵ relating to creditors' meetings in a creditors' voluntary winding up¹⁶.

1 For the meaning of 'official rate' see para 941 note 3 ante.

2 I.e. under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 89: see para 941 ante. In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, the declaration is made by the designated members: see s 95(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante. For the meaning of 'designated member' see para 109 note 3 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'the Gazette' see para 160 note 3 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'Great Britain' see para 12 note 2 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'the relevant period' means the period of six months immediately preceding the day on which were sent the notices summoning the company meeting at which it was resolved that the company be wound up voluntarily (Insolvency Act 1986 s 95(7)), except in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, where it means the period of six months immediately preceding the date on which the partnership determined that it be wound up voluntarily (see s 95(7); and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3).

Where the company's principal place of business in Great Britain was situated in different localities at different times during the relevant period, the duty referred to in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 95(2)(c) (see head (3) in the text) applies separately in relation to each of those localities: s 95(5). Where the company had no place of business in Great Britain during the relevant period, the references in s 95(2)(c) and s 95(5) to the company's principal place of business in Great Britain are to be read as references to its registered office: s 95(6).

6 Ibid s 95(1), (2). As to the further provisions governing the calling of and procedure at such a meeting see para 945 et seq post. Where a creditors' meeting is summoned by the liquidator under s 95 and the company in question is an authorised deposit-taker or former authorised deposit-taker, the same notice of the meeting must be given to the Financial Services Authority and the scheme manager established under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 s 212(1) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARA 583) as is given to creditors: see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.72(4) (amended by SI 1998/1129; SI 2001/3649). 8 Ibid s 95(4). See further para 947 post.

9 Ibid ss 95(8), 430, Sch 10. As to the statutory maximum see para 10 note 1 ante.

10 Or, in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, the declaration made by the designated members: see ibid s 96; and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3.

12 Ibid s 96; Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3. For the purpose of the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended), a winding up is treated as a creditors' voluntary winding up if, and from the time when, the liquidator forms the opinion that the company will be unable to pay its debts in full, and determines accordingly to summon a creditors' meeting under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 95 (see the text and notes 1-9 supra): Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.1(2) (amended by SI 1987/1919).

UPDATE

939-1024 Voluntary Winding Up

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

942 Effect of insolvency in members' voluntary winding up

TEXT AND NOTES 3-6--In the case of the winding up of a company registered in England and Wales, in head (3) for 'once at least ... relevant period' read 'may cause notice of the meeting to be advertised in such other manner as he thinks fit': Insolvency Act 1986 s 95(2A) (added by SI 2009/864). Insolvency Act 1986 s 95(2) amended by SI 2009/864 so that it applies only to the winding up of a company registered in Scotland. See SI 1986/1925 r 4.53C (CVL additional contents of notices gazetted or advertised under s 95) (added by SI 2010/686).

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(2) RESOLUTION FOR WINDING UP/943. Form of resolution for winding up.

(2) RESOLUTION FOR WINDING UP

943. Form of resolution for winding up.

An ordinary resolution¹ is sufficient for winding up a company in two cases only, namely where the period for its duration has expired or when the event on which it is to be dissolved has happened².

An extraordinary resolution³ will place a company in voluntary liquidation only where it is to the effect that, by reason of its liabilities, the company cannot continue its business, and that it is advisable to wind up⁴.

In all cases, other than those mentioned above, a special resolution⁵ is necessary⁶, as, for example, where it is desired to reconstruct the company, or there is no further use in continuing its existence.

Before a company passes a resolution for voluntary winding up it must give written notice of the resolution to the holder of any qualifying floating charge⁷.

1 As to ordinary resolutions see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 613.

2 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(1)(a); and para 939 ante.

3 As to extraordinary resolutions see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 615.

4 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(1)(c); and para 939 ante. The notice convening the meeting must inform the members clearly that it is proposed to pass the resolution (Re Bridport Old Brewery Co (1867) 2 Ch App 191; Re Silkstone Fall Colliery Co (1875) 1 ChD 38, CA), but the absence of notice does not invalidate the resolution where all the members of the company are present at the meeting and sign a minute of the resolution (Re Oxted Motor Co Ltd [1921] 3 KB 32, DC). A notice stating that a resolution in the terms of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(1)(c) will be proposed is sufficient: see Stone v City and County Bank (1877) 3 CPD 282, CA. A resolution for voluntary winding up cannot be passed conditional on another event: Re Norditrack (UK) Ltd (in administration) [2000] 1 All ER 369, [2000] 1 BCLC 467. A company may resolve to place itself into voluntary liquidation notwithstanding that a voluntary arrangement is in place in respect of the company: Re Arthur Rathbone Kitchens Ltd [1997] 2 BCLC 280, [1998] BCC 450.

5 As to special resolutions see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 614.

6 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(1)(b); and para 939 ante.

7 I.e. a qualifying floating charge to which Insolvency Act 1986 s 72A (as added and amended) applies (see para 382 ante): Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(2A) (s 84(2A), (2B) added by the Enterprise Act 2002 (Insolvency) Order 2003, SI 2003/2096, art 4, Schedule Pt 1 paras 8, 10). The addition of these provisions does not apply in any case where a petition for an administration order was presented before 15 September 2003. Where notice is given under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(2A) (as added), a resolution for voluntary winding up may be passed only after the end of the period of five business days beginning with the day on which the notice was given, or if the person to whom the notice was given has consented in writing to the passing of the resolution: s 84(2B) (as so added).

UPDATE

939-1024 Voluntary Winding Up

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

943 Form of resolution for winding up

TEXT AND NOTES 3, 4--1986 Act s 84(1)(c) repealed: Companies Act 2006 (Commencement No 3, Consequential Amendments, Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2007, SI 2007/2194.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(2) RESOLUTION FOR WINDING UP/944. Procedure on resolution for winding up and applications for confirmation.

944. Procedure on resolution for winding up and applications for confirmation.

Notices of a meeting at which it is intended to propose an extraordinary or special resolution must be given, and the meeting must be held, in the manner provided by the Companies Act 1985 and the company's articles of association¹.

A resolution for voluntary winding up is not invalid by reason of its being passed contemporaneously with separate resolutions for a reconstruction scheme which are invalid². However, where notice is given of a series of resolutions relating to a general scheme of reconstruction, and a resolution for winding up only is passed, the resolution may be void³.

A copy of every winding-up resolution, either printed or in some other form approved by the registrar of companies, must be forwarded to and recorded by him within 15 days after the passing of the resolution⁴; and the company must, within 14 days after the passing of the resolution, give notice of the resolution by advertisement in the Gazette⁵. If default is made in so giving notice in the Gazette, the company, and every officer of the company (including, for this purpose, the liquidator) who is in default, is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one-fifth of the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-fiftieth of the statutory maximum⁶.

Where a company has passed a resolution for voluntary winding up and no declaration of solvency has been made⁷, the liquidator may apply to the court for an order confirming the creditors' voluntary winding up for the purposes of the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings⁸ and on that application the court may confirm the winding up⁹. Such an application may also be made where a company has moved to a voluntary liquidation from administration¹⁰. Where the court has confirmed the creditors' voluntary winding up, the liquidator must forthwith give notice: (1) if there is a member state liquidator¹¹ in relation to the company, to the member state liquidator¹²; and (2) in accordance with the liquidator's duty¹³ to inform creditors¹⁴.

1 See the Companies Act 1985 s 378(6); and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARAS 614-615. A special resolution has been held good even though shareholders abroad had less than the number of days' notice prescribed by the articles: Re Union Hill Silver Co Ltd (1870) 22 LT 400; Re Newcastle United Football Co Ltd [1932] WN 109. See also Re Bailey, Hay & Co Ltd [1971] 3 All ER 693, [1971] 1 WLR 1357 (short notice of meeting; all shareholders who had not voted in favour of resolution allowed it to pass and by their subsequent conduct were deemed to have accepted it). The length of notice required for a special resolution may be curtailed by agreement of a specified majority of the shareholders: see the Companies Act 1985 s 378(3) (as amended). See also and COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 614. As to notice of an extraordinary resolution see para 943 text and notes 3, 4 ante. The notices summoning the meetings must be issued by authority of a resolution of the board (Re Haycraft Gold Reduction and Mining Co [1900] 2 Ch 230; Re State of Wyoming Syndicate [1901] 2 Ch 431), but the want of authority may be waived by the presence of all those who have a right to vote (cf Re Oxted Motor Co Ltd [1921] 3 KB 32, DC). Where a winding-up petition is pending, it is a contempt of court to issue a circular to the shareholders containing misrepresentations with intent to obtain the passing of a voluntary winding-up resolution and thereby mislead the court as to the real view of the shareholders: Re Septimus Parsonage & Co [1901] 2 Ch 424. As to the declaration of the chairman being conclusive see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 654; and as to the validity of such resolutions where no creditors' meeting is held see para 953 note 4 post.

Where the company is an authorised deposit-taker or former authorised deposit-taker within the meaning of the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 13.12A (as added) (see para 460 notes 18, 19 ante), notice of any meeting of the company at which it is intended to propose a resolution for its winding up must be given to the scheme manager established under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 s 212(1) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARA 583) and the Financial Services Authority; and such notice must be the same as that given to members of the company: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.72(1)-(3) (amended by SI 1987/1919; SI 1998/1129; SI 2001/3649). See further para 671 ante. As to the Financial Services Authority see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARAS 4, 6 et seq.

For the meaning of 'main proceedings' see para 960 note 16 post. For the meanings of 'secondary proceedings' and 'territorial proceedings' see para 668 note 17 ante. The requisite documents which must accompany the application comprise: (a) a copy of the resolution for voluntary winding up referred to in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(3) (see para 371 ante) (Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.62(3)(a) (as so added)); (b) evidence of his appointment as liquidator of the company (r 7.62(3)(b) (as so added)); and (c) a copy of the statement of affairs required under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 99 (see para 947 post) (Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.62(3)(c) (as so added)). It is not necessary to serve the application on, or give notice to, any person: r 7.62(4) (as so added)).

If the court confirms the creditors' voluntary winding up, it may do so without a hearing and must affix its seal to the application: r 7.62(6) (as so added). A member of the court staff may deal with an application for confirmation: r 7.62(7) (as so added).

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

944 Procedure on resolution for winding up and applications for confirmation

TEXT AND NOTE 10--SI 1986/1925 r 7.62(8) amended: SI 2010/686.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(3) MEETINGS OF CREDITORS; STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS/945. Summoning and business at first meeting of creditors.

(3) MEETINGS OF CREDITORS; STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS

945. Summoning and business at first meeting of creditors.

In a creditors' voluntary winding up, the company must:

- 1310 (1) cause a meeting of its creditors to be summoned for a day not later than the fourteenth day after the day on which there is to be held the company meeting at which the resolution for voluntary winding up is to be proposed¹;
- 1311 (2) cause the notices of the creditors' meeting to be sent by post to the creditors not less than seven days before the day on which the meeting is to be held; and
- 1312 (3) cause notice of the creditors' meeting to be advertised once in the Gazette² and once at least in two newspapers circulating in the relevant locality, that is to say the locality in which the company's principal place of business in Great Britain was situated during the relevant period³.

The notice of the creditors' meeting must state either the name and address of a person qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner⁴ in relation to the company who, during the period before the day on which that meeting is to be held, will furnish creditors free of charge with such information concerning the company's affairs as they may reasonably require⁵, or a place in the relevant locality where, on the two business days⁶ falling next before the day on which that meeting is to be held, a list of the names and addresses of the company's creditors will be available for inspection free of charge⁷.

If the company without reasonable excuse fails to comply with these provisions, it is guilty of an offence and is liable on conviction on indictment to a fine, or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum⁸.

Where a meeting of creditors is summoned under these provisions or is a meeting of creditors summoned by the liquidator where, in what starts as a members' voluntary winding up, he forms the opinion that the company will be unable to pay its debts⁹, the notice summoning the meeting must specify a venue¹⁰ for the meeting and the time, being not earlier than 12.00 hours on the business day before the day fixed for the meeting, by which, and the place at which, creditors must lodge any proxies necessary to entitle them to vote at the meeting¹¹. Where the company is an authorised deposit-taker or a former authorised deposit-taker¹², additional notices are required¹³. The only resolutions which may be passed at such meetings are those which may be passed at the first meeting of creditors in a winding up by the court¹⁴.

Where a company meeting at which a resolution for voluntary winding up is to be proposed¹⁵ is adjourned, any resolution passed at the first meeting of creditors¹⁶ held before the holding of the adjourned company meeting only has effect on and from the passing by the company of a resolution for winding up¹⁷.

Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'the Gazette' see para 160 note 3 ante.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 98(1)(a)-(c). 'The relevant period' means the period of six months immediately preceding the day on which were sent the notices summoning the company meeting at which it was resolved that the company be wound up voluntarily (s 98(5)), except in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, where it means the period of six months immediately preceding the day on which the partnership determined that it be wound up voluntarily (s 98(5); Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3)). Where the company's principal place of business in Great Britain was situated in different localities at different times during the relevant period, the duties imposed by the provision referred to in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 98(1)(c) (see head (3) in the text) and in s 98(2)(b) (see the text to note 7 infra) apply separately in relation to those localities: s 98(3). Where the company had no place of business in Great Britain during the relevant period, references in s 98(1)(c) and in s 98(2)(b) to the company's principal place of business in Great Britain are to be read as references to the company's registered office: s 98(4). For the meaning of 'Great Britain' see para 12 note 2 ante.

Where a creditors' meeting is summoned under s 98 by the liquidator, the same notice of the meeting must be given to the Financial Services Authority and the scheme manager established under the Financial Services and Markets Act s 212(1) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARA 583) as is given to creditors where the company is an authorised institution or former authorised institution within the meaning of the Banking Act 1987: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.72(4) (amended by SI 1998/1129, SI 2001/3649). This meeting of creditors is entitled to nominate a liquidator (see para 951 post) and appoint a liquidation committee (see para 994 post): see s 100 (as amended), s 101; and paras 953, 994 post. 946 Expenses of first meeting of creditors called by the company

TEXT AND NOTES 1, 2--SI 1986/1925 r 4.62(1) amended: SI 2008/737.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(3) MEETINGS OF CREDITORS; STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS/947. Statement of affairs and director's duty to preside.

947. Statement of affairs and director's duty to preside.

The directors of a company¹ must make out a statement in the prescribed form² as to the affairs of the company, cause that statement to be laid before the first meeting of creditors³, and appoint one of their number to preside at that meeting; and it is the duty of the director⁴ so appointed to attend the meeting and preside over it⁵.

The statement as to the affairs of the company must be verified by affidavit by some or all of the directors⁶ of the company and must show particulars of the company's assets, debts and liabilities, the names and addresses of the company's creditors, the securities held by them respectively, the dates when the securities were respectively given, and such further or other information as may be prescribed⁷. Such statement of affairs may be made up to a date not more than 14 days before that on which the resolution for voluntary winding up is passed by the company⁸.

If the directors⁹ without reasonable excuse fail to comply with these provisions, or any director appointed to preside at the creditors' meeting fails to attend and preside at such meeting, they are or, as the case may be, the director is, guilty of an offence and liable on conviction on indictment to a fine, or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum¹⁰.

The statement of affairs must be delivered by the directors to the liquidator in office following the first meeting of creditors forthwith after that meeting has been held; and he must within seven days deliver it to the registrar of companies¹¹. Where a liquidator is nominated by the company at a general meeting held on a day prior to that on which the first creditors' meeting is held, the directors must forthwith after his nomination or the making of the statement of affairs, whichever is the later, deliver to him a copy of the statement of affairs¹². At any first meeting of creditors where the statement of affairs laid before the meeting does not state the company's affairs as at the date of the meeting, the directors of the company must cause to be made to the meeting, either by the director presiding at the meeting or by another person with knowledge of the relevant matters, a report, written or oral, on any material transactions relating to the company occurring between the date of the making of the statement of affairs and that of the meeting¹³.

Where the liquidator makes out a statement of affairs as is required in the case where, in what starts as a members' voluntary winding up, he forms the opinion that the company will be unable to pay its debts¹⁴, he must deliver such statement of affairs to the registrar of companies within seven days after the creditors' meeting which he is required to summon¹⁵.

UPDATE

939-1024 Voluntary Winding Up

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(3) MEETINGS OF CREDITORS; STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS/949. Rules as to meetings.

949. Rules as to meetings.

With certain exceptions and additions, the provisions relating to meetings in a winding up by the court apply to meetings of creditors and contributories convened in a creditors' voluntary winding up¹. The rules relating to proxies and company representation in relation to a winding up by the court also apply in relation to such meetings².

¹ As to these provisions see paras 650-656, 664-671 ante. The provisions there set out apply in a creditors' voluntary winding up with the following exceptions and additions.

The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.50 (summoning first meetings: see para 532 ante) does not apply. As to the first meeting of creditors in a voluntary winding up see paras 942, 945 ante; and as to the passing of a resolution for voluntary winding up see paras 943-944 ante.

The Insolvency Act 1986 s 168(2) (duty of liquidator to summon meetings: see para 652 ante) does not apply; there is no duty to convene meetings of creditors or contributories upon being requisitioned to do so. Section 168(2) applies only to a winding up by the court: s 168(1). The power of the liquidator or official receiver to call meetings under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.54(1) (see para 652 ante) is conferred only in a voluntary winding up under r 4.54(1): see para 970 post. As to the power to requisition meetings in a voluntary winding up see para 985 post. As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante.

Rule 4.54 (general power to call and mode of summoning meetings: see para 653 ante) applies with the exception of r 4.54(4) (form of notice convening the meeting: see para 653 ante). In a creditors' voluntary winding up, the notice must specify a time and date, not more than four days before that fixed for the meeting, by which, and the place at which, creditors, if not individuals attending in person, must lodge proxies in order to be entitled to vote at the meeting: r 4.54(5).

Rule 4.55 (chairman at meetings: see para 654 ante) does not apply. In a creditors' voluntary winding up, at a meeting of creditors, except a meeting under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 95 (see para 942 ante) or s 98 (see para 945 ante), or a meeting of contributories, the liquidator or a person nominated by him in writing to act, must be chairman of the meeting: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.56(1) (amended by SI 1987/1919). A person so nominated must be either one who is qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner in relation to the company (see para 8 et seq ante) or an employee of the liquidator or his firm who is experienced in insolvency matters: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.56(2).

Rule 4.57 (requisitioned meetings: see para 652 ante) applies with the exception of r 4.57(4) (see para 652 ante). As to the power to requisition meetings in a voluntary winding up see para 985 post.

Rule 4.63 (amended by SI 1987/1919) (resolutions: see para 664 ante) applies with the exception of the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.63(2A) (added by SI 1987/1919) (see para 664 note 2 ante).

The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.67 (as amended) (entitlement of creditors and contributories to vote: see para 668 ante) applies. However, at a creditors' meeting, the chairman may allow a creditor to vote, notwithstanding that he has failed to comply with r 4.67(1)(a) (see para 668 head (1) ante), if satisfied that the failure was due to circumstances beyond the creditor's control: r 4.68.

Rule 4.70 (admission and rejection of proofs: see para 669 ante) applies with the exception of r 4.70(5) (see para 669 ante). In a creditors' voluntary winding up, the liquidator or his nominee as chairman is not personally liable for costs incurred by any person in respect of an application under r 4.70 unless the court makes an order to that effect: r 4.70(6).

Rule 4.71 (record of proceedings: see para 670 ante) applies with the exception of r 4.71(4) (see para 670 ante).

² As to these rules see paras 657-663 ante. The only difference is the prescribed form of proxy. For the prescribed form of proxy in a voluntary winding up see ibid rr 8.1, 12.7, Sch 4 Form 8.5. Cf para 657 note 2 ante.

951. Appointment of liquidator in a members' voluntary winding up.

In a members' voluntary winding up, the company in general meeting must appoint one or more liquidators for the purpose of winding up its affairs and distributing its assets¹. Unless and until an effective resolution to wind up voluntarily has been passed, the company cannot appoint a liquidator², but a liquidator may be appointed at the same general meeting at which the resolution to wind up is passed; it is not necessary that the notice should expressly refer to the appointment of a liquidator³. The notice usually states that a certain person will be proposed at the meeting for the office of liquidator. If the resolution to appoint the person so named is not carried, the meeting may appoint another person⁴. When there is doubt as to the validity of an appointment purported to be made at a meeting, the court will usually appoint the person whom the meeting intended to appoint⁵.

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 91(1). As to the position where no liquidator is nominated see para 955 post. Where a limited liability partnership is being wound up, there is no requirement that such an appointment be made 'in general meeting' (see s 91(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post), and the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 92(3), (4) (as modified) (see para 980 post) apply for those purposes as they apply for the purposes of s 92 (s 91(3); Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3). The chairman must send the certificate forthwith to the liquidator, who must keep it as part of the records of the liquidation³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(i) Appointment of Liquidator/953. Appointment of liquidator in a creditors' voluntary winding up.

953. Appointment of liquidator in a creditors' voluntary winding up.

In a creditors' voluntary winding up, the creditors and the company at their respective meetings¹ may nominate² a person to be liquidator for the purpose of winding up the company's affairs and distributing its assets³. If the creditors and the company nominate different persons, the person nominated by the creditors is to be the liquidator; and, if no person is nominated by the creditors, the person, if any, nominated by the company is to be the liquidator⁴. However, in the case of different persons being nominated by the creditors and by the company, any director⁵, member⁶ or creditor of the company may, within seven days after the date on which the nomination was made by the creditors, apply to the court for an order either directing that the person nominated as liquidator by the company shall be liquidator instead of or jointly with the person nominated by the creditors, or appointing some other person to be liquidator instead of the person nominated by the creditors⁷. The court must grant such an application made by the holder of a qualifying floating charge in respect of the company's property⁸ unless the court thinks it right to refuse the application because of the particular circumstances of the case⁹.

1 As to the creditors' meeting see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 98; and para 945 ante. As to the meeting of the company see para 944 ante. In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, this is a reference to the creditors at their meeting mentioned in s 98 and the limited liability partnership: see s 100(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

2 As to the passing of resolutions for the appointment of a liquidator at the creditors' meeting see para 664 ante.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 100(1).

4 Ibid s 100(2). This provision forms part of the general scheme of the Insolvency Act 1986 by which creditors, in the case of insolvent companies, are enabled to control the voluntary winding up: see para 940 note 1 ante. Under the Companies Act 1948 ss 293, 294 (repealed), if no meeting of the creditors was held, the person nominated by the company was the liquidator until something was done about the matter by the creditors: Re Centrebind Ltd [1966] 3 All ER 889, [1967] 1 WLR 377. Before that some doubt existed as to the status of such a person (see eg Re Ryder Installations Ltd [1966] 1 All ER 453n, [1966] 1 WLR 524), and it was thought that, where, eg through an oversight, a meeting of creditors had not been held, an application should be made to the court for the confirmation of the appointment of a liquidator appointed by the company; orders have been made on such applications, subject to the creditors' approval of the liquidator so appointed, as expressed either by a meeting of the creditors or by notice in writing. It seems that, in view of the decision in Re Centrebind Ltd supra, such an application may not be necessary: cf EV Saxton & Sons Ltd v R Miles (Confectioners) Ltd [1983] 2 All ER 1025, [1983] 1 WLR 952. Where, however, a liquidator has been nominated by the company, his powers are substantially restricted until the creditors' meeting has been held: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 166; and para 961 post.

By the Companies (Consolidation) Act 1908 s 188 (repealed), the liquidator appointed by the company had to convene a meeting of creditors within seven days after his appointment. At that meeting the creditors could determine whether to apply to the court to appoint any other person as liquidator in the place of or jointly with the liquidator appointed by the company. The application had to be made within 14 days of the meeting by any creditor appointed for the purpose by the meeting, but, if the creditor failed by inadvertence to apply, the liquidator could apply with his consent: Re Clyde Marine Insurance Co 1921 SC 472, Ct of Sess. As to cases where the court ordered the appointment of the creditors' nominee as liquidator see Re Karamelli and Barnett Ltd [1917] 1 Ch 203; Argylls Ltd v Ritchie and Whiteman 1914 SC 915, Ct of Sess.

5 For the meaning of 'director' see para 5 note 2 ante. The reference to a director does not apply in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 100(3); and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3.

6 For the meaning of 'member' see para 72 note 9 ante.

954. Certificate of appointment; creditors' voluntary winding up.

Where, in a creditors' voluntary winding up, a person is appointed as liquidator, either by a meeting of creditors or by a meeting of the company¹, the chairman of the meeting must certify the appointment, but not unless and until the person appointed has provided him with a written statement to the effect that he is an insolvency practitioner, duly qualified to be the liquidator², and that he consents so to act; and the liquidator's appointment takes effect upon the passing of the resolution for that appointment³. The chairman must send the certificate forthwith to the liquidator, who must keep it as part of the records of the liquidation⁴.

These provisions need not, however, be complied with in the case of a liquidator appointed by a company meeting and replaced by another liquidator appointed on the same day by a creditors' meeting⁵.

955. No liquidator appointed or nominated by company.

In the case of either a members' or creditors' voluntary winding up where no liquidator has been appointed or nominated by the company¹, the powers of the directors of the company may not be exercised, except with the sanction of the court or, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, so far as may be necessary to secure compliance with the obligations to call a creditors' meeting² and to prepare a statement of affairs³ during the period before the appointment or nomination of a liquidator of the company⁴.

These provisions do not apply in relation to the powers of the directors of the company to dispose of perishable goods and other goods the value of which is likely to diminish if they are not immediately disposed of, and to do all such other things as may be necessary for the protection of the company's assets⁵.

(ii) Liquidator's Powers and Duties; Adjustment of Prior Transactions

957. Filing notice of appointment.

Within 14 days after his appointment¹, the liquidator must publish in the Gazette and deliver to the registrar of companies for registration a notice of his appointment in the form prescribed by the Secretary of State². If he fails to do so, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one-fifth of the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-fiftieth of the statutory maximum³. Failure to gazette the notice of appointment will have the result that the company will not be entitled to rely against other persons upon the appointment having been made⁴.

The liquidator may also have to give notice of his appointment to all creditors of the company of whom he is aware.

In a creditors' voluntary winding up, where the liquidator is appointed by a meeting of creditors or contributories, or by a meeting of the company, he must, on receiving his certificate of appointment⁵, give notice of his appointment in such newspaper as he thinks most appropriate for ensuring that it comes to the notice of the company's creditors and contributories⁶. A liquidator need not comply with this provision if he is appointed by a company meeting and replaced by another liquidator appointed on the same day by a creditors' meeting⁷. The expenses of giving notice must be borne in the first instance by the liquidator; but he is entitled to be reimbursed out of the assets, as an expense of the liquidation⁸.

VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(ii) Liquidator's Powers and Duties; Adjustment of Prior Transactions/959. Liquidator's powers exercisable with sanction.

959. Liquidator's powers exercisable with sanction.

The liquidator may, in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, with the sanction of an extraordinary resolution of the company¹, and, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, with the sanction of the court or the liquidation committee² or, if there is no such committee, a meeting of the company's creditors, exercise any of the powers conferred on a liquidator in a winding up by the court of paying any classes of creditors in full, of making compromises or arrangements with creditors or persons claiming to be creditors, or having or alleging themselves to have claims against the company, and of compromising calls, liabilities to calls, debts, liabilities and claims against contributories or alleged contributories or other debtors³. In the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, these powers are restricted where a liquidator has been nominated by the company and no meeting of creditors has been held⁴.

Where the liquidator in exercise of these powers disposes of any property⁵ of the company to a person who is connected with the company⁶, he must, if there is for the time being a liquidation committee, give notice to the committee of that exercise of his powers⁷.

1 Or, in the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, a determination by a meeting of the members of the partnership: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 165(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante. Before the enactment of the Companies Act 1929, the sanction required in every voluntary winding up was only an extraordinary resolution of the company: see the Companies (Consolidation) Act 1908 s 214 (repealed). In Re Lama Coal Co, ex p Miller (1867) 2 Ch App 692, it was held that, where a court had once had seisin of a claim, even though before it adjudicated on it the necessary sanction to a compromise had been obtained, the liquidator could not properly enter into the compromise without the sanction of the court.

3 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 165(1), (2), Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3A) (as amended). See also para 578 ante. Even if made without necessary sanction, a compromise by a liquidator with a creditor is valid and binding, at any rate on the liquidator, and probably on the company where the creditor was ignorant of the failure to comply with the formalities: Cyclemakers' Co-operative Supply Co v Sims [1903] 1 KB 477. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(ii) Liquidator's Powers and Duties; Adjustment of Prior Transactions/960. Liquidator's powers exercisable without sanction.

960. Liquidator's powers exercisable without sanction.

The liquidator may, without sanction, exercise any of the other powers given to the liquidator in a winding up by the court¹, such as the power of bringing or defending a claim or other legal proceeding in the name of the company² or of carrying on its business so far as may be necessary for its beneficial winding up³ or of selling its property⁴. Generally he is to be regarded as the governing body of the company⁵.

The liquidator may exercise the court's powers of settling a list of contributories⁶ and of making calls⁷.

In a members' voluntary winding up, the liquidator has power to sanction the continuance of the directors' powers, which would otherwise cease on his appointment⁸.

Where the liquidator in exercise of these powers disposes of any property of the company to a person who is connected with the company⁹, he must, if there is for the time being a liquidation committee¹⁰, give notice to the committee of that exercise of his powers¹¹.

VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(ii) Liquidator's Powers and Duties; Adjustment of Prior Transactions/961. Liquidator nominated by company in creditors' voluntary winding up.

961. Liquidator nominated by company in creditors' voluntary winding up.

In the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, where a liquidator has been nominated by the company, the powers conferred on the liquidator¹ may not be exercised, except with the sanction of the court, during the period before the holding of the first meeting of creditors².

This provision does not, however, apply in relation to the power of the liquidator to take into his custody or under his control all the property to which the company is or appears to be entitled, nor his power to dispose of perishable goods and other goods the value of which is likely to diminish if they are not immediately disposed of, nor his power to do all other things as may be necessary for the protection of the company's assets³.

Where a liquidator has been nominated by the company, he must attend the first meeting of creditors and must report to the meeting on any exercise by him of his powers⁴.

If default is made by the company in complying with its obligation to summon the first meeting of creditors⁵, or by the directors⁶ in complying with their obligations to prepare and lay the statement of affairs before the creditors⁷, the liquidator must, within seven days of the relevant day⁸, apply to the court for directions as to the manner in which that default is to be remedied⁹.

If the liquidator without reasonable excuse fails to comply with these provisions, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum¹⁰.

939-1024 Voluntary Winding Up

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(iii) Liquidator's Remuneration and Costs/973. Liquidator's remuneration.

(iii) Liquidator's Remuneration and Costs

973. Liquidator's remuneration.

In a members' voluntary winding up, the liquidator is entitled to receive remuneration for his services as such¹. Such remuneration must be fixed either:

- 1316 (1) as a percentage of the value of the assets which are realised or distributed, or of the one value and the other in combination; or
- 1317 (2) by reference to the time properly given by the insolvency practitioner, as liquidator, and his staff in attending to matters arising in the winding up, and the company in general meeting must determine whether the remuneration is to be fixed under head (1) or head (2) above and, if under head (1) above, the percentage to be applied as there mentioned². If not fixed as described above, the liquidator is entitled to remuneration calculated in accordance with the following provisions³. The liquidator is entitled by way of remuneration for his services as such to such sum as may be arrived at by first applying the relevant realisation scale⁴ to the monies received by him from the realisation of the assets of the company including any value added tax thereon but after deducting any sums paid to secured creditors in respect of their securities and any sums spent out of money received in carrying on the business of the company, and then by adding to that sum such sum as is arrived at by applying the relevant distribution scale⁵ to the value of the assets distributed to creditors of the company (including payments made in respect of preferential debts⁶) and to contributories⁷.

The provisions dealing with other matters affecting the remuneration of a liquidator in a winding up by the court apply in relation to the remuneration of the liquidator in a members' voluntary winding up⁸. If the liquidator in a members' voluntary winding up considers that the remuneration fixed for him by the company in general meeting, or under the scale laid down for the official receiver, is insufficient, he may apply to the court for an order increasing its amount or rate⁹. The liquidator must, however, give at least 14 days' notice of such an application to the company's contributories, or such one or more of them as the court may direct; and the contributories may nominate one or more of their number to appear or be represented¹⁰. If it appears to be a proper case, the court may order the costs of the liquidator's application, including the costs of any contributory appearing or being represented on it, to be paid out of the assets¹¹.

In a creditors' voluntary winding up, the liquidator's remuneration is determined in the same manner as the remuneration of a liquidator in a winding up by the court¹².

If in a members' voluntary winding up a vacancy occurs by death¹, resignation² or otherwise³ in the office of liquidator appointed by the company, the company in general meeting⁴ may, subject to any arrangement with its creditors, fill the vacancy⁵. A general meeting⁶ for the purpose may be convened by any contributory⁷ or, if there were more liquidators than one, by the continuing liquidators⁸. The meeting must be held in the manner provided by the Insolvency Act 1986⁹ or by the articles of association¹⁰, or in such manner as may be determined by the court on application by any contributory or by the continuing liquidators¹¹.

If in a creditors' voluntary winding up a vacancy occurs by death, resignation or otherwise in the office of a liquidator, other than a liquidator appointed by, or by the direction of, the court¹², the creditors may fill the vacancy¹³. Where such a vacancy occurs, a meeting of creditors to fill the vacancy may be convened by any creditor, or, if there were more liquidators than one, by the continuing liquidators¹⁴.

The court has power under these provisions to appoint a liquidator in place of a retiring liquidator or to appoint a liquidator in place of a liquidator whom it has removed³.

VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(v) Vacancies; Removal and Resignation of Liquidator; Appointment of New Liquidator/984. Removal of liquidator by the court.

984. Removal of liquidator by the court.

The court may, on cause shown, remove a liquidator and appoint another¹. The application may only be made by a contributory, a liquidator, or a creditor². A liquidator of unsound mind may be removed³. Personal misconduct or unfitness is not a necessary condition for the removal of a liquidator; and a liquidator may be removed where he has shown insufficient vigour in carrying out his duties and a too relaxed and complacent attitude to the possibility of wrongdoing on the part of the directors⁴. A liquidator may appeal from an order removing him⁵, but the removal is a matter of judicial discretion and, if it has been exercised according to law, the appellate court will not interfere⁶.

Where application is made to the court for the removal of the liquidator, or for an order directing the liquidator to summon a creditors' meeting for the purpose of removing him⁷, the court may, if it thinks that no sufficient cause is shown for the application, dismiss it; but it may not do so unless the applicant has had an opportunity to attend the court for a hearing, of which he has been given at least seven days' notice⁸. If the application is not so dismissed, the court must fix a venue⁹ for the application to be heard¹⁰. The court may require the applicant to make a deposit or give security for the costs to be incurred by the liquidator on the application¹¹.

The applicant must, at least 14 days before the hearing, send to the liquidator a notice stating the venue and accompanied by a copy of the application, and of any evidence which he intends to adduce in support of it¹²; and, subject to any contrary order of the court, the costs of the application are not payable out of the assets¹³.

Where the court removes the liquidator, it must send two copies of the order of removal to him, one to be sent by him forthwith to the registrar of companies, with notice of his ceasing to act¹⁴; and the order may include such provision as the court thinks fit with respect to matters arising in connection with the removal¹⁵. If the court appoints a new liquidator, the procedure¹⁶ on appointment of a liquidator by the court applies¹⁷.

984 Removal of liquidator by the court

TEXT AND NOTE 13--SI 1986/1925 r 4.120(5) amended: SI 2008/737.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(v) Vacancies; Removal and Resignation of Liquidator; Appointment of New Liquidator/985. Removal of liquidator by the company and creditors.

985. Removal of liquidator by the company and creditors.

A liquidator may be removed from office only by an order of the court¹ or, in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, by a general meeting of the company summoned specially for that purpose², or, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, by a general meeting of the company's creditors summoned specially for that purpose in accordance with the following provisions³. Such a creditors' meeting for the removal of the liquidator must be summoned by him if requested by 25 per cent in value of the company's creditors, excluding those who are connected with the company⁴.

Where the liquidator was appointed by the court⁵, a meeting must be summoned for the purpose of replacing him only if the liquidator thinks fit or the court so directs or the meeting is requested, in accordance with the rules⁶, in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, by members representing not less than one-half of the total voting rights of all the members having at the date of the request a right to vote at the meeting, or, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, by not less than one-half, in value, of the company's creditors⁷.

The notice summoning the creditors' meeting must indicate that the removal of the liquidator is the purpose, or one of the purposes, of the meeting; and the notice must draw the attention of creditors to the provisions⁸ relating to the liquidator's release⁹.

At the creditors' meeting, a person other than the liquidator or his nominee may be elected to act as chairman; but, if the liquidator or his nominee is chairman and a resolution has been proposed for the liquidator's removal, the chairman may not adjourn the meeting without the consent of at least one-half, in value, of the creditors present, in person or by proxy, and entitled to vote¹⁰.

The court's powers to regulate such a creditors' meeting on the application of any creditor are the same as in the case of such a meeting in a winding up by the court¹¹.

Where the creditors have resolved that the liquidator be removed, the chairman of the creditors' meeting must forthwith, if at the meeting another liquidator was not appointed, send the certificate of the liquidator's removal to the registrar of companies, and otherwise, deliver the certificate to the new liquidator, who must send it to the registrar¹².

Where a new liquidator is appointed in place of one removed, the former must, in giving notice of his appointment¹³, state that his predecessor has been removed and, if it be the case, that he has been given his release¹⁴.

1 See para 984 ante. It has been suggested that the procedure of petitioning for a compulsory winding-up, where the identity of the liquidator is the cause of the petitioner's grievance, may be inappropriate in light of the court's power to remove a liquidator under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 171: Re Inside Sport Ltd (in liquidation) [2000] 1 BCLC 302; but see Re Zirceram Ltd (in liquidation), J Paterson Brodie & Son (a firm) v Zirceram Ltd (in liquidation) [2000] 1 BCLC 751 at 759 per Lawrence Collins QC.

2 Insolvency Act 1986 s 171(1), (2)(a). In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, a liquidator may be removed from office by a meeting of the members of the limited liability partnership summoned specially for that purpose: see s 171(2)(a); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. UPDATE

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(4) LIQUIDATORS/(v) Vacancies; Removal and Resignation of Liquidator; Appointment of New Liquidator/986. Resignation of liquidator.

986. Resignation of liquidator.

In the following circumstances, a liquidator may resign his office by giving notice of his resignation to the registrar of companies¹.

In a members' voluntary winding up, before resigning his office, the liquidator must call a meeting of the company for the purpose of receiving his resignation; and the notice summoning the meeting must indicate that this is the purpose, or one of the purposes, of it². The notice must be accompanied by an account of the liquidator's administration of the winding up, including a summary of his receipts and payments, and a statement by him that he has reconciled his account with that which is held by the Secretary of State in respect of the winding up³. The liquidator may only proceed under these provisions on grounds of ill-health or because he intends ceasing to be in practice as an insolvency practitioner⁴, or there is some conflict of interest or change of personal circumstances which precludes or makes impracticable the further discharge by him of the duties of liquidator⁵. Where, however, two or more persons are acting as liquidator jointly, any one of them may proceed under these provisions, without prejudice to the continuation in office of the other or others, on the ground that, in his opinion or that of the other or others, it is no longer expedient that there should continue to be the present number of joint liquidators⁶. If there is no quorum present at the meeting summoned to receive the liquidator's resignation, the meeting is deemed to have been held⁷. The notice of the liquidator's resignation to the registrar of companies⁸ must be given by him forthwith after the meeting⁹. Where a new liquidator is appointed in place of one who has resigned, the former must, in giving notice of his appointment¹⁰, state that his predecessor has resigned¹¹.

In a creditors' voluntary winding up, the provisions applicable to the resignation of a liquidator in a winding up by the court apply¹², with the following exceptions and modifications. A copy of the notice summoning the meeting of creditors does not have to be sent to the official receiver¹³. Where the liquidator's resignation is accepted by the meeting of creditors, the notice of his resignation to the registrar of companies must be given by him forthwith after the meeting; and, where a new liquidator is appointed in place of the one who has resigned, the certificate of his appointment¹⁴ must be delivered forthwith by the chairman of the meeting to the new liquidator¹⁵. Where the court, on the liquidator's application, makes an order giving him leave to resign, the court must send two sealed copies of the order to the liquidator, who must forthwith send one of them to the registrar of companies¹⁶.

(5) LIQUIDATION COMMITTEE

994. Appointment of liquidation committee.

In the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, the creditors at the meeting summoned for a day not later than the fourteenth day after the day on which there is to be held the meeting at which the resolution for voluntary winding up is to be proposed¹ or at any subsequent meeting may, if they think fit, appoint a committee ('the liquidation committee') of not more than five persons to exercise the functions conferred on it by or under the Insolvency Act 1986². If such a committee is appointed, the company may, either at the meeting at which the resolution for voluntary winding up is passed or at any time subsequently in general meeting, appoint such number of persons as it thinks fit, not exceeding five, to act as members of the committee³. However, the creditors may, if they think fit, resolve that all or any of the persons so appointed by the company ought not to be members of the committee; and, if the creditors so resolve, the persons mentioned in the resolution are not then, unless the court otherwise directs, qualified to act as members of the committee; and, on any application to the court under this provision, the court may, if it thinks fit, appoint other persons to act as such members in the place of the persons mentioned in the resolution⁴.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(5) LIQUIDATION COMMITTEE/995. Constitution and proceedings of the liquidation committee.

995. Constitution and proceedings of the liquidation committee.

Subject to the specific provisions relating to the appointment of a liquidation committee in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up¹ and to certain exceptions, modifications and additions, the rules relating to the constitution and proceedings of the liquidation committee in a winding up by the court apply to a liquidation committee appointed in a voluntary winding up².

² As to those rules see para 629 text and note 3, 630-644 ante. The rules apply in a voluntary winding up with the following exceptions, modifications and additions.

The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.152 (as amended) (membership of the committee: see para 630 ante) applies except for r 4.152(1). In a voluntary winding up, the committee must have at least three members before it can be established: r 4.152(2).

Rule 4.153 (as amended) (formalities of establishment: see para 631 ante) applies except for r 4.153(5), (7). In a voluntary winding up, the certificate and any amended certificate must be sent by the liquidator to the registrar of companies: r 4.153(6). As to the registrar of companies see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 131 et seq. As to the prescribed form of certificate of the constitution of the liquidation committee and the notice to the registrar of its constitution see rr 4.153, 12.7, Sch 4 Forms 4.47, 4.48 respectively. If, after the establishment of the committee, there is any change in its membership, the liquidator must report the change to the registrar of companies: r 4.153(8). As to the prescribed form of report of any change in membership of the liquidation committee and notice to the registrar see rr 4.153, 12.7, Sch 4 Forms 4.49, 4.48.

Rule 4.154 (as amended) (committee established by contributories: see para 632 ante) does not apply.

Rule 4.158(1) (quorum: see para 635 ante) does not apply. In a voluntary winding up, a meeting of the liquidation committee is duly constituted if the notice of it has been given to all the members, and at least two members are present or represented: r 4.158(2).

Rules 4.163, 4.164 (vacancies: see para 638 ante) apply. However, in a voluntary winding up, where the contributories make an appointment under r 4.164(4) (see para 638 ante), the creditor members of the committee may, if they think fit, resolve that the person appointed ought not to be a member of the committee; and (1) that person is not then, unless the court otherwise directs, qualified to act as a member of the committee; and (2) on any application to the court for such a direction, the court may, if it thinks fit, appoint another person, being a contributory, to fill the vacancy on the committee: r 4.164(5).

Rule 4.165 (voting rights and resolutions: see para 639 ante) does not apply. In a voluntary winding up, at any meeting of the liquidation committee, each member of it, whether present himself or by his representative, has one vote; and a resolution is passed when a majority of the members present or represented have voted in favour of it: r 4.166(1). Every resolution passed must be recorded in writing, either separately or as part of the minutes of the meeting; and the record must be signed by the chairman and kept with the records of the liquidation: r 4.166(2).

Rule 4.167 (as amended) (resolutions by post: see para 640 ante) applies except for r 4.167(3), (5). In a voluntary winding up, any member of the liquidation committee may, within seven business days from the date of the liquidator sending out the resolution, require him to summon a meeting of the committee to consider the matters raised by the resolution: r 4.167(4). In the absence of such a request, the resolution is deemed to have been passed by the committee if and when the liquidator is notified in writing by a majority of the members that they concur with it: r 4.167(6). For the meaning of 'business day' see para 113 note 4 ante.

Rule 4.171 (composition of committee when creditors paid in full: see para 644 ante) applies except for r 4.171(2). In a voluntary winding up, the liquidator must forthwith send a copy of the certificate to the registrar of companies: r 4.171(3). As to the prescribed form of certificate that the creditors have been paid in full see rr 4.171, 12.7, Sch 4 Form 4.51.

(6) COMMENCEMENT AND CONSEQUENCES OF VOLUNTARY WINDING UP

996. Commencement of voluntary winding up.

A voluntary winding up is deemed to commence at the time of the passing of the resolution for voluntary winding up¹. The date of commencement is not altered by a compulsory winding-up order being made².

¹ Insolvency Act 1986 s 86. This is so even if a resolution is passed purporting to render the resolution conditional on a subsequent event: Re Norditrack (UK) Ltd (in administration) [2000] 1 All ER 369, [2000] 1 BCLC 467. As to the passing of the resolution to wind up see para 943 et seq ante. Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(6) COMMENCEMENT AND CONSEQUENCES OF VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/997. Consequences of voluntary winding up.

997. Consequences of voluntary winding up.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in its articles of association¹, the corporate state and corporate powers of a company which goes into voluntary winding up continue until it is dissolved². From the commencement of the winding up it must, however, cease to carry on its business, except so far as may be required for its beneficial winding up³. Contracts with a company which are not required for its beneficial winding up are not, however, illegal as between the company and the other contracting party⁴.

The passing of a resolution for voluntary winding up does not itself cause the directors' powers to cease, but on the appointment of a liquidator all those powers cease except, in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, so far as the company in general meeting or the liquidator or, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, so far as the liquidation committee or, if there is no such committee, the creditors sanction their continuance⁵. A general meeting may elect directors, and in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, sanction the exercise by them of any powers which they possessed before the company went into liquidation⁶. From the commencement of the winding up, however, the members have no power to override the liquidator's title or ratify to the detriment of creditors anything done previously by the directors⁷.

If it involves the immediate cessation of the company's business, a voluntary winding up may operate as a dismissal of the company's employees⁸.

Where a lease to a company contains a proviso for re-entry on the company's liquidation, the proviso, in the absence of express restriction on the meaning of 'liquidation', will apply on the voluntary winding up of the company, even if the winding up is only for the purposes of reconstruction⁹.

1 In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, this is a reference to the limited liability partnership agreement: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 84(1); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. 'Limited liability partnership agreement', in relation to a limited liability partnership, means any agreement, express or implied, made between the members of the limited liability partnership or between the partnership and the members of the partnership which determines the mutual rights and duties of the members, and their rights and duties in relation to the partnership: Insolvency Act 1986 s 436 (amended for these purposes by the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3); and see para 1309 post; and PARTNERSHIP. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante. As to a company's articles of association see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 228 et seq.

2 Insolvency Act 1986 s 87(2).

3 Ibid s 87(1). This may cause inconvenience where a company sells its business to another company which is not a private company, as the new company itself cannot commence business for some time: see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 74. The continuance of the directors' powers to carry on the business may, however, be sanctioned. From the commencement of winding up, a company's existence continues solely for the purpose of winding up, and not for another purpose, such as an amalgamation (Re London, Bombay and Mediterranean Bank Ltd, Drew's Case (1867) 36 LJ Ch 785 at 789), but the ensuring of a smooth take-over may be required for the beneficial winding up of the company (Willis v Association of Universities of British Commonwealth [1965] 1 QB 140, [1964] 2 All ER 39, CA).

4 Bateman & Co v Ball (1887) 56 LQB 291, not dissented from in Hire Purchase Furnishing Co v Richens (1887) 20 QBD 387 at 389, CA (where it was held that, assuming that such contracts were illegal, the onus of proving that the contract was not required for the beneficial winding up of the company lies on the person asserting the illegality).

5 Insolvency Act 1986 ss 91(2), 103. Where a limited liability partnership is being wound up, the powers of the members of the partnership cease on the appointment of a liquidator except to the extent that a meeting of the members summoned for the purpose, or the liquidator, sanctions their continuance (see s 91(2); the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3; and para 1308 post), and the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 92(3), (4) (as modified) (see para 980 ante) apply for those purposes as they apply for the purposes of s 92 (see s 91(3); and the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, Sch 3).

998. Transfer of shares.

Any transfer of shares¹ not being a transfer made to or with the sanction of the liquidator, and any alteration in the status of the members of the company² made after the commencement of a voluntary winding up³, is void⁴. The liquidator may, without the sanction of the court, sanction transfers during the liquidation absolutely or conditionally⁵; and the power to sanction a transfer involves the power to alter the register of members⁶. When the liquidator sanctions successive transfers, the ultimate transferee only is liable to contribute as a present member, the transferor and prior transferees being subject to liability as past members⁷.

The liquidator may set aside a transfer of shares to a minor⁸ shortly before the commencement of the winding up even if the minor becomes of full age during the liquidation⁹.

The right to transfer debentures is not affected by the winding up¹⁰.

1 In the case of a winding up in relation to a limited liability partnership, this is a reference to the interest of any member in the property of the limited liability partnership: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 88; the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 5, Sch 3; and para 1308 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante.

2 As to what amounts to an alteration of status see para 702 ante. The execution of a transfer without the liquidator's sanction is void but not illegal; and a claim may lie for refusal to execute a transfer even though the sanction has not been obtained: Biederman v Stone (1867) LR 2 CP 504.

1000. Proof of debts.

All debts and claims provable in a winding up by the court are provable in a voluntary winding up¹. Statute-barred debts may not be admitted, except that, in a voluntary liquidation where the company is solvent, they may, it seems, be admitted if all contributories consent².

Preferential debts must be paid in priority to all other debts, as in the case of a compulsory winding up³, except that the date up to which the amounts are to be calculated is the date of the passing of the resolution for the voluntary winding up⁴, whether a compulsory order is or is not subsequently made⁵.

The same rules apply as regards set-off and secured creditors in a voluntary winding up as in a winding up by the court⁶. The liquidator may, with the necessary sanction, pay any classes of creditors in full or make any compromise or arrangement with creditors or persons claiming to be creditors⁷.

Rent and other periodical payments are apportioned up to the date of the winding up resolution⁸; and debts in a currency other than sterling are to be converted as at that date⁹.

A creditor may prove for a debt not payable at the date of the winding-up resolution as in the case of a debt not payable at the date of the winding-up order in a winding up by the court¹⁰.

The same rules apply relating to the estimate of quantum, negotiable instruments, discounts and interest in a voluntary winding up as in a winding up by the court¹¹.

The assignment to third parties of the company's rights in respect of certain contracts of insurance operates, with certain exceptions¹², in the case of a voluntary winding up¹³.

1001. Application of rules as to proof of debts.

With certain exceptions, modifications and additions, the rules as to proof of debts in a winding up by the court apply in the case of a voluntary winding up¹. The main difference concerns the form and content of proof. In a voluntary winding up, whether members' or creditors', the liquidator may require a person claiming to be a creditor of the company and wishing to recover his debt, in whole or in part, to submit the claim in writing to him². A creditor who claims, whether or not in writing, is referred to as 'proving' for his debt; and a document by which he seeks to establish his claim is his 'proof'³. In a voluntary winding up, the creditor's proof may be in any form⁴. In a voluntary winding up, the liquidator, or the convener or chairman of any meeting, may, if he thinks it necessary for the purpose of clarifying or substantiating the whole or any part of a creditor's claim made in his proof, call for details of any matter required to be stated in a creditor's proof of debt in a winding up by the court⁵, or for the production to him of such documentary or other evidence as he may require⁶.

The rules relating to the establishment of claims by affidavit⁷, the cost of proving⁸, the inspection of proofs⁹, the position where a new liquidator is appointed¹⁰, the admission and rejection of proofs for dividend¹¹, appeals against a decision on a proof¹², the withdrawal or variation of a proof¹³ and the expunging of a proof by the court¹⁴ which apply in a winding up by the court also apply in a voluntary winding up¹⁵.

A liquidator in a voluntary winding up is not liable as an insurer in respect of every debt which may subsequently be shown to have been wrongly admitted; but a high standard of care and diligence is required¹⁶.

1003. Settling list of contributories.

In a voluntary winding up, the same persons are contributories, and are under the same liability in that capacity, as in the case of a winding up by order of the court¹. The liquidator may exercise the court's powers of settling a list of contributories and of making calls, and must adjust the rights of contributories among themselves².

The list of contributories is prima facie evidence of the liability of the persons named in it to be contributories³. The list ought to comprise not only all persons properly on the register, but also all those who, although not on it, ought to be put on it⁴. If the liquidator thinks a person ought to be on the list, he should put him on and leave him to apply to be taken off, and should not himself apply to the court for a declaration of liability⁵. The rules relating to the list of contributories do not apply to a voluntary winding up⁶; but the practice in a winding up by the court⁷ should be followed as closely as possible.

1004. Calls.

The rules relating to calls in a winding up by the court do not apply in a voluntary winding up¹, but the practice in winding up by the court should be followed as closely as possible². If the liquidator in a voluntary winding up makes a call³ on contributories, he may apply for a balance order⁴ against those contributories who do not pay, directing them to pay to him the amount of the call. Although a contributory may not up to that time have raised any objection to his name being placed on the list, he may, on the hearing of the application, resist the call on the ground that his name has been improperly included. The liquidator may also obtain an order to enforce any calls made by the directors before the winding up commenced⁵. Where an action for calls has been brought before winding up, to which set-off has been pleaded as a defence, but there has been no judgment, no allowance may be made when the liquidator applies for a balance order, by way of set-off against the amount of calls⁶. Where the liquidator in such a case settles the defendant on the list of contributories and, after giving notice to discontinue the action, applies for a balance order, this application will not be stayed until he pays the taxed costs of the action; but the amount of taxed costs will be allowed out of the money recovered⁷. A person whose name is settled by a voluntary liquidator on the list of contributories is liable for any calls the liquidator makes, even though the contributory has received no notice that he has been settled on the list⁸.

(9) INFORMATION AS TO PENDING WINDING UP

1005. Half-yearly statements by liquidator.

If the winding up is not concluded¹ within one year after its commencement², the liquidator must, at such intervals as may be prescribed, until the winding up is concluded, send to the registrar of companies a statement in the prescribed form containing the prescribed particulars with respect to the proceedings in, and position of, the liquidation³.

If the winding up is not concluded within one year from its commencement, the statement must be sent not more than 30 days after the expiration of that year, and thereafter six-monthly until the winding up is concluded⁴. The liquidator's final statement must, however, be sent forthwith after the conclusion of the winding up⁵.

No statement is, however, required to be delivered under these provisions where the return of the final meeting in respect of the company⁶ is delivered before the date at which the statement is to be delivered and that return shows that no assets or funds of the company remain unclaimed or undistributed in the hands or under the control of the liquidator or any former liquidator; but in such a case the liquidator must deliver a copy of that return to the Secretary of State⁷.

Every statement so sent to the registrar of companies must be in duplicate⁸.

1 For these purposes, the winding up is concluded at the date of the dissolution of the company, except that, if at that date any assets or funds of the company remain unclaimed or undistributed in the hands or under the control of the liquidator or any former liquidator, the winding up is not concluded until those assets or funds have either been distributed or been paid into the Insolvency Services Account: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.223(2). 1006. Contents of liquidator's statements.

Every statement must contain a detailed account of all the liquidator's realisations and disbursements in respect of the company¹ not including payments into the Insolvency Services Account², other than unclaimed dividends, or payments into a bank, building society or any other financial institution³. When the liquidator carries on a business, a trading account must be forwarded as a distinct account; and the totals of receipts and payments on the trading account must alone be set out in the statement⁴. When dividends or instalments of compositions etc are paid to creditors, or a return of surplus assets is made to contributories, the total amount of each dividend etc actually paid must be entered in the statement of disbursements as one sum; and the liquidator must forward separate accounts, showing in lists the amount of the claim of each creditor, and the amount of dividend etc payable to each creditor or contributory⁵. When unclaimed dividends etc are paid into the Insolvency Services Account, the total amount so paid in should be entered in the statement of disbursements as one sum; and the items to be paid in relation to unclaimed dividends should first be included in the realisations side of the account⁶. Credit should not be taken in the statement of disbursements for any amount in respect of the liquidator's remuneration unless it has been duly allowed by resolutions of the liquidation committee or of the creditors or of the company in general meeting, or by order of the court as the case may require, or is otherwise allowable under the provisions of the Insolvency Rules 1986⁷.

1 The statement of realisations should contain a record of all receipts derived from assets existing at the date of the winding-up resolution and subsequently realised, including balance at bank, book debts and calls collected, property sold etc, and the account of disbursements should contain payments for costs, charges and expenses, or to creditors or contributories. Receipts derived from deposit accounts and money market deposits are to be included in the 'balance at bank'. Only actual investments are to be included in the 'amounts invested'. Where property has been realised, the gross proceeds of sale must be entered under realisations, and the necessary payments incidental to sales must be entered as disbursements: see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, rr 4.223, 12.7, Sch 4 Form 4.68 Note (1) (Sch 4 Form 4.68 substituted by SI 1987/1919). 3 See the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, Sch 4 Form 4.68 Note (1) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). Interest received on any investment should be shown in the realisations. Each receipt and payment must be entered in the account in such a manner as sufficiently to explain its nature. The receipts and payments must severally be added up at the foot of each sheet, and the totals carried forward from one account to another without any intermediate balance, so that the gross totals represent the total amounts received and paid by the liquidator respectively: see Sch 4 Form 4.68 Note (1) (as so substituted).

(10) DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS

1009. How assets are to be applied.

The liquidator is appointed for the purpose, inter alia, of distributing the company's assets¹, which must be applied:

- 1326 (1) in payment of all expenses properly incurred in the voluntary winding up, including the liquidator's remuneration, which are payable in priority to all other claims²;
- 1327 (2) subject to the statutory provisions as to preferential payments, in satisfaction of the company's liabilities *pari passu*³; and
- 1328 (3) unless the articles of association otherwise provide, in distribution among the members according to their rights and interests in the company⁴.

Contracts purporting to exclude or vary these provisions as to the application of the company's assets are void⁵.

Subject to the provisions described below in the case of a members' voluntary winding up, the rules as to the collection and distribution of assets, including the payment of dividends, apply in a voluntary winding up as in the case of a winding up by the court⁶.

In a members' voluntary winding up, the liquidator may give notice in such newspaper as he considers most appropriate for the purpose of drawing the matter to the attention of the company's creditors that he intends to make a distribution to creditors⁷. The notice must specify a date ('the last date for proving') up to which proofs may be lodged; and the date must be the same for all creditors and not less than 21 days from that of the notice⁸. The liquidator is not obliged to deal with proofs lodged after the last date for proving; but he may do so, if he thinks fit⁹. A creditor who has not proved his debt before the last date for proving or, after that date, increases the claim in his proof is not entitled to disturb, by reason that he has not participated in it, either at all or, as the case may be, to the extent that his increased claim would allow, that distribution or any other distribution made before his debt was proved or his claim increased; but, when he has proved his debt, or, as the case may be, increased his claim, he is entitled to be paid, out of any money for the time being available for the payment of any further distribution, any distribution or distributions which he has failed to receive¹⁰. Where the distribution proposed to be made is to be the only or the final distribution in that winding up, the liquidator may make that distribution without regard to the claim of any person in respect of a debt not already proved; but in such a case the notice¹¹ must state the effect of this provision¹².

Morritt LJ, obiter, did not follow Re MC Bacon Ltd supra); Re Floor Fourteen Ltd, Lewis v IRC [2001] 3 All ER 499, [2001] 2 BCLC 392, CA (where Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd supra and Re MC Bacon Ltd supra, were approved and followed, and the obiter dicta of Phillips LJ and Morritt LJ in Re Exchange Travel (Holdings) Ltd (No 3) supra were disapproved); see further Re MT Realisations Ltd [2003] EWHC 2895 (Ch), [2004] 1 All ER 577 (where application was made in the voluntary winding up under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 112 (see para 1012 post) for the court to exercise its powers under s 156 (see para 810 ante)). It should be noted that in so far as Re MC Bacon Ltd supra and Re RS & M Engineering Ltd supra concern the issue of whether liquidation expenses are payable out of assets subject to a floating charge, the reasoning is incorrect: see now Buchler v Talbot [2004] UKHL 9, [2004] 1 All ER 1289; and para 810 ante. As to the prescribed order of priority of payment of expenses of the liquidator see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 156; and para 810 et seq ante. Although s 156 does not apply in a voluntary winding up in the event of the assets being insufficient, such powers may be exercised under s 112: see para 1012 post. Prima facie, all expenses ought to be paid before the liquidator's remuneration but, it seems, he may be authorised to retain the remuneration paid when he had no reason to suppose that the assets would be insufficient for the payment of the expenses: Re Beni-Felkai Mining Co Ltd [1934] Ch 406; Re Linda Marie Ltd [1989] BCLC 46, 4 BCC 463.

The only pre-liquidation expenses which come within the Insolvency Act 1986 s 115 are those incurred specifically for the purpose of enabling the company to pass the winding-up resolution and to take the other steps required in relation to the first meeting of creditors: Re AV Sarge & Co Ltd [1986] BCLC 490, 2 BCC 99, 306. An accountant instructed by the company's directors to take steps to place the company in voluntary liquidation and who (inter alia) collected book debts of the company, but who was not subsequently appointed liquidator, was not entitled to expenses and scale fees relating to the collection of the debts: Re Sandwell Copiers Ltd [1988] BCLC 209, 4 BCC 227.

3 As to preferential payments see the text to note 2 supra; and para 763 et seq ante. The liabilities which the liquidator is under a duty to discharge do not include liabilities not provable by legal process in England, such as a tax claim by a foreign government (Government of India, Ministry of Finance (Revenue Division) v Taylor [1955] AC 491, [1955] 1 All ER 292, HL). See also para 749 text and note 8 ante. As to the principle that a claim does not lie in English courts to recover taxes imposed by foreign revenue law see CONFLICT OF LAWS.

Liabilities to creditors rank in priority to all claims of members: cf Elkins v Capital Guarantee Society (1900) 16 TLR 423, CA (where the balance of a fund set apart for payment of bondholders whose bonds were not payable until 50 years had elapsed had not been claimed for over ten years after advertisements, and the court refused to order the unclaimed balance to be paid to the liquidator on behalf of the shareholders).

4 Insolvency Act 1986 s 107. The articles may provide for a distribution on a different basis from the rights and interests of the members during the life of the company eg by a distribution of the assets in specie: cf Re South African Supply and Cold Storage Co, Wild v South African Supply and Cold Storage Co [1904] 2 Ch 268; Stafford Coal and Iron Co Ltd v Brogan (Inspector of Taxes) [1963] 3 All ER 277, [1963] 1 WLR 905, HL (mutual insurance company; distributions proportional to premiums paid in last five financial years; note that, so far as this case decided that the distributions were not taxable in the hands of the recipients, it is abrogated by the Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 491 (as amended) (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) para 1408)). 1010. Unclaimed or undistributed assets; investment of assets.

In the case of a voluntary winding up, the liquidator may make payments into the Insolvency Services Account¹ to the credit of the company². Where in a voluntary winding up a liquidator pays any unclaimed dividend into the Insolvency Services Account, he must at the same time give notice to the Secretary of State, on a form obtainable from the Department of Trade and Industry or one that is substantially similar, of the name and address of the person to whom the dividend is payable and the amount of the dividend³.

In the case of a voluntary winding up, where the liquidator requires to make payments out of any money standing to the credit of the company in the Insolvency Services Account in respect of the expenses of the winding up, he must apply to the Secretary of State who may either authorise payment to the liquidator of the sum required by him, or may direct payment instruments⁴ to be issued to the liquidator for delivery by him to the persons to whom the payments are to be made⁵.

In the case of a voluntary winding up, where the liquidator requires to make payments out of any money standing to the credit of the company in the Insolvency Services Account by way of distribution, he must apply in writing to the Secretary of State who may either authorise payment to the liquidator of the sum required by him, or may direct payment instruments to be issued to the liquidator for delivery by him to the persons to whom the payments are to be made⁶.

The rules relating to unclaimed funds and dividends⁷ apply in a voluntary winding up as in the case of a winding up by the court⁸; as do the rules relating to the investment or other handling of funds and payment of interest⁹, with the following additions. Any money invested or deposited at interest by a liquidator is deemed to be money under his control, and, when such money forms part of the balance of funds in his hands or under his control relating to the company required to be paid into the Insolvency Services Account¹⁰, the liquidator must realise the investment or withdraw the deposit and must pay the proceeds into that account, unless the money is invested in government securities, in which case such securities may, with the permission of the Secretary of State, be transferred to the control of the Secretary of State instead of being forthwith realised and the proceeds paid into the Insolvency Services Account¹¹. Where any of the money represented by the securities so transferred to the control of the Secretary of State is, in the opinion of the liquidator, required for the immediate purposes of the winding up, he may request the Secretary of State to raise such sums as may be required by the sale of such of those securities as may be necessary; and such request is sufficient authority to the Secretary of State for the sale and the Secretary of State must pay the proceeds of the realisation into the Insolvency Services Account¹² and deal with them in the same way as other money paid into that account may be dealt with¹³.

(11) APPLICATIONS TO THE COURT

1012. Powers of the court.

The liquidator¹ or any contributory or creditor² may apply³ to the court⁴ to determine any question arising in the winding up, or to exercise, as respects the enforcing of calls or any other matter, all or any of the powers which the court might exercise if the company were being wound up by it⁵. If satisfied that the determination of the question or the required exercise of power will be just and beneficial, the court may accede wholly or partially to the application on such terms and conditions as it thinks fit, or may make such other order on the application as it thinks just⁶. Applications may be transferred to another court having winding-up jurisdiction⁷.

The court will not deal with an application under these provisions to set aside a contract between the company and third parties⁸.

1 The liquidator may apply for the determination of any question fairly arising in the liquidation (Re Union Bank of Kingston-upon-Hull (1880) 13 ChD 808); but the practice is only to answer specific questions. Claims for damages will not be decided on such an application: Crawford v McCulloch 1909 SC 1063, Ct of Sess. A former liquidator has no locus standi to apply under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 112: Re AJ Adams (Builders) Ltd, Re Autonational Extended Warranties Ltd [1991] BCLC 359, [1991] BCC 62. The court's jurisdiction to make an order for private examination under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 236 (see para 679 ante) is the exercise of a power rather than determination of a question; hence a creditor cannot apply under s 112 for an order for private examination: Re James McHale Automobiles Ltd [1997] 1 BCLC 273, [1997] BCC 202.

2 'Creditor' includes secured creditor (eg a debenture holder): Re Alfred Priestman & Co (1929) Ltd [1936] 2 All ER 1340. The question whether a post-liquidation creditor may apply was left undecided in Re Movitex Ltd [1992] 2 All ER 264, [1992] 1 WLR 303, CA.

3 As to the making of applications see para 1055 et seq post. A liquidator of a group of companies in voluntary liquidation may apply for directions in each winding up by a single application: Re William Pickles plc (in liquidation) [1996] 1 BCLC 681, [1996] BCC 408.

4 For the meaning of 'the court' see para 4 ante. As to the courts having winding-up jurisdiction see para 438 et seq ante.

5 Insolvency Act 1986 s 112(1); and see Rance's Case (1870) 6 Ch App 104 at 114, 115.

6 Insolvency Act 1986 s 112(2). A copy of an order so made staying the proceedings in the winding up must forthwith be forwarded by the company, or otherwise as may be prescribed, to the registrar of companies, who must enter it in his records relating to the company: s 112(3). As to the registrar of companies see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 131 et seq. It seems that there is no jurisdiction under this provision to direct an official receiver to furnish to the court a report under s 147(2) (see para 902 ante): Re Serene Shoes Ltd [1958] 3 All ER 316, [1958] 1 WLR 1087. An application by the liquidator for liberty to make a final distribution in a voluntary winding up where last-minute claims by creditors had been made was refused on the grounds that, in all the circumstances, it was not just to make the order: Re R-R Realisations Ltd (formerly Rolls-Royce Ltd) [1980] 1 All ER 1019, [1980] 1 WLR 805.

The liquidator may, in a suitable case, seek directions from the court as to the rights of claimants to funds in his hands: see Re Westdock Realisations Ltd [1988] BCLC 354, 4 BCC 192 (where the court's discretion as to costs on application for directions is considered); Re Exchange Securities and Commodities Ltd [1988] Ch 46, [1987] 2 All ER 272; cf Re Stetzel Thomson & Co Ltd (1988) 4 BCC 74. As to the payment of the liquidator's costs and remuneration out of trust funds where the company has no other assets see Re Berkeley Applegate (Investment Consultants) Ltd (No 2), Harris v Conway [1989] Ch 32, [1988] 3 All ER 71; Re Local London Residential Ltd [2004] EWHC 114 (Ch), [2004] BPIR 599.

7 As to the courts having winding-up jurisdiction and the power to transfer see para 438 et seq ante.

8 Re Centrifugal Butter Co Ltd [1913] 1 Ch 188 (where the court was doubtful whether it had jurisdiction to set aside a contract on an application under the provision, but in any case was unwilling to exercise such jurisdiction).

939-1024 Voluntary Winding Up

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/9. VOLUNTARY WINDING UP/(11) APPLICATIONS TO THE COURT/1014. Power to stay or restrain proceedings.

1014. Power to stay or restrain proceedings.

The passing of a resolution for voluntary winding up does not operate as a stay of proceedings, or invalidate executions or distresses, or prevent claims or other proceedings being brought or continued against the company¹. However, the court² has jurisdiction to stay any claim³, proceeding, attachment, distress or execution⁴ against the company, its estate or effects upon such terms as it thinks fit⁵. Unless exceptional circumstances exist, the court will usually accede to an application to stay an attachment or execution for the purpose of securing the distribution of the assets *pari passu*⁶.

The onus lies on the liquidator of showing that a claim against the company should be stayed. The court has a discretion, and will not stay the claim where there is a dispute as to the liability; but, if the liability is admitted and there is a mere dispute as to the amount, the matter should be determined in the liquidation⁷. Where a claim is pending against the company when the winding up commences⁸, and the liquidator disputes the claim and is unsuccessful at the trial, the claimant is entitled to have the costs paid in full out of the company's assets⁹.

The court will usually restrain a landlord from distraining for rent where he can prove for the rent¹⁰, but not where the liquidator has retained possession for the purposes of the company¹¹. In such a case, the landlord's claim for rent and breach of covenant is payable in full¹².

The court has power to make an order staying all proceedings in the winding up¹³.

1 As to the effect of an order for winding up by the court see paras 490, 893 ante.

2 In the case of a claim, the court is the one in which it is pending, as in Currie v Consolidated Kent Collieries Corp Ltd [1906] 1 KB 134, CA. 1018. Duty to assist and institution of proceedings.

For the purposes of an investigation by the Secretary of State¹, any obligation imposed on a person by any provision of the Companies Act 1985 to produce documents or give information to, or otherwise to assist, inspectors appointed to investigate the company's affairs is an obligation similarly to assist the Secretary of State in his investigation². An answer given by a person to a question put to him in exercise of the powers so given to the Secretary of State to investigate a company's affairs may be used in evidence against that person³. However, in criminal proceedings in which that person is charged with certain offences⁴ no evidence relating to the answer may be adduced and no question relating to it may be asked by or on behalf of the prosecution unless evidence relating to it is adduced, or a question relating to it is asked, in the proceedings by or on behalf of that person⁵.

In the case of every voluntary winding up, as soon as the company's affairs are fully wound up¹, the liquidator must make up an account of the winding up, showing how it has been conducted and how the company's property has been disposed of². The account of the winding up must also include a statement as to the amount paid to unsecured creditors by reason of the prescribed part of the company's net assets being made available to pay unsecured debts³. He must then call a general meeting of the company for the purpose of laying before it the account and giving an explanation of it⁴. In the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, he must also call a meeting of the creditors for the same purpose⁵.

Meetings must be called by advertisement in the Gazette⁶, specifying the time, place and object, and published at least one month before the meeting⁷.

1021. Returns as to meetings.

Within one week after the meeting or, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, if the meetings are not held on the same date, after the date of the later meeting, the liquidator must send to the registrar of companies a copy of the account and make a return to him of the holding of the meeting or meetings and of its date or their dates¹; and, if the copy is not so sent or the return is not so made, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one-fifth of the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-fiftieth of the statutory maximum². If a quorum is not present at any such meeting, the liquidator must, in lieu of the above-mentioned return, make a return that the meeting was duly summoned and that no quorum was present; and, upon such a return being made, the provisions as to the making of the return are deemed to have been complied with³.

On receiving the account and either of the above returns in respect of each meeting, the registrar must forthwith register them⁴, and cause notice of his receipt of the return to be published in the Gazette⁵. On the expiration of three months from the registration of the return, the company is deemed to be dissolved⁶; but, on the application of the liquidator or any other person who appears to the court to be interested, the court⁷ may make an order deferring the date at which the dissolution of the company is to take effect for such time as the court thinks fit⁸.

(1) ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURES

1025. Enforcement of court orders.

In any insolvency proceedings¹, orders of the court may be enforced in the same manner as a judgment to the same effect²; and every court in England and Wales having winding-up jurisdiction has, for the purposes of that jurisdiction, all the powers of the High Court³.

Where an order in insolvency proceedings is made, or any process is issued, by a county court ('the primary court'), the order or process may be enforced, executed and dealt with by any other county court ('the secondary court'), as if it had been made or issued for the enforcement of a judgment or order to the same effect made by the secondary court; and this provision applies whether or not the secondary court has jurisdiction to take insolvency proceedings⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'insolvency proceedings' see para 459 note 5 ante.

2 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.19(1). As to orders of the High Court see CPR Pt 70; and CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 12 (2009) PARA 1224 et seq. An application to make an order of the House of Lords an order of the Chancery Division should be made to the court of first instance: British Dynamite Co v Krebs (1879) 11 ChD 448. As to the prescribed form of warrant for committal for contempt see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.7, Sch 4 Form 7.17. As to contempt of court generally see CONTEMPT OF COURT.

1026. Orders enforcing obligations.

The court may, on application by the competent person¹, make such orders as it thinks necessary for the enforcement of obligations falling on any person in accordance with the provisions in respect of:

- 1329 (1) a person's duty to submit a statement of affairs in administration², administrative receivership³ or winding up by the court⁴;
- 1330 (2) the liquidator's duty to furnish information, books, papers etc to the official receiver⁵;
- 1331 (3) the duty⁶ of various persons to co-operate with office-holders⁷.

Any such order of the court may provide that all costs of and incidental to the application for it be borne by the person against whom the order is made⁸.

1 For these purposes, the competent person is: (1) under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch B1 para 47 (as added) (see para 266 ante), the administrator; (2) under s 47 (see para 403 et seq ante), the administrative receiver; (3) under s 131 (see para 520 et seq ante) or s 143(2) (see para 576 ante), the official receiver; and (4) under s 235 (as amended) (see para 678 ante), the official receiver, the administrator, the administrative receiver, the liquidator or the provisional liquidator, as the case may be: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.20(2) (substituted by SI 2003/1730). NOTES 2, 4--SI 1986/1925 Sch 4 Forms 7.10, 7.11 revoked: SI 2010/686.

(2) CO-OPERATION BETWEEN COURTS

1029. Co-operation between courts exercising jurisdiction in relation to insolvency.

An order made by a court in any part of the United Kingdom in the exercise of jurisdiction in relation to insolvency law¹ must² be enforced in any other part of the United Kingdom as if it were made by a court exercising the corresponding jurisdiction in that other part³. Without prejudice to the provisions described below, this duty does not, however, require a court in any part of the United Kingdom to enforce, in relation to property situated in that part, any order made by a court in any other part of the United Kingdom⁴.

The courts having jurisdiction in relation to insolvency law in any part of the United Kingdom must assist the courts having the corresponding jurisdiction in any other part of the United Kingdom or any relevant country or territory⁵. For these purposes, a request made to a court in any part of the United Kingdom by a court in any other part of the United Kingdom or in a relevant country or territory is authority for the court to which the request is made to apply, in relation to any matters specified in the request, the insolvency law which is applicable by either court in relation to comparable matters falling within its jurisdiction; and, in exercising its discretion under this provision, a court must have regard in particular to the rules of private international law⁶.

The provisions⁷ relating to the execution of warrants of arrest throughout the United Kingdom apply to a warrant which, in exercise of any jurisdiction in relation to insolvency law, is issued in any part of the United Kingdom for the arrest of a person as they apply to a warrant issued in that part of the United Kingdom for the arrest of a person charged with an offence⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'insolvency law' means:

- 40 (1) in relation to England and Wales, provision extending to England and Wales and made by or under the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1A (as added), ss 6-10 (as amended), ss 12-15 (as amended), ss 19(1)(c), 20 (as amended), Sch 1 (as amended), and ss 1-17 as they apply for the purposes of those provisions (see para 1107 et seq post) (Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(10)(a) (s 426(10)(a), (b) amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 para 16(1), (3));
- 41 (2) in relation to Scotland, provision extending to Scotland and made by or under the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1A (as added), ss 6-10 (as amended), ss 12-15 (as amended), ss 19(1)(c), 20 (as amended), Sch 1 (as amended), and ss 1-17 as they apply for the purposes of those provisions (see para 1107 et seq post), the Companies Act 1985 Pt XVIII (ss 462-487) or the Bankruptcy (Scotland) Act 1985 (Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(10)(b) (as so amended));
- 42 (3) in relation to Northern Ireland, provision made by or under the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405, or the Company Directors Disqualification (Northern Ireland) Order 2002, SI 2002/3150 (Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(10)(c) (amended by the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405, art 381(2), Sch 9 Pt II para 41(a); and by the Company Directors Disqualification (Northern Ireland) Order 2002, SI 2002/3150, art 26(2), Sch 3 para 2); and
- 43 (4) in relation to any relevant country or territory (see note 5 infra), so much of the law of that country or territory as corresponds to provisions falling within any of heads (1)-(3) supra (Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(10)(d)).

References to any enactment include, in relation to any time before the coming into force of that enactment, the corresponding enactment in force at that time: s 426(10). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see para 12 note 2 ante.

2 In Re Dallhold Estates (UK) Pty Ltd [1992] BCLC 621, [1992] BCC 394, administrators were appointed to an Australian company pursuant to a letter of request from the Australian courts; it was held that the mandatory nature of the word 'shall' in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(4) meant that the English court had to give the assistance requested unless there was 'some compelling reason' why that should not be done: Re Dallhold Estates (UK) Pty Ltd supra at 627 and at 399 per Chadwick J. In Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 9), Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Ltd [1994] 3 All ER 764, [1994] 2 BCLC 636, it was held that the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426 (as amended) enabled the English court to apply substantive, and not merely procedural, provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 in respect of a foreign company (ie ss 212-214, 238 (as amended)), notwithstanding the fact that the law of the country of incorporation of the relevant company, being the Cayman Islands, had no statutory equivalent to s 213, s 214 or s 238; the court held that the English court had a jurisdiction as to how to give assistance but should exercise its discretion in favour of granting the assistance requested unless there were some good reason for not doing so: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 9) supra at 785 and at 657-658. In Re Focus Insurance Co Ltd [1997] 1 BCLC 219, [1996] BCC 659, Scott V-C described the approach in Re Dallhold Estates (UK) Pty Ltd supra and that in Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 9), Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Ltd supra as 'very similar'; he stated that the issue for the English court was whether there was any good reason or any compelling reason why the orders sought in the letter of request should not be made by the English court; the court refused to make the orders in the letters of request, which were for the provision of information to the applicant as judgment creditor preliminary to its execution over the bankrupt respondent's assets, because the applicant had made the respondent bankrupt in England and the assets of the bankrupt respondent should be realised by the trustee for distribution to the entirety of his creditors; further, the English trustee in bankruptcy could have obtained under English law all the relief sought by way of the letters of request. In Hughes v Hannover Rückversicherungs-Aktiengesellschaft [1997] 1 BCLC 497, CA, the court refused to grant orders in the form sought by a letter of request from the Bermudian courts against the respondent, seeking worldwide injunctive relief, where the respondent's only connection with the English jurisdiction was a place of business, and where the appropriate jurisdiction for the relief sought was the United States of America. A letter of request need not specify the facts which form the basis of the letter of request; and the English court has jurisdiction to investigate those facts: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 9), Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Ltd supra. Where recognition of a foreign appointed liquidator is sought by a letter of request, the policy behind the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426 (as amended) is to encourage the English courts to recognise the appointment, unless the only purpose of such recognition is to permit the liquidator to operate in England and Wales in a manner which the English courts would regard as impermissible: Re Trading Partners Ltd, Akers v Lomas [2002] 1 BCLC 655. In Re Business City Express Ltd [1997] 2 BCLC 510, [1997] BCC 826, the English court, on request by the Irish court, applied Irish law to bind English creditors into a composition notwithstanding the different treatment of creditors within the same class.

A court in England faced with a request from a foreign court for assistance may apply: (1) its own general jurisdiction and powers (including the power to grant injunctions and appoint receivers); (2) the insolvency law of England and Wales as defined in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(10) (as amended) (see note 1 supra); or (3) so much of the law of the relevant country (see note 5 infra) as corresponds to such insolvency law of England and Wales: Hughes v Hannover Rückversicherungs-Aktiengesellschaft supra.

3 Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(1). As to judicial notice of court documents see para 1047 post.

5 Ibid s 426(4). For these purposes, 'relevant country or territory' means any of the Channel Islands or the Isle of Man, or any country or territory designated for the purposes of this provision by the Secretary of State (or, in relation to Northern Ireland, the Department of Economic Development in Northern Ireland) by order made by statutory instrument: s 426(11), (12)(a) (s 426(12) added by the Insolvency (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2405, Sch 9 Pt II para 41(b)). The following countries and territories are designated for these purposes: Anguilla, Australia, The Bahamas, Bermuda, Botswana, Brunei Darussalam, Canada, Cayman Islands, Falkland Islands, Gibraltar, Hong Kong, Republic of Ireland, Malaysia, Montserrat, New Zealand, St Helena, Republic of South Africa, Turks and Caicos Islands, Tuvalu, Virgin Islands: Co-operation of Insolvency Courts (Designation of Relevant Countries and Territories) Order 1986, SI 1986/2123, art 2, Schedule; Co-operation of Insolvency Courts (Designation of Relevant Countries and Territories) Order 1996, SI 1996/253, art 2, Schedule; Co-operation of Insolvency Courts (Designation of Relevant Country) Order 1998, SI 1998/2766, art 2. The provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(4), (5), (10), (11) (as amended) extend to the Bailiwick of Guernsey with certain modifications: see the Insolvency Act 1986 (Guernsey) Order 1989, SI 1989/2409; and para 1156 post. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

6 Insolvency Act 1986 s 426(5). The discretion referred to in s 426(5) is a discretion of the English court as to whether to apply its own law or the law of the requesting court to the matters specified in the request; and it is to that discretion that the proviso in s 426(5) referring to the rules of private international law is directed: Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International SA (No 9), Re Bank of Credit and Commerce International

In exercising the discretion, the court should take into account the foreign elements in deciding whether to apply English law or the law of the requesting country, such as the connection of the parties with England and with the requesting country: Re Television Trade Rentals Ltd [2002] EWHC 211, [2002] BCC 807.

UPDATE

1025-1106 Practice and Procedure in Insolvency Proceedings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

1029 Co-operation between courts exercising jurisdiction in relation to insolvency

NOTE 1--Provisions of the Banking Act 2009 about bank insolvency are insolvency law for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 s 426: Banking Act 2009 s 129.

NOTE 6--There is no requirement that the other relevant country's law of distribution coincides with English law: Re HIH Casualty and General Insurance Ltd; McMahon v McGrath [2008] UKHL 21, [2008] 3 All ER 869 (English principles of justice not offended by mere fact that insurance creditors were preferential creditors in insurance insolvency under Australian law).

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/10. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE IN INSOLVENCY PROCEEDINGS/(3) APPEALS AND REVIEWS OF COURT ORDERS/1030. Appeals and reviews of court orders in general.

(3) APPEALS AND REVIEWS OF COURT ORDERS

1030. Appeals and reviews of court orders in general.

Every court having jurisdiction under the Insolvency Act 1986 to wind up companies¹ may review, rescind or vary any order made by it in the exercise of that jurisdiction². An appeal from a decision made in the exercise of that jurisdiction by a county court or by a registrar of the High Court lies to a single judge of the High Court³; and an appeal from a decision of that judge on such an appeal lies, with the leave of the Court of Appeal, to the Court of Appeal⁴. No appeal to the Court of Appeal from the decision of the judge on such an appeal lies unless the Court of Appeal considers that the appeal would raise an important point of principle or practice or there is some other compelling reason for the Court of Appeal to hear it⁵.

A county court is not, in the exercise of its jurisdiction to wind up companies, subject to be restrained by the order of any other court; and no appeal lies from its decision in the exercise of that jurisdiction except as is mentioned above⁶.

Any application for the rescission of a winding-up order must be made within seven days after the date on which the order was made⁷.

1 As to the courts having such jurisdiction see para 438 et seq ante. It has been held that the review of a registrar's decision may be undertaken only by a registrar, not by a judge (Re SN Group plc [1994] 1 BCLC 319, [1993] BCC 808), but see now Re Piccadilly Property Management Ltd [1999] 2 BCLC 145, where it was held (not following Re SN Group plc supra on this point) that a puisne judge does have jurisdiction to review the decision of a registrar. A registrar may adjourn an application to review his own previous decision to be heard by a judge: Re Dollar Land (Feltham) Ltd [1995] 2 BCLC 370, [1995] BCC 740. On an application to review the making of a winding-up order, the court has a discretion under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.16(5) to give leave to opposing creditors to appear and be heard: see para 471 ante. An application to restrain advertisement of a winding-up petition and remove the petition from the file can be an application to review a previous application to restrain presentation of a petition, even though (it seems) the latter application is not made under the insolvency jurisdiction: RWH Enterprises Ltd v Portedge Ltd [1998] BCC 556, CA.

2 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47(1). There is nothing in r 7.47 which is inconsistent with the application of the 'slip rule': Re Brian Sheridan Cars Ltd, Official Receiver v Sheridan [1996] 1 BCLC 327, sub nom Re Brian Sheridan Cars Ltd [1995] BCC 1035. Although as a matter of jurisdiction the power to review is unfettered, the power is to be exercised judicially; and the exercise of the power should, as a matter of discretion, be confined to cases in which there has been some change in circumstances which may, perhaps, include the consideration of material which was not before the original court: Re RS & M Engineering Co Ltd, Mond v Hammond Suddards (No 2) [2000] Ch 40, [1999] 3 WLR 697, [1999] 2 BCLC 485, CA. Save in very exceptional circumstances where it might be necessary to correct an obvious injustice, the power of review must be confined to cases of changed circumstances or the introduction of fresh evidence: Re Thirty-Eight Building Ltd (in liquidation) (No 2), Simms v Saunders [2000] 1 BCLC 201. The court has jurisdiction to hear both an appeal against a registrar's order and to review that order, but such application should be made very rarely: Re Piccadilly Property Management Ltd [1999] 2 BCLC 145.

3 Such an appeal does not require the permission of any court: Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 17.6. As to the practice and procedure for first appeals (as defined) see Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings paras 17.8-17.23. A first appeal is an appeal from a decision of a county court (whether made by a district judge or a circuit judge) or of a registrar of the High Court in insolvency proceedings: see Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 17.2(1). As to the appellant's notice and respondent's notice to be used in such appeals see Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 17.9, Schedule, Forms PDIP 1, PDIP 2.

4 Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47(2); and see the text and note 5 infra. An appeal from a winding-up order made by the Companies Court registrar should be made to a single judge of the Chancery

Division and not to the Court of Appeal: Re Calahurst Ltd [1989] BCLC 140, 5 BCC 318; Re Tasbian Ltd (No 2) [1991] BCLC 59, [1990] BCC 322, CA (decided under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986); Cornhill Insurance plc v Cornhill Financial Services Ltd [1993] BCLC 914 at 958-963, [1992] BCC 818 at 858-862, CA, per Dillon LJ. Appeal from a decision of a district judge in the county court also lies to the High Court and not a county court judge: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Langley [1993] BCLC 1340, sub nom Re Langley Marketing Services Ltd [1992] BCC 585 (decided under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986). The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47 applies to administration orders under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 8 (repealed, subject to savings in respect of certain types of insolvency proceedings: see para 145 et seq ante): Cornhill Insurance plc v Cornhill Financial Services Ltd supra. It seems it would apply to administration orders made by the court under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch B1 paras 10-13 (as added) (see para 212 et seq ante). In a case where a registrar has refused to review his original decision, an appeal may be made under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47 appealing the original decision of the registrar, or appealing his refusal to review his original decision, or both (Re SN Group plc [1994] 1 BCLC 319, [1993] BCC 808), but combined applications to review and appeal should be rarely made (Re Piccadilly Property Management Ltd [1999] 2 BCLC 145). Leave is not required for an appeal to the High Court but is required (either from the judge or from the Court of Appeal) for an appeal from the High Court to the Court of Appeal where the decision of the judge is not itself a decision on appeal (Re Busytoday Ltd, Popely v Lewis [1992] 4 All ER 61, [1992] 1 WLR 683; Midrome Ltd v Shaw [1994] 1 BCLC 180, [1993] BCC 659, CA); but where the decision of the judge is itself a decision on appeal, leave of the Court of Appeal is necessary (see note 5 infra). Appeals under the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47 are true appeals and not rehearings de novo: Re Probe Data Systems Ltd (No 3) [1991] BCLC 586, [1991] BCC 428 (decided under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986); Re Tasbian Ltd (No 3) [1991] BCLC 792, [1991] BCC 435 (decided under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986); Re Industrial and Commercial Securities plc (1989) 5 BCC 320; Re Dollar Land (Feltham) Ltd [1995] 2 BCLC 370, [1995] BCC 740. Hence, on an appeal, new evidence will be admitted only if the court so orders, and in deciding whether to allow further evidence the principles set out in Ladd v Marshall [1954] 3 All ER 745, [1954] 1 WLR 1489, CA, remain relevant: Hertfordshire Investments Ltd v Bubb [2000] 1 WLR 2318. The jurisdiction to admit evidence on an application to review is probably wider: Re SN Group plc supra; cf Re a Debtor (No 32-SD-1991) [1993] 2 All ER 991, [1993] 1 WLR 314 (bankruptcy case).

7 Ibid r 7.47(4). The time for applying for a rescission may be extended by the court: Re Calmex Ltd, Calmex Ltd v C Lila Ltd [1989] 1 All ER 485, [1989] BCLC 299; Re Virgo Systems Ltd [1990] BCLC 34, 5 BCC 833. The jurisdiction to extend the seven-day period must, however, be cautiously exercised and strictly justified if the extension is to cover any substantial period: Leicester v Stevenson [2002] EWHC 2831 (Ch), [2003] 2 BCLC 97. When a winding-up order is rescinded on the ground that it was made by mistake, the court has jurisdiction to order the registrar of companies to remove the order from the file at Companies House, as the order is a nullity: Re Calmex Ltd, Calmex Ltd v C Lila Ltd supra. As to the registrar of companies see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 131 et seq.

NOTE 2--The court's power to vary its order is the sanction by which the obligation of full disclosure is enforced and others are deterred from breaking it; in the event of any substantial breach, court is strongly inclined towards setting its order aside and not renewing it, so as to deprive the defaulting party of any advantage that the order might have given him: Re OJSC ANK Yugraneft; Millhouse Capital UK Ltd v Sibir Energy plc [2008] EWHC 2614 (Ch), [2009] 1 BCLC 298.

1031. Procedure on appeal in general.

Subject to the provisions described below, the procedure and practice of the Supreme Court relating to appeals to the Court of Appeal apply to appeals in insolvency proceedings¹.

In relation to any appeal from a decision of a county court, whether made by a district judge or a circuit judge, or of a registrar of the High Court in insolvency proceedings to a single judge of the High Court², any reference in the Civil Procedure Rules to the Court of Appeal is replaced by a reference to that judge; and any reference to the registrar of civil appeals is replaced by a reference to the registrar of the High Court who deals with insolvency proceedings of the kind involved³. Except as otherwise provided⁴, the Civil Procedure Rules and forms do not apply to such appeals, which are governed by their own practice and procedure⁵. In insolvency proceedings, an appeal to the Court of Appeal⁶ is by ordinary application⁷, and not by application notice⁸.

1 Insolvent Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.49(1) (r 7.49 substituted by SI 1999/1022). CPR Pt 52 and its Practice Direction and Forms apply to appeals from a decision of a judge of the High Court in insolvency proceedings: Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 17.4; and see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 12 (2009) PARA 1657 et seq. For the meaning of 'insolvency proceedings' see para 459 note 5 ante.

2 Ie a first appeal as defined in Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 17.2(1), and as provided for in the Insolvent Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.47(2) (see para 1030 ante).

8 Insolvent Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.49(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). See also Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings paras 17.2, 17.3. Under Practice Direction--Appeals (2001) PD 52, notice of an application to the appeal court for a remedy incidental to the appeal (eg an interim remedy under CPR 25.1 or an order for security for costs) may be included in the appeal notice or in an application notice under CPR Pt 23: Practice Direction--Appeals (2001) PD 52 para 5.5. It appears that the effect of the Insolvent Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.49(3) (as substituted) is that where, under the CPR, an application notice would ordinarily be used, the correct procedure in appeals in insolvency proceedings is to apply by way of ordinary application (it seems, whether the appeal is a first appeal or not): see further (in relation to first appeals only) Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings paras 17.19-17.21.

1031 Procedure on appeal in general

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 1986/1925 r 7.49 substituted by r 7.49A: SI 2010/686.

1032. Appeal from winding-up order.

An appeal against a winding-up order may be brought by a creditor or contributory who has appeared in the winding-up court or by the company itself. If the company is the only appellant, security for costs of the appeal must be given¹, not out of the company's funds, but from an outside source, namely by the directors or shareholders who are supporting the appeal, and the security must be substantial².

An appeal from a winding-up order made by a district judge or circuit judge of the High Court or a registrar of the High Court may be brought without permission, but permission is required from the judge or the Court of Appeal for appeals from a High Court judge, and the Court of Appeal alone can grant permission where the decision of the High Court judge is itself made on appeal³. The time limit for appealing from any order or decision made or given in the matter of the winding up of a company under the Insolvency Act 1986 is 14 days after the date on which the order was made or such other period as the court which made the order may direct⁴.

An appeal does not stay the proceedings except so far as the judge or the Court of Appeal or a single judge of the Court of Appeal orders⁵. The Court of Appeal or a single judge of the High Court on an appeal from a county court or registrar of the High Court will not grant a stay while there is default in complying with an order to give security for costs⁶. Where a winding-up order is discharged on appeal, all proceedings taken under it are also discharged⁷.

1033. Time for and mode of appeal.

The time for appealing from an order or decision made in insolvency proceedings¹ is such period as may be directed by the lower court or where the lower court makes no such direction, 14 days after the date of the decision of the lower court that the appellant wishes to appeal².

The appeal is by use of the requisite form of appellant's notice in insolvency proceedings³ or, where the appeal is not a first appeal, in accordance with Civil Procedure Rules⁴. The appellant's notice must, unless the appeal court otherwise orders, be served on each respondent as soon as practicable and in any event not later than seven days after it is filed⁵.

The parties to be served include the official receiver (see Re Webber, ex p Webber (1889) 24 QBD 313, CA) but he ought not to appear unless there are circumstances which he desires to bring before the court. As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante. Where supporting creditors and contributories have been allowed sets of costs between them, on a petition to wind up, the application to appeal need not be served on them unless it is sought to disturb that part of the order; but letters should be sent informing them of the appeal, and that the order as to their costs is not intended to be affected. In that case, a similar order as to their costs will be made if they appear on the appeal and it is unsuccessful. If, however, the application to appeal is served on them and the appeal is dismissed, they are entitled to separate sets of costs of appeal: Re Ibo Investment Co [1903] 2 Ch 373, CA.

1025-1106 Practice and Procedure in Insolvency Proceedings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/10. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE IN INSOLVENCY PROCEEDINGS/(4) MISCELLANEOUS PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE/(i) In general/1041. Rules and regulations; Insolvency Rules Committee.

(4) MISCELLANEOUS PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

(i) In general

1041. Rules and regulations; Insolvency Rules Committee.

As regards company insolvency proceedings the practice is, for the most part, regulated by the Insolvency Rules 1986¹ which were made by the Lord Chancellor² under statutory power³.

The Insolvency Rules Committee⁴ continues to exist for the purposes of being consulted by the Lord Chancellor before he makes rules⁵. The committee must consist of:

- 1339 (1) a judge of the High Court attached to the Chancery Division;
- 1340 (2) a circuit judge;
- 1341 (3) a registrar in bankruptcy of the High Court;
- 1342 (4) the registrar of a county court;
- 1343 (5) a practising barrister;
- 1344 (6) a practising solicitor; and
- 1345 (7) a practising accountant, and the appointment of any person as a member of the committee must be made by the Lord Chancellor⁶. The Lord Chancellor may appoint as additional members of the committee any person appearing to him to have qualifications or experience that would be of value to the committee in considering any matter with which it is concerned⁷; and he must consult the committee before making⁸ any rules⁹.

See also the regulations referred to in para 2 note 5 ante.

2 As to the Lord Chancellor see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) para 477 et seq. As to the abolition of the office of the Lord Chancellor see No 10 Downing Street Press Release Modernising Government (12 June 2003).

3 The Lord Chancellor, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, is empowered to make general rules, in relation to England and Wales, for the purpose of giving effect to the statutory provisions relating to the insolvency or winding up of companies (ie the Insolvency Act 1986 Pts I-VII (ss 1-251) (as amended) or EC Council Regulation 1346/2000 (OJ L160, 30.6.2000, p 1) on insolvency proceedings ('the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings'), although rules made for the purpose of giving effect to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings may not create an offence of a kind referred to in the European Communities Act 1972 Sch 2 para 1(1)(d) (as amended) (which prohibits the creation of serious criminal offences by way of Orders in Council or regulations under s 2(2) implementing Community obligations): Insolvency Act 1986 s 411(1)(a), (2B) (s 411(1)(a) amended, and s 411(2A), (2B) added, by the Insolvency Act 1986 (Amendment) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1037, regs 2, 3). For these purposes, references to the Insolvency Act 1986 Pts I-VII (as amended) are to be read as including the Companies Act 1985 so far as relating to the insolvency or winding up of companies, and to matters connected with or arising out of such insolvency or winding up: s 411(3). Without prejudice to the generality of s 411(1) (as amended), or any provision of Pts I-VII (as amended) by virtue of which rules under s 411 (as amended) may be made with respect to any matter, rules under s 411 (as amended) may contain any such provision as is specified in s 411(2), Sch 8 (as amended) (see heads (1)-(34) infra) or corresponds to provision contained immediately before the coming into force of the Insolvency Act 1985 s 106

(repealed) in rules made, or having effect as if made, under the Companies Act 1985 s 633(1) (repealed) or s 633(2) (repealed) (old winding up rules); and such incidental, supplemental and transitional provisions as may appear to the Lord Chancellor or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State necessary or expedient: Insolvency Act 1986 s 411(2). As to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings see para 46 et seq ante. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante. In relation to directors' disqualification, the power to make rules under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 411 (as amended) is extended: see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 21(2) (as amended); and para 1107 post.

The power to make rules conferred by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 411 (as amended) is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 411(4). Regulations made by the Secretary of State under a power conferred by rules under s 411 (as amended) must be made by statutory instrument and, after being made, must be laid before each House of Parliament: s 411(5). Nothing in s 411 (as amended) prejudices any power to make rules of court: s 411(6).

The provisions capable of inclusion in company insolvency rules are:

- 44 (1) provision for supplementing, in relation to the insolvency or winding up of companies, any provision made by or under s 117 (as amended) (jurisdiction of courts in relation to winding up: see paras 438-440 ante) (Sch 8 para 1);
- 45 (2) provision for regulating the practice and procedure of any court exercising jurisdiction for the purposes of Pts I-VII (as amended) or the Companies Act 1985 so far as relating to, and to matters connected with or arising out of, the insolvency or winding up of companies, being any provision that could be made by rules of court (subject to the clarification that any rules made by virtue of this provision about the consequence of failure to comply with practice or procedure may, in particular, include provision about the termination of administration) (Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 8 para 2 (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 9, 38(1), (2)). The amendment made to this provision does not apply in relation to special administration regimes (see para 145 ante) or where a petition for an administration order has been presented before 15 September 2003, in which event the provision which may be included in rules under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 8 para 2 is not subject to the clarification set out above (Sch 8 para 2 (as originally enacted); Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 3(2)(a));
- 46 (3) provision requiring notice of any proceedings in connection with or arising out of the insolvency or winding up of a company to be given or published in the manner prescribed by the rules (Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 8 para 3);
- 47 (4) provision with respect to the form, manner of serving, contents and proof of any petition, application, order, notice, statement or other document required to be presented, made, given, published or prepared under any enactment or subordinate legislation relating to, or to matters connected with or arising out of, the insolvency or winding up of companies (Sch 8 para 4);
- 48 (5) provision specifying the persons to whom any notice is to be given (Sch 8 para 5);
- 49 (6) provision for the registration of voluntary arrangements approved under Pt I (ss 1-7B) (as amended) (see para 71 et seq ante), including provision for the keeping and inspection of a register (Sch 8 para 6);
- 50 (7) provision as to the manner in which a provisional liquidator appointed under s 135 (see para 491 ante) is to carry out his functions (Sch 8 para 7);
- 51 (8) provision with respect to the certification of any person as, and as to the proof that a person is, the liquidator, administrator or administrative receiver of a company (Sch 8 para 8);
- 52 (9) provision with respect to meetings of a company's creditors, contributories or members, as follows:
 7. (a) provision as to the manner of summoning a meeting (including provision as to how any power to require a meeting is to be exercised, provision as to the manner of determining the value of any debt or contribution for the purposes of any such power, and provision making the exercise of any such power subject to the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover the expenses likely to be incurred in summoning and holding a meeting) (Sch 8 para 9(a));
 8. (b) provision specifying the time and place at which a meeting may be held and the period of notice required for a meeting (Sch 8 para 9(b));
 - 9

9. (c) provision as to the procedure to be followed at a meeting (including the manner in which decisions may be reached by a meeting and the manner in which the value of any vote at a meeting is to be determined) (Sch 8 para 9(c));
10. (d) provision for requiring a person who is or has been an officer of the company to attend a meeting (Sch 8 para 9(d));
11. (e) provision creating, in the prescribed circumstances, a presumption that a meeting has been duly summoned and held (Sch 8 para 9(e));
12. (f) provision as to the manner of proving the decisions of a meeting (Sch 8 para 9(f));
- 53 (10) provision with respect to committees, as follows:
13. (a) provision as to the functions, membership and proceedings of a committee established under s 49 (see para 415 ante), s 68 (Scotland), s 101 (see para 994 ante), s 141 (see para 629 ante), s 142 (liquidation committee (Scotland)) or Sch B1 para 57 (as added) (see para 279 ante) (Sch 8 para 10(1) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 Sch 17 paras 9, 38(1), (3)). The amendment made to this provision does not apply in relation to special administration regimes or where a petition for an administration order has been presented before 15 September 2003, in which event the provision which may be included in rules under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 8 para 10(1) includes provision as to the functions, membership and proceedings of a committee established under s 26 (now repealed) (Sch 8 para 10(1) (as originally enacted); Enterprise Act 2002 s 249(1), (2); Enterprise Act 2002 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2003, SI 2003/2093, arts 2(1), 3(2)(a)); and
14. (b) provision for resolving differences, with respect to the establishment of a committee under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 101, s 141 or s 142, between a meeting of the company's creditors and a meeting of its contributories or members; provision authorising the establishment of the committee without a meeting of contributories in a case where a company is being wound up on grounds including its inability to pay its debts; and provision modifying the requirements of the Insolvency Act 1986 with respect to the establishment of the committee in a case where a winding-up order has been made immediately upon the discharge of an administration order (Sch 8 para 10(2));

For the purposes of Sch 8 (as amended), 'liquidator' includes a provisional liquidator (s 411(3)); and for the purposes of s 411(2), a reference in Sch 8 (as amended) to doing anything under or for the purposes of a provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 includes a reference to doing anything under or for the purposes of the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings (in so far as the provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 relates to a matter to which the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings applies) (Insolvency Act 1986 s 411(2A) (as so added)). As to the Insolvency Services Account and the Insolvency Services Investment Account see ss 403, 404; para 554 ante; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) paras 26-30.

The Secretary of State may also make regulations for the purpose of giving effect to Pt XIII (ss 388-398) (as amended) (see para 8 et seq ante): s 419(1). Without prejudice to the generality of s 419(1) or to any provision of Pt XIII (as amended) by virtue of which regulations may be made with respect to any matter, regulations under s 419 may contain: (i) provision as to the matters to be taken into account in determining whether a person is a fit and proper person to act as an insolvency practitioner (s 419(2)(a)); (ii) provision prohibiting a person from so acting in prescribed cases in which a conflict of interest will or may arise (s 419(2)(b)); (iii) provision imposing requirements with respect to the preparation and keeping by a person who acts as an insolvency practitioner of prescribed books, accounts and other records, and the production of those books, accounts and records to prescribed persons (s 419(2)(c)); (iv) provision conferring power on prescribed persons to require any person who acts or has acted as an insolvency practitioner to answer any inquiry in relation to a case in which he is so acting or has so acted, and to apply to a court to examine such a person or any other person on oath concerning such a case; (v) provision making non-compliance with any of the regulations a criminal offence (s 419(2)(d)); and (vi) such incidental, supplemental and transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State necessary or expedient (s 419(2)(e)).

Any power conferred by Pt XIII (as amended) or Pt XV (ss 411-422) (as amended) to make regulations, rules or orders is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment by resolution of either House of Parliament: s 419(3). Any rule or regulation under Pt XIII (as amended) or Pt XV (as amended) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of cases, including different provision for different areas: s 419(4).

1025-1106 Practice and Procedure in Insolvency Proceedings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/10. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE IN INSOLVENCY PROCEEDINGS/(4) MISCELLANEOUS PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE/(ii) Applications to the Court/1055. 'The court'; 'the registrar'.

(ii) Applications to the Court

1055. 'The court'; 'the registrar'.

Anything to be done under or by virtue of the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Insolvency Rules 1986¹ by, to or before the court may be done by, to or before a judge or the registrar². The registrar³ may authorise any act of a formal or administrative character, which is not by statute his responsibility, to be carried out by the chief clerk or any other officer of the court acting on his behalf, in accordance with directions given by the Lord Chancellor⁴.

'The court', in relation to a company, means the court having jurisdiction to wind up the company⁵.

1 Ie the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended).

2 Ibid rr 13.1, 13.2(1). See further note 4 infra.

3 In company insolvency proceedings in the High Court, 'the registrar' means a Registrar in Bankruptcy of the High Court, except where the proceedings are in the District Registry of Birmingham, Bristol, Cardiff, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle-upon-Tyne or Preston, in which case it means the district judge: ibid rr 13.1, 13.2(4) (r 13.2(4), (5) amended by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 74(1), (3)). For the meaning of 'company insolvency proceedings' see para 459 note 5 ante.

In company insolvency proceedings in a county court, 'the district judge' means the officer of the court whose duty it is to exercise the functions which in the High Court are exercised by a district judge: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, rr 13.1, 13.2(5) (as so amended).

4 Ibid rr 13.1, 13.2(2). As to the Lord Chancellor see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) para 477 et seq. As to the abolition of the office of the Lord Chancellor see No 10 Downing Street Press Release Modernising Government (12 June 2003).

The following applications must be made direct to the judge and, unless otherwise ordered, must be heard in public: (1) applications to commit any person to prison for contempt (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(1)); (2) applications for urgent interim relief (eg applications pursuant to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 127 (as amended) (see para 700 ante)) prior to any winding-up order being made (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(2)); (3) applications to restrain the presentation or advertisement of a petition to wind up (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(3)); (4) applications for the appointment of a provisional liquidator (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(4)); (5) petitions for administration orders or an interim order on such a petition (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(5)); (6) applications after an administration order has been made pursuant to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 14(3) (repealed) or s 18(3) (repealed) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(6)); (7) petitions to discharge administration orders and to wind up (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(7)); (8) applications pursuant to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 5(3) (as amended) to stay a winding up or discharge an administration order or for directions (see para 131 ante) where a voluntary arrangement has been approved (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(8)); (9) appeals from a decision made by a county court or by a registrar of the High Court (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.1(9)).

Subject to the following provisions, all other applications must be made to the registrar or the district judge in the first instance who may give any necessary directions and may, in the exercise of his discretion, either hear and determine it himself or refer it to the judge: Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.2.

The following matters will also be heard in public: (a) petitions to wind up (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.3(1)); (b) public examinations (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.3(2)); (c) all matters and applications heard by the judge except those referred by the registrar or the district judge to be heard in private or so directed by the judge to be heard (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.3(3)).

In accordance with directions given by the Lord Chancellor, the registrar has authorised certain applications in the High Court to be dealt with by the court manager of the Companies Court pursuant to the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 13.2(2), the applications being: (i) to extend or abridge time prescribed by the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended), in connection with winding up (see rr 4.3, 12.9 (as amended); and para 1053 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(1)); (ii) for substituted service of winding-up petitions (see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.8(6) (as amended); and para 461 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(2)); (iii) to withdraw petitions (see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.15; and para 467 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(3)); (iv) for the substitution of a petitioner (see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.19 (as amended); and para 479 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(4)); (v) by the official receiver for limited disclosure of a statement of affairs (see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.35; and para 520 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(5)); (vi) by the official receiver for relief from duties imposed upon him by the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended) (see r 4.47; and para 530 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(6)); (vii) by the official receiver for leave to give notice of a meeting by advertisement only (see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 4.59; and para 653 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(7)); (viii) to transfer proceedings from the High Court to the county court (see the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.11; and para 899 ante) (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(8)); and (ix) for leave to amend any originating application (Practice Direction--Insolvency Proceedings para 5.4(9)). 1056. Applications.

Provisions relating to applications to the court¹ apply to any application made to the court² under the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Insolvency Rules 1986³ except an application for an administration order⁴ or a petition for a winding-up order⁵.

For these purposes, except in so far as the context otherwise requires:

- 1354 (1) 'originating application' means an application to the court which is not an application in pending proceedings before the court; and 1355 (2) 'ordinary application' means any other application to the court⁶.

Every application must be in the form appropriate to the application concerned⁷.

An application in existing proceedings not in the Companies Court or the Bankruptcy Court to amend a claim to introduce a cause of action under s 423 (see para 854 ante) is not confined to the Companies Court or the Bankruptcy Court, and, therefore, the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925 (as amended) do not apply to such an application: TSB Bank plc v Katz [1994] TLR 231; cf Moon v Franklin (1990) Independent, 22 June.

1058. Filing and service of application.

The application¹ must be filed in court², accompanied by one copy and a number of additional copies equal to the number of persons who are to be served with the application³.

Subject to the provisions of the Insolvency Rules 1986⁴, or unless the rule under which the application is brought provides otherwise, or the court otherwise orders, upon the presentation of these documents, the court must fix a venue⁵ for the application to be heard⁶.

Unless the court otherwise directs, the applicant must serve a sealed copy of the application, indorsed with the venue for the hearing, on the respondent named in the application, or on each respondent if more than one⁷.

The court may direct:

- 1361 (1) that the application be served upon persons other than those specified by the relevant provision⁸;
- 1362 (2) that the giving of notice to any person may be dispensed with⁹; or
- 1363 (3) that notice be given in some way other than that specified above¹⁰.

Unless the relevant provision under which the application is made provides otherwise, and subject to the provisions described below, the application must be served at least 14 days before the date fixed for the hearing¹¹.

Where the case is one of urgency, the court may, without prejudice to its general power to extend or abridge time limits¹², either hear the application immediately, either with or without notice to, or the attendance of, other parties¹³, or authorise a shorter period of service than that mentioned above¹⁴; and any such application may be heard on terms providing for the filing or service of documents, or the carrying out of other formalities, as the court thinks fit¹⁵.

An application by a liquidator, administrator or receiver seeking release from his duty to make a prescribed part of the company's net property available for the satisfaction of unsecured debts on the ground that the cost of making a distribution to unsecured creditors would be disproportionate to the benefits¹⁶ may be made without the application being served upon or notice being given to any other party, save that notice of the application must be given to any other insolvency practitioner who acts as such in relation to the company including any member state liquidator¹⁷.

Subject to the provisions described below, in company insolvency proceedings¹ any person stating himself in writing, in records kept by the court for that purpose, to be a creditor or member of the company or, where the company is being wound up, a contributory, is entitled, at his own cost, to attend in court or in chambers at any stage of the proceedings². Attendance may be by the person himself, or his solicitor³.

A person so entitled may request the court in writing to give him notice of any step in the proceedings; and, subject to his paying the costs involved and keeping the court informed as to his address, the court must comply with the request⁴.

If the court is satisfied that the exercise by a person of his rights under these provisions has given rise to costs falling on the company's assets which would not otherwise have been incurred and ought not, in the circumstances, to fall on those assets, it may direct that the costs be paid by the person concerned, to an amount specified; and the person's rights under these provisions are to be in abeyance so long as any such costs are not paid⁵.

The court may appoint one or more persons to represent the creditors, the members or the contributories of an insolvent company, or any class of them, to have the rights conferred by these provisions, instead of the rights being exercisable by any or all of them individually; and, if two or more persons are appointed to represent the same interest, they must, if at all, instruct the same solicitor⁶.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE IN INSOLVENCY PROCEEDINGS/(4) MISCELLANEOUS PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE/(iii) Court Records and Returns; Access to Information/1068. Right to inspect the file.

1068. Right to inspect the file.

In the case of any insolvency proceedings¹, the following have the right, at all reasonable times, to inspect the court's file² of the proceedings:

- 1366 (1) the person who, in relation to those proceedings, is the responsible insolvency practitioner³;
- 1367 (2) any duly authorised officer of the Department of Trade and Industry⁴; and
- 1368 (3) any person stating himself in writing to be a creditor of the company to which the proceedings relate⁵.

The same right of inspection is exercisable in company insolvency proceedings⁶ by every person who is, or at any time has been, a director⁷ or officer⁸ of the company to which the proceedings relate, or who is a member of the company or a contributory in its winding up⁹. The right of inspection so conferred on any person may be exercised on his behalf by a person properly authorised by him¹⁰; and any person may, by special leave of the court, inspect the file¹¹.

Such rights of inspection are not exercisable in the case of documents, or parts of documents, as to which the court directs, either generally or specially, that they are not to be made open to inspection without the court's leave; and an application for such a direction of the court may be made by the official receiver, by the person who in relation to any proceedings is the responsible insolvency practitioner, or by any party appearing to the court to have an interest¹².

If, for the purpose of powers conferred on them¹³, the Secretary of State, the Department of Trade and Industry or the official receiver requires to inspect the file of any insolvency proceedings, and requests the transmission of the file, the court must comply with the request, unless the file is for the time being in use for the court's own purposes¹⁴.

1073. Right to have list of creditors.

In any proceedings relating to company administration, a creditors' voluntary winding up or a winding up by the court, a creditor¹ who has the right² to inspect documents on the court file also has the right to require the responsible insolvency practitioner³ to furnish him with a list of the company's creditors and the amount of their respective debts, except where a statement of the company's affairs has been filed in court⁴ or, in the case of a creditors' voluntary winding up, has been delivered to the registrar of companies⁵. The insolvency practitioner, on being required by any person to furnish the list, must send it to him, but is entitled to charge the appropriate fee⁶ for doing so⁷.

1 For these purposes, a member state liquidator appointed in main proceedings in relation to a person is deemed to be a creditor: Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 12.17(2A) (added by SI 2002/1307). Where provision is made¹ for creditors, members of a company or contributories in a company's winding up to have a right to inspect any documents, whether on the court's file or in the hands of a responsible insolvency practitioner² or other person, it is an offence for a person, with the intention of obtaining a sight of documents which he has no right to inspect, falsely to claim a status which would entitle him to inspect them³. A person guilty of such an offence is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, or to both⁴.

1076. Affidavits.

The practice and procedure of the High Court with regard to affidavits, their form and contents, and the procedure governing their use, apply to all insolvency proceedings¹. Subject to certain exceptions⁸, where the Insolvency Rules 1986 provide for the use of an affidavit, a witness statement verified by a statement of truth may be used as an alternative⁹. Where a witness statement can thus be used, any prescribed form¹⁰ must be modified as necessary¹¹.

1086. Order for inspection of books and papers.

At any time after making a winding-up order, the court may make such order as it thinks just for inspection by creditors and contributories of the company of its books and papers¹. The power to order inspection, however, applies only to books and papers in the company's possession²; it does not empower the court to decide any question of right against third parties who possess the books and claim a right to possession³.

The right conferred upon members and creditors of a company, or persons who are neither creditors nor members, by statute or the company's regulations, to inspect its register of shares or mortgages ceases when the winding up commences, and a creditor or contributory may then only obtain inspection by order of the court⁴. Under the usual order to inspect and take copies, the applicant may take copies himself without paying for them⁵.

An order for inspection will only be made on good cause being shown⁶. Inspection is always refused if the applicant requires it to enable him or other persons to establish claims for their personal benefit against directors or promoters⁷.

1091. Service outside the jurisdiction.

The rules and practice applicable to service out of the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court¹ do not apply in insolvency proceedings². Instead, where for the purposes of such proceedings any process or order of the court, or other document, is required to be served on a person who is not in England and Wales, the court may order service to be effected within such time, on such person, at such place and in such manner as it thinks fit, and may also require such proof of service as it thinks fit³.

An application⁴ for such an order must be supported by an affidavit stating the grounds on which the application is made, and in what place or country the person to be served is, or probably may be found⁵.

Leave of the court is not required to serve anything referred to above on a member state liquidator⁶.

Where execution has been taken out against property of a company, and notice is given under the Insolvency Act 1986 to the enforcement officer¹ or other officer charged with the execution², such notice must be in writing and be delivered by hand at, or sent by recorded delivery to, the office of the enforcement officer or, as the case may be, of the officer charged with the execution³.

1097. Requirement to decide costs by detailed assessment.

Subject to the provisions described below, where the costs, charges or expenses of any person are payable out of the company's assets, the amount of those costs, charges or expenses must be decided by detailed assessment unless agreed between the responsible insolvency practitioner¹ and the person entitled to payment; and, in the absence of such agreement, the responsible insolvency practitioner may serve notice in writing requiring that person to commence detailed assessment proceedings² in the court to which the insolvency proceedings are allocated or, where in relation to a company there is no such court, in any court having jurisdiction to wind up the company³.

If a liquidation or creditors' committee established in insolvency proceedings (except administrative receivership) resolves that the amount of any such costs, charges or expenses should be decided by detailed assessment, the insolvency practitioner must require detailed assessment⁴.

Where the amount of the costs, charges or expenses of any person employed by an insolvency practitioner in insolvency proceedings are required to be decided by detailed assessment or fixed by order of the court, this does not preclude the insolvency practitioner from making payments on account to such person on the basis of an undertaking by that person to repay immediately any money which may, when detailed assessment is made, prove to have been overpaid⁵.

In any proceedings before the court, including proceedings on a petition, the court may order costs to be decided by detailed assessment⁶.

Unless otherwise directed or authorised, the costs of a trustee in bankruptcy or a liquidator are to be allowed on the standard basis⁷.

Where an enforcement officer or other officer⁸ is required to deliver up goods or money⁹ or has deducted costs from the proceeds of an execution or money paid to him¹⁰, the responsible insolvency practitioner may require in writing that the officer's bill of costs be decided by detailed assessment¹¹.

8 The Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 7.36 (as substituted) refers to 'a sheriff' for these purposes but, by virtue of the amendments made to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 184 by the Courts Act 2003 (see para 884 ante), this should be read as a reference to an enforcement or other officer. 'Enforcement officer' means an individual who is authorised to act under the Courts Act 2003: Insolvency Act 1986 s 184(6) (amended by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 296(1), (4)).

1098. Procedure where detailed assessment required.

Before making a detailed assessment¹ of the costs of any person employed in insolvency proceedings² by a responsible insolvency practitioner³, the costs officer must require a certificate of employment, which must be indorsed on the bill and signed by the insolvency practitioner⁴. The certificate must include the name and address of the person employed⁵, details of the functions to be carried out under the employment⁶, and a note of any special terms of remuneration which have been agreed⁷.

Every person whose costs in insolvency proceedings are required to be decided by detailed assessment must, on being required in writing to do so by the insolvency practitioner, commence detailed assessment proceedings⁸. If that person does not commence such proceedings within three months of this requirement being made or within such further time as the court, on application, may permit, the insolvency practitioner may deal with the company's assets without regard to any claim by that person, whose claim is forfeited by such failure to commence proceedings⁹.

Where costs have been incurred in insolvency proceedings in the High Court and those proceedings are subsequently transferred to a county court, all costs of those proceedings directed by the court or otherwise required to be taxed may nevertheless, on the application of the person who incurred the costs, be ordered to be decided by detailed assessment in the High Court¹⁰.

Where in insolvency proceedings¹ it appears to the court that a person affected by the proceedings is one who is incapable of managing and administering his property and affairs either by reason of mental disorder², or due to physical affliction or disability (the 'incapacitated person'³), the court may appoint such person as it thinks fit to appear for, represent or act for the incapacitated person⁴. The appointment may be made either generally or for the purpose of any particular application or proceeding, or for the exercise of particular rights or powers which the incapacitated person might have exercised but for his incapacity⁵.

The court may make the appointment either of its own motion or on application by:

- 1379 (1) a person who has been appointed by a court in the United Kingdom or elsewhere to manage the affairs of, or to represent, the incapacitated person⁶;
- 1380 (2) any relative or friend of the incapacitated person who appears to the court to be a proper person to make the application⁷;
- 1381 (3) the official receiver⁸;
- 1382 (4) the person who, in relation to the proceedings, is the responsible insolvency practitioner⁹.

Such an application may be made without notice; but the court may require such notice of the application as it thinks necessary to be given to the person alleged to be incapacitated, or any other person, and may adjourn the hearing of the application to enable the notice to be given¹⁰. The application must be supported by an affidavit of a registered medical practitioner as to the mental or physical condition of the incapacitated person, unless the application is made by the official receiver, in which case, a report made by him is sufficient¹¹.

UPDATE

1025-1106 Practice and Procedure in Insolvency Proceedings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

NOTE 6--1986 Act s 414(8) amended: SI 2007/2194. 1986 Act s 414(8A), (8B) (application to bank insolvency and bank administration) and s 414(8C) (application to building society insolvency and building society special administration) added: Banking Act 2009 ss 126, 161; SI 2009/805.

11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS

(1) IN GENERAL

1107. Disqualification order.

A disqualification order is an order made¹ against a person that for a period specified in the order² he must not be a director³ of a company⁴, act as receiver of a company's property⁵ or in any way, whether directly or indirectly, be concerned or take part in⁶ the promotion, formation or management⁷ of a company unless (in each case) he has the leave of the court⁸; nor may he act as an insolvency practitioner⁹.

Where a disqualification order is made against a person who is already subject to such an order or to a disqualification undertaking¹⁰, the periods specified in those orders or, as the case may be, in the order and the undertaking run concurrently¹¹.

A disqualification order may be made on grounds which are or include matters other than criminal convictions notwithstanding that the person in respect of whom it is to be made may be criminally liable in respect of those matters¹².

The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 applies to building societies¹³, to incorporated friendly societies¹⁴, and to NHS foundation trusts¹⁵, as it applies to companies.

A person who is subject to a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking is disqualified for being a charity trustee or trustee for a charity, unless leave has been granted by the court¹⁶.

Where an insolvent partnership is wound up as an unregistered company, certain of the provisions of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 apply, subject to modifications¹⁷.

1 In the circumstances specified in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986, a court may, and under s 6 (see para 1121 post) and s 9A (as added) (see para 1114 post) must, make a disqualification order: s 1(1) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 204(1), (3)). For the meaning of 'the court' see para 4 ante. See also notes 13-16 infra. The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 is applied with modifications to limited liability partnerships by the Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1090, reg 4, Sch 2: see para 1310 post. For the meaning of 'limited liability partnership' see para 71 note 3 ante. As to limited liability partnerships generally see PARTNERSHIP vol 49 (2008) PARA 234 et seq.

2 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1(1) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 5(1)). In each provision of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 which gives to a court power or, as the case may be, imposes on it the duty to make a disqualification order there is specified the maximum, and in s 6 (see para 1121 post) the minimum, period of disqualification which may or (as the case may be) must be imposed by means of the order; and, unless the court otherwise orders, the period of disqualification so imposed begins at the end of the period of 21 days beginning with the date of the order: s 1(2) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 5(2)). As to the period of disqualification see para 1138 post.

3 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'director' includes any person occupying the position of director, by whatever name called: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (4) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 ss 8, 15(1), Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 15(1), (3), Sch 5). See also notes 13-16 infra. The word 'director' is capable of including and, given the protective purpose of disqualification, does include de facto directors: Re Lo-Line Electric Motors Ltd [1988] Ch 477, [1988] 2 All ER 692 (decided under the Companies Act 1985 s 300 (repealed)). A de facto director is a person who assumes to act as a director; he is held out as a director by the company, and claims and purports to be a director, although never actually or validly appointed as such: Re Hydrodam (Corby) Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 180 at 183 per Millett J. To establish that a person was a de facto director of a company, it is necessary to plead and prove that he undertook functions in relation to the company which could properly be discharged only by a director: Re Hydrodam (Corby) Ltd supra at 183 per Millett J. See also Re Moorgate Metals Ltd [1995] 1 BCLC 503; Re Richborough Furniture Ltd [1996] 1 BCLC 507, [1996] BCC 155; Re Sykes (Butchers) Ltd [1998] 1 BCLC 110; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Tjolle [1998] 1 BCLC 333 at 343-344 per Jacob J ('sales and marketing director' or 'deputy managing director' not a de facto director); Re Red Label Fashions Ltd [1999] BCC 308; Re Kaytech International plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Kaczer [1999] 2 BCLC 351, CA (de facto director rather than 'consultant' or 'company secretary'); Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Becker [2002] EWHC 2200 (Ch), [2003] 1 BCLC 555 (one possible event at the end of a company's history was insufficient to establish that an individual had been a de facto or shadow director).

4 For these purposes, unless the context otherwise requires, 'company' includes any company which may be wound up under the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt V (ss 220-229) (as amended) (see para 1147 et seq post): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (2)(b). See also Re Seagull Manufacturing Co Ltd (in liquidation) (No 2) [1994] Ch 91, [1994] 2 All ER 767; and notes 13-16 infra. Any reference in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 to provisions, or a particular provision, of the Companies Acts or the Insolvency Act 1986 includes the corresponding provisions or provision of the former Companies Acts including the Companies Act 1985, or, as the case may be, the Insolvency Act 1985; and any expression for whose interpretation provision is made by the Companies Act 1985 Pt XXVI (ss 735-744) (as amended) and not by the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (3)-(8) is to be construed in accordance with that provision: s 22(8), (9). For the meanings of 'the Companies Acts' and 'the former Companies Acts' see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 14.

The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1A (as added) (see para 1108 post), ss 6-10 (see paras 1118, 1121-1125, 1127-1128 post), ss 13-15 (see paras 1142-1144 post), s 19(c) (see paras 1113, 1121 post), s 20 (see para 1145 post), Sch 1 (see paras 1122-1123 post) (and ss 1, 17 as they apply for the purposes of those provisions) are deemed included in the Insolvency Act 1986 Pts I-VII (ss 1-251) (as amended) for the purposes of s 411 (power to make insolvency rules: see para 1041 ante), s 414 (as amended) (fees orders: see para 1106 ante), s 420 (orders extending provisions about insolvent companies to insolvent partnerships: see para 1166 post), and s 422 (as amended) (modification of such provisions in their application to authorised institutions: see para 552 ante); s 21(2) (amended by the Companies Act 1989 s 212, Sch 24; and the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 14(1), (2)).

5 For these purposes, any references to acting as receiver includes acting as manager or as both receiver and manager, but does not include acting as administrative receiver; and 'receivership' is to be read accordingly: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(10) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 5(3)). As to the construction of references to receivers and managers generally see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1336. As to administrative receivers generally see para 380 et seq ante.

6 This wording is intended to prevent persons, against whom an order of disqualification has been made, from taking part in the management of company affairs generally: R v Campbell [1984] BCLC 83, CA (decided under the Companies Act 1948 s 188(1) (now repealed) where the meaning of 'be concerned or take part in' was considered, and the conclusion drawn that 'be concerned in' should not be narrowly construed to mean 'take part in').

7 As to the meaning of 'management' see Re Clasper Group Services Ltd [1989] BCLC 143, 4 BCC 673 (decided under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 212(1)(c): see para 688 ante); Comr of Corporate Affairs v Bracht (1989) 7 ACLC 40 at 47-48 per Ormiston J; Re Market Wizard Systems (UK) Ltd [1998] 2 BCLC 282 at 299-300 per Carnwath J.

8 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1(1)(a) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 5(1)). As to obtaining the court's leave to act despite being disqualified see para 1139 post. The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1(1) (as amended) envisages one disqualification with a number of different consequences and not several different categories of disqualification: R v Cole [1998] 2 BCLC 234, CA. An order disqualifying a person from acting as a director cannot be limited to a disqualification from holding directorships in public companies: R v Ward [2001] EWCA Crim 1648, [2002] BCC 953.

9 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1(1)(b) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 5(1)). References to acting as an insolvency practitioner are to be read in accordance with the Insolvency Act 1986 s 388 (see para 8 ante): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(3) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 15(1), (2)). As to persons subject to a disqualification order under the Companies (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2404, see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 12A (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 7(1)). As to persons subject to a disqualification undertaking under the Company Directors Disqualification (Northern Ireland) Order 2002, SI 2002/3150, see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 12B (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 (Company Directors Disqualification Undertakings) Order 2004, SI 2004/1941, art 2(1), (2)). As to the company law of Northern Ireland generally see COMPANIES.

10 As to disqualification undertakings see para 1108 post.

11 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1(3) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 2).

12 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 1(4). It is wrong in principle to make a compensation order against a person for fraudulent trading at the same time as making a disqualification order: R v Holmes [1991] BCC 394, CA. As to the correct approach where criminal and civil disqualification orders potentially overlap see Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Rayna [2001] 2 BCLC 48 at 57-60 per Anthony Mann QC; affd [2004] BCC 65, CA. The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 20 (as amended) (see para 1145 post) provides an additional and substantial layer of protection in almost all cases in which there are disqualification proceedings and criminal proceedings arising out of the same circumstances: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Crane [2001] 2 BCLC 222 at 228 per Ferris J.

13 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22A(1) (s 22A added by the Companies Act 1989 s 211(3)). References in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 to a company, or to a director or an officer of a company include, respectively, references to a building society within the meaning of the Building Societies Act 1986 (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 1856) or to a director or officer, within the meaning of the Building Societies Act 1986 (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 1944), of a building society: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22A(2) (as so added). In relation to a building society, the definition of 'shadow director' in s 22(5) applies with the substitution of 'building society' for 'company': s 22A(3) (as so added). In the application of Sch 1 (as amended) (see para 1122 post) to the directors of a building society, references to provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Companies Act 1985 include references to the corresponding provisions of the Building Societies Act 1986: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22A(4) (as so added).

'Shadow director', in relation to a company, means a person in accordance with whose directions or instructions the directors of a company are accustomed to act, but so that a person is not deemed a shadow director by reason only that the directors act on advice given by him in a professional capacity: s 22(1), (5). As to the use of the words 'direction' and 'instruction' in this definition see Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Deverell [2001] Ch 340 at 354, [2000] 2 All ER 365 at 376 per Morritt LJ; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Becker [2002] EWHC 2200 (Ch), [2003] 1 BCLC 555 (proof required of a pattern of conduct in which a de jure director of a company was accustomed to act on the instructions or directions of the alleged shadow director). In other contexts, it has been held that a company's bank might be a shadow director: Re a Company (No 005009 of 1987), ex p Copp [1989] BCLC 13, 4 BCC 424. See also Re Tasbian Ltd (No 3) [1993] BCLC 297, [1992] BCC 358, CA (outside investor). As to the distinction between de facto directors and shadow directors, which, it appears, are mutually exclusive classes, see Re Hydroadam (Corby) Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 180, [1994] BCC 161. 14 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22B(1) (s 22B added by the Friendly Societies Act 1992 s 120(1), Sch 21 Pt I para 8). References in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 to a company, or to a director or an officer of a company include, respectively, references to an incorporated friendly society within the meaning of the Friendly Societies Act 1992 (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 2082) or to a member of the committee of management or an officer, within the meaning of that Act (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 50 (2008) PARA 2115), of an incorporated friendly society: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22B(2) (as so added). In relation to an incorporated friendly society, every reference to a shadow director must be omitted: s 22B(3) (as so added). In the application of Sch 1 (as amended) (see para 1122 post) to the members of the committee of management of an incorporated friendly society, references to provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Companies Act 1985 include references to the corresponding provisions of the Friendly Societies Act 1992: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22B(4) (as so added).

15 Ibid s 22C(1) (s 22C added by the Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003 s 34, Sch 4 paras 67, 68). References in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 to a company, or to a director or officer of a company, include, respectively, references to an NHS foundation trust or to a director or officer of the trust; but references to shadow directors are omitted: s 22C(2) (as so added). In the application of Sch 1 (as amended) to the directors of an NHS foundation trust, references to the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 or the Companies Act 1985 include references to the corresponding provisions of the Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003 Pt I (ss 1-40) (NHS foundation trusts) (see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 174): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22C(3) (as so added).

1108. Disqualification undertakings.

A disqualification undertaking is an undertaking accepted¹ by the Secretary of State² made by any person that, for a period specified³ in the undertaking, the person⁴ will not be a director⁵ of a company⁶, act as receiver of a company's property⁷ or in any way, whether directly or indirectly, be concerned or take part in⁸ the promotion, formation or management⁹ of a company unless, in each case, he has the leave of a court¹⁰; nor will he act as an insolvency practitioner¹¹.

Where a disqualification undertaking by a person who is already subject to such an undertaking or to a disqualification order¹² is accepted, the periods specified in those undertakings or, as the case may be, the undertaking and the order will run concurrently¹³.

In determining whether to accept a disqualification undertaking by any person, the Secretary of State may take account of matters other than criminal convictions, notwithstanding that the person may be criminally liable in respect of those matters¹⁴; and he must, as respects the person's conduct as a director of any company concerned, have regard to the matters for determining unfitness of directors¹⁵.

1 Is accepted in the circumstances specified in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 ss 7, 8 (see paras 1113, 1125-1128 post). As to disqualification undertakings in Northern Ireland see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 12B (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 (Company Directors Disqualification Undertakings) Order 2004, SI 2004/1941, art 2(1), (2)); and the Company Directors Disqualification (Northern Ireland) Order 2002, SI 2002/3150.

2 As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

3 The maximum period which may be specified in a disqualification undertaking is 15 years, and the minimum period which may be specified in a disqualification undertaking under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7 is two years: s 1A(2) (s 1A added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 6(1), (2)). The court may, on the application of a person who is subject to a disqualification undertaking, reduce the period for which the undertaking is to be in force, or provide for it to cease to be in force: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 8A(1) (s 8A added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 6(1), (5)). On the hearing of such an application, the Secretary of State must appear and call the attention of the court to any matters which seem to him to be relevant, and may himself give evidence or call witnesses: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 8A(2) (as so added). Section 8A(2) (as added) does not apply to an application in the case of an undertaking given under s 9B (as added) (see para 1115 post), and in such a case on the hearing of the application whichever of the Office of Fair Trading (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 6 et seq) or a specified regulator (within the meaning of s 9E (as added): see para 1114 post) accepted the undertaking must appear and call the attention of the court to any matters which appear to it or him (as the case may be) to be relevant, and may give evidence or call witnesses: s 8A(2A) (s 8A as so added; and s 8A(2A) added by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 204(1), (4)). For these purposes, 'court': (1) in the case of an undertaking given under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9B (as added), means the High Court; and (2) in any other case, has the same meaning as in s 7(2) (see para 1121 note 1 post) or s 8 (see para 1113 note 7 post), as the case may be: s 8A(3) (as so added; and substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 204(1), (5)). For the meaning of 'the court' generally see para 4 ante.

5 As to the meaning of 'director' see para 1107 note 3 ante.

(2) GROUNDS FOR DISQUALIFICATION

1109. Disqualification on conviction of indictable offence.

The court¹ may make a disqualification order² against a person where he is convicted of an indictable offence³, whether on indictment or summarily, in connection with the promotion, formation, management, liquidation or striking off of a company⁴, with the receivership of a company's property⁵ or with his being an administrative receiver⁶ of a company⁷.

The maximum period of disqualification which may be imposed under these provisions is, where the disqualification order is made by a court of summary jurisdiction, five years, and in any other case, 15 years⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'the court' means: (1) any court having jurisdiction to wind up the company in relation to which the offence was committed; or (2) the court by or before which the person is convicted of the offence; or (3) in the case of a summary conviction in England and Wales, any other magistrates' court acting for the same petty sessions area: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 2(2). As from a day to be appointed, head (3) supra is amended so as to refer to any other magistrates' court acting in the same local justice area: see s 2(2) (prospectively amended by the Courts Act 2003 s 109(1), Sch 8 para 300(a)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. For the meaning of 'the court' generally see para 4 ante.

2 As to disqualification orders see para 1107 ante.

3 For these purposes, the definition of 'indictable offence' in the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) para 1102) applies: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 2(2). See also Re Samuel Chandler Ltd, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Nimley [2002] All ER (D) 283 (Jan) (an application for a disqualification order may be made under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 2 (as amended) even though the criminal court has refused to make such an order). As to the situation where a director is subject to both criminal and civil sanctions see also para 1128 note 2 post.

4 See R v Georgiou (1988) 4 BCC 322, CA; R v Goodman [1993] 2 All ER 789, [1994] 1 BCLC 349, CA (defendant convicted of insider dealing; the correct test to be applied was held to be whether the offence had some relevant factual connection with the management of the company). For the meaning of 'company' for these purposes see para 1107 note 4 ante.

5 As to references to acting as receiver see para 1107 note 5 ante.

6 As to administrative receivers generally see para 380 et seq ante.

7 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 2(1) (amended by the Deregulation and Contracting Out Act 1994 s 39, Sch 11 para 6; and the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 3).

8 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 2(3). Section 2 (as amended) does not apply in relation to anything done before 15 June 1982 by a person in his capacity as liquidator of a company or as receiver or manager of a company's property: s 19(a), Sch 2 para 1. Subject to this qualification, s 2 (as amended) applies in a case where a person is convicted on indictment of an offence which he committed (and, in the case of a continuing offence, had ceased to commit) before 15 June 1982; but in such a case a disqualification order under s 2 (as amended) cannot be made for a period in excess of five years: Sch 2 para 2(a). Section 2 (as amended) does not apply in a case where a person was convicted summarily in England and Wales if he had consented so to be tried before that date: Sch 2 para 2(b)(i). The date mentioned above (ie 15 June 1982) is the date when the statutory predecessor of these provisions, the Companies Act 1981 s 93 (now repealed), came into force: see s 93(1), (1C) (repealed); and the Companies Act 1981 (Commencement No 4) Order 1982, SI 1982/672.

1107-1145 Disqualification Orders and Undertakings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

1109 Disqualification on conviction of indictable offence

NOTE 1--Day appointed is 1 April 2005: SI 2005/910.

1110. Disqualification for persistent breaches of companies legislation.

The court¹ may make a disqualification order² against a person where it appears to it that he has been persistently in default in relation to provisions of the companies legislation³ requiring any return, account or other document to be filed with, delivered or sent to the registrar of companies, or notice of any matter to be given to the registrar of companies⁴.

On an application⁵ to the court for such an order to be made, the fact that a person has been persistently in default in relation to such provisions as are mentioned above may, without prejudice to its proof in any other manner, be conclusively proved by showing that in the five years ending with the date of the application he has been adjudged guilty⁶, whether or not on the same occasion, of three or more defaults in relation to those provisions⁷.

The maximum period of disqualification which may be imposed under these provisions is five years⁸.

1 For these purposes, 'the court' means any court having jurisdiction to wind up any of the companies in relation to which the offence or other default has been or is alleged to have been committed: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(4). For the meaning of 'the court' generally see para 4 ante.

2 As to disqualification orders see para 1107 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'the companies legislation' means the Companies Act 1985, the Companies Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1985, the Insolvency Act 1986 Pts I-VII (ss 1-251) (as amended) and ss 411, 413, 414, 416, 417 (ss 411, 414 as amended): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (7); Companies Act 1985 s 744.

4 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(1). For these purposes, no account is to be taken of any offence which was committed, or any default order which was made, before 1 June 1977 (ie the date on which the Companies Act 1976 s 28 (now repealed) came into force): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 19(b), Sch 2 para 5. As to the registrar of companies see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 131 et seq.

5 See further para 1130 et seq post.

6 A person is to be treated under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(2) as being adjudged guilty of a default in relation to any provision of that legislation if:

78 (1) he is convicted, whether on indictment or summarily, of an offence consisting of a contravention of or failure to comply with that provision, whether on his own part or on the part of any company (s 3(3)(a)); or

79 (2) a default order is made against him under:

21. (a) the Companies Act 1985 s 242(4) (sic) (as substituted) (order requiring delivery of company accounts);

22

22. (b) s 245B (as added) (order requiring preparation of revised accounts);

23

23. (c) s 713 (as amended) (enforcement of company's duty to make returns;

24

24. (d) the Insolvency Act 1986 s 41 (enforcement of receiver's or manager's duty to make returns: see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1353);

25

25. (e) s 170 (enforcement of liquidator's duty to make returns: see para 570 ante),

26

80 in respect of any such contravention of or failure to comply with that provision, whether on his own part or on the part of any company (Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(3) (b) (amended by the Companies Act 1989 s 23, Sch 10 para 35(1), (2)(a), (b))).

Although the Act refers to the Companies Act 1985 s 242(4), it is submitted that head (a) supra should refer to s 242(3) (as substituted).

7 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(2). An order made under the Companies Act 1976 s 28 (repealed) has effect as if made under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3 (as amended); and an application made before 15 June 1982 (see para 1109 note 8 ante) for such an order is to be treated as an application for an order under s 3 (as amended): Sch 2 para 6. Under the Companies Act 1948 s 188 (repealed), it was not necessary to show that a person had been culpable, in the sense of evincing a deliberate disregard of the relevant provisions, in order to prove that he had been 'persistently in default'; but culpability could be taken into account in considering whether or not to disqualify and for how long: Re Arctic Engineering Ltd (No 2) [1986] 2 All ER 346, [1986] 1 WLR 686.

1110 Disqualification for persistent breaches of companies legislation

NOTE 3--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(7) substituted: SI 2009/1941. In the Companies Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3, 'the companies legislation' means the Companies Acts and the Insolvency Act 1986 Pts I-VII: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(4A) (added by SI 2009/1941).

NOTE 6--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 3(3)(b) further amended: SI 2009/1941.

1111. Disqualification for fraud etc in a winding up.

The court¹ may make a disqualification order² against a person if, in the course of the winding up of a company³, it appears that he⁴:

- 1383 (1) has been guilty of an offence for which he is liable under the fraudulent trading provisions⁵, whether he has been convicted or not⁶; or
- 1384 (2) has otherwise been guilty, while an officer⁷ or liquidator of the company, receiver of the company's property⁸ or administrative receiver⁹ of the company, of any fraud in relation to the company or of any breach of his duty as such officer, liquidator, receiver or administrative receiver¹⁰.

The maximum period of disqualification which may be imposed under these provisions is 15 years¹¹.

1 For these purposes, 'the court' means any court having jurisdiction to wind up the company in relation to which the offence or other default has been or is alleged to have been committed: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 4(2). For the meaning of 'the court' generally see para 4 ante.

2 As to disqualification orders see para 1107 ante.

5 Ie the Companies Act 1985 s 458 (see para 913 ante) or the corresponding provisions of the former Companies Acts: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(8). For the meaning of 'the former Companies Acts' see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 14.

6 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 4(1)(a). See Re Denis Hilton Ltd [2002] 1 BCLC 302 (a person could not complain of the fact that the civil proceedings followed in the train of criminal proceedings as the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 4 (as amended) specifically envisages those events; and a suggestion that the Secretary of State was somehow represented at the criminal proceedings and in substance a party, so that he was to be treated as having refrained from seeking or as having failed to obtain a disqualification order, is wholly unrealistic and fanciful). As to the situation where a director is subject to both criminal and civil sanctions see also para 1128 note 2 post.

7 For these purposes, 'officer' includes a shadow director: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 4(2). As to the meaning of 'shadow director' see para 1107 note 13 ante. In the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 generally, 'officer' has the meaning given by the Companies Act 1985 s 744 (see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 607): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(6). See also para 1107 notes 13-16 ante.

8 Ibid s 4(1)(b) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 4). The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 4(1)(b) (as amended) does not, however, apply in relation to anything done before 15 June 1982 (see para 1109 note 8 ante) by a person in his capacity as liquidator of a company or as receiver or manager of a company's property: s 19(a), Sch 2 para 1. Subject to this qualification, s 4 (as amended) applies in relation to an offence committed or other thing done before 15 June 1982; but a disqualification order made on the grounds of such an offence or other thing done must not be made for a period in excess of five years: Sch 2 para 3.

1112. Disqualification on summary conviction.

Where a person is convicted of a summary offence¹ (being for these purposes an offence of which a person is convicted, either on indictment or summarily, in consequence of a contravention of, or failure to comply with, any provision of the companies legislation² requiring a return, account or other document to be filed with, delivered or sent, or notice of any matter to be given, to the registrar of companies³, whether the contravention or failure is on the person's own part or on the part of any company)⁴, the court by which he is convicted, or, in England or Wales, any other magistrates' court acting for the same petty sessions area⁵, may make a disqualification order⁶ against him⁷ if, during the five years ending with the date of the conviction, the person has had made against him, or has been convicted of, in total not less than three default orders⁸ and offences counting for the purposes of these provisions⁹.

The maximum period of disqualification which may be imposed under these provisions is five years¹⁰.

1 For these purposes, the definition of 'summary offence' in the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) para 1102) applies: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 5(4)(a).

DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(2) GROUNDS FOR DISQUALIFICATION/1113. Application for disqualification order after investigation of company.

1113. Application for disqualification order after investigation of company.

If it appears to the Secretary of State¹ from investigative material² that it is expedient in the public interest that a disqualification order³ should be made against any person who is or has been a director⁴ or shadow director⁵ of a company⁶, he may apply to the court⁷ for such an order⁸. The court may make a disqualification order against a person where, on an application under these provisions, it is satisfied that his conduct in relation to the company makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company⁹.

However, where it appears to the Secretary of State from such material¹⁰ that, in the case of a person who has offered to give him a disqualification undertaking¹¹, the conduct of the person in relation to a company of which the person is or has been a director or shadow director makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company¹², and it is expedient in the public interest that he should accept the undertaking, instead of applying, or proceeding with an application, for a disqualification order, he may accept the undertaking¹³.

The maximum period of disqualification which may be imposed under these provisions is 15 years¹⁴.

1114. Competition disqualification order.

The court¹ must make a disqualification order² against a person if³:

- 1385 (1) an undertaking which is a company⁴ of which he is a director⁵ commits a breach of competition law⁶; and
- 1386 (2) the court considers that his conduct⁷ as a director makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company⁸.

The maximum period of disqualification under these provisions is 15 years⁹.

An application under these provisions for a disqualification order may be made by the Office of Fair Trading¹⁰ or by a specified regulator¹¹.

1 For these purposes, the court is the High Court: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9E(1), (3) (s 9E added by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 204(1), (2)).

6 Ibid s 9A(2) (as added: see note 3 supra). An undertaking commits a breach of competition law if it engages in conduct which infringes any of the following: (1) the 'Chapter 1 prohibition' within the meaning of the Competition Act 1998 (prohibition on agreements, etc preventing, restricting or distorting competition: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 116 et seq); (2) the 'Chapter 2 prohibition' within the meaning of the Competition Act 1998 (prohibition on abuse of a dominant position: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 125 et seq); (3) the Treaty Establishing the European Community (Rome, 25 March 1957; TS 1 (1973); Cmd 5179) (the 'EC Treaty') art 81 (prohibition on agreements, etc preventing, restricting or distorting competition: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 61 et seq); or (4) the EC Treaty art 82 (prohibition on abuse of a dominant position: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 68 et seq): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9A(4) (as so added). For the purposes of head (1) or head (3) supra, references to the conduct of an undertaking are references to its conduct taken with the conduct of one or more other undertakings: s 9A(8) (as so added). The Competition Act 1998 s 60 (consistent treatment of questions arising under United Kingdom and Community law) applies in relation to any question arising by virtue of head (1) or head (2) supra as it applies in relation to any question arising under the Competition Act 1998 Pt 1 (ss 1-60) (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 150): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9A(11) (as so added).

7 Conduct includes omission: ibid s 9E(1), (4) (as added: see note 1 supra).

8 Ibid s 9A(3) (as added: see note 3 supra). For the purpose of deciding under s 9A(3) (as added) whether a person is unfit to be concerned in the management of a company, the court: (1) must have regard to whether s 9A(6) (as added) applies to him; (2) may have regard to his conduct as a director of a company in connection with any other breach of competition law; (3) must not have regard to the matters mentioned in Sch 1 (see para 1122 post): s 9A(5) (as so added). Section s 9A(6) (as added) applies to a person if as a director of the company: (a) his conduct contributed to the breach of competition law mentioned in s 9A(2) (as added) (see head (1) in the text); (b) his conduct did not contribute to the breach but he had reasonable grounds to suspect that the conduct of the undertaking constituted the breach and he took no steps to prevent it; (c) he did not know but ought to have known that the conduct of the undertaking constituted the breach: s 9A(6) (as so added). For the purposes of head (a) supra, it is immaterial whether the person knew that the conduct of the undertaking constituted the breach: s 9A(7) (as so added).

9 Ibid s 9A(9) (as added: see note 3 supra).

10 As to the Office of Fair Trading see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 6 et seq.

11 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9A(10) (as added: see note 3 supra). 1115. Competition undertakings.

If:

- 1387 (1) the Office of Fair Trading¹ or a specified regulator² thinks that in relation to any person an undertaking which is a company³ of which he is a director⁴ has committed or is committing a breach of competition law⁵;
- 1388 (2) the Office of Fair Trading or the specified regulator thinks that the conduct of the person⁶ as a director makes him unfit⁷ to be concerned in the management of a company⁸; and
- 1389 (3) the person offers to give the Office of Fair Trading or the specified regulator, as the case may be, a disqualification undertaking⁹, the Office of Fair Trading or the specified regulator, as the case may be, may accept a disqualification undertaking from the person instead of applying for or proceeding with an application for a disqualification order¹⁰.

The maximum period which may be specified in a disqualification undertaking is 15 years¹¹.

If a disqualification undertaking is accepted from a person who is already subject to a disqualification undertaking under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 or to a disqualification order the periods specified in those undertakings or the undertaking and the order, as the case may be, run concurrently¹².

1 As to the Office of Fair Trading see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 6 et seq. The Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9A(4)-(8) (as added) (see para 1114 ante) applies for the purposes of s 9B (as added) as it applies for the purposes of s 9A (as added) but in the application of s 9A(5) (as added) (factors to be taken into consideration by a court when deciding whether a person is unfit to be concerned in the management of a company: see para 1114 note 8 ante), the reference to the court must be construed as a reference to the Office of Fair Trading or a specified regulator (as the case may be): s 9B(7) (s 9B added by Enterprise Act 2002 s 204(1), (2)).

8 Ibid s 9B(1)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra).

promotion, formation or management of a company; (4) act as an insolvency practitioner: s 9B(3) (as so added). 1118 Disqualification for participation in fraudulent or wrongful trading

TEXT AND NOTES 1-6--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 10(1) amended: SI 2009/1941.

1119. Undischarged bankrupts.

A person who acts as director¹ of a company² or who directly or indirectly takes part in or is concerned in the promotion, formation or management of a company³, without the leave of the court⁴, at a time when⁵ he is an undischarged bankrupt⁶, or a bankruptcy restrictions order is in force in respect of him⁷, commits an offence⁸ and is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine, or to both, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, or to both⁹. The offence is one of strict liability¹⁰.

A person who acts in contravention of these provisions is also personally responsible for all the relevant debts of the company incurred whilst he was involved in its management¹¹.

In England and Wales, the leave of the court may not be given unless notice of intention to apply for it has been served on the official receiver¹²; and it is the latter's duty, if he is of the opinion that it is contrary to the public interest that the application should be granted, to attend on the hearing of the application and oppose it¹³.

1 As to the meaning of 'director' see para 1107 note 3 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'company' includes an unregistered company or a company incorporated outside Great Britain which has an established place of business in Great Britain: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (2)(a). 3 Under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 11, the question of whether or not a defendant is concerned in the management of a company is an issue for the jury to determine, and any belief (including any positive belief) held by the defendant with regard to the nature and quality of his or her actions is irrelevant in relation to the necessary mental element: R v Doring [2002] EWCA Crim 1695, [2003] 1 Cr App Rep 143.

1120 Failure to pay under county court administration order

NOTE 6--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 12 amended: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(2) GROUNDS FOR DISQUALIFICATION/1121. Duty of court to disqualify unfit directors of insolvent companies.

1121. Duty of court to disqualify unfit directors of insolvent companies.

The court¹ must make a disqualification order² against a person in any case where, on an application for this purpose³, the court is satisfied⁴:

- 1392 (1) that he is or has been a director⁵ of a company⁶ which has at any time become insolvent⁷, whether while he was a director or subsequently⁸; and 1393 (2) that his conduct as a director⁹ of that company, either taken alone or taken together with his conduct as a director of any other company or other companies¹⁰, makes him unfit¹¹ to be concerned in the management of a company¹².

The minimum period of disqualification which may be imposed under these provisions is two years, and the maximum period which may be imposed is 15 years¹³.

These provisions apply both to foreigners outside the jurisdiction and to conduct which occurred outside the jurisdiction¹⁴.

1 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(2) (see para 1128 note 6 post), 'the court' means: (1) where the company in question is being or has been wound up by the court (see para 438 et seq ante), that court; (2) where the company in question is being or has been wound up voluntarily (see para 939 et seq ante), any court which has or (as the case may be) had jurisdiction to wind it up; (3) where neither head (1) nor (2) supra applies but an administrator (see para 145 et seq ante) or administrative receiver (see para 380 et seq ante) has at any time been appointed in respect of the company in question, any court which has jurisdiction to wind it up: s 6(3) (substituted by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 5; and amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 40, 41(b)). The Insolvency Act 1986 s 117 (jurisdiction (England and Wales): see para 438 et seq ante) and s 120 (jurisdiction (Scotland)) apply for these purposes as if the references in the definitions of 'registered office' to the presentation of the petition for winding up were references: (a) in a case within head (2) supra, to the passing of the resolution for voluntary winding up; and (b) in a case within head (3) supra, to the appointment of the administrator or (as the case may be) administrative receiver: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3A) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 5; and amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 Sch 17 paras 40, 41(c)). However, nothing in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3) (as substituted and amended) invalidates any proceedings by reason of their being taken in the wrong court; and proceedings for or in connection with a disqualification order under s 6 (as amended), or in connection with a disqualification undertaking accepted under s 7 (see paras 1125, 1127-1128 post), may be retained in the court in which the proceedings were commenced, although it may not be the court in which they ought to have been commenced: s 6(3B) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 5). In head (2) supra, the court having jurisdiction to wind up the company is the court having jurisdiction to wind up the company at the date when the disqualification proceedings are brought: Re Lichfield Freight Terminal Ltd [1997] 2 BCLC 109. The court continues to have jurisdiction to hear disqualification proceedings even after winding up is concluded: Re Working Project Ltd, Re Fosterdown Ltd, Re Davies Flooring (Southern) Ltd [1995] 1 BCLC 226.

2 As to disqualification orders see para 1107 ante.

3 As to the making of applications see para 1113 et seq ante.

4 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(1).

5 For these purposes, and for the purposes of ibid s 7 (see paras 1125, 1127-1128 post), 'director' includes a shadow director: s 6(3C) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 5). As to the meaning of 'director', which for these purposes includes a de facto director, see also para 1107 note 3 ante. As to the meaning of 'shadow director' see para 1107 note 13 ante. to have resigned before the relevant period but his resignation was found by the court to be ineffective and the director was held to account).

6 For the meaning of 'company' for these purposes see para 1107 note 4 ante.

7 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7 (see paras 1125, 1128 post), a company becomes insolvent if: (1) the company goes into liquidation at a time when its assets are insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of the winding up; (2) the company enters administration; or (3) an administrative receiver of the company is appointed: s 6(2) (amended by the Enterprise Act 2002 Sch 17 paras 40, 41(a)).

Where an application is made for a disqualification order under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6 (as amended) by virtue of head (1) supra, and the company in question went into liquidation before 28 April 1986 (ie the date on which the provision replaced by s 6 (as amended) came into force: see the Insolvency Act 1985 s 235, Sch 9 Pt II para 2; and the Insolvency Act 1985 (Commencement No 3) Order 1986, SI 1986/463), the court may not make an order under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6 (as amended) unless it could have made a disqualification order under the Companies Act 1985 s 300 (repealed) as it had effect immediately before 28 April 1986: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 19(c), Sch 2 para 7. The Insolvency Act 1986 s 247 applies as regards references to a company's insolvency and to its going into liquidation (see para 9 note 3 ante): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (3).

A company which has entered compulsory liquidation becomes insolvent for these purposes when the winding-up order is made and not when the winding-up petition is presented: Re Walter L Jacob & Co Ltd, Official Receiver v Jacob [1993] BCC 512. Where a petition for an administration order has been presented against a company, and an interim order has been made under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 9(4) (see para 154 ante), followed later by an administration order, the relevant date is the date of the latter order and not the interim order: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Palmer [1993] BCC 650, Ct of Sess. Where the company became insolvent by reason of more than one of the triggering events, namely liquidation, administration, or administrative receivership, the time runs from the first of those events; but, where a company has returned to solvency after one of the triggering events, and then returns to insolvency and a further triggering event occurs, then the two-year period may start to run again from the second triggering event: Re Tasbian Ltd [1991] BCLC 54, [1990] BCC 318, CA.

8 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(1)(a).

9 For these purposes, references to a person's conduct as a director of any company or companies include, where that company or any of those companies has become insolvent, that person's conduct in relation to any matter connected with or arising out of the insolvency of that company: ibid s 6(2). The finding of the court on a person's conduct as a defendant in the proceedings, including as a witness, is capable of amounting to an additional ground of his unfitness: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Reynard [2002] EWCA Civ 497, [2002] 2 BCLC 625. There is no good reason for cutting down the width of the words 'matter connected with or arising out of the insolvency' so as to exclude the conduct of the director at the hearing of the disqualification proceedings: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Reynard supra at [10] per Mummery LJ.

10 See Re Bath Glass Ltd [1988] BCLC 329, 4 BCC 130. There is no limitation on the number of companies to which an application might refer: Re Surrey Leisure Ltd, Official Receiver v Keam [1999] 2 BCLC 457, CA (the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(1)(b) envisages a single 'lead' company and one or more collateral companies as sufficient to found the jurisdiction; but there may be more than one 'lead' company, and permitting a number of 'lead' companies would not give rise to any unfair procedure, nor would imposing a maximum on the number of 'lead' companies advance the cause of public protection). As to the relevance of a director's conduct with respect to his participation in the management of collateral companies other than the lead company see Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Ivens [1997] 2 BCLC 334, CA. The conduct of a director whilst director of a foreign company may be taken into account: Re Eurostem Maritime Ltd [1987] PCC 190. The word 'companies' is not limited to companies of limited liability: Re Polly Peck International plc (No 2), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Ellis [1994] 1 BCLC 574 at 579, [1993] BCC 890 at 895 per Lindsay J.

11 As to the matters to be taken into account for determining unfitness of directors see para 1122 post.

12 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(1)(b). Despite the use of the word 'makes' in the present tense in s 6(1)(b), the question which the court must ask itself is not whether the director is presently unfit to be a director, but whether the relevant conduct specified in s 6(1)(b) alone has fallen below the standards of probity and competence appropriate for persons to be directors of companies; the court does not need to be satisfied that a disqualification order is necessary in the public interest; and evidence tending to show that the director is unlikely to re-offend is relevant to mitigation and any application for leave under s 17 (see para 1139 post) only: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Gray [1995] 1 BCLC 276, CA; Re Landhurst Leasing plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Ball [1999] 1 BCLC 286 at 345 per Hart J (where it was held that if the court has found that relevant misconduct has occurred, disqualification must follow even though the court is of the opinion that the director is not, at the date of the hearing, unfit). The burden of proof is upon the Secretary of State to establish that the requirements of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(1)

(a), (b) are satisfied: Re Living Images Ltd [1996] 1 BCLC 348; Re Verby Print for Advertising Ltd, Fine v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry [1998] 2 BCLC 23. See further para 1137 post. The more serious the allegation made against a director, the more the court will need the assistance of cogent evidence (Re Living Images Ltd supra) and the more important it is for the case against him to be set out clearly and with adequate particularity (Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Swan [2003] EWHC 1780 (Ch), [2003] All ER (D) 372 (Jul)). Respondent directors are entitled to have the case against them strictly limited to the complaint as clarified by the Secretary of State: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Swan [2003] EWHC 1780 (Ch), [2003] All ER (D) 372 (Jul). See also Re Deaduck Ltd, Baker v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry [2000] 1 BCLC 148, [1999] All ER (D) 562 (disqualification order reconsidered despite a finding of breach of duty because the latter conduct was not the subject of the charge). As to the admissibility of evidence in disqualification proceedings see para 1145 post. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

UPDATE

1107-1145 Disqualification Orders and Undertakings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

1121 Duty of court to disqualify unfit directors of insolvent companies

TEXT AND NOTES 1-12--Disqualification orders under the 1986 Act s 6 are insolvency proceedings, and as such are subject the practice and procedural provisions of the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, and not of the CPR: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Paulin [2005] EWHC 888 (Ch), [2005] 2 BCLC 667.

NOTE 1--A court has jurisdiction to entertain disqualification proceedings under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3)(c), where a company has been dissolved by operation of the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch 1B para 84(6): Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Arnold [2007] EWHC 1933 (Ch), [2008] 1 BCLC 581.

NOTE 7--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 Sch 2 para 7 amended: SI 2009/1941.

1122. Matters for determining unfitness of directors.

Where it falls to a court¹ to determine whether a person's conduct as a director² of any particular company³ or companies makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company⁴, the court must, as respects his conduct as a director of that company or, as the case may be, each of those companies, have regard in particular to the matters specified⁵ below⁶.

In determining whether he may accept a disqualification undertaking⁷ from any person, the Secretary of State must, as respects the person's conduct as a director of any company concerned, have regard to the same matters⁸.

In all cases, the court must have regard to:

- 1394 (1) any misfeasance or breach of fiduciary or other duty⁹ by the director in relation to the company¹⁰;
- 1395 (2) any misapplication or retention by the director of, or any conduct by the director giving rise to an obligation¹¹ to account for, any money or other property of the company¹²;
- 1396 (3) the extent of the director's responsibility for the company entering into any transaction liable to be set aside under the provisions¹³ against debt avoidance¹⁴;
- 1397 (4) the extent of the director's responsibility for any failure by the company to comply with any of the provisions relating to:
 - 9
 - 9. (a) the company's duty¹⁵ to keep accounting records¹⁶;
 - 10. (b) where and for how long records are to be kept¹⁷;
 - 11. (c) the register of directors and secretaries¹⁸;
 - 12. (d) the obligation¹⁹ to keep and enter up the register of members²⁰;
 - 13. (e) the location of the register of members²¹;
 - 14. (f) the company's duty²² to make annual returns²³;
 - 15. (g) the company's duty²⁴ to register charges it creates²⁵;
 - 10
- 1398 (5) the extent of the director's responsibility for any failure by the directors of the company to comply with the provisions relating to the duty to prepare annual accounts²⁶ or the approval and signature²⁷ of the accounts²⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'court' see para 1107 note 1 ante.

2 For these purposes 'director' includes a shadow director: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9(2) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 7(b)). As to the meaning of 'director', which for these purposes includes a de facto director, see also para 1107 note 3 ante. As to the meaning of 'shadow director' see para 1107 note 13 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'company' for these purposes see para 1107 note 4 ante.

4 In every case, the function of the court in addressing the question of unfitness is to decide whether the conduct of which complaint is made by the Secretary of State, viewed cumulatively and taking into account any extenuating circumstances, has fallen below the standards of probity and competence appropriate for persons fit to be directors of companies (as to which see para 1123 post); unfitness might be shown by conduct which is dishonest (including conduct showing a want of probity or integrity) or by conduct which is merely incompetent: Re Barings plc (No 5), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433 at 483 per Jonathan Parker J; affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523 at 535, CA, per Morritt LJ. Where the Secretary of State's case is based solely on allegations of incompetence (no dishonesty of any kind being alleged), the burden is on the Secretary of State to satisfy the court that the conduct complained of demonstrates incompetence of a high degree: Re Barings plc (No 5), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433 at 483 per Jonathan Parker J; affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523 at 535, CA, per Morritt LJ. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

The list of matters set out in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 Sch 1 (as amended) (see heads (1)-(5) in the text) is not exhaustive and the matters to which the court might have regard are not limited to the matters listed there: Re Barings plc (No 5), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433 at 483 per Jonathan Parker J (affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523 at 535, CA, per Morritt LJ); Re Migration Services International Ltd, Official Receiver v Webster [2000] 1 BCLC 666 at 677-678 per Neuberger J. In considering the question of unfitness, the respondent's conduct has to be evaluated in context, so that the only extenuating circumstances which might be taken into account in addressing the question of unfitness are those which accompanied the conduct in question: Re Barings plc (No 5), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433 at 483 per Jonathan Parker J (affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523 at 535, CA, per Morritt LJ). See also Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Goldberg [2003] EWHC 2843 (Ch), [2004] 1 BCLC 597. The court may take into account the respondent's reliance on his fellow directors and on professional advisers and consider whether such reliance amounts to proper delegation of responsibility: Re McNulty's Interchange Ltd [1989] BCLC 709; Re Park House Properties Ltd [1997] 2 BCLC 530; Re Verby Print for Advertising Ltd, Fine v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry [1998] 2 BCLC 23; Re Barings plc (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433; affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523, CA. See also Re Stephenson Cobbold Ltd [2000] 2 BCLC 614 (non-executive director who relied on financial information and assurances from the company's auditors and bookkeepers was not unfit); Re Bradcrown Ltd, Official Receiver v Ireland [2001] 1 BCLC 547 (reliance on advice had to be reasonable); Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Lewis [2003] BCC 611 (directors reasonably acted on accountancy advice); Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Walker [2003] EWHC 175 (Ch), [2003] 1 BCLC 363 (failure to take advice after directors became aware that company was not insolvent did not render them unfit).

5 le the matters mentioned in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9(1)(a), Sch 1 Pt I (paras 1-5A) (as amended) (see heads (1)-(5) in the text). References in Sch 1 (as amended) to the director and the company are to be read accordingly: s 9(1). The Secretary of State may by order modify any of the provisions of Sch 1; and such an order may contain such transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State necessary or expedient: s 9(4). The power to make such orders is exercisable by statutory instrument which is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 9(5). Subject to such powers of modification, the references in Sch 1 (as amended) to an enactment contained in the Companies Act 1985 or the Insolvency Act 1986 includes, in relation to any time before the coming into force of the enactment, the corresponding enactment in force at that time: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9(3).

In the application of Sch 1 Pt I (as amended) in relation to any person who is a director of an open-ended investment company, any reference to a provision of the Companies Act 1985 is to be taken to be a reference to the corresponding provision of the Open-Ended Investment Companies Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1228, or of any rules made under reg 6 (Financial Services Authority rules: see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 49 (2008) PARA 621 et seq): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 Sch 1 Pt I para 5A (added by the Open-Ended Investment Companies Regulations (Investment Companies with Variable Capital), SI 1996/2827, reg 75, Sch 8 para 10; and substituted by the Open-Ended Investment Companies Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1228, reg 84, Sch 7 Pt I para 9).

6 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9(1)(a) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 15(1), Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 7(a), Sch 5).

7 As to disqualification undertakings see para 1108 ante.

8 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9(1A)(a) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 6(1), (6)). References in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 Sch 1 (as amended) to the director and the company are to be read accordingly: s 9(1A)(a) (as so added). See note 5 supra.

9 Whether a director has been in breach of his duties to the company is commonly expressed in terms of a failure to meet the standards of competence and probity required: see Re Grayan Building Services Ltd (in liquidation) [1995] Ch 241, sub nom Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Gray [1995] 1 BCLC 276, CA; Re Landhurst Leasing plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Ball [1999] 1 BCLC 286; Re Barings plc (No 5), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433 (affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523, CA); Re Bradcrown Ltd, Official Receiver v Ireland [2001] 1 BCLC 547; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Goldberg [2003] EWHC 2843 (Ch), [2004] 1 BCLC 597. However, a finding of breach of duty is neither necessary nor sufficient in itself to find a director unfit: Re Barings plc (No 5), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker (No 5) [1999] 1 BCLC 433 at 486 per Jonathan Parker J; affd [2000] 1 BCLC 523 at 535, CA, per Morritt LJ. Where it falls to a court¹ to determine whether a person's conduct as a director² of any particular company³ or companies makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company⁴, the court must, as respects his conduct as a director of that company or, as the case may be, each of those companies⁵, have regard in particular, where the company has become insolvent⁶, to the matters specified⁷ below⁸.

In determining whether he may accept a disqualification undertaking⁹ from any person, the Secretary of State¹⁰ must, as respects the person's conduct as a director of any company concerned, have regard in particular, where the company has become insolvent, to the same matters¹¹.

The specified matters are:

- 1399 (1) the extent of the director's responsibility for the causes of the company becoming insolvent¹²;
 - 1400 (2) the extent of the director's responsibility for any failure by the company to supply any goods or services which have been paid for, in whole or in part¹³;

The transaction or preference mentioned in the text is liable to be set aside under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 127 (see para 700 ante) or ss 238-240 (see paras 843 et seq ante). A preference is given if: (1) in undertaking the transaction the company had a desire or wish to improve the creditor's position in the event of an insolvent liquidation; and (2) the company was influenced by that desire in deciding to make the alleged preference: Re Living Images Ltd [1996] 1 BCLC 348. 1107-1145 Disqualification Orders and Undertakings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

NOTE 12--It is not an answer to a charge of unfitness for a director to contend that the matter was left to others, unless and except to the extent that it was reasonable to do so: Secretary of State v Thornbury [2007] EWHC 3202 (Ch), [2008] 1 BCLC 139.

1124. Examples of misconduct.

The court may consider matters of general conduct in addition to the more limited questions of whether specific statutory provisions have been breached, although a typical application for disqualification will include more than one complaint of misconduct¹.

The types of misconduct, and cases where such misconduct has been discussed, are numerous but include the following:

- 1404 (1) failure to keep adequate accounting records or file returns²;
- 1405 (2) trading with 'phoenix' companies³;
- 1406 (3) continuing to draw remuneration whilst insolvent and drawing excessive remuneration⁴;
- 1407 (4) inadequate capitalisation of a company⁵;
- 1408 (5) preferences⁶ and other breaches of duty⁷;
- 1409 (6) trading with no reasonable prospect of paying creditors⁸;
- 1410 (7) trading at the expense of the Crown⁹;
- 1411 (8) failure to co-operate with the official receiver¹⁰.

UPDATE

1107-1145 Disqualification Orders and Undertakings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(2) GROUNDS FOR DISQUALIFICATION/1125. Reports to the Secretary of State.

1125. Reports to the Secretary of State.

If it appears to the official receiver¹, the liquidator², the administrator³, or the administrative receiver⁴, that the conditions which impose a duty on the court to make a disqualification order⁵ are satisfied as respects a person who is or has been a director⁶ of the company in question, the official receiver, the liquidator, the administrator or, as the case may be, the administrative receiver, must forthwith report the matter to the Secretary of State⁷.

1 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(3)(a). As to the official receiver see para 503 et seq ante. As to a company which is being wound up by the court in England and Wales (see para 438 et seq ante).

2 Ibid s 7(3)(b). As to liquidators see para 555 et seq ante.

3 Ibid s 7(3)(c) (substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 248(3), Sch 17 paras 40, 42). As to administrators see para 145 et seq ante.

4 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(3)(d). This provision applies in the case of a company of which there is an administrative receiver (see para 380 et seq ante). For these purposes, 'administrative receiver' has the meaning given by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 251 (see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1337): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(3). As to administrative receivers generally see para 380 et seq ante.

5 Ie the conditions mentioned in ibid s 6(1) (see para 1121 ante).

6 As to the meaning of 'director', which for these purposes includes a de facto director, see para 1107 note 3 ante.

7 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(3). As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante. The question whether statutory reports provided to the Secretary of State under s 7(3) are privileged depends on whether there is a public interest requiring protection from disclosure sufficient to override the concerns of the administration of justice reflected in the disclosure rights given to litigants: Re Barings plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker [1998] Ch 356, [1998] 1 All ER 673 (in the absence of a claim for public interest immunity, there was no public interest that required privilege to be accorded to the report and its disclosure to a respondent may be ordered).

Any report made to the Secretary of State under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(3) by the liquidator of a company which the courts in England and Wales have jurisdiction to wind up and which passes a resolution for voluntary winding up on or after 30 September 1996, or by an administrative receiver of a company appointed otherwise than under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 51 (power to appoint receiver under the law of Scotland) on or after 30 September 1996, or by the administrator of a company which the courts in England and Wales have jurisdiction to wind up which enters administration on or after 30 September 1996, must be made in the form prescribed in the Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 3(2), Schedule, Form D1 (substituted by SI 2001/764), or in a form which is substantially similar, and in the manner and to the extent required by the applicable form: Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, rr 1(3), 3(1), (2) (r 3(1) amended by SI 2003/2096). The form referred to in the Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 4(3) (see para 1126 post) may be used with such variations, if any, as the circumstances may require: r 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(2) GROUNDS FOR DISQUALIFICATION/1126. Returns by office-holders.

1126. Returns by office-holders.

Where it appears to the liquidator of a company¹, to the administrative receiver², or to the administrator³ (each of whom for these purposes is referred to as 'the office-holder'), that the company has at any time become insolvent⁴, there may be furnished to the Secretary of State by the office-holder at, any time during the period of six months from the relevant date⁵, a return with respect to every person who was, on the relevant date, a director⁶ or shadow director⁷ of the company, or had been a director or shadow director of the company at any time in the three years immediately preceding that date⁸.

It is, however, the duty of an office-holder to furnish a return complying with these provisions to the Secretary of State⁹:

- 1412 (1) where he is in office in relation to the company on the day one week before the expiry of the period of six months from the relevant date, not later than the expiry of such period¹⁰;
- 1413 (2) where he vacates office (otherwise than by death) before the day one week before the expiry of the period of six months from the relevant date, within 14 days after his vacation of office except where he has furnished such a return on or prior to the day one week before the expiry of such period¹¹.

If an office-holder without reasonable excuse fails to comply with this duty, he is guilty of an offence¹² and on summary conviction is liable to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale¹³ and, on conviction after continued contravention, is liable to a daily default fine¹⁴.

1 Ie the liquidator of a company which the courts in England and Wales have jurisdiction to wind up which passes a resolution for voluntary winding up on or after 30 September 1996: Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, rr 1(3), 3(1)(a). As to liquidators see para 555 ante.

2 Ie an administrative receiver of a company appointed, otherwise than under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 51 (power to appoint receiver under the law of Scotland), on or after 30 September 1996: Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, rr 1(3), 3(1)(b). For the meaning of 'administrative receiver' see para 1125 note 4 ante.

3 Ie the administrator of a company which the courts in England and Wales have jurisdiction to wind up which enters administration on or after 30 September 1996: ibid rr 1(3), 3(1)(c). As to administration see para 145 et seq ante.

4 Ibid r 4(1). For the meaning of 'become insolvent' see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(2); and para 1121 note 7 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'the relevant date' means:

- 81 (1) in the case of a company in creditors' voluntary winding up, there having been no declaration of solvency by the directors under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 89 (see para 941 ante), the date of the passing of the resolution for voluntary winding up;
- 82 (2) in the case of a company in members' voluntary winding up, the date on which the liquidator forms the opinion that, at the time when the company went into liquidation, its assets were insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of winding up;

83 (3) in the case of the administrative receiver, the date of his appointment; and

84 (4) in the case of the administrator, the date that the company enters administration, and for the purpose of head (3) supra, the only appointment of an administrative receiver to be taken into account in determining the relevant date is that appointment which is not that of a successor in office to an administrative receiver who has vacated office either by death or pursuant to s 45 (see para 429 ante): Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 4(4) (amended by SI 2003/2096).

6 As to the meaning of 'director' see para 1107 note 3 ante.

7 As to the meaning of 'shadow director' see para 1107 note 13 ante.

8 Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 4(2). The return must be made in the form prescribed in r 4(3), Schedule, Form D2 (substituted by SI 2001/764), or in a form which is substantially similar, and in the manner and to the extent required by the form: Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 4(3). The form referred to in r 4(3) may be used with such variations, if any, as the circumstances may require: r 5.

9 Ibid r 4(5). A return need not be provided under these provisions by an office-holder if he has, whilst holding that office in relation to the company, since the relevant date, made a report under r 3 (see para 1125 ante) with respect to all persons falling within r 4(2) (see the text and notes 1-8 supra): r 4(6).

10 Ibid r 4(5)(a).

11 Ibid r 4(5)(b).

12 Ibid r 4(7). The Insolvency Act 1986 s 431 (summary proceedings), as it applies to England and Wales, has effect in relation to an offence under the Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 4(7) as to offences under the Insolvency Act 1986 Pts I-VII (ss 1-251) (as amended): Insolvent Companies (Reports on Conduct of Directors) Rules 1996, SI 1996/1909, r 4(8).

13 Ibid r 4(7)(a). As to the standard scale see para 31 note 4 ante.

14 Ie he is liable on a second or subsequent summary conviction of the offence to a fine of one-tenth of level 3 on the standard scale for each day on which the contravention is continued: ibid r 4(7)(b). As to daily default fines see para 10 note 1 ante.

In such a case, the court, on the application of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the official receiver, may make an order directing compliance within such period as may be specified⁹; and the court's order may provide that all costs of and incidental to the application are to be borne by the person to whom the order is directed¹⁰.

1107-1145 Disqualification Orders and Undertakings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(3) APPLICATION FOR DISQUALIFICATION/1128. Application by the Secretary of State: unfit directors of insolvent companies.

(3) APPLICATION FOR DISQUALIFICATION

1128. Application by the Secretary of State: unfit directors of insolvent companies.

If it appears to the Secretary of State¹ that it is expedient in the public interest² that a disqualification order³ should be made against any person, an application for the making of such an order against that person may be made by the Secretary of State or, if the Secretary of State so directs in the case of a person who is or has been a director⁴ of a company which is being or has been wound up by the court in England and Wales, by the official receiver⁵.

Except with the leave of the court⁶, such an application for the making of a disqualification order against any person may not be made after the end of the period of two years beginning with the day on which the company of which that person is or has been a director became insolvent⁷.

If the proceedings are prosecuted in a dilatory manner, the proceedings may be struck out for want of prosecution⁸.

Instead of applying, or proceeding with an application, for a disqualification order, the Secretary of State may, if it appears to him that the conditions regarding the court's duty to disqualify unfit directors of insolvent companies⁹ are satisfied as respects any person who has offered to give him a disqualification undertaking¹⁰, accept the undertaking if it appears to him that it is expedient in the public interest that he should do so¹¹.

1 As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

2 The question of expediency in the public interest is a matter for the Secretary of State rather than for the court: Re Blackspur Group plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Davies [1998] 1 WLR 422 at 426, [1998] 1 BCLC 676 at 680, CA, per Lord Woolf MR; Re Barings plc (No 2), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker [1999] 1 All ER 311 at 324 per Jonathan Parker J (affd [1999] 1 All ER 311 at 342, [1999] 1 WLR 1985 at 1989, CA, per Swinton Thomas LJ); Re Blackspur Group plc (No 3), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Davies (No 2) [2001] EWCA Civ 1595 at [10], [2002] 2 BCLC 263 at [10] per Chadwick LJ (the legislation must be taken to reflect Parliament's view that the Secretary of State is in a much better position than the court to gauge what the public interest requires in relation to the regulation of directors' conduct). However, the court may stay disqualification proceedings for abuse of process where to allow the proceedings to continue will bring the administration of justice into disrepute among right-thinking people: Re Barings plc (No 2), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Baker supra (no stay merely because a director had successfully resisted disciplinary proceedings from the regulatory authority, as the question to be answered in the different proceedings is materially different); Re Launchexcept Ltd, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Tillman [2000] 1 BCLC 36, CA (the fact that the defendant's conduct as a director of one company and its named subsidiaries had been held not to be blameworthy did not prevent subsequent proceedings in respect of other companies where the issues before the court differed in the respective proceedings).

Where a director is subject to both criminal and civil sanctions, a balance must be struck between allowing a fair criminal trial and protecting the public against unfit directors: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Crane [2001] 2 BCLC 222 (refusal to stay proceedings pending outcome of possible criminal proceedings not breach of right to fair trial). See also Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Rayna [2001] 2 BCLC 48 (application to restore proceedings following defendant's conviction not an abuse of process if founded on different basis to criminal proceedings); Re Denis Hilton Ltd [2002] 1 BCLC 302 (civil proceedings following criminal proceedings in which disqualification was not dealt with is not an abuse of process). The court has the power to intervene to prevent injustice where the continuation of one set of proceedings might prejudice the fairness of the trial of other proceedings: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Crane supra. See also para 1145 post.

3 le under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6 (see para 1121 ante).

4 For the meaning of 'director' for these purposes see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3); and para 1121 note 5 ante.

5 Ibid s 7(1) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 6(a)). For the meaning of 'the official receiver' see para 1119 note 12 ante. Where the company is not yet being wound up by the court, the Secretary of State may still direct the official receiver to bring proceedings pursuant to the powers in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 400 (see para 504 ante); but in such circumstances the proceedings must still be brought in the name of the Secretary of State, not the official receiver: Re Probe Data Systems Ltd (1989) 5 BCC 384; Re NP Engineering and Security Products Ltd [1995] 2 BCLC 585 (revsd on another point [1998] 1 BCLC 208, CA). Where the applicant relies on the appointment of a receiver, the disqualification proceedings may be stayed to allow the company to challenge the validity of the appointment; but, unless the appointment is set aside in validly constituted proceedings, the applicant may rely on it: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Jabble [1998] 1 BCLC 598, CA.

6 For the meaning of 'the court' for these purposes see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3); and para 1121 note 1 ante.

7 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(2). For the meaning of a company 'becoming insolvent' for these purposes see s 6(2); and para 1121 note 7 ante. Where an application is made under s 7(2) to bring proceedings out of time, the test is whether the Secretary of State or the official receiver has shown a good reason for the extension of time: Re Crestjoy Products Ltd [1990] BCC 23; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v McTighe, Re Copecrest Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 284, CA. The length of the delay, the reasons for the delay, the strength of the case against the director and the degree of prejudice caused by the delay are relevant factors to be taken into account by the court in determining whether to grant leave: Re Probe Data Systems Ltd (No 3), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Desai [1992] BCLC 405 at 416, [1992] BCC 110 at 118, per Scott LJ; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v McTighe, Re Copecrest Ltd supra; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Davies [1996] 4 All ER 289, CA (the inadequacy of the reasons for the delay by the Secretary of State is merely one of the considerations that has to be taken into account); Re Stormont Ltd, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Cleland [1997] 1 BCLC 437 (for leave to be granted, the Secretary of State must show as a minimum that there is a fairly arguable case for saying that the respondent's conduct was such as to justify disqualification, and it is legitimate to examine the conduct of the Department of Trade and Industry prior to the hearing of the application to see whether the Department had acted with diligence). The list of factors is not exclusive of all other matters but in most cases it is likely to be so: Re Polly Peck International plc (No 2), Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Ellis [1993] BCC 890 at 894, per Lindsay J. Where it is sought to bring proceedings against a director of a company not originally joined as respondent, the correct procedure is to issue proceedings separate from the existing proceedings seeking leave to issue proceedings out of time: Re Westmid Packaging Services Ltd [1995] BCC 203.

8 Re Noble Trees Ltd [1993] BCLC 1185; Official Receiver v B Ltd [1994] 2 BCLC 1; Re Manlon Trading Ltd [1996] Ch 136, [1995] 1 BCLC 578, CA. Where there has been a lengthy delay between the start of disqualification proceedings and their conclusion, the court must assess the events to make sure that there had been no contravention of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953); Cmd 8969) art 6 (right to a fair trial: see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) para 134): Re Blackspur Group plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Eastaway [2001] 1 BCLC 653 (delay attributable to respondent's attempt to avoid hearing). See also EDC v United Kingdom [1998] BCC 370, EComHR (failure to proceed within reasonable time). Before a claim is struck out on the grounds of delay, some prejudice arising from the delay must be shown: R v Abermeadow Ltd [2000] 2 BCLC 824 (delay had no effect on ability of witnesses to give evidence).

10 As to disqualification undertakings see para 1108 ante.

11 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(2A) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 6(1), (3)). See also note 2 supra. The Secretary of State's discretion under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7(2A) (as added) is unfettered and he is entitled to decide that it would be inexpedient in the public interest to accept an undertaking without a schedule of unfit conduct: Re Blackspur Group plc, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Davies [2001] EWCA Civ 1595, [2002] 2 BCLC 263.

1129 Application on grounds of unfitness or following investigation into company's affairs

TEXT AND NOTES--Replaced. The Insolvent Companies (Disqualification of Unfit Directors) Proceedings Rules 1987, SI 1987/2023 r 1(3) applies to an application made under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 on or after 6 August 2007 (1) for leave to commence proceedings for a disqualification order after the end of the specified period under s 7(2); (2) to enforce any duty arising under s 7(4); (3) for a disqualification order where made (a) by the Secretary of State or the official receiver under s 7(1) (with regards to disqualification of unfit directors of insolvent companies); (b) by the Secretary of State under s 8 (with regards to disqualification after investigation of company); or (c) by the Office of Fair Trading or a specified regulator under s 9A (with regards to a competition disqualification order); (4) under s 8A (variation of disqualification undertaking); or (5) for leave to act under certain provisions of the 1986 Act: SI 1987/2023 r 1(3) (substituted by SI 2007/1906). Subject to SI 1987/2023 r 2(5), an application must be made either by claim form or by an application notice: SI 1987/2023 r 2(2) (substituted by SI 2007/1906). 1130. Application for disqualification order.

A person intending to apply for the making of a disqualification order¹ by the court having jurisdiction to wind up a company² must give not less than ten days' notice of his intention to the person against whom the order is sought³; and on the hearing of the application the person against whom the order is sought may appear and himself give evidence or call witnesses⁴. On the hearing of any application⁵ made by the Secretary of State⁶, the official receiver⁷, the Office of Fair Trading⁸, the liquidator⁹ or a specified regulator¹⁰, the applicant must appear and call the attention of the court to any matters which seem to him to be relevant, and may himself give evidence or call witnesses¹¹.

1 See para 1107 ante.

2 See para 1107 note 1 ante.

3 Failure to give proper notice is a procedural irregularity only which does not on its own invalidate the application: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Langridge [1991] Ch 402, [1991] 3 All ER 591, CA. However, taken with other factors, shortness of notice may be borne in mind by the court in determining whether the procedure adopted by the Secretary of State as a whole has been unfair to the director and an abuse of process: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Swan [2003] EWHC 1780 (Ch), [2003] All ER (D) 372 (Jul) (director suffered harm because lack of notice prevented him from responding to irrelevant evidence relied upon by the Secretary of State but an appropriate remedy would focus on the evidence rather than on the proceedings themselves). Where the court can of its own motion make a disqualification order, there is no statutory requirement of notice, though the rules of natural justice require that a person should be given some notice that the court is contemplating making a disqualification order: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Langridge supra at 414 and 598 per Balcombe LJ.

1132. The case against the respondent.

There must, at the time when the claim form¹ is issued, be filed in court² evidence in support of the application for a disqualification order³; and copies of the evidence must be served with the claim form on the defendant⁴.

The evidence must be by one or more affidavits, except where the claimant is the official receiver⁵, in which case it may be in the form of a written report, with or without affidavits by other persons, which is treated as if it had been verified by affidavit by him and is prima facie evidence of any matter contained in it⁶.

There must in the affidavit or affidavits or, as the case may be, the official receiver's report, be included a statement of the matters by reference to which the defendant is alleged to be unfit⁷ to be concerned in the management of a company⁸.

1133. Indorsement on claim form.

On the issue of the claim form¹, the following information to the defendant² must be indorsed on it³:

- 1414 (1) that the application is made in accordance with the Insolvent Companies (Disqualification of Unfit Directors) Proceedings Rules 1987⁴;
- 1415 (2) the periods of disqualification which, in accordance with the relevant enactments, the court has power to impose⁵;
- 1416 (3) that the application for a disqualification order may⁶ be heard and determined summarily, without further or other notice to the defendant, and that, if it is so heard and determined, the court may impose disqualification for a period of up to five years⁷;
- 1417 (4) that if at the hearing of the application the court, on the evidence then before it, is minded to impose, in the defendant's case, disqualification for any period longer than five years, it will not make a disqualification order on that occasion but will adjourn the application to be heard, with further evidence, if any, at a later date to be notified⁸; and
- 1418 (5) that any evidence which the defendant wishes to be taken into consideration by the court must be filed in court⁹ in accordance with the time limits¹⁰ for the filing in court of evidence¹¹.

Where any process or order of the court or other document is required⁴ to be served on any person who is not in England and Wales, the court may order service on him of that process or order or other document to be effected within such time and in such manner as it thinks fit, and may also require such proof of service as it thinks fit⁵.

The claim form served on the defendant must be accompanied by a form⁶ of acknowledgment of service⁷.

The defendant¹ must, within 28 days from the date of service of the claim form², file in court³ any affidavit evidence in opposition to the application he wishes the court to take into consideration, and must forthwith serve upon the claimant a copy of such evidence⁴. The claimant must, within 14 days from receiving the copy of the defendant's evidence, file in court any further evidence in reply he wishes the court to take into consideration and must forthwith serve a copy of that evidence upon the defendant⁵. UPDATE

1107-1145 Disqualification Orders and Undertakings

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(3) APPLICATION FOR DISQUALIFICATION/1136. Hearing of application; making and setting aside of disqualification orders.

1136. Hearing of application; making and setting aside of disqualification orders.

Where a claim form is issued¹, the date fixed by the court for the first hearing of the claim must be not less than eight weeks from the date of issue of the claim form². The hearing must in the first instance be before the registrar³ in open court⁴; and the registrar must either determine the case on the date fixed or adjourn it⁵. The registrar must adjourn the case for further consideration⁶ if:

- 1422 (1) he forms the provisional opinion that a disqualification order ought to be made, and that a period of disqualification longer than five years is appropriate⁷; or
- 1423 (2) he is of the opinion that questions of law or fact arise which are not suitable for summary determination⁸.

If the registrar adjourns the case for further consideration, he must⁹:

- 1424 (a) direct whether the case is to be heard by a registrar, or, if he thinks it appropriate, by a judge, for determination by him¹⁰;
 - 1425 (b) state the reasons for the adjournment¹¹; and
 - 1426 (c) give directions as to the following matters¹²:
- 15
- 24. (i) the manner in which and the time within which notice of the adjournment and the reasons for it are to be given to the defendant¹³;
 - 25. (ii) the filing in court and the service of further evidence, if any, by the parties¹⁴;
 - 26. (iii) such other matters as the registrar thinks necessary or expedient with a view to an expeditious disposal of the application¹⁵; and
 - 27. (iv) the time and place of the adjourned hearing¹⁶.
- 16

Where a case is adjourned other than to a judge, it may be heard by the registrar who originally dealt with the case or by another registrar¹⁷.

In all disqualification applications, the court may direct a pre-trial review, a case management conference or pre-trial checklists¹⁸ and will fix a trial date or trial period¹⁹.

The court may make a disqualification order against the defendant, whether or not the latter appears, and whether or not he has completed and returned the acknowledgment of service of the claim form²⁰, or filed²¹ evidence²²; any disqualification order made in the absence of the defendant may be set aside or varied by the court on such terms as it thinks just²³.

Official receivers and deputy official receivers have right of audience in any proceedings to which the Insolvent Companies (Disqualification of Unfit Directors) Proceedings Rules 1987 apply, whether the application is made by the Secretary of State²⁴ or by the official receiver²⁵ at his direction, and whether made in the High Court or a county court²⁶.

No specific provision is made for appeals from disqualification orders, but it has been held that the provisions relating to appeals in winding-up proceedings apply to proceedings under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986²⁷.

The costs of disqualification proceedings are in the discretion of the court, but the usual rules on costs will apply, so that the claimant will normally be liable to pay the costs of an unsuccessful application or if proceedings are discontinued, and the defendant will pay the costs on the standard basis if the application is successful²⁸.

Although on an application for a disqualification order it is not permissible for the parties merely to seek a consent order, the court has jurisdiction to deal with an application for a disqualification order by a summary procedure where the court is satisfied that the undisputed evidence is sufficient to establish unfitness, and that the potential impact of disputed evidence would not substantially affect the seriousness of that unfitness²⁹.

2 Insolvent Companies (Disqualification of Unfit Directors) Proceedings Rules 1987, SI 1987/2023, r 7(1) (substituted by SI 1999/1023).

3 For these purposes, 'registrar' has the same meaning as in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, r 13.2(4), (5) (see para 1055 ante): Insolvent Companies (Disqualification of Unfit Directors) Proceedings Rules 1987, SI 1987/2023, r 1(2)(e) (substituted by SI 1999/1023).

Prior to the first hearing of the disqualification application, the time for serving evidence may be extended by written agreement between the parties: Practice Direction--Directors Disqualification Proceedings para 9.7. An application which is likely to be long and complex and to engage the public interest in its outcome should be heard by a judge unless, in the interests of justice, it is preferable that it is heard sooner before a registrar: Lewis v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry [2001] 2 BCLC 597. The registrar's direction as to whether the matter should be heard by a judge or a registrar may at any time be varied by the court either on application or of its own initiative; if the direction is varied in the absence of any of the parties, notice will be given to the parties: Practice Direction--Directors Disqualification Proceedings para 10.6(1).

17 Ibid r 7(6). Where a hearing is partly heard and then adjourned for a year, a registrar would be expected to have sufficient recollection of the witnesses and evidence heard before the adjournment to be able fairly to balance that evidence against the evidence presented on the resumption of the hearing, such that the fairness of the trial would not be affected: Re Rocksteady Services Ltd, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Staton [2001] 1 BCLC 84.

1137. Proceedings are civil not criminal.

Director disqualification proceedings are civil regulatory proceedings and not criminal proceedings¹. The burden of proof is upon the Secretary of State to establish that the requirements of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 are satisfied; and the appropriate standard of proof upon the Secretary of State² to establish those requirements is the balance of probabilities, notwithstanding the serious consequences of a disqualification order³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/11. DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(4) EFFECT OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDER OR DISQUALIFICATION UNDERTAKING/1138. Period of disqualification.

(4) EFFECT OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDER OR DISQUALIFICATION UNDERTAKING

1138. Period of disqualification.

The fixing of the period of disqualification¹ is little different from any other sentencing exercise². The period of disqualification has been categorised in the follow manner:

- 1427 (1) the top bracket of disqualification for periods of 10 to 15 years, is reserved for particularly serious cases, such as where a director had previously been disqualified³;
- 1428 (2) the middle bracket of 6 to 10 years, is reserved for serious cases which do not merit the top bracket⁴; and
- 1429 (3) the bottom bracket of 2 to 5 years is applied where, although disqualification is mandatory, the conduct complained of is relatively not very serious⁵.

In determining the appropriate period of disqualification, the court should start with an assessment of the correct period to fit the gravity of the offence, bearing in mind that the period of disqualification has to contain deterrent elements, and then allow for mitigating factors, such factors not being restricted to the facts of the offence⁶.

¹ Ie under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6 (as amended) (see para 1121 ante). As to the period of disqualification to be imposed see also para 1107 note 2 ante.

In determining the appropriate period of disqualification, the court should start with a period fitting the gravity of the offence, and then consider any mitigating factors; and the likelihood of granting an application under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 17 (see para 1139 post) is irrelevant: Re Westmid Packing Services Ltd, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Griffiths supra.

The likelihood of granting an application under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 17 (see para 1139 post) is irrelevant to the determination of the period of disqualification and the fact that the court is minded to grant such leave is no reason for deciding to impose the minimum period of disqualification: Re Westmid Packing Services Ltd, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Griffiths supra. An appellate court may adjust a period of disqualification which has been imposed where it is satisfied that the period is too great to a significant extent or where appropriate factors were not or could not have been taken into account: Re Deaduck Ltd (in liquidation), Baker v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry [2000] 1 BCLC 148, [1999] All ER (D) 562. Application for leave under a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking.

1139. Application for leave under a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking.

As regards the court to which application must be made for leave under a disqualification order¹:

- 1430 (1) where a person is subject to a disqualification order made by a court having jurisdiction to wind up companies, any application for leave under that order² must be made to that court³; and
- 1431 (2) where a person is subject to a disqualification order made on conviction of an indictable offence⁴ by a court other than a court having jurisdiction to wind up companies, or a person is subject to a disqualification order made on summary conviction⁵, any application for leave⁶ must be made to any court which, when the order was made, had jurisdiction to wind up the company (or, if there is more than one such company, any of the companies) to which the offence (or any of the offences) in question related⁷.

As regards the court to which application must be made for leave under a disqualification undertaking⁸:

- 1432 (a) where a person is subject to a disqualification undertaking accepted at any time⁹, any application for leave¹⁰ must be made to any court to which, if the Secretary of State¹¹ had applied for a disqualification order at that time, his application could have been made¹²; and
- 1433 (b) where a person is subject to a disqualification undertaking accepted at any time under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 in relation to breaches of competition law¹³, any application for leave allowed under those provisions¹⁴ must be made to the High Court¹⁵; but
- 1434 (c) where a person is subject to two or more disqualification orders or undertakings (or to one or more disqualification orders and to one or more disqualification undertakings) any application for leave¹⁶ must be made to any court to which any such application relating to the latest order to be made, or undertaking to be accepted, could be made¹⁷.

On the hearing of an application for leave¹⁸, the Secretary of State must appear and call the attention of the court to any matters which seem to him to be relevant, and may himself give evidence or call witnesses¹⁹. However, where the application for leave pertains to a disqualification order made in relation to breaches of competition law²⁰, and also where an application for leave is made by a person seeking to disapply one of the statutory prohibitions²¹, on the hearing of the application whichever of the Office of Fair Trading²² or a specified regulator²³ applied for the order or accepted the undertaking (as the case may be) must appear and draw the attention of the court to any matters which appear to it or him (as the case may be) to be relevant and may give evidence or call witnesses²⁴.

It is desirable that, if proceedings to disqualify a director are outstanding, and the director wishes to apply for leave to continue as a director notwithstanding any disqualification order, that application should be heard at the same time as the disqualification proceedings²⁵. Leave will be granted under a disqualification order only where the director shows that there is a need for such an order to be granted, and where the court can be satisfied that there is adequate protection for the public²⁶. When considering whether to grant leave, the court's discretion is unfettered by any consideration of the needs and interests of the applicant, either personal or business related²⁷, or by any statutory condition or criterion²⁸.

Where leave is granted, it may be subject to conditions or to suitable safeguards designed to protect the public²⁹.

It is open to the Secretary of State to appeal against any decision to grant leave where he considers that the court erred by so doing³⁰.

1140. Information to be provided to the Secretary of State in relation to disqualification orders and disqualification undertakings.

Where a disqualification order¹ or grant of leave² (as the case may be) is made by a court³, the specified officer of that court⁴ must furnish to the Secretary of State certain particulars in the specified form and manner⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'disqualification order' means an order of the court under any of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 ss 2, 3-6, 8, 10 (s 2 as amended) (see para 1107 et seq ante): Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, reg 2.

2 For these purposes, 'grant of leave' means a grant by the court of leave under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 17 (as substituted and amended) (see para 1139 ante) to any person in relation to a disqualification order or a disqualification undertaking: Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, reg 2. For these purposes, 'disqualification undertaking' means an undertaking accepted by the Secretary of State under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7 (see paras 1127-1128 ante) or s 8 (see para 1113 ante): Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, reg 2. As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante.

3 See note 4 infra.

4 The specified officers of the specified courts are: (1) where a disqualification order is made by the Crown Court, the court manager; (2) where a disqualification order or grant of leave is made by the High Court, the court manager; (3) where a disqualification order or grant of leave is made by a county court, the Court Manager; (4) where a disqualification order is made by a magistrates' court, the chief executive to the justices; (5) where a disqualification order is made by the High Court of Justiciary, the deputy principal clerk of justiciary; (6) where a disqualification order or grant of leave is made by a sheriff court, the sheriff clerk; (7) where a disqualification order or grant of leave is made by the Court of Session, the deputy principal clerk of session; (8) where a disqualification order or grant of leave is made by the Court of Appeal, the court manager; and (9) where a disqualification order or grant of leave is made by the House of Lords, the judicial clerk: Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, reg 6(1).

Where a disqualification order is made by any of the courts mentioned in heads (1)-(9) supra or a disqualification undertaking has been accepted by the Secretary of State, and subsequently any action is taken by a court in consequence of which, as the case may be, that order or that undertaking is varied or ceases to be in force, the officer specified in heads (1)-(9) supra of the court which takes such action must furnish to the Secretary of State the particulars specified in reg 7(d) (see note 5 head (4) infra), in the form and manner there specified: reg 6(2).

5 Ibid reg 6(1). The form in which the particulars are to be furnished is:

- 85 (1) that set out in reg 7(a), Sch 1 (amended by SI 2002/1834) with such variations as circumstances require when the person against whom the disqualification order is made is an individual, and the particulars contained therein are the particulars specified for that purpose (Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, reg 7(a));
- 86 (2) that set out in reg 7(b), Sch 2 with such variations as circumstances require when the person against whom the disqualification order is made is a body corporate, and the particulars contained therein are the particulars specified for that purpose (reg 7(b));
- 87 (3) that set out in reg 7(c), Sch 3 with such variations as circumstances require when a grant of leave is made by the court, and the particulars contained therein are the particulars specified for that purpose (reg 7(c));

- 88 (4) that set out in reg 7(d), Sch 4 with such variations as circumstances require when any action is taken by a court in consequence of which a disqualification order or a disqualification undertaking is varied or ceases to be in force, and the particulars contained therein are the particulars specified for that purpose (reg 7(d)).

Either form contained in Sch 1 may be used in any circumstances but the form contained in Sch 1 as an alternative to form DO1 must be used where the director of a company or the member of a limited liability partnership in question is the beneficiary of a confidentiality order made under the Companies Act 1985 s 723B (as added): Companies (Disqualification Orders) (Amendment No 2) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1834, reg 4.

The time within which a prescribed officer is to furnish the Secretary of State with such particulars is a period of 14 days beginning with the day on which the disqualification order or grant of leave is made, or any action is taken by a court in consequence of which the disqualification order or disqualification undertaking is varied or ceases to be in force, as the case may be: Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, reg 8.

The Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967 (as amended) apply in relation to a disqualification order made after 6 April 2001 and a grant of leave made after that date, or any action taken by a court after that date in consequence of which a disqualification order or a disqualification undertaking is varied or ceases to be in force, whether the disqualification order or disqualification undertaking to which, as the case may be, the grant of leave or the action relates was made by the court or accepted by the Secretary of State before or after 6 April 2001: reg 4.

The regulations described above were made in pursuance of powers which provide that the Secretary of State may make regulations requiring officers of courts to furnish him with such particulars as the regulations may specify of cases in which:

- 89 (a) a disqualification order is made; or
- 90 (b) any action is taken by a court in consequence of which such an order or a disqualification undertaking is varied or ceases to be in force; or
- 91 (c) leave is granted by a court for a person subject to such an order to do anything which otherwise the order prohibits him from doing; or
- 92 (d) leave is granted by a court for a person subject to such an undertaking to do anything which otherwise the undertaking prohibits him from doing, and the regulations may specify the time within which, and the form and manner in which, such particulars are to be furnished: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 18(1) (amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 13(1), (2)(a), (b)). Regulations under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 18 (as amended) must be made by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 18(5). Regulations under s 18 (as amended) may extend s 18(1)-(4) (as amended) (see further para 1141 post), to such extent and with such modifications as may be specified in the regulations, to disqualification orders made under the Companies (Northern Ireland) Order 1989, SI 1989/2404, Pt II: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 18(4A) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 Sch 4 Pt I paras 1, 13(1), (5)). See also the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 12A (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 7(1)); and the Companies (Disqualification Orders) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/967, regs 5, 9 (reg 9 amended by SI 2004/1940). In relation to disqualification undertakings under the Company Directors Disqualification (Northern Ireland) Order 2002, SI 2002/3150, see the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 18(4A) (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 paras 1, 13(1), (5); and amended by the Insolvency Act 2000 (Company Directors Disqualification Undertakings) Order 2004, SI 2004/1941, art 2(1), (6)). 1143. Offences by body corporate; disqualification orders or disqualification undertakings.

Where a body corporate¹ is guilty of an offence of acting in contravention of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking², and it is proved that the offence occurred with the consent or connivance of, or was attributable to any neglect on the part of any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or any person who was purporting to act in any such capacity, he, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of the offence and liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly³.

Where the affairs of a body corporate are managed by its members, these provisions apply in relation to the acts and defaults of a member in connection with his functions of management as if he were a director of the body corporate⁴.

1 A body corporate does not include a corporation sole, but includes a company incorporated elsewhere than in Great Britain: Companies Act 1985 s 740; applied by the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 22(1), (6).

1144. Consequences of contravention; personal liability of persons acting while disqualified.

A person is personally responsible for all the relevant debts¹ of a company² if at any time:

1435 (1) in contravention of a disqualification order³ or disqualification undertaking⁴, or of the provisions relating to undischarged bankrupts⁵, he is involved in the management of a company⁶; or

1436 (2) as a person who is involved in the management of the company, he acts or is willing to act on instructions given without the leave of the court by a person whom he knows at that time to be the subject of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking or to be an undischarged bankrupt⁷.

Where a person is personally responsible under these provisions for the relevant debts of a company, he is jointly and severally liable in respect of those debts with the company and any other person who, whether under these provisions or otherwise, is so liable⁸.

1 For these purposes, the relevant debts of a company are: (1) in relation to a person who is personally responsible under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 15(1)(a) (see head (1) in the text), such debts and other liabilities of the company as are incurred at a time when that person was involved in the management of the company; and (2) in relation to a person who is personally responsible under s 15(1)(b) (see head (2) in the text), such debts and other liabilities of the company as are incurred at a time when that person was acting or was willing to act on instructions given as mentioned in s 15(1)(b): s 15(3).

6 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 15(1)(a) (as amended: see note 5 supra). For these purposes, a person is involved in the management of a company if he is a director of the company or if he is concerned, whether directly or indirectly, or takes part in the management of the company: s 15(4). For these purposes, a person who, as a person involved in the management of a company, has at any time acted on instructions given without the leave of the court by a person whom he knew at that time to be the subject of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking or to be an undischarged bankrupt is presumed, unless the contrary is shown, to have been willing at any time thereafter to act on any instructions

1145. Admissibility in evidence of statements.

In any proceedings, whether or not under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986, any statement made in pursuance of a requirement imposed by or under the provisions of that Act¹, or by or under rules made for the purposes of that Act under the Insolvency Act 1986², may be used in evidence against any person making or concurring in making that statement³.

However, in criminal proceedings in which any such person is charged with an offence⁴, no evidence relating to the statement may be adduced and no question relating to it may be asked, by or on behalf of the prosecution⁵, unless evidence relating to it is adduced, or a question relating to it is asked, in the proceedings by or on behalf of that person⁶.

2 See the Insolvency Act 1986 s 411; and para 1041 ante. But see Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Bairstow [2003] EWCA Civ 321, [2004] Ch 1, [2003] 1 BCLC 696 (factual findings and conclusions of the judge in wrongful dismissal proceedings were not admissible in disqualification proceedings as evidence of the facts so found).

4 In an offence to which the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 20 (as amended) applies, being any offence other than: (1) an offence which is created by rules made under the Insolvency Act for the purposes of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986, and designated for the purposes of s 20(3) by such rules or by regulations made by the Secretary of State; (2) an offence which is created by regulations made under any such rules, and designated for the purposes of s 20(3) by such regulations; or (3) an offence under the Perjury Act 1911 s 5 (false statements made on oath otherwise than in judicial proceedings or made otherwise than on oath: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) paras 716-717): Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 20(3) (added by the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Sch 3 para 8(1), (3)). Regulations under head (1) supra must be made by statutory instrument and, after being made, must be laid before each House of Parliament: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 20(4) (added by the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Sch 3 para 8(1), (3)).

5 Although the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 20(2) (as added) precludes only the use of statements made in disqualification proceedings 'by or on behalf of the prosecution', the responsibility for doing justice in criminal proceedings lies primarily with the criminal court: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Crane [2001] 2 BCLC 222.

6 Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 20(2) (added by the Youth Justice and Criminal Evidence Act 1999 Sch 3 para 8(1), (3)). The amendment was made to this provision as a consequence of the decision in Saunders v United Kingdom (Application 19187/91) (1996) 23 EHRR 313, ECtHR (evidence disclosed by applicant when questioned under compulsory powers not admissible in criminal proceedings). However, the prohibition on the use of such evidence does not extend to disqualification proceedings: EDC v United Kingdom (Application 24433/94) [1998] BCC 370, EComHR; R v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, ex p McCormick [1998] BCC 379; DC, HS and AD v United Kingdom (Application 39031/97) [2000] BCC 710, ECtHR. The issue of whether the conduct of disqualification proceedings has infringed a director's right to a fair trial as it is guaranteed under the Human Rights Act 1998 must be considered by the trial judge on the basis of all relevant factors including the degrees of coercion involved: R v Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, ex p McCormick supra; WGS and MSLS v UK (Application 38172/97) [2000] BCC 719, ECtHR; Official Receiver v Stern

There is nothing in the general law or in the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 6 which makes it objectionable for a prosecuting authority to obtain helpful ideas from what was said in other proceedings concerning the same subject matter: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v Crane [2001] 2 BCLC 222. 13. UNREGISTERED AND UNINCORPORATED COMPANIES

1147. Meaning of 'unregistered company'.

For the purposes of Part V of the Insolvency Act 1986¹ relating to the winding up of unregistered companies², 'unregistered company' includes any association and any company except a company registered in any part of the United Kingdom³ under the Joint Stock Companies Acts⁴ or under the legislation, past or present, relating to companies in Great Britain⁵.

Where a company incorporated outside Great Britain which has been carrying on business in Great Britain ceases to carry on business in Great Britain, it may be wound up as an unregistered company under the Insolvency Act 1986, notwithstanding that it has been dissolved or has otherwise ceased to exist as a company under or by virtue of the laws of the country under which it was incorporated⁶. The power to wind up such dissolved overseas companies is subject to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings⁷.

1147 Meaning of 'unregistered company'

TEXT AND NOTES 1-5--For the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt V (ss 73-229) 'unregistered company' includes any association and any company, with the exception of a company registered under the Companies Act 2006 in any part of the United Kingdom: Insolvency Act 1986 s 220 (substituted by SI 2009/1941). See HSBC, Petitioner [2009] CSOH 147, 2010 SLT 281 (company registered in Gibraltar with its principal place of business in Scotland was an 'unregistered company').

1148. Application of winding-up provisions.

When a company is wound up as an unregistered company, all the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 with respect to winding up, with certain exceptions and additions¹, apply² and no unregistered company may be wound up under the Act voluntarily except in accordance with the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings³.

The provisions of Part V of the Insolvency Act 1986⁴ with respect to winding up unregistered companies are in addition to, and not in restriction of, any other provisions in Part IV of that Act⁵ with respect to winding up companies by the court; and the court or liquidator may exercise any powers or do any act in the case of unregistered companies which might be exercised or done by it or him in winding up companies formed and registered under the Companies Act 1985⁶. Except in the event of its being wound up⁷, an unregistered company is not, however, deemed to be a company under the Companies Act 1985, and then only to the extent provided by the winding-up provisions relating to unregistered companies⁸.

UPDATE

1147-1155 Unregistered and Unincorporated Companies

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/13. UNREGISTERED AND UNINCORPORATED COMPANIES/1150. Companies which may not be wound up.

1150. Companies which may not be wound up.

There is no jurisdiction to wind up an international organisation established by treaty between sovereign states¹.

An illegal company may not be wound up as an unregistered company², nor may an abortive company which was not in fact formed³, nor a company which is not a trading company, such as a literary institution⁴ or an unincorporated members' club⁵, nor a benevolent society where there is no contractual relation between the members among themselves⁶, nor a statutory corporation⁷.

If an unregistered company has a principal place of business situated in Northern Ireland, it may not be wound up⁸ unless it has a principal place of business situated in England and Wales or Scotland or in both England and Wales and Scotland⁹. For the purpose of determining a court's winding-up jurisdiction, an unregistered company is deemed to be registered in England and Wales or Scotland, according as its principal place of business is situated in England and Wales or Scotland, or, if it has a principal place of business situated in both countries, it is deemed to be registered in both countries; and the principal place of business situated in that part of Great Britain in which proceedings are being instituted is, for all purposes of the winding up, deemed to be the registered office of the company¹⁰.

The court's jurisdiction in relation to the winding up of companies outside England and Wales is now subject to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings¹¹.

A court in the United Kingdom may not in general make a winding up order¹² in relation to an EEA insurer¹³ or any of its branches or in relation to an EEA credit institution¹⁴ or any of its branches¹⁵.

An unregistered company may be wound up by the court:

- 1451 (1) if the company is dissolved¹, or has ceased to carry on business, or is carrying on business only for the purpose of winding up its affairs²;
- 1452 (2) if the company is unable to pay its debts³;
- 1453 (3) if the court is of opinion that it is just and equitable⁴ that the company should be wound up⁵.

An unregistered company is deemed to be unable to pay its debts¹:

- 1454 (1) if a creditor² by assignment or otherwise, to whom the company is indebted in a sum exceeding £750³ then due, has served on the company, by leaving at its principal place of business, or by delivering to the secretary or some director, manager or principal officer of the company, or by otherwise serving in such manner as the court may approve or direct, a written demand in the prescribed form⁴ requiring the company to pay the sum due⁵, and the company has, for three weeks after the service of the demand, neglected to pay the sum or to secure or compound for it to the creditor's satisfaction⁶;
- 1455 (2) if proceedings have been instituted against any member for any debt or demand due, or claimed to be due, from the company, or from him in his character of member, and notice in writing of the institution of the proceedings has been served on the company in one of the modes mentioned above⁷, and the company has not within three weeks after service of the notice paid, secured or compounded for the debt or demand, or procured the proceedings to be stayed, or indemnified the defendant to his reasonable satisfaction against the proceedings, and against all costs, damages and expenses to be incurred by him because of them⁸;
- 1456 (3) if in England and Wales execution or other process issued on a judgment, decree or order obtained in any court in favour of a creditor against the company, or any member of it as such, or any person authorised to be sued as nominal defendant on behalf of the company, is returned unsatisfied⁹;

1153. Contributories in a winding up.

In the event of an unregistered company being wound up, every person is deemed a contributory who is liable to pay or contribute to the payment of any debt or liability of the company, or to pay or contribute to the payment of any sum for the adjustment of the rights of the members among themselves, or to pay or contribute to the payment of the expenses of winding up the company¹; and every contributory is liable to contribute to the company's assets all sums due from him in respect of such liability². The liability of the contributory is in the nature of a speciality debt³.

The liability to contribution is a liability to contribute in the character of a partner or member⁴. A person who is merely a debtor to the company is not a contributory⁵, nor is an officer of the company who is liable to make compensation in respect of a misfeasance⁶. A partner in an unregistered company, liable to make good a representation as to the amount of capital subscribed, is, however, a contributory⁷, and a person who is really a partner or shareholder may, in certain cases, be made liable as a contributory even though the shares are held in another person's name⁸.

In the absence of special provision, a past member of an unregistered corporation is not liable as a contributory⁹.

In the case of an unregistered company engaged in or formed for working mines within the stannaries, a past member is not liable to contribute to the assets if he has ceased to be a member for two years or more either before the mine ceased to be worked or before the date of the winding-up order¹⁰.

In the event of the death, bankruptcy or insolvency of any contributory, the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 with respect to the personal representatives of deceased contributories, and to the trustees of bankrupt or insolvent contributories respectively apply¹¹.

Where the rules of a building society provided that in certain circumstances a member should, on notice being given to him by the company, cease to have any interest in the society, a person was held, on a winding up of the society as an unregistered company, not to be liable as a member, where the above-mentioned circumstances had arisen 20 years previously but no notice by the company had been given: Irvine and Fullarton Property Investment and Building Society v Cuthbertson (1905) 8 F 1.

9 Re Sheffield and South Yorkshire Permanent Building Society (1889) 22 QBD 470. It would seem that, under the general law, a past member of an unincorporated association might be liable for debts incurred while he was a member (see Re Sheffield and South Yorkshire Permanent Building Society supra at 476); and, as all the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 with respect to winding up apply to an unregistered company with the exceptions mentioned in s 221 (as amended) (see para 1148 ante), it would seem that past members of an unregistered company are subject to s 74 (see para 705 ante), except in so far as s 226(1) (see the text and note 1 supra) is inconsistent with it.

14. COMPANIES FORMED OUTSIDE ENGLAND AND WALES

(1) COMPANIES INCORPORATED IN COMMONWEALTH COUNTRIES

1156. In general.

Companies incorporated in parts of the Commonwealth outside the United Kingdom¹ may be wound up by the court as unregistered companies².

Her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that such of the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 as are specified in the Order, being provisions formerly contained in the Insolvency Act 1985, are to extend to any of the Channel Islands or any colony³ with such modifications as may be so specified⁴.

¹ As to the Commonwealth see COMMONWEALTH vol 13 (2009) PARA 701 et seq. For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see para 12 note 2 ante.

² As to the winding up of unregistered companies see para 1147 et seq ante. As to the winding up of companies incorporated in foreign countries see para 1157 et seq post.

⁴ Insolvency Act 1986 s 442. In exercise of the power so conferred Her Majesty made the Insolvency Act 1986 (Guernsey) Order 1989, SI 1989/2409, which provides for co-operation between the courts of the Bailiwick of Guernsey (including Alderney and Sark) and the courts of the United Kingdom, and which came into force on 1 February 1990: art 2. As to Channel Island and Isle of Man companies see COMPANIES. The company voluntary arrangement provisions in the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt I (ss 1-7B) (as amended) (see para 71 et seq ante) have been extended to companies incorporated in the Isle of Man: Re Television Trade Rentals Ltd [2002] EWHC 211 (Ch), [2002] BPIR 859.

(2) FOREIGN COMPANIES

1157. Winding up.

Save for companies based in other member states of the European Union, to which the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings¹ applies, a foreign company, partnership or association may be wound up as an unregistered company² if it has assets in England³, or if a sufficient connection with England can be shown and there is a reasonable possibility that benefit would accrue to the company's creditors from the winding up⁴.

Where a foreign company which has been carrying on business in Great Britain⁵ ceases to carry on business in Great Britain, it may be wound up as an unregistered company notwithstanding that it has been dissolved or has otherwise ceased to exist as a company under or by virtue of the laws of the country under which it was incorporated⁶. As regards proofs to be submitted by creditors, the dissolution of the foreign company abroad must be disregarded⁷.

When a winding-up order has been made, the dissolved company must be deemed to be revived in order to secure the effective collection and distribution of the assets; and thus the liquidator may be permitted to bring a claim on behalf of the company⁸. Such a revivification has no retroactive effect⁹.

In relation to companies based in other member states of the European Union (other than Denmark), the English courts have jurisdiction in respect of main proceedings where the debtor company's centre of main interests is situated in the United Kingdom, and in respect of secondary (or territorial) proceedings where the company's centre of main interest is in another member state (other than Denmark) but assets are situated in the United Kingdom¹⁰.

It is not necessary to show that the company had a branch or office in England or that it had carried on its business operations in England from some established place of business: Re Azoff-Don Commercial Bank [1954] Ch 315, [1954] 1 All ER 947; Re Compania Merabello San Nicholas SA [1973] Ch 75, [1972] 3 All ER 448. There appears to have been a gradual relaxation of the criteria necessary to obtain a winding-up order. At first it was thought that a foreign company could not be wound up in England as an unregistered company unless it had an established place of business in England, even though it had ceased to carry on business and was being wound up in the country of its incorporation: see Re Lloyd Generale Italiano (1885) 29 ChD 219 at 220 (where the company had no assets in England); and see Banque des Marchands de Moscou (Koupetschesky) v Kindersley supra at 117, 128 and at 557, 558 (where the authority for this view was considered). Later it was held to be sufficient if the company had conducted business at a place in England: Re Tovarishstvo Manufacture Liudvig-Rabenek [1944] Ch 404, [1944] 2 All ER 556 (where the company's director had stayed at a hotel and transacted business from it); Banque des Marchands de Moscou (Koupetschesky) v Kindersley supra (visits to England by manager of goods section of bank for purposes of business associations). The present position is as stated in the text; and see note 6 infra.

4 Re Compania Merabello San Nicholas SA [1973] Ch 75, [1972] 3 All ER 448, where the winding up was held to be of benefit to the petitioning creditors, having regard to the Third Parties (Rights against Insurers) Act 1930 s 1 (as amended) (see CHOSER IN ACTION vol 13 (2009) PARA 90; INSURANCE vol 25 (2003 Reissue) para 679 et seq), even though there were no other distributable assets (disapproving Re Lloyd Generale Italiano (1885) 29 ChD 219). This provision is now subject to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings (see para 46 et seq ante); Insolvency Act 1986 Act s 225(2) (added by the Insolvency Act 1986 (Amendment) (No 2) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1240, regs 3, 10).

This provision, when first enacted, was merely declaratory of the existing law (Russian and English Bank and Florence Montefiore Guedalla v Baring Bros & Co Ltd [1936] AC 405 at 424, [1936] 1 All ER 505 at 516, HL, per Lord Atkin; Re Tovarishstvo Manufactur Liudvig-Rabenek [1944] Ch 404 at 413, [1944] 2 All ER 556 at 561-562), and does not restrict the wider jurisdiction to wind up as an unregistered company a foreign company which had assets in England (Banque des Marchands de Moscou (Koupetschesky) v Kindersley [1951] 1 Ch 112 at 131, [1950] 2 All ER 549 at 560, CA).

A dissolved foreign company may be wound up if there are assets in England, and there are persons present in England claiming as creditors: Re Azoff-Don Commercial Bank [1954] Ch 315, [1954] 1 All ER 947 (following Banque des Marchands de Moscou (Koupetschesky) v Kindersley supra); IRC v Highland Engineering Ltd 1975 SLT 203, Ct of Sess. An order will not be refused because it will benefit foreign creditors: Re Azoff-Don Commercial Bank supra. The presence of assets in England is no longer an essential condition: see the cases cited in note 3 supra.

In Re Russian and English Bank [1932] 1 Ch 663, a winding-up order was made, although the petitioner's debt was disputed. This decision was followed in Re Russian Bank of Foreign Trade [1933] Ch 745.

1159. Liquidation already commenced abroad.

Save for companies based in other member states of the European Union, to which the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings¹ applies, the jurisdiction of the court to make a winding-up order is unaffected by the fact that a liquidation has already commenced in the country of incorporation; and in these cases:

- 1461 (1) a winding-up order made in England will normally be regarded as giving rise to a winding up ancillary to that being conducted in the country of incorporation;
- 1462 (2) the winding up in England will be ancillary in the sense that it will not be within the power of the English liquidators to get in and realise all the assets of the company worldwide and they will necessarily have to concentrate on getting in and realising the English assets;
- 1463 (3) since, in order to achieve a pari passu distribution between all the company's creditors, it will normally be necessary for there to be a pooling of assets worldwide and for a dividend to be declared out of the assets comprised in that pool, the winding up in England will be ancillary in the sense also that it will be the liquidators in the principal liquidation who will be best placed to declare the dividend and to distribute the assets in the pool accordingly;
- 1464 (4) the ancillary character of an English winding up does not, however, relieve the English court of its obligation to apply English substantive and procedural law, including English insolvency law, to the resolution of any issue arising in the winding up which is brought before the court, although it is possible that English conflict of law rules will lead to the application of some foreign law principle in order to resolve a particular issue².

Although a limitation in the winding-up order, the effect of which would merely be to reserve specially to the court matters in respect of which the liquidator is by law at liberty to apply to the court, would not be ultra vires, no such limitation will be inserted unless there are special circumstances known to the court³.

1160. Bona vacantia.

Where the foreign company which is being wound up has already been dissolved, or has otherwise ceased to exist as a company under or by virtue of the laws of the country under which it was incorporated, all its assets in the United Kingdom will have vested in the Crown as bona vacantia¹. The title which the Crown acquires to those assets is nevertheless defeasible and is defeated upon the making of the winding-up order². As the Crown is, therefore, affected by the making of a winding-up order, it should always be served with the winding-up petition³. If there are surplus assets after satisfaction of all the just claims against the company, the Crown will only take in priority to those members of the company who fail to establish their title to those assets under the law of incorporation of the company⁴.

1162 Model law on cross-border insolvency

TEXT AND NOTES--Regulations have been made providing for the UNCITRAL Model Law to have the force of law: see the Cross-Border Insolvency Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1030 (amended by SI 2009/1941). Nothing in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 388 (see para 8) applies to anything done by a foreign representative under or by virtue of SI 2006/1030: reg 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/14. COMPANIES FORMED OUTSIDE ENGLAND AND WALES/(3) OVERSEA COMPANIES/1163. Particulars to be delivered to the registrar; winding up.

(3) OVERSEA COMPANIES

1163. Particulars to be delivered to the registrar; winding up.

Where a company, being a limited company which is incorporated outside the United Kingdom and Gibraltar and has a branch in Great Britain¹, is being wound up, it must deliver to the registrar of companies for registration a return in the prescribed form containing the following particulars:

- 1465 (1) the name of the company;
- 1466 (2) whether the company is being wound up by an order of the court and, if so, the name and address of the court and the date of the order;
- 1467 (3) if the company is not being so wound up, as a result of what action the winding up has commenced;
- 1468 (4) whether the winding up has been instigated by the company's members, the company's creditors or some other person or persons, and, where the winding up has been instigated by some other person or persons, the identity of that person or those persons must be given; and
- 1469 (5) the date on which the winding up became or will be effective².

The period allowed for delivery of such a return is 14 days from the date on which the winding up begins³.

A person appointed to be the liquidator of a company, being a limited company which is incorporated outside the United Kingdom and Gibraltar and has a branch in Great Britain⁴, must deliver to the registrar for registration a return in the prescribed form containing the following particulars:

- 1470 (a) his name and address;
- 1471 (b) the date of his appointment; and
- 1472 (c) a description of such of his powers, if any, as are derived otherwise than from the general law or the company's constitution⁵.

The period allowed for delivery of such a return is 14 days from the date of the liquidator's appointment⁶.

The liquidator of a company, being a limited company which is incorporated outside the United Kingdom and Gibraltar and has a branch in Great Britain⁷, must deliver to the registrar for registration a return in the prescribed form upon the occurrence of the following events:

- 1473 (i) the termination of the winding up of the company; and
- 1474 (ii) the company ceasing to be registered, in circumstances where ceasing to be registered is an event of legal significance⁸.

The following particulars must be given, namely, in the case of head (i) above, the name of the company and the date on which the winding up terminated and, in the case of head (ii) above, the name of the company and the date on which the company ceased to be registered⁹. The period allowed for delivery of such a return is 14 days from the date of the event concerned¹⁰.

The obligation to deliver a return under these provisions¹¹ applies in respect of each branch which the company has in Great Britain; but, where the company has more than one branch in a part of Great Britain, a return which gives the branch numbers of two or more such branches is to be regarded as a return in respect of each branch whose number is given¹².

No return is, however, required under these provisions¹³ in respect of a winding up order¹⁴ under Part V of the Insolvency Act 1986¹⁵.

If a company fails to deliver a return¹⁶ within the period allowed for compliance, it, and every person who immediately before the end of that period was a director¹⁷ of it, is guilty of an offence and liable on conviction on indictment to a fine or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention in the case of a continuing offence, to a daily default fine not exceeding £100¹⁸.

If a liquidator fails so to deliver a return¹⁹ within the period allowed for compliance, he is guilty of an offence and liable on conviction on indictment to a fine or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum and, on conviction after continued contravention in the case of a continuing offence, to a daily default fine not exceeding £100²⁰.

It is a defence for a person charged with an offence under these provisions to prove that he took all reasonable steps for securing compliance with the requirements concerned²¹.

1164. Particulars to be delivered to the registrar; insolvency proceedings etc.

Where a company, being a limited company which is incorporated outside the United Kingdom and Gibraltar and has a branch in Great Britain¹, becomes subject to any of the following proceedings (other than proceedings for the winding up of the company), that is to say, insolvency proceedings or an arrangement or composition or any analogous proceedings, it must deliver to the registrar of companies for registration a return in the prescribed form containing the following particulars:

- 1475 (1) the name of the company;
- 1476 (2) whether the proceedings are by order of a court and, if so, the name and address of the court and the date of the order;
- 1477 (3) if the proceedings are not by order of a court, as a result of what action the proceedings have been commenced;
- 1478 (4) whether the proceedings have been instigated by the company's members, the company's creditors or some other person or persons, and, where the proceedings have been instigated by some other person or persons, the identity of that person or those persons must be given; and
- 1479 (5) the date on which the proceedings became or will become effective².

Where a company, being a limited company which is incorporated outside the United Kingdom and Gibraltar and has a branch in Great Britain³, ceases to be subject to any of the above proceedings, it must deliver to the registrar for registration a return in the prescribed form containing the following particulars:

- 1480 (a) the name of the company; and
- 1481 (b) the date on which it ceased to be subject to the proceedings⁴.

The period allowed for delivery of a return under these provisions⁵ is 14 days from the date on which the company becomes subject or, as the case may be, ceases to be subject to the proceedings concerned⁶.

The obligation to deliver a return under these provisions⁷ applies in respect of each branch which the company has in Great Britain; but, where the company has more than one branch in a part of Great Britain, a return which gives the branch numbers of two or more such branches is to be regarded as a return in respect of each branch whose number is given⁸.

(4) EUROPEAN ECONOMIC INTEREST GROUPINGS

1165. In general.

Part III of the Insolvency Act 1986¹ applies to European Economic Interest Groupings² and their establishments as if they were companies registered under the Companies Act 1985³.

The Secretary of State is the competent authority for the purposes of making an application to the court⁴ for the winding up of a European Economic Interest Grouping in certain circumstances⁵. On an application by the Secretary of State, the court may order the winding up of a European Economic Interest Grouping which has an official address in Great Britain, if the European Economic Interest Grouping acts contrary to the public interest and it is expedient in the public interest that the European Economic Interest Grouping should be wound up and the court is of the opinion that it is just and equitable for it to do so⁶.

Where a European Economic Interest Grouping is wound up as an unregistered company⁷, the provisions of Part V of the Insolvency Act 1986 apply in relation to the European Economic Interest Grouping as if any reference in that Act and in the Companies Act 1985 to a director or past director of a company included a reference to a manager of the European Economic Interest Grouping and any other person who has or has had control or management of the European Economic Interest Grouping's business⁸.

At the end of the period of three months beginning with the day of receipt by the registrar⁹ of a notice of the conclusion of the liquidation of a European Economic Interest Grouping, it is dissolved¹⁰.

Where a European Economic Interest Grouping is wound up as an unregistered company¹¹, specified provisions¹² of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 apply in relation to it as if any reference to a director or past director of a company included a reference to a manager of the European Economic Interest Grouping and any other person who has or has had control or management of its business and the European Economic Interest Grouping were a company as defined¹³ by the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986¹⁴.

NOTE 12--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 12(2) amended: SI 2009/1941.

15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS

(1) IN GENERAL

1166. Insolvency procedures; application of statutory provisions.

The Lord Chancellor has power to provide, by order made with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, that such provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 as may be specified in the order are to apply in relation to insolvent partnerships with such modifications as may be so specified¹. The Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994² came into force on 1 December 1994³.

Insolvent partnerships may be the subject of a voluntary arrangement under Part I of the Insolvency Act 1986 as modified⁴. Where insolvency orders⁵ are made against an insolvent partnership and an insolvent member⁶ of that partnership in his capacity as such, a corporate member⁷ of that partnership may be the subject of a voluntary arrangement under Part I of the Insolvency Act 1986 and an individual member of that partnership may be the subject of a voluntary arrangement under Part VIII of the Insolvency Act 1986⁸.

Insolvent partnerships may be the subject of an administration order under Part II of the Insolvency Act 1986 as modified⁹.

Insolvent partnerships may be wound up as unregistered companies under Part V of the Insolvency Act 1986¹⁰ as modified and they may be so wound up:

- 1482 (1) on the petition of a creditor, of a liquidator or of a temporary administrator¹¹ where no concurrent petition is presented against a member¹² or where concurrent petitions are presented against one or more members¹³; or
- 1483 (2) on a member's petition where no concurrent petition is presented against a member¹⁴ or where concurrent petitions are presented against all members¹⁵.

Where the individual members of an insolvent partnership present a joint petition for the bankruptcy of each of them in his capacity as a member of the partnership, certain provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 relating to bankruptcy apply as modified in relation to such bankruptcies and the winding up of the partnership business and the administration of its property without the partnership being wound up as an unregistered company under the Insolvency Act 1986¹⁶.

Where an insolvent partnership is being wound up as an unregistered company under Part V of the Insolvency Act 1986 as modified, certain provisions of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 apply with modifications¹⁷.

The Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, in the case of insolvency proceedings¹⁸ in relation to companies and partnerships, relates to companies and partnerships which the courts in England and Wales have jurisdiction to wind up and, in the case of insolvency proceedings in relation to individuals, extends to England and Wales only¹⁹.

Nothing in the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994 is to be taken as preventing a petition being presented against an insolvent partnership under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000²⁰ or under any other enactment²¹. Nor is anything in the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994 to be taken as preventing any creditor or creditors owed one or more debts by an insolvent partnership from presenting a petition under the Insolvency Act 1986 against one or more members of the partnership liable for that debt or those debts, as the case may be, without including the others and without presenting a petition for the winding up of the partnership as an unregistered company²².

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 420(1). An order so made may make different provisions for different cases and may contain such incidental, supplemental and transitional provisions as may appear to the Lord Chancellor necessary or expedient (s 420(2)); and any such order must be made by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament (s 420(3)). As to the Secretary of State see para 11 note 10 ante. As to the Lord Chancellor see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) para 477 et seq. As to the abolition of the office of the Lord Chancellor see No 10 Downing Street Press Release Modernising Government (12 June 2003).

An order under s 420 (as amended) may make provision in relation to the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings (ie EC Council Regulation 1346/2000 (OJ L160, 30.6.2000, p 1) (see para 46 et seq)) but any such provision may not create an offence of a kind referred to in the European Communities Act 1972 Sch 2 para 1(1)(d) (new crimes punishable with more than a specified punishment): Insolvency Act 1986 s 420(1A), (1B) (added by the Insolvency Act 1986 (Amendment) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1037, regs 2, 3(5)).

3 Ibid art 1(1). The Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421 (as amended) does not apply in relation to any case in which a winding-up order or a bankruptcy order was made under the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1986, SI 1986/2142 (revoked), in relation to a partnership or an insolvent member of a partnership; and, where the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421 (as amended) does not apply, the law in force immediately before that Order came into force continues to have effect: art 19(1).

Where winding-up or bankruptcy proceedings commenced under the provisions of the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1986, SI 1986/2142 (revoked) and were pending in relation to a partnership or an insolvent member of a partnership immediately before the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421 (as amended) came into force: (1) those proceedings are to be continued, after the coming into force of the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421 (as amended) in accordance with the provisions of that order; or (2) if the court so directs, they are to be continued under the provisions of the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1986, SI 1986/2142 (revoked), in which case the law in force immediately before the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421 (as amended) came into force continues to have effect: art 19(2). For this purpose, winding-up or bankruptcy proceedings are pending if a statutory or written demand has been served or a winding-up or bankruptcy petition has been presented: art 19(3).

1170. Meaning of 'voluntary arrangement', 'the proposal', 'the nominee', and 'the supervisor'.

A voluntary arrangement under the Insolvency Act 1986¹ is a composition in satisfaction of an insolvent partnership's debts or a scheme of arrangement of the partnership's affairs².

For the purposes of the provisions relating to voluntary arrangements³, a proposal is a proposal to an insolvent partnership and its creditors for a voluntary arrangement which provides for some person ('the nominee') to act in relation to the voluntary arrangement either as trustee or otherwise for the purpose of supervising its implementation⁴. The nominee must be a person who is qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner or authorised to act as nominee in relation to the insolvent partnership⁵.

Once a voluntary arrangement is approved and takes effect, the person supervising its implementation is known as 'the supervisor' of the voluntary arrangement⁶.

UPDATE

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(2) VOLUNTARY ARRANGEMENTS/(i) Partnerships/1173. Moratorium: eligible insolvent partnerships.

1173. Moratorium: eligible insolvent partnerships.

An insolvent partnership is eligible for a moratorium if it meets the following requirements, unless it falls within specified exclusions¹.

The requirements are that an insolvent partnership meets two or more of the following qualifying conditions in the period of the year ending with the date of filing or in the tax year of the insolvent partnership which ended last before that date²: (1) turnover of not more than £2.8 million; (2) assets of not more than £1.4 million; and (3) no more than 50 employees³.

An insolvent partnership is excluded from being eligible for a moratorium if, on the date of filing: (a) an administration order is in force in relation to the insolvent partnership; (b) the insolvent partnership is being wound up as an unregistered company⁴; (c) there is an agricultural receiver of the insolvent partnership; (d) a voluntary arrangement has effect in relation to the insolvent partnership; (e) there is a provisional liquidator of the insolvent partnership; (f) a moratorium has been in force for the insolvent partnership at any time during the period of 12 months ending with the date of filing and no voluntary arrangement had effect at the time at which the moratorium came to an end or a voluntary arrangement which had effect at any time within that period has come to an end prematurely⁵; (g) a voluntary arrangement which had effect pursuant to a proposal⁶ has come to an end prematurely and during the period of 12 months ending with the date of filing an order has been made by the court under its powers following approval of a voluntary arrangement⁷; or (h) an order has been made by virtue of the provisions⁸ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition⁹.

1 Insolvency Act 1986 s 1A, Sch A1 para 2(1) (s 1A, Sch A1 added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 1, Sch 1 paras 1, 2, 4); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 4(1) (substituted by SI 2002/2708). The provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 Pt I (ss 1-7B) (as amended) apply in relation to an insolvent partnership; certain of those provisions are modified and are set out as modified in the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 4, Sch 1 (as substituted): see para 1169 ante.

The specified exclusions are: (1) those contained in the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 2(2) (as added and amended) (see para 73 text and note 11 ante); and (2) those contained in Sch A1 para 4 (as added and amended) (see the text to notes 4, 9 infra).

2 For these purposes, 'date of filing' means the date on which the documents for the time being referred to in ibid Sch A1 para 7(1) (as added) (see para 77 ante) are filed or lodged with the court: Sch A1 para 1 (as added: see note 1 supra); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 4(1) (as substituted: see note 1 supra).

3 Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 3(1), (2) (as added: see note 1 supra); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 1 Pt II para 3(1)-(3) (Sch 1 substituted by SI 2002/2708).

For these purposes: (1) the total of turnover is the amount which is or would be, as the case may be, entered as turnover in the partnership's tax return; (2) the total of assets is the amount which (a) in the case of the period being in the year ending with the date of filing (see the text and note 2 supra), is entered in the partnership's statement of affairs which must be filed with the court under the Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 7(1)(b) (as added) (see para 77 ante); or (b) in the case of the period being in the tax year of the insolvent partnership which ended last before the date of filing, would be entered in the partnership's statement of affairs had it prepared such a statement on the last day of the period to which the amount for turnover is calculated for the purposes of head (1) supra; (3) the number of employees is the average number of persons employed by the insolvent partnership (a) in the case of the period being in the year ending with the date of filing (see text and note 2 supra), in the period ending with the date of filing; or (b) in the case of the period being in the tax year of the insolvent partnership which ended last before the date of filing, in the period to which the amount for turnover is calculated for the purposes of head (1) supra: Sch A1 para 3 (as so added); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 1 Pt II para 3(4) (as so substituted).

Where the period covered by the qualifying conditions in respect of the insolvent partnership is not a year the total turnover of not more than £2.8 million is to be proportionately adjusted: Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 3 (as so added); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 1 Pt II para 3(5) (as so substituted).

The average number of persons employed by the insolvent partnership is to be calculated: (i) by ascertaining the number of persons employed by it under contracts of service for each month of the year (whether throughout the month or not); (ii) by adding those figures together; and (iii) by dividing the resulting figure by the number of months during which persons were so employed by it during the year: Sch 1 Pt II para 3(6) (as so substituted).

For these purposes, 'tax return' means a return under the Taxes Management Act 1970 s 12AA (as added); and 'tax year' means the 12 months beginning with 6 April in any year: Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 3 (as so added); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 1 Pt II para 3(7) (as so substituted).

4 This provision does not apply to an insolvent partnership which, by reason of a winding up order made after the date for filing, is treated as being wound up on that date: Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 4(2) (as added: see note 1 supra); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 1 Pt II para 4(2) (as substituted: see note 3 supra).

5 A voluntary arrangement the approval of which has taken effect under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 4A (as added) (see para 1182 post) or Sch A1 para 36 (as added) (see para 1176 post) comes to an end prematurely if, when it ceases to have effect, it has not been fully implemented in respect of all the persons bound by the arrangement by virtue of s 5(2)(b)(i) (as substituted and amended) (see para 131 ante) or, as the case may be, Sch A1 para 37(2)(b)(i) (as added) (see para 1176 post): s 7B (added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 2(a), Sch 2 Pt I paras 1, 10); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 4, Sch 1 Pt I para 7B (as substituted: see note 3 supra).

6 le a proposal under the Insolvency Act 1986 s 1(3) (as substituted): see para 1171 ante.

7 le under ibid s 5(3) (as amended): see para 1183 post.

8 le under the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 11: see para 1266 post.

9 Insolvency Act 1986 Sch A1 para 4(1) (as added: see note 1 supra); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 1 Pt II para 4(1) (as substituted: see note 3 supra).

Where a petition, other than an excepted petition¹³, for the winding up of the insolvent partnership has been presented before the beginning of the moratorium, the provisions¹⁴ relating to the avoidance of property dispositions after the commencement of the winding up do not apply in relation to any disposition of partnership property, any transfer of an interest in the insolvent partnership or alteration in the status of a member of the partnership made during the moratorium¹⁵.

1 These provisions do not apply to an excepted petition: Insolvency Act 1986 s 1A, Sch A1 para 12(4) (s 1A, Sch A1 added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 1, Sch 1 paras 1, 2, 4); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 4, Sch 1 Pt II para 12(3) (Sch 1 substituted by SI 2002/2708). 1175. Moratorium: disposal of charged property.

In relation to an insolvent partnership for which a moratorium is in force, the following provisions apply where any partnership property of the insolvent partnership is subject to a security or any goods are in the possession of one or more officers of the partnership in their capacity as such under a hire-purchase agreement¹.

If the holder of the security consents, or the court gives leave, the insolvent partnership may dispose of the property as if it were not subject to the security². Where property subject to a security which, as created, was a floating charge is so disposed of, the holder of the security has the same priority in respect of any partnership property directly or indirectly representing the property disposed of as he would have had in respect of the property subject to the security³.

If the owner of the goods consents, or the court gives leave, the insolvent partnership may dispose of the goods as if all the rights of the owner under the hire-purchase agreement were vested in the members of the partnership⁴.

In the case of a disposal under these provisions of any property subject to a security other than a security which, as created, was a floating charge or of any goods in the possession of one or more officers of the partnership in their capacity as such under a hire-purchase agreement, it must be a condition of any such consent or leave, as the case may be, that:

1496 (1) the net proceeds of the disposal; and

1497 (2) where those proceeds are less than such amount as may be agreed, or determined by the court, to be the net amount which would be realised on a sale of the property or goods in the open market by a willing vendor, such sums as may be required to make good the deficiency, are to be applied towards discharging the sums secured by the security or payable under the hire-purchase agreement⁵. Where a condition so imposed relates to two or more securities, the condition requires that the net proceeds of the disposal and, if applicable, the other sums referred to above, be applied towards discharging the sums secured by those securities in the order of their priorities⁶.

1176. Moratorium: effect of approval of voluntary arrangement.

Where, following a moratorium in relation to an insolvent partnership, a decision approving a voluntary arrangement has effect¹, the approved voluntary arrangement takes effect as if made by members of the partnership at the creditors' meeting, and binds every person who was entitled to vote at that meeting, whether or not he was present or represented at it, or would have been so entitled if he had had notice of it, as if he were a party to the voluntary arrangement².

Where, before the moratorium, a petition was presented for the winding up of the partnership as an unregistered company or a petition was presented by virtue of the provisions³ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an individual partnership as an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition, other than an excepted petition⁴, the court must dismiss the petition⁵. The court may not dismiss any such petition: (1) at any time before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the first day on which each of the reports⁶ of the result of the meetings has been made to the court; or (2) at any time when an application challenging the decisions of the meetings⁷ or an appeal in respect of such an application is pending, or at any time in the period within which such an appeal may be brought⁸.

1177. Moratorium: challenge of actions of officers of insolvent partnership.

In relation to acts or omissions of the officers of a partnership¹ during a moratorium, a creditor or member of the insolvent partnership may apply to the court on the ground: (1) that the partnership's affairs and business and partnership property² are being or have been managed by the officers of the partnership in a manner which is unfairly prejudicial to the interests of its creditors or members generally, or of some part of its creditors or members, including at least the petitioner; or (2) that any actual or proposed act or omission of the officers of the partnership is or would be so prejudicial³. Such an application may be made during or after the moratorium⁴.

On any such application, the court may make such order as it thinks fit for giving relief in respect of the matters complained of, adjourn the hearing conditionally or unconditionally, or make an interim order or any other order that it thinks fit⁵. Any such order may in particular: (a) regulate the management by the officers of the partnership of the partnership's affairs and business and partnership property during the remainder of the moratorium; (b) require the officers of the partnership to refrain from doing or continuing an act complained of by the petitioner, or to do an act which the petitioner has complained they have omitted to do; (c) require the summoning of a meeting of creditors or members of the partnership for the purpose of considering such matters as the court may direct; (d) bring the moratorium to an end and make such consequential provision as the court thinks fit⁶. In making any such order, the court must have regard to the need to safeguard the interests of persons who have dealt with the insolvent partnership in good faith and for value⁷.

In relation to any time when, in pursuance of a petition presented before the moratorium came into force:

- 1498 (i) an administration order is in force in relation to the insolvent partnership; or
- 1499 (ii) the insolvent partnership is being wound up as an unregistered company;
- or
- 1500 (iii) an order has been made by virtue of the provisions⁸ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition, no application for an order under these provisions may be made by a creditor or member of the insolvent partnership; but such an application may be made instead by the administrator or, as the case may be, trustee or liquidator⁹.

Where the intended nominee¹ is not the liquidator, administrator or trustee of the insolvent partnership, and the members of the partnership do not propose steps to obtain a moratorium² for the insolvent partnership, the following provisions apply³.

For the purposes of enabling the nominee to prepare his report, the person intending to make the proposal must submit to the nominee a document setting out the terms of the proposed voluntary arrangement and a statement of the partnership's affairs containing such particulars of the partnership's creditors and of the partnership's debts and other liabilities and of the partnership property⁴ as may be prescribed and such other information as may be prescribed⁵.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

1181. Decisions and report of meetings.

The meetings of creditors and the partnership summoned¹ to consider the proposal must decide whether to approve the proposed voluntary arrangement, with or without modifications². The modifications may include one conferring the functions proposed to be conferred on the nominee on another person qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner in relation to the insolvent partnership³; but they must not include any modification by virtue of which the proposal ceases to be a proposal⁴ for a voluntary arrangement⁵.

A meeting so summoned may not approve any proposal or modification which affects the right of a secured creditor of the partnership to enforce his security, except with the concurrence of the creditor concerned⁶. Nor may a meeting so summoned approve any proposal or modification under which any preferential debt⁷ of the partnership is to be paid otherwise than in priority to such of its debts as are not preferential debts, or a preferential creditor⁷ of the partnership is to be paid an amount in respect of a preferential debt that bears to that debt a smaller proportion than is borne to another preferential debt by the amount that is to be paid in respect of that other debt⁸. The meeting may, however, approve such a proposal or modification with the concurrence of the preferential creditor concerned⁹.

Subject to the above provisions, each of the meetings must be conducted in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986¹⁰. An approval given at a meeting is not, however, invalidated by any irregularity at or in relation to the meeting¹¹.

After the conclusion of either meeting, the chairman of the meeting must report the result of the meeting to the court; and, immediately after reporting to the court, the chairman of each meeting must also give notice of its result to all those who were sent notice of the meeting in accordance with the rules¹².

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

1182. Approval of arrangement.

As regards a decision¹ with respect to the approval of a proposed voluntary arrangement, the decision has effect if, in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986² it has been taken by the meetings of the partnership's members and creditors³ or, subject to any order made by the court under the provisions described below, it has been taken by the creditors' meeting⁴.

If the decision taken by the creditors' meeting differs from that taken by the meeting of the members of the partnership, a member of the partnership may apply to court⁵. Such an application may not be made after the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which the decision was taken by the creditors' meeting or, where the decision of the meeting of the members of the partnership was taken on a later day, that day⁶. On any such application, the court may order the decision of the meetings of the partnership to have effect instead of the decision of the creditors' meeting or make such other order as it thinks fit⁷.

1183. Effect of approval.

Where a decision approving a voluntary arrangement has effect¹, the approved voluntary arrangement takes effect as if made by the members of the partnership at the creditors' meeting, and binds every person² who had notice of, and was entitled to vote at, that meeting, whether or not he was present or represented at the meeting, or would have been so entitled if he had had notice of it, as if he were a party to the voluntary arrangement³.

If the partnership is being wound up as an unregistered company, or an administration order is in force, or an order is in force by virtue of the provisions⁴ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an insolvent partnership or an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition, the court may do one or both of the following, namely:

1. (a) stay all proceedings in the winding up or in the proceedings under the order made by virtue of such provisions, as the case may be, including any related insolvency proceedings of a member of the partnership in his capacity as such; or
2. (b) discharge the administration order;

1506 (2) give such directions with respect to the conduct of the winding up, or of the proceedings by virtue of such provisions, or of the administration, as the case may be, and the conduct of any related insolvency proceedings⁵, as it thinks appropriate for facilitating the implementation of the approved voluntary arrangement⁶.

The court may not make any such order:

1507 (i) at any time before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the first day on which each of the reports⁷ of the result of the meetings has been made to the court; or

1508 (ii) at any time when an application challenging the decisions of the meeting⁸ or an appeal in respect of such an application is pending, or at any time in the period within which such an appeal may be brought⁹.

Where, on an application¹, the court is satisfied as to either of the specified grounds for making such an application², it may do one or both of the following, namely:

- 1512 (1) revoke or suspend any decision approving the voluntary arrangement which has effect³ or, where there has been some material irregularity at or in relation to either of the meetings, any approval given by the meeting in question which has effect⁴;

(ii) Members of Partnerships

1191. Voluntary arrangements of members of insolvent partnership.

Where insolvency orders¹ are made against an insolvent partnership and an insolvent member² of that partnership in his capacity as such, Part I of the Insolvency Act 1986³ applies to corporate members and Part VIII of that Act⁴ applies to individual members of that partnership, with the modification that any reference to the creditors of the company or of the debtor, as the case may be, includes a reference to the creditors of the partnership⁵.

This provision is not to be construed as preventing the application of Part I or (as the case may be) Part VIII to any person who is a member of an insolvent partnership, whether or not a winding-up order has been made against that partnership, and against whom an insolvency order has not been made under the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994 or under the Insolvency Act 1986⁶.

1 For these purposes, 'insolvency order' means: (1) in the case of an insolvent partnership or a corporate member, a winding-up order; and (2) in the case of an individual member, a bankruptcy order: Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 2(1). 'Corporate member' means an insolvent member (see note 2 infra) which is a company (art 2(1)); and 'individual member' means an insolvent member who is an individual (art 2(1)).

2 For these purposes, 'insolvent member' means a member of an insolvent partnership, against whom an insolvency petition is being or has been presented: ibid art 2(1). 'Insolvency petition' means, in the case of a petition presented to the court against a corporate member, a petition for its winding up by the court, and, in the case of a petition presented to the court against an individual member, a petition for a bankruptcy order to be made against that individual, where, in either case, the petition is presented in conjunction with a petition for the winding up of the partnership by the court as an unregistered company under the Insolvency Act 1986: Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 2(1). 1193. Administration order.

An administration order is an order directing that, during the period for which the order is in force, the affairs and business of the partnership and the partnership property¹ are to be managed by a person ('the administrator') appointed for the purpose by the court².

1194. Power of court to make an administration order.

The court¹ may make an administration order² in relation to a partnership, if it is satisfied that the partnership is or is likely to become unable to pay its debts³, and it considers that the making of such an order would be likely to achieve one or more of the following purposes⁴:

- 1516 (1) the survival of the whole or any part of the undertaking of the partnership as a going concern;
- 1517 (2) the approval of a voluntary arrangement⁵;
- 1518 (3) a more advantageous realisation of the partnership property⁶ than would be effected on a winding up⁷.

The order must specify the purpose or purposes for which it is made⁷.

An administration order may not, however, be made in relation to a partnership after an order has been made for it to be wound up by the court as an unregistered company⁸, nor after an order has been made in relation to it by virtue of the provisions⁹ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition¹⁰

1 For the meaning of 'the court' see para 1191 note 2 ante.

3 Ie within the meaning given to that expression by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 222, s 223 or s 224: see para 1152 ante. A partnership may be insolvent even if the value of one of the partner's assets exceeds the value of the partnership's liabilities: Re HS Smith and Sons (1999) Times, 6 January.

An authorised deposit taker which defaults on an obligation to pay any sum due and payable in respect of a relevant deposit is deemed unable to pay its debts: Insolvency Act 1986 s 8; Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 6, Sch 2 paras 1, 2 (amended by SI 2001/3649). See para 1192 ante.

For these purposes, 'authorised deposit taker' means a person, being a partnership, which has permission under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 Pt IV (ss 40-55) (as amended) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARAS 348-361) to accept deposits, other than a person who has such permission only for the purpose of carrying on another regulated activity in accordance with that permission; and 'relevant deposit' and 'authorised deposit taker' must be read with s 22 (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARA 84), any relevant order under s 22 and Sch 2 (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARAS 84, 85); but any restriction on the meaning of deposit which arises from the identity of the person making it is to be disregarded: Insolvency Act 1986 s 8; Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 2 paras 1, 2 (amended by SI 2001/3649).

1197. Effect of presentation of petition.

During the period beginning with the presentation of a petition¹ for an administration order² and ending with the making of such an order or the dismissal of the petition³:

- 1519 (1) no order may be made for the winding up of the insolvent partnership, nor may any order be made in respect of the partnership by virtue of the provisions⁴ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition, or under the provisions⁵ relating to the dissolution of a partnership by the court⁶;
- 1520 (2) no landlord or other person to whom rent is payable may exercise any right of forfeiture by peaceable re-entry in relation to premises forming part of the partnership property⁷ or let to one or more officers of the partnership⁸ in their capacity as such in respect of a failure by the partnership or one or more officers of the partnership to comply with any term or condition of the tenancy of such premises, except with the leave of the court and subject to such terms as the court may impose⁹;
- 1521 (3) no steps may be taken to enforce any security¹⁰ over the partnership's property, or to repossess goods in the partnership's possession under any hire-purchase agreement¹¹, conditional sale agreement, chattel leasing agreement¹² or retention of title agreement¹³ of one or more of the officers of the partnership in their capacity as such, except with the leave of the court and subject to such terms as the court may impose¹⁴; and
- 1522 (4) no other proceedings and no execution or other legal process may be commenced or continued, and no distress may be levied, against the partnership or the partnership property, except with the leave of the court and subject to such terms as the court may impose¹⁵.

Nothing in these provisions requires the leave of the court:

- 1523 (a) for the presentation of a petition for the winding up of the partnership¹⁶;
- 1524 (b) for the presentation of a petition by virtue of the provisions¹⁷ relating to insolvency proceedings not involving the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company where individual members present a joint bankruptcy petition;
- 1525 (c) for the appointment of an agricultural receiver¹⁸ of the partnership; or
- 1526 (d) for the carrying out by such a receiver, whenever appointed, of any of his functions¹⁹.

Where a petition for an administration order is presented at a time when there is an agricultural receiver of the partnership, and the person by or on whose behalf the receiver was appointed has not consented to the making of the order, the period mentioned above is deemed not to begin unless and until that person so consents²⁰.

1202. General powers of administrator.

The administrator of an insolvent partnership may do all such things as may be necessary for the management of the affairs and business of the partnership and of the partnership property¹ and, without prejudice to the generality of the above provisions, he has the following specified powers²:

- 1539 (1) power to take possession of, collect and get in the partnership property and, for that purpose, to take such proceedings as may seem to him expedient;
- 1540 (2) power to sell or otherwise dispose of the partnership property by public auction or private contract or, in Scotland, to sell, feu, hire out or otherwise dispose of the partnership property by public roup or private bargain;

- 1542 (4) power to appoint a solicitor or accountant or other professionally qualified person to assist him in the performance of his functions;

- 1547 (9) power to draw, accept, make and indorse any bill of exchange or promissory note in the name and on behalf of any member of the partnership in his capacity as such, or of the partnership;
- 1548 (10) power to appoint any agent to do any business which he is unable to do himself or which can more conveniently be done by an agent, and power to employ and dismiss employees;
- 1549 (11) power to do all such things, including the carrying out of works, as may be necessary for the realisation of the partnership property;
- 1550 (12) power to make any payment which is necessary or incidental to the performance of his functions;

Any power exercisable by the officers⁸ of the partnership, whether under the Partnership Act 1890, the partnership agreement or otherwise, which could be exercised in such a way as to interfere with the exercise by the administrator of his powers is not exercisable except with the consent of the administrator, which may be given either generally or in relation to particular cases⁹.

In exercising his powers, the administrator is deemed to act as the agent of the members of the partnership in their capacity as such¹⁰; but an officer of the partnership is not, unless he otherwise consents, personally liable for the debts and obligations of the partnership incurred during the period when the administration order is in force¹¹. A person dealing with the administrator in good faith and for value need not be concerned to inquire whether the administrator is acting within his powers¹².

1203. Administrator's power to deal with charged property etc.

The administrator of a partnership may dispose of, or otherwise exercise his powers in relation to, any partnership property¹ which is subject to a floating charge² as if the property were not subject to the security³; and, where property is so disposed of, the holder of the security has the same priority in respect of any partnership property directly or indirectly representing the property disposed of as he would have had in respect of the property subject to the security⁴.

Where, on an application by the administrator, the court⁵ is satisfied that the disposal, with or without other assets, of any partnership property subject to any other security or any goods in the possession of one or more officers⁶ of the partnership in their capacity as such under a hire-purchase agreement⁷, conditional sale agreement⁷, chattel leasing agreement⁸, or retention of title agreement⁹ would be likely to promote the purpose or one or more of the purposes specified in the administration order¹⁰, the court may by order authorise the administrator to dispose of the property as if it were not subject to the security or to dispose of the goods as if all rights of the owner under any such agreement were vested in the members of the partnership¹¹.

It must be a condition of any such order that the net proceeds of the disposal, and, where those proceeds are less than such amount as may be determined by the court to be the net amount which would be realised on a sale of the property or goods in the open market by a willing vendor, such sums as may be required to make good the deficiency, are to be applied towards discharging the sums secured by the security or payable under the agreement¹². Where a condition so imposed relates to two or more securities, the condition requires that the net proceeds of the disposal and, if applicable, the other sums referred to above, be applied towards discharging the sums secured by those securities in the order of their priorities¹³.

High Court and county court jurisdiction.

1206. High Court and county court jurisdiction.

The High Court has jurisdiction to wind up any insolvent partnership as an unregistered company¹ if the partnership has, or at any time had, in England and Wales either a principal place of business or a place of business at which business is or has been carried on in the course of which the debt, or part of the debt, arose which forms the basis of the petition for winding up the partnership².

A petition for the winding up of an insolvent partnership³ may be presented to a county court in England and Wales if the partnership has, or at any time had, within the insolvency district⁴ of that court either a principal place of business or a place of business at which business is or has been carried on in the course of which the debt, or part of the debt, arose which forms the basis of the winding-up petition⁵.

The court only has jurisdiction to wind up an insolvent partnership if the business of the partnership has been carried on in England and Wales at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented⁶; but, if an insolvent partnership has a principal place of business situated in Scotland or in Northern Ireland, the court does not have jurisdiction to wind up the partnership unless it had a principal place of business in England and Wales: (1) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Scotland, at any time in the period of one year ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented; or (2) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Northern Ireland, at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented⁷.

Every court in England and Wales having winding-up jurisdiction has for the purposes of that jurisdiction all the powers of the High Court; and every prescribed⁸ officer of the court must perform any duties which an officer of the High Court may discharge by order of a judge of that court or otherwise in relation to winding up⁹.

1208. Grounds for winding up insolvent partnerships as unregistered companies.

The circumstances in which an insolvent partnership may be wound up as an unregistered company are:

- 1560 (2) if the partnership is unable to pay its debts²;

- 1562 (4) at the time at which a moratorium for the insolvent partnership⁴ comes to an end, no approved⁵ voluntary arrangement has effect in relation to the insolvent partnership⁶.

However, a winding-up petition on the ground set out in head (4) above may only be presented by one or more creditors⁷.

1209 Application of winding-up provisions

NOTES--SI 1994/2421 Sch 3 para 3 amended: SI 2006/622.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(i) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where No Concurrent Petition Presented Against Member/1210. Petition by liquidator, administrator, trustee or supervisor to wind up insolvent partnership as unregistered company.

1210. Petition by liquidator, administrator, trustee or supervisor to wind up insolvent partnership as unregistered company.

A petition¹ for winding up an insolvent partnership may be presented by:

- 1563 (1) the liquidator or administrator of a corporate member² or of a former corporate member; or
- 1564 (2) the administrator of the partnership; or
- 1565 (3) the trustee of an individual member's³, or of a former individual member's, estate; or
- 1566 (4) the supervisor of a voluntary arrangement approved under Part I of the Insolvency Act 1986⁴ in relation to a corporate member or the partnership, or under Part VIII of the Insolvency Act 1986⁵ in relation to an individual member, if the ground of the petition is one of the circumstances⁶ in which an insolvent partnership may be wound up as an unregistered company⁷.

If the ground of the petition presented under these provisions is that the partnership is unable to pay its debts⁸ and the petitioning insolvency practitioner⁹ is able to satisfy the court that an insolvency order¹⁰ has been made against the member whose liquidator or trustee he is because of that member's inability to pay a joint debt¹¹, that order is, unless it is proved otherwise to the satisfaction of the court, proof¹² that the partnership is unable to pay its debts¹³.

Where a winding-up petition is presented under these provisions, the court may appoint the petitioning insolvency practitioner as provisional liquidator¹⁴ of the partnership¹⁵.

Where a winding-up order is made against an insolvent partnership after the presentation of a petition under these provisions, the court may appoint the petitioning insolvency practitioner as liquidator of the partnership¹⁶.

Where a winding-up petition is presented under these provisions, in the event of the partnership property¹⁷ being insufficient to satisfy the costs of the petitioning insolvency practitioner, the costs may be paid out of the assets of the corporate or individual member, as the case may be, as part of the expenses of the liquidation, administration, bankruptcy or voluntary arrangement of that member, in the same order of priority as expenses properly chargeable or incurred by the practitioner in getting in any of the assets of the member¹⁸.

1220 Application of winding-up provisions

NOTE 1--SI 1994/2421 Sch 4 para 3 amended: SI 2006/622.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1221. High Court and county court jurisdiction.

1221. High Court and county court jurisdiction.

The High Court has jurisdiction to wind up any insolvent partnership as an unregistered company¹ if the partnership has, or at any time had, in England and Wales either a principal place of business or a place of business at which business is or has been carried on in the course of which the debt, or part of the debt, arose which forms the basis of the petition for winding up the partnership².

A petition for the winding up of an insolvent partnership³ may be presented to a county court in England and Wales if the partnership has, or at any time had, within the insolvency district⁴ of that court either a principal place of business or a place of business at which business is or has been carried on in the course of which the debt, or part of the debt, arose which forms the basis of the winding-up petition⁵.

The court only has jurisdiction to wind up an insolvent partnership if the business of the partnership has been carried on in England and Wales at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented⁶; but, if an insolvent partnership has a principal place of business situated in Scotland or in Northern Ireland, the court does not have jurisdiction to wind up the partnership unless it had a principal place of business in England and Wales: (1) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Scotland, at any time in the period of one year ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented; or (2) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Northern Ireland, at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented⁷.

The court has jurisdiction to wind up a corporate member⁸ or former corporate member, or make a bankruptcy order against an individual member⁹ or former individual member, of a partnership against which a petition has been presented¹⁰ if it has jurisdiction in respect of the partnership¹¹; but petitions for the winding up of an insolvent partnership and the bankruptcy of one or more members or former members of that partnership may not be so presented to a district registry of the High Court¹².

Every court in England and Wales having winding-up jurisdiction has for the purposes of that jurisdiction all the powers of the High Court; and every prescribed¹³ officer of the court must perform any duties which an officer of the High Court may discharge by order of a judge of that court or otherwise in relation to winding up¹⁴.

These provisions are subject to the provisions in the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings¹⁵ concerning jurisdiction in cross-border insolvency proceedings in the European Union¹⁶.

Any insolvent partnership may be wound up under the Insolvency Act 1986¹ if it has, or at any time had, in England and Wales either a principal place of business, or a place of business at which business is or has been carried on in the course of which the debt, or part of the debt, arose which forms the basis of the petition for winding up the partnership².

An insolvent partnership may not be wound up under the Insolvency Act 1986 if the business of the partnership has not been carried on in England and Wales at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the winding-up petition is presented³; but, if an insolvent partnership has a principal place of business situated in Scotland or in Northern Ireland, the court does not have jurisdiction to wind up the partnership unless it had a principal place of business in England and Wales: (1) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Scotland, at any time in the period of one year ending with the day on which the winding-up petition is presented; or (2) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Northern Ireland, at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the winding-up petition is presented⁴.

UPDATE

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1227. Applications to wind up insolvent partnership and to wind up or bankrupt insolvent member.

1227. Applications to wind up insolvent partnership and to wind up or bankrupt insolvent member.

An application to the court¹ for the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company and the winding up or bankruptcy, as the case may be, of at least one of its members or former members must be by petition in the prescribed form, different forms being prescribed in the case of the partnership², in the case of a corporate member³ or former corporate member⁴, and in the case of an individual member⁵ or former individual member⁶.

Each of the petitions mentioned above may be presented by a liquidator⁷, a temporary administrator⁸ or any creditor or creditors to whom the partnership and the member or former member in question is indebted in respect of a liquidated sum payable immediately⁹.

The petitions mentioned above must all be presented to the same court and, except as the court otherwise permits or directs, on the same day, and, except in the case of the petition against an individual member or former individual member, must be advertised in the prescribed form¹⁰.

At any time after presentation of a petition under these provisions the petitioner may, with the leave of the court obtained on application and on such terms as it thinks just, add other members or former members of the partnership as parties to the proceedings in relation to the insolvent partnership¹¹.

Each petition presented under these provisions must contain particulars of other petitions being presented in relation to the partnership, identifying the partnership and members concerned¹².

The hearing of the petition against the partnership fixed by the court must be in advance of the hearing of any petition against an insolvent member¹³.

On the day appointed for the hearing of the petition against the partnership, the petitioner must, before the commencement of the hearing, hand to the court a notice in the prescribed form¹⁴, duly completed, of progress on the petitions presented¹⁵.

Any member of the partnership or any person against whom a winding-up or bankruptcy petition has been presented in relation to the insolvent partnership is entitled to appear and to be heard on any petition for the winding up of the partnership¹⁶.

A petitioner under these provisions may at the hearing withdraw a petition if he withdraws at the same time every other petition which he has presented under these provisions¹⁷ and he gives notice to the court at least three days before the date appointed for the hearing of the relevant petition of his intention to withdraw the petition¹⁸.

Where such a notice is given, the court may, on such terms as it thinks just, substitute as petitioner¹⁹, both in respect of the partnership and in respect of each insolvent member against whom a petition has been presented, any creditor of the partnership who in its opinion would have a right to present the petitions; and, if the court makes such a substitution, the petitions in question will not be withdrawn²⁰.

The provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 relating to the winding up of unregistered companies apply to the winding up of an insolvent partnership on the petition of a creditor, liquidator or temporary administrator where insolvency petitions are presented by the petitioner against a member or former member of that partnership; certain of those provisions are modified and are set out as modified in the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 4 (as amended): see para 1218 ante.

The modifications to the Insolvency Act 1986 s 124 also apply so as to modify s 264 (as amended) (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) para 195): Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 4 Pt II para 8.

UPDATE

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1228. Powers of court on hearing of petitions against insolvent partnership and members.

1228. Powers of court on hearing of petitions against insolvent partnership and members.

On hearing a petition¹ against an insolvent partnership or any of its insolvent members², the court may³ dismiss it, or adjourn the hearing conditionally or unconditionally or make any other order that it thinks fit; but the court may not refuse to make a winding-up order against the partnership or a corporate member⁴ on the ground only that the partnership property⁵ or, as the case may be, the member's assets have been mortgaged to an amount equal to or in excess of that property or those assets, or that the partnership has no property or the member no assets⁶.

An order so made in respect of an insolvent partnership may contain directions as to the future conduct of any insolvency proceedings in existence against any insolvent member in respect of whom an insolvency order⁷ has been made⁸.

On the hearing of a petition against an insolvent member, the petitioner must draw the court's attention to the result of the hearing of the winding-up petition against the partnership; and the following provisions apply⁹.

If the court has neither made a winding-up order, nor dismissed the winding-up petition, against the partnership, the court may adjourn the hearing of the petition against the member until either event has occurred¹⁰.

If a winding-up order has been made against the partnership, the court may make a winding-up order against the corporate member in respect of which, or, as the case may be, a bankruptcy order against the individual member¹¹ in respect of whom, the insolvency petition¹² was presented¹³; but, if no insolvency order is made against any member within 28 days of the making of the winding-up order against the partnership, the proceedings against the partnership must be conducted as if the winding-up petition against the partnership had been presented under the provisions¹⁴ relating to the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company where no concurrent petition is presented against a member and the proceedings against any member must be conducted under the Insolvency Act 1986 without the modifications¹⁵ made by the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994¹⁶.

If the court has dismissed the winding-up petition against the partnership, the court may dismiss the winding-up petition against the corporate member or, as the case may be, the bankruptcy petition against the individual member; but, if an insolvency order is made against a member, the proceedings against that member must be conducted under the Insolvency Act 1986 without the modifications¹⁷ made by the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994¹⁸.

The court may dismiss a petition against an insolvent member if it considers it just to do so because of a change in circumstances since the making of the winding-up order against the partnership¹⁹.

The court may dismiss a petition against an insolvent member who is a limited partner²⁰, if the member lodges in court for the benefit of the creditors of the partnership sufficient money or security to the court's satisfaction to meet his liability for the debts and obligations of the partnership, or the member satisfies the court that he is no longer under any liability in respect of the debts and obligations of the partnership²¹.

Nothing in the provisions described above²² prejudices the power of the court, in accordance with the rules, to authorise a creditor's petition to be amended by the omission of any creditor or debt and to be proceeded with as if things done for the purposes of those provisions had been done only by or in relation to the remaining creditors or debts²³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. Statements of affairs; insolvent partnerships; corporate members; individual members.

1229. Statements of affairs; insolvent partnerships; corporate members; individual members.

The provisions described below apply where the court has¹ made a winding-up order or appointed a provisional liquidator in respect of an insolvent partnership, or made a winding-up order or appointed a provisional liquidator in respect of any corporate member² of that partnership, or made a bankruptcy order in respect of any individual member³ of that partnership⁴.

The official receiver may require some or all of the persons mentioned below to make out and submit to him a statement as to the affairs of the partnership or member in the prescribed form⁵. The statement must be verified by affidavit by the persons required to submit it and must show:

- 1629 (1) particulars of the debts and liabilities of the partnership or of the member, as the case may be, and of the partnership property⁶ and member's assets;
- 1630 (2) the names and addresses of the creditors of the partnership or of the member, as the case may be;
- 1631 (3) the securities held by them respectively;
- 1632 (4) the dates when the securities were respectively given; and
- 1633 (5) such further or other information as may be prescribed or as the official receiver may require⁷.

The persons who may be required to make out and submit a statement of affairs are those who are or have been officers⁸ of the partnership, those who are or have been officers of the corporate member, those who have taken part in the formation of the partnership or of the corporate member at any time within one year before the relevant date⁹, those who are in the employment¹⁰ of the partnership or of the corporate member, or have been in such employment within that year, and are in the official receiver's opinion capable of giving the information required, and those who are or have been within that year officers of, or in the employment of, a company which is, or within that year was, an officer of the partnership or an officer of the corporate member¹¹.

Where any persons are required under these provisions to submit a statement of affairs to the official receiver, they must do so before the end of the period of 21 days beginning with the day after that on which the prescribed notice¹² of the requirement is given to them by the official receiver¹³; but the official receiver, if he thinks fit, may at any time release a person from an obligation imposed on him to make out and submit a statement of affairs¹⁴ or, either when giving the notice or subsequently, extend the period of 21 days; and, where the official receiver has refused to exercise such a power, the court, if it thinks fit, may exercise it¹⁵.

Any person who without reasonable excuse fails to comply with any obligation imposed under the above provisions, other than, in the case of an individual member, an obligation in respect of his own statement of affairs, is liable on conviction on indictment to a fine, or on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, and, on conviction after continued contravention, to a daily default fine not exceeding one-tenth of the statutory maximum¹⁶.

An individual member who without reasonable excuse fails to comply with any obligation imposed under the above provisions in respect of his own statement of affairs is guilty of a contempt of court and liable to be punished accordingly, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be subject¹⁷.

1230. Public examination of officers of insolvent partnerships.

Where an insolvent partnership is being wound up¹, the official receiver may at any time before the winding up is complete apply to the court for the public examination of any person who:

- 1634 (1) is or has been an officer² of the partnership; or
- 1635 (2) has acted as liquidator or administrator of the partnership or as receiver or manager or, in Scotland, receiver of its property;
- 1636 (3) not being a person falling within heads (1) and (2) above, is or has been concerned, or has taken part, in the formation of the partnership³.

Unless the court otherwise orders, the official receiver must make such an application if he is requested⁴ to do so by one-half, in value, of the creditors of the partnership⁵.

On an application to the court for a public examination, the court must direct that a public examination of the person to whom the application relates be held on a day appointed by the court; and that person must attend on that day and be publicly examined as to the formation or management of the partnership or as to the conduct of its business and affairs, or his conduct or dealings in relation to the partnership⁶.

The official receiver, the liquidator of the partnership, any person who has been appointed as special manager of the partnership's property or business, and any creditor of the partnership who has tendered a proof in the winding up may take part in the public examination of a person under these provisions and may question that person concerning the matters mentioned above⁷.

On an application to the court for a public examination, the court may direct that the public examination of any person in relation to the affairs of an insolvent partnership be combined with the public examination of any person under the Insolvency Act 1986 in relation to the affairs of a corporate member⁸ of that partnership against which, or of an individual member⁹ of the partnership against whom, an insolvency order¹⁰ has been made¹¹.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1231. Functions of the official receiver in relation to the office of responsible insolvency practitioner; duty of official receiver to summon meeting.

1231. Functions of the official receiver in relation to the office of responsible insolvency practitioner; duty of official receiver to summon meeting.

The provisions described below have effect¹ where insolvency orders are made² in respect of an insolvent partnership and one or more of its insolvent members³.

The official receiver⁴, by virtue of his office, becomes the responsible insolvency practitioner⁵ of the partnership and of any insolvent member and continues in office until another person⁶ becomes responsible insolvency practitioner⁷. The official receiver is, by virtue of his office, the responsible insolvency practitioner of the partnership and of any insolvent member during any vacancy⁸.

At any time when he is the responsible insolvency practitioner of the insolvent partnership and of any insolvent member, the official receiver may summon a combined meeting of the creditors of the partnership and the creditors of any such member, for the purpose of choosing a person to be responsible insolvency practitioner in place of the official receiver⁹.

It is the duty of the official receiver, as soon as practicable in the period of 12 weeks beginning with the day on which the insolvency order was made against the partnership, to decide whether to exercise his power¹⁰ to summon a meeting for the purpose of choosing a person to be responsible insolvency practitioner in his place¹¹.

If the official receiver decides not to exercise that power, he must give notice of his decision, before the end of that period, to the court and to the creditors of the partnership and the creditors of any insolvent member against whom an insolvency order has been made¹².

Whether or not the official receiver has decided to exercise that power to summon a meeting, he must exercise that power if he is at any time requested to do so¹³ by one-quarter, in value, of either the partnership's creditors or the creditors of any insolvent member against whom an insolvency order has been made¹⁴. Accordingly, where the duty imposed by such a request arises before the official receiver has performed his duty to decide whether to summon a meeting¹⁵ or to give notice of his decision not to do so¹⁶, he is not required to perform the latter duty¹⁷.

Where a meeting of creditors of the partnership and of any insolvent member has been held under these provisions and an insolvency order is subsequently made against a further insolvent member¹⁸, any person chosen at that meeting to be responsible insolvency practitioner in place of the official receiver must also be the responsible insolvency practitioner of the member against whom the subsequent order is made, and the duties imposed on the official receiver under these provisions¹⁹ do not apply²⁰.

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. Appointment of responsible insolvency practitioner by Secretary of State.

1232. Appointment of responsible insolvency practitioner by Secretary of State.

The provisions described below apply where the court has made insolvency orders¹ in respect of an insolvent partnership and one or more of its insolvent members².

The official receiver³ may, at any time when he is the responsible insolvency practitioner⁴ of the partnership and of any insolvent member, apply to the Secretary of State for the appointment of a person as responsible insolvency practitioner of both the partnership and of any such member in his place⁵.

If a meeting is held in pursuance of a decision by the official receiver to summon a meeting⁶ but no person is chosen to be responsible insolvency practitioner as a result of that meeting, it is the duty of the official receiver to decide whether to refer the need for an appointment to the Secretary of State⁷.

On any such application to the Secretary of State by the official receiver or on a reference made to the Secretary of State in pursuance of a decision by the official receiver to refer the matter to him, the Secretary of State must either make an appointment or decline to make one⁸.

If no appointment is made by the Secretary of State, the official receiver continues to be the responsible insolvency practitioner of the partnership and its insolvent member or members, but without prejudice to his power to make a further application or reference⁹.

Where a responsible insolvency practitioner has been appointed by the Secretary of State and an insolvency order is subsequently made against a further insolvent member¹⁰, then the practitioner so appointed must also be the responsible insolvency practitioner of the member against whom the subsequent order is made¹¹.

Where a responsible insolvency practitioner has been appointed by the Secretary of State or has become responsible insolvency practitioner of a further insolvent member under the provisions described above, that practitioner must give notice of his appointment or further appointment, as the case may be, to the creditors of the insolvent partnership and the creditors of the insolvent member or members against whom insolvency orders have been made or, if the court so allows, must advertise his appointment in accordance with the directions of the court¹².

In that notice or advertisement the responsible insolvency practitioner must state whether he proposes to summon¹³ a combined meeting of the creditors of the insolvent partnership and of the insolvent member or members against whom insolvency orders have been made, for the purpose of determining whether a creditors' committee should be established and, if he does not propose to summon such a meeting, set out the power of the creditors of the partnership and of the insolvent member or members to require him to summon one¹⁴.

Where, in a case where a responsible insolvency practitioner has become responsible insolvency practitioner of a further insolvent member¹⁵, a meeting has already been held¹⁶, the responsible insolvency practitioner must state in the notice or advertisement whether a creditors' committee was established at that meeting and, if such a committee was established, must state whether he proposes to appoint additional members of the committee¹⁷.

and, if such a committee was not established, must set out the power¹⁸ of the creditors of the partnership and of the insolvent member or members to require him to summon a meeting for the purpose of determining whether a creditors' committee should¹⁸ be established¹⁹.

1234 Appointment by the court following administration or voluntary arrangement

NOTE 4--SI 1994/2421 Sch 4 Pt II para 15 amended: SI 2005/1516.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1235. Creditors' committee; insolvent partnership and members.

1235. Creditors' committee; insolvent partnership and members.

Where insolvency orders¹ are made in respect of an insolvent partnership and one or more of its insolvent members² and a combined meeting of creditors has been summoned for the purpose of choosing a person to be the responsible insolvency practitioner³ of the partnership and of any such insolvent member or members, the provisions described below apply⁴.

The meeting of creditors may establish a committee ('the creditors' committee') which must consist of creditors of the partnership or creditors of any insolvent member against whom an insolvency order has been made, or both⁵.

The responsible insolvency practitioner of the partnership and of its insolvent member or members, not being the official receiver, may at any time, if he thinks fit, summon a combined general meeting of the creditors of the partnership and of such member or members for the purpose of determining whether a creditors' committee should be established and, if it is so determined, of establishing it⁶.

The responsible insolvency practitioner, not being the official receiver, must summon such a meeting if he is requested⁷ to do so by one-tenth, in value, of either the partnership's creditors or the creditors of any insolvent member against whom an insolvency order has been made⁸.

The committee established under these provisions acts as liquidation committee for the partnership and for any corporate member⁹ against which an insolvency order has been made, and as creditors' committee for any individual member¹⁰ against whom an insolvency order has been made; and, as appropriate, it exercises the functions conferred on liquidation and creditors' committees in a winding up or bankruptcy by or under the Insolvency Act 1986¹¹.

The rules relating to liquidation committees apply, with the necessary modifications and with the exclusion of all references to contributories, to a committee established under these provisions¹².

Where the appointment of the responsible insolvency practitioner also takes effect in relation to a further insolvent member¹³, the practitioner may appoint any creditor of that member, being qualified under the rules to be a member of the committee, to be an additional member of any creditors' committee already established under these provisions, provided that the creditor concerned consents to act¹⁴.

The court may at any time, on application by a creditor of the partnership or of any insolvent member against whom an insolvency order has been made, appoint additional members of the creditors' committee¹⁵. If additional members of the creditors' committee are so appointed, the limit on the maximum number of members of the committee specified in the rules is increased by the number of additional members so appointed¹⁶.

The creditors' committee is not to be able or required to carry out its functions at any time when the official receiver is responsible insolvency practitioner of the partnership and of its insolvent member or members; but at any such time its functions are vested in the Secretary of State, except to the extent that the rules otherwise provide¹⁷.

Where there is for the time being no creditors' committee, and the responsible insolvency practitioner is a person other than the official receiver, the functions of such a committee are vested in the Secretary of State, except to the extent that the rules otherwise provide¹⁸.

1237. Duty to summon final meeting of creditors.

The provisions described below apply¹ if it appears to the responsible insolvency practitioner² of an insolvent partnership which is being wound up³ and of its insolvent member⁴ or members that the winding up of the partnership or of any corporate member⁵, or the administration of any individual member's⁶ estate, is for practical purposes complete and the practitioner is not the official receiver⁷.

The responsible insolvency practitioner must summon a final general meeting of the creditors of the partnership or of the insolvent member or members, as the case may be, or a combined final general meeting of the creditors of the partnership and of the insolvent member or members which must, as appropriate, receive the practitioner's report of the winding up of the insolvent partnership or of any corporate member or of the administration of the estate of any individual member, and must determine whether the practitioner should have his release⁸ in respect of the winding up of the partnership or of the corporate member, or the administration of the individual member's estate, as the case may be⁹.

The responsible insolvency practitioner may, if he thinks fit, give the notice summoning the final general meeting at the same time as giving notice of any final distribution of the partnership property¹⁰ or the property of the insolvent member or members; but, if summoned for an earlier date, that meeting must be adjourned and, if necessary, further adjourned, until a date on which the practitioner is able to report to the meeting that the winding up of the partnership or of any corporate member, or the administration of any individual member's estate, is for practical purposes complete¹¹.

In the carrying out of his functions in the winding up of the partnership and of any corporate member and the administration of any individual member's estate, it is the duty of the responsible insolvency practitioner to retain sufficient sums from the partnership property and the property of any such insolvent member to cover the expenses of summoning and holding any meeting required by the provisions described above¹².

1238. Power of court to stay proceedings.

The court may, at any time after an order has been made¹ for winding up an insolvent partnership, on the application of the responsible insolvency practitioner or the official receiver² or any creditor or contributory, and on proof to the satisfaction of the court that all proceedings in the winding up of the partnership ought to be stayed, make an order staying the proceedings, either altogether or for a limited time, on such terms and conditions as the court thinks fit³.

If, in the course of hearing an insolvency petition⁴ presented against a member⁵ of an insolvent partnership, the court is satisfied that an application has been or will be made for such a stay of proceedings in respect of a winding-up order made against the partnership, the court may adjourn the petition against the insolvent member⁶, either conditionally or unconditionally⁷.

Where the court makes an order staying all proceedings on the order for winding up an insolvent partnership, the court may, on hearing any insolvency petition presented against an insolvent member of the partnership, dismiss that petition; and, if any insolvency order⁸ has already been made⁹ in relation to an insolvent member of the partnership, the court may make an order annulling or rescinding that insolvency order, or may make any other order that it thinks fit¹⁰.

The court may, before making any order under these provisions, require the official receiver to furnish to it a report with respect to any facts or matters which are in his opinion relevant to the application¹¹.

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1241. Release of responsible insolvency practitioner or of provisional liquidator.

1241. Release of responsible insolvency practitioner or of provisional liquidator.

The provisions described below apply with respect to the release of:

- 1644 (1) the responsible insolvency practitioner¹ of an insolvent partnership which is being wound up² and of its insolvent member³ or members against whom insolvency orders⁴ have been made; or
- 1645 (2) a provisional liquidator of an insolvent partnership, and of any corporate member⁵ of that partnership, against which a winding-up petition is⁶ presented⁷.

Where the official receiver has ceased to be the responsible insolvency practitioner and a person is appointed in his stead, the official receiver has his release with effect from the following time, that is to say:

- 1646 (a) in a case where that person was nominated by a combined general meeting of creditors of the partnership and of any insolvent member or members, or was appointed by the Secretary of State, the time at which the official receiver gives notice to the court that he has been replaced;
- 1647 (b) in a case where that person is appointed by the court, such time as the court may determine⁸.

If the official receiver, while he is a responsible insolvency practitioner, gives notice to the Secretary of State that the winding up of the partnership or of any corporate member or the administration of the estate of any individual member is for practical purposes complete, he has his release as liquidator or trustee, as the case may be, with effect from such time as the Secretary of State may determine⁹.

A person other than the official receiver who has ceased to be a responsible insolvency practitioner has his release with effect from the following time, that is to say:

- 1648 (i) in the case of a person who has died, the time at which notice is given to the court¹⁰ that that person has ceased to hold office;
- 1649 (ii) in the case of a person who has been removed from office by the court or by the Secretary of State, or who has vacated office by reason of ceasing to be qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner¹¹, such time as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine;
- 1650 (iii) in the case of a person who has resigned, such time as may be directed by the court, or, if he was appointed by the Secretary of State, such time as may be directed by the court or as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine;
- 1651 (iv) in the case of a person who has vacated office¹² following the final meeting, if the final meeting has resolved against that person's release, such time as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine, and, if that meeting has not so resolved, the time at which that person vacated office¹³.

A person who has ceased to hold office as a provisional liquidator has his release with effect from such time as the court may, on an application by him, determine¹⁴.

Where a bankruptcy order in respect of an individual member¹⁵ is annulled, the responsible insolvency practitioner at the time of the annulment has his release with effect from such time as the court may determine¹⁶.

Where the responsible insolvency practitioner or provisional liquidator, including in both cases the official receiver when so acting, has his release under these provisions, he is, with effect from the time specified above, discharged from all liability both in respect of acts or omissions of his in the winding up of the insolvent partnership or any corporate member or in the administration of the estate of any individual member, as the case may be, and otherwise in relation to his conduct as responsible insolvency practitioner or provisional liquidator¹⁷.

Nothing in these provisions prevents the exercise, in relation to a person who has had his release, of the court's powers under the provisions¹⁸ relating to the summary remedy against delinquent directors, liquidators etc or the liability of a trustee¹⁹.

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1242. Priority of expenses.

1242. Priority of expenses.

The provisions described below apply¹ as regards priority of expenses incurred by a responsible insolvency practitioner² of an insolvent partnership, and of any insolvent member³ of that partnership against whom an insolvency order⁴ has been made⁵.

The joint estate⁶ of the partnership is applicable in the first instance in payment of the joint expenses⁷ and the separate estate⁸ of each insolvent member is applicable in the first instance in payment of the separate expenses⁹ relating to that member¹⁰.

Where the joint estate is insufficient for the payment in full of the joint expenses, the unpaid balance must be apportioned equally between the separate estates of the insolvent members against whom insolvency orders have been made and form part of the expenses to be paid out of those estates¹¹.

Where any separate estate of an insolvent member is insufficient for the payment in full of the separate expenses to be paid out of that estate, the unpaid balance forms part of the expenses to be paid out of the joint estate¹².

Where, after the transfer of any unpaid balance in accordance with these provisions, any estate is insufficient for the payment in full of the expenses to be paid out of that estate, the balance then remaining unpaid must be apportioned equally between the other estates¹³. Where, after such an apportionment, one or more estates are insufficient for the payment in full of the expenses to be paid out of those estates, the total of the unpaid balances of the expenses to be paid out of those estates must continue to be apportioned equally between the other estates until provision is made for the payment in full of the expenses or there is no estate available for the payment of the balance finally remaining unpaid, in which case it abates in equal proportions between all the estates¹⁴.

The responsible insolvency practitioner may¹⁵, with the sanction of any creditors' committee¹⁶ or with the leave of the court obtained on application, pay out of the joint estate as part of the expenses to be paid out of that estate any expenses incurred for any separate estate of an insolvent member, or pay out of any separate estate of an insolvent member any part of the expenses incurred for the joint estate which affects that separate estate¹⁷.

UPDATE

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1243. Priority of debts in joint estate and in separate estate.

1243. Priority of debts in joint estate and in separate estate.

The provisions described below apply¹ as regards priority of debts².

After payment of expenses³ the joint debts⁴ of the partnership must be paid out of its joint estate⁵ in the following order of priority:

- 1652 (1) the preferential debts⁶;
- 1653 (2) the debts which are neither preferential debts nor postponed debts⁷;
- 1654 (3) interest⁸ on the joint debts, other than postponed debts;
- 1655 (4) the postponed debts;
- 1656 (5) interest⁸ on the postponed debts⁹.

The responsible insolvency practitioner¹⁰ must adjust the rights among themselves of the members of the partnership as contributories and distribute any surplus to the members or, where applicable, to the separate estates¹¹ of the members, according to their respective rights and interests in it¹².

The debts referred to in each of heads (1) and (2) above rank equally between themselves, and in each case, if the joint estate is insufficient for meeting them, they abate in equal proportions between themselves¹³.

Where the joint estate is not sufficient for the payment of the joint debts in accordance with heads (1) and (2) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of those debts to the extent that they have not been satisfied or are not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order¹⁴ has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the debts¹⁵ of the member¹⁶.

Where the joint estate is sufficient for the payment of the joint debts in accordance with heads (1) and (2) above but not for the payment of interest under head (3) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of that interest to the extent that it has not been satisfied or is not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the interest on the separate debts¹⁷.

Where the joint estate is not sufficient for the payment of the postponed joint debts in accordance with head (4) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of those debts to the extent that they have not been satisfied or are not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the postponed debts¹⁸ of the member¹⁹.

Where the joint estate is sufficient for the payment of the postponed joint debts in accordance with head (4) above but not for the payment of interest under head (5) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of that interest to the extent that it has not been satisfied or is not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the interest²⁰ on the postponed debts²¹.

Where the responsible insolvency practitioner receives any distribution from the separate estate of a member in respect of a debt provable under these provisions²², that distribution becomes part of the joint estate and must be distributed in accordance with the order of priority set out above²³.

The separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made is applicable, after payment of expenses²⁴, in payment of the separate debts of that member in the following order of priority:

- 1657 (a) the preferential debts;
- 1658 (b) the debts which are neither preferential debts nor postponed debts²⁵;
- 1659 (c) interest²⁶ on the separate debts²⁷;
- 1660 (d) the postponed debts of the member²⁸;
- 1661 (e) interest²⁹ on the postponed debts of the member³⁰.

The debts referred to in each of heads (a) and (b) above rank equally between themselves, and in each case, if the separate estate is insufficient for meeting them, they abate in equal proportions between themselves³¹.

Where the responsible insolvency practitioner receives any distribution from the joint estate or from the separate estate of another member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made, that distribution becomes part of the separate estate and must be distributed in accordance with the order of priority set out above³².

The provisions described above are without prejudice to any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 or of any other enactment concerning the ranking between themselves of postponed debts and interest on them, but in the absence of any such provision postponed debts and interest on them rank equally between themselves³³.

1244. Provisions generally applicable in distribution of joint and separate estates.

Distinct accounts must be kept of the joint estate¹ of the partnership and of the separate estate² of each member³ of that partnership against whom an insolvency order⁴ is made⁵.

No member of the partnership may prove for a joint⁶ or separate⁷ debt in competition with the joint creditors, unless the debt has arisen as a result of fraud, or in the ordinary course of a business carried on separately from the partnership business⁸.

Interest⁹ on preferential debts ranks equally with interest on debts which are neither preferential debts nor postponed debts¹⁰.

If any two or more members of an insolvent partnership constitute a separate partnership, the creditors of such separate partnership are deemed to be a separate set of creditors and subject to the same statutory provisions as the separate creditors of any member of the insolvent partnership¹¹.

Where any surplus remains after the administration of the estate of a separate partnership, the surplus must be distributed to the members or, where applicable, to the separate estates of the members of that partnership according to their respective rights and interests in it¹².

Neither the official receiver, the Secretary of State nor a responsible insolvency practitioner¹³ is entitled to remuneration or fees¹⁴ for his services in connection with the transfer of a surplus from the joint estate to a separate estate¹⁵, a distribution from a separate estate to the joint estate¹⁶, or a distribution¹⁷ from the estate of a separate partnership to the separate estates of the members of that partnership¹⁸.

In the winding up of an insolvent partnership or the winding up or bankruptcy, as the case may be, of any of its insolvent members¹, interest is payable² on any debt proved in the winding up or bankruptcy, including so much of any such debt as represents interest on the remainder³.

Interest is payable on the debts in question in respect of the periods during which they have been outstanding since the winding-up order was made against the partnership or any corporate member⁴, as the case may be, or the bankruptcy order was made against any individual member⁵.

Where insolvency orders¹ are made² in respect of an insolvent partnership and its insolvent member³ or members, or a provisional liquidator of an insolvent partnership and any of its corporate members⁴ is appointed⁵, any person who is or has been an officer⁶ of the partnership, or who is an executor or administrator of the estate of a deceased officer of the partnership, must deliver up to the office-holder⁷, for the purposes of the exercise of the office-holder's functions under the Insolvency Act 1986 and, where applicable, the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986, possession of any partnership property⁸ which he holds for the purposes of the partnership⁹.

Where any person has in his possession or control any property, books, papers or records to which the partnership appears to be entitled, the court may require that person forthwith, or within such period as the court may direct, to pay, deliver, convey, surrender or transfer the property, books, papers or records to the office-holder or as the court may direct¹⁰.

Where the office-holder seizes or disposes of any property which is not partnership property, and at the time of seizure or disposal believes, and has reasonable grounds for believing, that he is entitled, whether in pursuance of an order of the court or otherwise, to seize or dispose of that property, the office-holder:

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(4) CREDITORS' ETC WINDING-UP PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Petition of Creditor etc where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against one or more Members/1250. Meaning of 'individual member's estate'.

1250. Meaning of 'individual member's estate'.

Subject as follows, the estate of an individual member¹ for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 comprises:

- 1668 (1) all property belonging to or vested in the individual member at the commencement of the bankruptcy²; and
- 1669 (2) any property which by virtue of any of the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 is comprised in that estate or is treated as falling within head (1) above³.

This does not apply to:

- 1670 (a) such tools, books, vehicles and other items of equipment as are not partnership property⁴ and as are necessary to the individual member for use personally by him in his employment, business or vocation;
- 1671 (b) such clothing, bedding, furniture, household equipment and provisions as are not partnership property and as are necessary for satisfying the basic domestic needs of the individual member and his family⁵, nor to property held by the individual member on trust for any other person, or the right of nomination to a vacant ecclesiastical benefice⁶.

References in any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 to property, in relation to an individual member, include references to any power exercisable by him over or in respect of property except in so far as the power is exercisable over or in respect of property not for the time being comprised in the estate of the individual member and:

- 1672 (i) is so exercisable at a time after either the official receiver has had his release in respect of that estate⁷ or a final meeting summoned by the trustee of that estate⁸ has been held; or
- 1673 (ii) cannot be so exercised for the benefit of the individual member⁹.

A power exercisable over or in respect of property is deemed for the purposes of any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 to vest in the person entitled to exercise it at the time of the transaction or event by virtue of which it is exercisable by that person, whether or not it becomes so exercisable at that time¹⁰.

For the purposes of any such provision of the Insolvency Act 1986, property comprised in an individual member's estate is so comprised subject to the rights of any person other than the individual member, whether as a secured creditor of the individual member or otherwise, in relation thereto, but disregarding any rights which have been given up in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986¹¹.

These provisions have effect subject to the provisions of any enactment not contained in the Insolvency Act 1986 under which any property is to be excluded from a bankrupt's estate¹².

1251. Individual member; restrictions on dispositions of property.

Where an individual member¹ is adjudged bankrupt², any disposition of property made by that member in the period beginning with the day of the presentation of the petition for the bankruptcy order and ending with the vesting³ of the individual member's estate in a trustee is void except to the extent that it is or was made with the consent of the court, or is or was subsequently ratified by the court⁴. These provisions apply to a payment, whether in cash or otherwise, as they apply to a disposition of property and, accordingly, where any payment is void by virtue of these provisions, the person paid holds the sum paid for the individual member as part of his estate⁵.

These provisions do not give a remedy against any person:

- 1674 (1) in respect of any property or payment which he received before the commencement of the bankruptcy⁶ in good faith, for value and without notice that the petition had been presented; or
- 1675 (2) in respect of any interest in property which derives from an interest in respect of which there is⁷ no remedy⁸.

Where after the commencement of his bankruptcy the individual member has incurred a debt to a banker or other person by reason of the making of a payment which is void under these provisions, that debt is deemed for the purposes of any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 to have been incurred before the commencement of the bankruptcy unless that banker or person had notice of the bankruptcy before the debt was incurred, or it is not reasonably practicable for the amount of the payment to be recovered from the person to whom it was made⁹.

A disposition of property is void under these provisions notwithstanding that the property is not or, as the case may be, would not be comprised in the individual member's estate; but nothing in these provisions affects any disposition made by a person of property held by him on trust for any other person other than a disposition made by an individual member of property held by him on trust for the partnership¹⁰.

INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(5) MEMBERS' PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Member's Petition where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against All Members/1261. High Court and county court jurisdiction.

1261. High Court and county court jurisdiction.

The High Court has jurisdiction to wind up any insolvent partnership as an unregistered company¹ if the partnership has, or at any time had, a principal place of business in England and Wales².

A petition for the winding up of an insolvent partnership³ may be presented to a county court in England and Wales if the partnership has, or at any time had, a principal place of business within the insolvency district⁴ of that court⁵.

The court only has jurisdiction to wind up an insolvent partnership if the business of the partnership has been carried on in England and Wales at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented⁶; and, if an insolvent partnership has a principal place of business situated in Scotland or in Northern Ireland, the court does not have jurisdiction to wind up the partnership unless it had a principal place of business in England and Wales (1) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Scotland, at any time in the period of one year ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented; or (2) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Northern Ireland, at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the petition for winding it up is presented⁷.

The court has jurisdiction to wind up a corporate member⁸, or make a bankruptcy order against an individual member⁹, of a partnership against which a petition has been presented¹⁰ if it has jurisdiction in respect of the partnership¹¹; but such petitions for the winding up of an insolvent partnership and the bankruptcy of one or more members of that partnership may not be presented to a district registry of the High Court¹². Every court in England and Wales having winding-up jurisdiction has for the purposes of that jurisdiction all the powers of the High Court; and every prescribed¹³ officer of the court must perform any duties which an officer of the High Court may discharge by order of a judge of that court or otherwise in relation to winding up¹⁴.

These provisions are subject to the provisions in the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings¹⁵ concerning jurisdiction in cross-border insolvency proceedings in the European Union¹⁶.

INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(5) MEMBERS' PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Member's Petition where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against All Members/1262. Applications to wind up insolvent partnership and to wind up or bankrupt insolvent members.

1262. Applications to wind up insolvent partnership and to wind up or bankrupt insolvent members.

An application to the court by a member¹ of an insolvent partnership² for the winding up of the partnership as an unregistered company and the winding up or bankruptcy, as the case may be, of all its members must be by petition in the prescribed form³.

A petition for the winding up of the partnership under these provisions may only be presented by a member of the partnership on the grounds that the partnership is unable to pay its debts and if:

- 1698 (1) petitions are at the same time presented by that member for insolvency orders⁴ against every member of the partnership, including himself or itself; and
- 1699 (2) each member is willing for an insolvency order to be made against him or it and the petition against him or it contains a statement to this effect⁵.

However, if the court is satisfied, on application by any member of an insolvent partnership, that presentation of petitions under these provisions against the partnership and every member of it would be impracticable, the court may direct that petitions be presented against the partnership and such member or members of it as are specified by the court⁶.

The petitions against the partnership and all of its members must all be presented to the same court and, except as the court otherwise permits or directs, on the same day, and, except in the case of a petition in respect of an individual member, must be advertised in the prescribed form⁷.

Each petition must contain particulars of the other petitions being presented in relation to the partnership, identifying the partnership and members concerned⁸.

The hearing of the petition against the partnership fixed by the court must be in advance of the hearing of the petitions against the insolvent members⁹.

On the day appointed for the hearing of the petition against the partnership, the petitioner must, before the commencement of the hearing, hand to the court a notice in the prescribed form¹⁰, duly completed, of progress on the petitions presented¹¹.

Any person against whom a winding-up or bankruptcy petition has been presented in relation to the insolvent partnership is entitled to appear and to be heard on any petition for the winding up of the partnership¹².

A petitioner under these provisions may at the hearing withdraw the petition if:

- 1700 (a) he withdraws at the same time every other petition which he has presented under these provisions; and
- 1701 (b) he gives notice to the court at least three days before the date appointed for the hearing of the relevant petition of his intention to withdraw the petition¹³.

However, a petitioner need not comply with head (a) above in the case of a petition against a member, if the court is satisfied on application made to it by the petitioner that, because of difficulties in serving the petition or for any other reason, the continuance of that petition would be likely to prejudice or delay the proceedings on the petition which he has presented against the partnership or on any petition which he has presented against any other insolvent member¹⁴.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(5) MEMBERS' PETITIONS/(ii) Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company on Member's Petition where Concurrent Petitions Presented Against All Members/1263. Powers of court on hearing of petitions against insolvent partnership and members.

1263. Powers of court on hearing of petitions against insolvent partnership and members.

On hearing a petition¹ against an insolvent partnership or any of its insolvent members², the court may dismiss it, or adjourn the hearing conditionally or unconditionally, or make any other order that it thinks fit; but the court may not refuse to make a winding-up order against the partnership or a corporate member³ on the ground only that the partnership property⁴ or, as the case may be, the member's assets have been mortgaged to an amount equal to or in excess of that property or those assets, or that the partnership has no property or the member no assets⁵.

An order under these provisions in respect of an insolvent partnership may contain directions as to the future conduct of any insolvency proceedings⁶ in existence against any insolvent member in respect of whom an insolvency order⁷ has been made⁸.

On the hearing of a petition against an insolvent member, the petitioner must draw the court's attention to the result of the hearing of the winding-up petition against the partnership and the provisions described below apply⁹.

If the court has neither made a winding-up order, nor dismissed the winding-up petition, against the partnership, the court may adjourn the hearing of the petition against the member until either event has occurred¹⁰.

If a winding-up order has been made against the partnership, the court may make a winding-up order against the corporate member in respect of which, or, as the case may be, a bankruptcy order against the individual member¹¹ in respect of whom, the insolvency petition was presented¹²; but, if no insolvency order is so made against any member within 28 days of the making of the winding-up order against the partnership, the proceedings against the partnership must be conducted as if the winding-up petition against the partnership had been presented by virtue of the provisions¹³ relating to the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company on a creditor's petition where no concurrent petition is presented against a member, and the proceedings against any member must be conducted under the Insolvency Act 1986 without the modifications made by the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, with some exceptions¹⁴.

If the court has dismissed the winding-up petition against the partnership, the court may dismiss the winding-up petition against the corporate member or, as the case may be, the bankruptcy petition against the individual member; but, if an insolvency order is made against a member, the proceedings against that member must be conducted under the Insolvency Act 1986 without the modifications made by the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, with some exceptions¹⁵.

The court may dismiss a petition against an insolvent member if it considers it just to do so because of a change in circumstances since the making of the winding-up order against the partnership¹⁶.

The court may dismiss a petition against an insolvent member who is a limited partner¹⁷, if the member lodges in court for the benefit of the creditors of the partnership sufficient money or security to the court's satisfaction to meet his liability for the debts and obligations of the partnership, or the member satisfies the court that he is no longer under any liability in respect of the debts and obligations of the partnership¹⁸.

Any insolvent partnership which has, or at any time had, a principal place of business in England and Wales may be wound up¹ under the Insolvency Act 1986². The circumstances in which an insolvent partnership may be wound up as an unregistered company are that the partnership is unable to pay its debts³.

An insolvent partnership may not be wound up under the Insolvency Act 1986 if the business of the partnership has not been carried on in England and Wales at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the winding-up petition is presented⁴; and, if an insolvent partnership has a principal place of business situated in Scotland or in Northern Ireland, the court does not have jurisdiction to wind up the partnership unless it had a principal place of business in England and Wales (1) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Scotland, at any time in the period of one year ending with the day on which the winding-up petition is presented; or (2) in the case of a partnership with a principal place of business in Northern Ireland, at any time in the period of three years ending with the day on which the winding-up petition is presented⁵.

To the extent that they are applicable to the winding up of a company by the court in England and Wales on a member's¹ petition, the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 and the Companies Act 1985 about winding up apply to the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company, with certain exceptions, additions and modifications².

Unless the contrary intention appears, the members of the partnership against whom insolvency orders are made³ are not to be treated as contributories for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986⁴.

1267. Presentation of joint bankruptcy petition.

A joint bankruptcy petition¹ may be presented to the court² by all the members³ of an insolvent partnership in their capacity as such provided that all the members are individuals and none of them is a limited partner⁴.

A petition may not be presented under these provisions by the members of an insolvent partnership if the partnership has permission⁵ to accept deposits, other than such a permission only for the purpose of carrying on another regulated activity in accordance with that permission⁶, or continues to have a liability in respect of a deposit which was held by it in accordance with the Banking Act 1979 or the Banking Act 1987⁷.

The petition must be in the prescribed form⁸ and must contain a request that the trustee is to wind up the partnership business and administer the partnership property⁹ without the partnership being wound up¹⁰ as an unregistered company¹¹.

The petition must either be accompanied by an affidavit in the prescribed form¹² made by the member who signs the petition, showing that all the members are individual members, and that none of them is a limited partner, and that they concur in the presentation of the petition, or contain a statement that all the members are individual members and be signed by all the members¹³.

1272. Meaning of 'member's estate'.

Subject as follows, a member's¹ estate for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 comprises:

- 1704 (1) all property belonging to or vested in the member at the commencement of the bankruptcy²; and
- 1705 (2) any property which by virtue of any of the provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986 is comprised in that estate or is treated as falling within head (1) above³.

This does not apply to:

- 1706 (a) such tools, books, vehicles and other items of equipment as are not partnership property⁴ and as are necessary to the member for use personally by him in his employment, business or vocation;
- 1707 (b) such clothing, bedding, furniture, household equipment and provisions as are not partnership property and as are necessary for satisfying the basic domestic needs of the member and his family⁵, nor do the above provisions apply to property held by the member on trust for any other person, or the right of nomination to a vacant ecclesiastical benefice⁶.

References in any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 to property, in relation to a member, include references to any power exercisable by him over or in respect of property except in so far as the power is exercisable over or in respect of property not for the time being comprised in the member's estate and:

- 1708 (i) is so exercisable at a time after either the official receiver has had his release in respect of that estate⁷ or a meeting summoned by the trustee of that estate⁸ has been held; or
- 1709 (ii) cannot be so exercised for the benefit of the member⁹.

A power exercisable over or in respect of property is deemed for the purposes of any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 to vest in the person entitled to exercise it at the time of the transaction or event by virtue of which it is exercisable by that person, whether or not it becomes so exercisable at that time¹⁰.

For the purposes of any such provision of the Insolvency Act 1986, property comprised in a member's estate is so comprised subject to the rights of any person other than the member, whether as a secured creditor of the member or otherwise, in relation thereto, but disregarding any rights which have been given up in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986¹¹.

These provisions have effect subject to the provisions of any enactment not contained in the Insolvency Act 1986 under which any property is to be excluded from a bankrupt's estate¹².

INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(5) MEMBERS' PETITIONS/(iii) Insolvency Proceedings not involving Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company where Individual Members Present Joint Bankruptcy Petition/1273. Restrictions on dispositions of property.

1273. Restrictions on dispositions of property.

Where a member¹ is adjudged bankrupt on a joint bankruptcy petition², any disposition of property made by that member in the period beginning with the day of the presentation of the joint bankruptcy petition and ending with the vesting³ of the member's estate in a trustee is void except to the extent that it is or was made with the consent of the court, or is or was subsequently ratified by the court⁴.

These provisions apply to a payment, whether in cash or otherwise, as they apply to a disposition of property and, accordingly, where any payment is void by virtue of these provisions, the person paid must hold the sum paid for the member as part of his estate⁵.

These provisions do not give a remedy against any person:

- 1710 (1) in respect of any property or payment which he received before the commencement of the bankruptcy⁶ in good faith, for value, and without notice that the petition had been presented; or
- 1711 (2) in respect of any interest in property which derives from an interest in respect of which there is⁷ no remedy⁸.

Where after the commencement of his bankruptcy the member has incurred a debt to a banker or other person by reason of the making of a payment which is void under these provisions, that debt is deemed for the purposes of any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 to have been incurred before the commencement of the bankruptcy unless that banker or person had notice of the bankruptcy before the debt was incurred, or it is not reasonably practicable for the amount of the payment to be recovered from the person to whom it was made⁹.

A disposition of property is void under these provisions notwithstanding that the property is not or, as the case may be, would not be comprised in the member's estate; but nothing in these provisions affects any disposition made by a person of property held by him on trust for any other person other than a disposition made by a member of property held by him on trust for the partnership¹⁰.

Public examination of member.

1274. Public examination of member.

Where orders have been made against the members¹ of an insolvent partnership on a joint bankruptcy petition², the official receiver may at any time before the discharge of any such member apply to the court for the public examination of that member³.

Unless the court otherwise orders, the official receiver must make such an application if notice requiring him to do so is given to him, in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986, by one of the creditors of the member concerned with the concurrence of not less than one-half, in value, of those creditors, including the creditor giving notice⁴.

On an application for a public examination by the official receiver, the court must direct that a public examination of the member be held on a day appointed by the court; and the member must attend on that day and be publicly examined as to his affairs, dealings and property and as to those of the partnership⁵.

The following may take part in the public examination of the member and may question him concerning the matters mentioned above, namely:

- 1712 (1) the official receiver;
- 1713 (2) the trustee of the member's estate, if his appointment has taken effect;
- 1714 (3) any person who has been appointed as special manager of the member's estate or business or of the partnership property⁶ or business;
- 1715 (4) any creditor of the member who has tendered a proof in the bankruptcy⁷.

On an application for a public examination by the official receiver, the court may direct that the public examination of a member be combined with the public examination of any other person⁸.

If a member without reasonable excuse fails at any time to attend his public examination under these provisions, he is guilty of a contempt of court and liable to be punished accordingly, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be subject⁹.

Power to appoint trustee; conflicts of interest.

1275. Power to appoint trustee; conflicts of interest.

The power to appoint a person as both trustee of the estates of the members¹ of an insolvent partnership against whom orders are made on a joint bankruptcy petition² and as trustee of the partnership is exercisable by a combined general meeting of the creditors of the members and of the partnership or³ by the Secretary of State⁴.

No person may be appointed as trustee of the members' estates and as trustee of the partnership unless he is, at the time of the appointment, qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner both in relation to the insolvent partnership and to each of the members⁵.

Any power to appoint a person as trustee of the members' estates and of the partnership includes power to appoint two or more persons as joint trustees; but such an appointment must make provision as to the circumstances in which the trustees must act together and the circumstances in which one or more of them may act for the others⁶.

The appointment of any person as trustee of the members' estates and of the partnership takes effect only if that person accepts the appointment in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986; but, subject to this, the appointment of any person as trustee takes effect at the time specified in his certificate of appointment⁷.

The provisions described above are without prejudice to the provisions⁸ under which the official receiver is, in certain circumstances, to be trustee of the members' estates and of the partnership⁹.

If the trustee of the members' estates and of the partnership is of the opinion at any time that there is a conflict of interest between his functions as trustee of the members' estates and his functions as trustee of the partnership, or between his functions as trustee of the estates of two or more members, he may apply to the court for directions¹⁰. On such an application the court may, without prejudice to the generality of its power to give directions, appoint one or more insolvency practitioners either in place of the applicant to act both as trustee of the members' estates and as trustee of the partnership, or to act as joint trustee with the applicant¹¹.

Summoning of meeting to appoint trustee.

1276. Summoning of meeting to appoint trustee.

Where insolvency orders are made¹, the official receiver, by virtue of his office, becomes the trustee of the estates of the members² and the trustee of the partnership and continues in office until another person becomes³ trustee⁴.

The official receiver is, by virtue of his office, the trustee of the estates of the members and the trustee of the partnership during any vacancy⁵.

At any time when he is trustee, the official receiver may summon a combined meeting of the creditors of the members and the creditors of the partnership, for the purpose of appointing a trustee in place of the official receiver⁶.

It is the duty of the official receiver:

- 1716 (1) as soon as practicable in the period of 12 weeks beginning with the day on which the first order was made⁷ to decide whether to exercise his power to summon such a meeting; and
- 1717 (2) if, in pursuance of head (1) above, he decides not to exercise that power, to give notice of his decision, before the end of that period, to the court and to those creditors of the members and those of the partnership who are known to the official receiver or identified in a statement of affairs⁸ submitted to him; and
- 1718 (3) whether or not he has decided to exercise that power, to exercise his power to summon such a meeting if he is at any time requested to do so by one-quarter, in value, of either the creditors of any member against whom an insolvency order has been made, or the partnership's creditors, and accordingly, where the duty imposed by head (3) above arises before the official receiver has performed a duty imposed by head (1) or head (2) above, he is not required to perform the latter duty⁹.

A notice given under head (2) above to the creditors must contain an explanation of the creditors' power under head (3) above to require the official receiver to summon a combined meeting of the creditors of the partnership and of the members against whom insolvency orders have been made¹⁰.

If the official receiver, in pursuance of head (1) above, has decided to exercise his power to summon a meeting, he must hold that meeting in the period of four months beginning with the day on which the first order¹¹ was made¹².

If, whether or not he has decided to exercise that power, the official receiver is requested, in accordance with the provisions of head (3) above, to exercise his power to summon a meeting, he must hold that meeting in accordance with the Insolvency Rules 1986¹³.

Where a meeting of creditors of the partnership and of the members has been held, and an insolvency order is subsequently made against a further insolvent member¹⁴, any person chosen at the meeting to be responsible insolvency practitioner¹⁵ in place of the official receiver must also be the responsible insolvency practitioner of the member against whom the subsequent order is made, and the duties of the official receiver¹⁶ described above do not arise¹⁷.

If a meeting of creditors¹ is held but no appointment of a person as trustee is made, it is the duty of the official receiver to decide whether to refer the need for an appointment to the Secretary of State².

On a reference made in pursuance of that decision, the Secretary of State must either make an appointment or decline to make one³.

If the official receiver decides not to refer the need for an appointment to the Secretary of State, or on such a reference the Secretary of State declines to make an appointment, the official receiver must give notice of his decision or, as the case may be, of the Secretary of State's decision to the court⁴.

1278. Appointment of trustee by Secretary of State.

At any time when the official receiver is the trustee of the members' estates and of the partnership¹ he may apply to the Secretary of State for the appointment of a person as trustee instead of the official receiver².

On such an application the Secretary of State must either make an appointment or decline to make one³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(5) MEMBERS' PETITIONS/(iii) Insolvency Proceedings not involving Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company where Individual Members Present Joint Bankruptcy Petition/1281. Release of trustee.

1281. Release of trustee.

Where the official receiver has ceased to be the trustee of the members¹ estates and of the partnership and a person is appointed in his stead, the official receiver has his release with effect from the following time:

- 1721 (1) where that person is appointed by a combined general meeting of creditors of the members and of the partnership or by the Secretary of State, the time at which the official receiver gives notice to the court that he has been replaced; and
- 1722 (2) where that person is appointed by the court, such time as the court may determine².

If the official receiver, while he is the trustee, gives notice to the Secretary of State that the administration of the estate of any member, or the winding up of the partnership business and administration of its affairs, is for practical purposes complete, he has his release as trustee of the member or as trustee of the partnership, as the case may be, with effect from such time as the Secretary of State may determine³.

A person other than the official receiver who has ceased to be the trustee of the estate of any member or of the partnership has his release with effect from the following time:

- 1723 (a) in the case of a person who has died, the time at which notice is given to the court in accordance with the rules that that person has ceased to hold office;
- 1724 (b) in the case of a person who has been removed from office by the court or by the Secretary of State, or who has vacated office by reason of ceasing to be a person qualified to act as an insolvency practitioner⁴, such time as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine;
- 1725 (c) in the case of a person who has resigned, such time as may be directed by the court, or, if he was appointed by the Secretary of State, such time as may be directed by the court or as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine;
- 1726 (d) in the case of a person who has vacated office or given notice that a final meeting of creditors or members has been held⁵, if the final meeting has resolved against that person's release, such time as the Secretary of State may, on an application by that person, determine and, if that meeting has not so resolved, the time at which the person vacated office⁶.

Where an insolvency order⁷ is annulled in so far as it relates to any member, the trustee at the time of the annulment has his release in respect of that member with effect from such time as the court may determine⁸.

Where the trustee, including the official receiver when so acting, has his release under these provisions, he is, with effect from the time specified above, discharged from all liability both in respect of acts or omissions of his in the administration of the estates of the members and in the winding up of the partnership business and administration of its affairs and otherwise in relation to his conduct as trustee; but nothing in these provisions prevents the exercise, in relation to a person who has had his release, of the court's powers⁹ to impose liability on the trustee for misapplication of property comprised in the bankrupt's estate or misfeasance¹⁰.

1282. Vacancy in office of trustee.

Where the appointment of any person as trustee of the members¹ estates and of the partnership fails to take effect or, such an appointment having taken effect, there is otherwise a vacancy in the office of trustee, the provisions described below apply².

The official receiver may refer the need for an appointment to the Secretary of State and is trustee until the vacancy is filled³. On such a reference to the Secretary of State, the Secretary of State must either make an appointment or decline to make one⁴. If on such a reference no appointment is made, the official receiver continues to be trustee, but without prejudice to his power to make a further reference⁵.

References in these provisions to a vacancy include a case where it is necessary, in relation to any property which is or may be comprised in a member's estate, to revive the trusteeship of that estate after the holding of a final meeting⁶ or the giving by the official receiver of notice⁷ that the administration of the estate of any member, or the winding up of the partnership business, is for practical purposes complete⁸.

1283. Creditors' committee; functions and membership.

Subject as follows, a combined general meeting of the creditors of the members and of the partnership¹ may establish a committee (known as 'the creditors' committee') to exercise the functions conferred on it by or under the Insolvency Act 1986².

A combined general meeting of the creditors of the members and of the partnership may not establish such a committee, or confer any functions on such a committee, at any time when the official receiver is the trustee, except in connection with an appointment made by that meeting of a person to be trustee instead of the official receiver³.

The committee established under these provisions must act as creditors' committee for each member and as liquidation committee for the partnership, and must, as appropriate, exercise the functions conferred on creditors' and liquidation committees in a bankruptcy or winding up by or under the Insolvency Act 1986⁴.

The rules relating to liquidation committees apply, with the necessary modifications and with the exclusion of all references to contributories, to a committee established under these provisions⁵.

Where the appointment of the trustee also takes effect in relation to a further insolvent member⁶, the trustee may appoint any creditor of that member, being qualified under the rules to be a member of the committee, to be an additional member of any creditors' committee already established under the above provisions, provided that the creditor concerned consents to act⁷.

The court may at any time, on application by a creditor of any member or of the partnership, appoint additional members of the creditors' committee⁸.

If additional members of the creditors' committee are so appointed by the trustee or the court, the limit on the maximum number of members of the committee specified in the rules is increased by the number of additional members so appointed⁹.

Priority of expenses.

1286. Priority of expenses.

The provisions described below apply¹ as regards priority of expenses incurred by a person acting as trustee of the estates of the members² of an insolvent partnership and as trustee of that partnership³.

The joint estate⁴ of the partnership is applicable in the first instance in payment of the joint expenses⁵, and the separate estate⁶ of each insolvent member⁷ is applicable in the first instance in payment of the separate expenses⁸ relating to that member⁹.

Where the joint estate is insufficient for the payment in full of the joint expenses, the unpaid balance must be apportioned equally between the separate estates of the insolvent members against whom insolvency orders¹⁰ have been made, and forms part of the expenses to be paid out of those estates¹¹.

Where any separate estate of an insolvent member is insufficient for the payment in full of the separate expenses to be paid out of that estate, the unpaid balance forms part of the expenses to be paid out of the joint estate¹².

Where, after the transfer of any unpaid balance in accordance with these provisions, any estate is insufficient for the payment in full of the expenses to be paid out of that estate, the balance then remaining unpaid must be apportioned equally between the other estates¹³.

Where, after such an apportionment, one or more estates are insufficient for the payment in full of the expenses to be paid out of those estates, the total of the unpaid balances of the expenses to be paid out of those estates must continue to be apportioned equally between the other estates until provision is made for the payment in full of the expenses or there is no estate available for the payment of the balance finally remaining unpaid, in which case it abates in equal proportions between all the estates¹⁴.

Without prejudice to the provisions described above, the trustee may, with the sanction of any creditors' committee¹⁵ or with the leave of the court obtained on application, pay out of the joint estate as part of the expenses to be paid out of that estate any expenses incurred for any separate estate of an insolvent member or pay out of any separate estate of an insolvent member any part of the expenses incurred for the joint estate which affects that separate estate¹⁶.

UPDATE

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(5) MEMBERS' PETITIONS/(iii) Insolvency Proceedings not involving Winding Up of Insolvent Partnership as Unregistered Company where Individual Members Present Joint Bankruptcy Petition/1287. Priority of debts in joint estate and in separate estate.

1287. Priority of debts in joint estate and in separate estate.

The provisions¹ described below apply as regards priority of debts².

After payment of expenses³, the joint debts⁴ of the partnership must be paid out of its joint estate⁵ in the following order of priority:

- 1734 (1) the preferential debts⁶;
- 1735 (2) the debts which are neither preferential debts nor postponed debts⁷;
- 1736 (3) interest⁸ on the joint debts, other than postponed debts;
- 1737 (4) the postponed debts;
- 1738 (5) interest⁸ on the postponed debts⁹.

The responsible insolvency practitioner¹⁰ must adjust the rights among themselves of the members of the partnership as contributories and must distribute any surplus to the members or, where applicable, to the separate estates¹¹ of the members, according to their respective rights and interests in it¹².

The debts referred to in each of heads (1) and (2) above rank equally between themselves, and in each case, if the joint estate is insufficient for meeting them, they abate in equal proportions between themselves¹³.

Where the joint estate is not sufficient for the payment of the joint debts in accordance with heads (1) and (2) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of those debts to the extent that they have not been satisfied or are not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order¹⁴ has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the debts¹⁵ of the members¹⁶.

Where the joint estate is sufficient for the payment of the joint debts in accordance with heads (1) and (2) above but not for the payment of interest under head (3) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of that interest to the extent that it has not been satisfied or is not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the interest on the separate debts¹⁷.

Where the joint estate is not sufficient for the payment of the postponed joint debts in accordance with head (4) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of those debts to the extent that they have not been satisfied or are not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the postponed debts¹⁸ of the member¹⁹.

Where the joint estate is sufficient for the payment of the postponed joint debts in accordance with head (4) above, but not for the payment of interest under head (5) above, the responsible insolvency practitioner must aggregate the value of that interest to the extent that it has not been satisfied or is not capable of being satisfied, and that aggregate amount is a claim against the separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made which is a debt provable by the responsible insolvency practitioner in each such estate, and ranks equally with the interest²⁰ on the postponed debts²¹.

Where the responsible insolvency practitioner receives any distribution from the separate estate of a member in respect of a debt provable under these provisions²², that distribution becomes part of the joint estate and must be distributed in accordance with the order of priority set out above²³.

The separate estate of each member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made is applicable, after payment of expenses²⁴, in payment of the separate debts of that member in the following order of priority:

- 1739 (a) the preferential debts;
- 1740 (b) the debts which are neither preferential debts nor postponed debts²⁵;
- 1741 (c) interest²⁶ on the separate debts²⁷;
- 1742 (d) the postponed debts of the member²⁸;
- 1743 (e) interest²⁹ on the postponed debts of the member³⁰.

The debts referred to in heads (a) and (b) above rank equally between themselves, and in each case, if the separate estate is insufficient for meeting them, they abate in equal proportions between themselves³¹.

Where the responsible insolvency practitioner receives any distribution from the joint estate or from the separate estate of another member of the partnership against whom an insolvency order has been made, that distribution becomes part of the separate estate and must be distributed in accordance with the order of priority set out above³².

These provisions are without prejudice to any provision of the Insolvency Act 1986 or of any other enactment concerning the ranking between themselves of postponed debts and interest thereon, but in the absence of any such provision postponed debts and interest thereon rank equally between themselves³³.

1288. Provisions generally applicable in distribution of joint and separate estates.

Distinct accounts must be kept of the joint estate¹ of the partnership and of the separate estate² of each member³ of that partnership against whom an insolvency order⁴ is made⁵.

No member of the partnership may prove for a joint or separate debt in competition with the joint creditors, unless the debt has arisen as a result of fraud or in the ordinary course of a business carried on separately from the partnership business⁶.

Interest⁷ on preferential debts ranks equally with interest on debts which are neither preferential debts nor postponed debts⁸.

If any two or more members of an insolvent partnership constitute a separate partnership, the creditors of such separate partnership are deemed to be a separate set of creditors and subject to the same statutory provisions as the separate creditors of any member of the insolvent partnership⁹.

Where any surplus remains after the administration of the estate of a separate partnership, the surplus must be distributed to the members or, where applicable, to the separate estates of the members of that partnership according to their respective rights and interests in it¹⁰.

Neither the official receiver, the Secretary of State nor a responsible insolvency practitioner¹¹ is entitled to remuneration or fees¹² for his services in connection with the transfer of a surplus from the joint estate to a separate estate¹³, a distribution from a separate estate to the joint estate in respect of certain claims¹⁴ or a distribution from the surplus in the estate of a separate partnership¹⁵ to the separate estates of the members of that partnership¹⁶.

Where an insolvent partnership or other body which may be wound up as an unregistered company¹ is itself a member of an insolvent partnership being so wound up, the provisions of the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994² relating to:

- 1748 (1) the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company on a creditor's petition where concurrent petitions are presented against one or more members³; and
- 1749 (2) the winding up of an insolvent partnership as an unregistered company on a member's petition where concurrent petitions are presented against all members⁴, apply in relation to the latter insolvent partnership as though the former body were a corporate member⁵ of that partnership⁶.

1293. Deposit on petitions.

Where an order¹ provides for any sum to be deposited on presentation of a winding-up or bankruptcy petition, that sum, in the case of petitions presented by virtue of the provisions relating to the presentation of concurrent petitions against an insolvent partnership and its members², is only required to be deposited in respect of the petition for winding up the partnership, but is to be treated as a deposit in respect of all those petitions³.

UPDATE

1166-1301 Insolvent Partnerships

The terminology used in the Insolvency Rules 1986, SI 1986/1925, has been extensively updated by the amendments made by SI 2010/686. A non-exhaustive list of the terminological alterations is set out in PARA 2 NOTE 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(7) DISQUALIFICATION/1298. Duty of court to disqualify unfit officers of insolvent partnerships; application to court; disqualification undertakings; reporting provisions.

1298. Duty of court to disqualify unfit officers of insolvent partnerships; application to court; disqualification undertakings; reporting provisions.

The court¹ must make a disqualification order against a person in any case where, on an application under these provisions, it is satisfied:

- 1753 (1) that he is or has been an officer of a partnership which has at any time become insolvent², whether while he was an officer or subsequently; and
- 1754 (2) that his conduct as an officer of that partnership, either taken alone or taken together with his conduct as an officer of any other partnership or partnerships, or as a director³ of any company or companies, makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company⁴.

For these purposes, references to a person's conduct as an officer of any partnership or partnerships, or as a director of any company or companies, include, where the partnership or company concerned or any of the partnerships or companies concerned has become insolvent, that person's conduct in relation to any matter connected with or arising out of the insolvency of that partnership or company⁵.

Under these provisions the minimum period of disqualification is two years, and the maximum period is 15 years⁶.

If it appears to the Secretary of State that it is expedient in the public interest that a disqualification order under these provisions should be made against any person, an application for the making of such an order against that person may be made by the Secretary of State, or, if the Secretary of State so directs in the case of a person who is or has been an officer of a partnership which is being or has been wound up by the court as an unregistered company, by the official receiver⁷.

Except with the leave of the court, an application for the making of a disqualification order against any person may not be made after the end of the period of two years beginning with the day on which the partnership of which that person is or has been an officer became insolvent⁸.

If it appears to the Secretary of State that the conditions for the making of a disqualification order are satisfied⁹ as respects any person who has offered to give him a disqualification undertaking¹⁰, he may accept the undertaking if it appears to him that it is expedient in the public interest that he should accept the undertaking, instead of applying, or proceeding with an application, for a disqualification order¹¹.

If it appears to the responsible office-holder, that is to say in the case of a partnership which is being wound up by the court as an unregistered company, the official receiver, or in the case of a partnership in relation to which an administration order is in force, the administrator, that the conditions for the making of a disqualification order are satisfied as respects a person who is or has been an officer of that partnership, the office-holder must forthwith report the matter to the Secretary of State¹².

The Secretary of State or the official receiver may require the liquidator or administrator, or former liquidator or administrator of the partnership, or the liquidator, administrator or administrative receiver, or former liquidator, administrator or administrative receiver, of the company:

- 1755 (a) to furnish him with such information with respect to any person's conduct as an officer of a partnership or as a director of a company; and
- 1756 (b) to produce and permit inspection of such books, papers and other records relevant to that person's conduct as such an officer or director, as the Secretary of State or the official receiver may reasonably require for the purpose of determining whether to exercise, or of exercising, any function of his under the provisions described above¹³.

1 For these purposes, 'the court' means: (1) where the partnership in question is being or has been wound up as an unregistered company by the court, that court; (2) where head (1) supra does not apply but an administration order has at any time been made in relation to the partnership in question, any court which has jurisdiction to wind it up: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 16, Sch 8 para 6(4) (substituted by SI 2001/767). Where an insolvent partnership is wound up as an unregistered company, certain provisions of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 apply; certain of those provisions are modified and are set out as modified in the Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 8 (as amended): see para 1297 ante.

The Insolvency Act 1986 s 117 (as amended and modified) (High Court and county court jurisdiction: see para 1255 ante), applies for the purpose of the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3) (as amended and modified) as if in a case within head (2) supra the references to the presentation of the petition for winding up in the Insolvency Act 1986 s 117 (as modified) (see para 1255 text to notes 6, 7 ante) were references to the making of the administration order: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3A) (s 6(3A), (3B), (3C) added by the Insolvency Act 2000 s 8, Sch 4 paras 1, 5(1)); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 8 para 6(4A) (Sch 8 para 6(4A), (4B), (4C) added by SI 2001/767).

Nothing in these provisions invalidates any proceedings by reason of their being taken in the wrong court; and proceedings for or in connection with a disqualification order under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6 (as amended and modified) or in connection with a disqualification undertaking accepted under the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 7 (as amended and modified: see the text to notes 7-13 infra) may be retained in the court in which proceedings were commenced, although it may not be in the court in which they ought to have been commenced: s 6(3B) (as so added); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 16, Sch 8 para 6(4B) (as so added).

For the meaning of 'officer', in relation to an insolvent partnership, see para 1197 note 8 ante.

2 For these purposes: (1) a partnership becomes insolvent if the court makes an order for it to be wound up as an unregistered company at a time when its assets are insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of the winding up, or an administration order is made in relation to the partnership; and (2) a company becomes insolvent if the company goes into liquidation at a time when its assets are insufficient for the payment of its debts and other liabilities and the expenses of the winding up, an administration order is made in relation to the company, or an administrative receiver of the company is appointed: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(2); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, Sch 8 para 6(2).

3 For these purposes, 'director' includes a shadow director: Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 6(3C); Insolvent Partnerships Order 1994, SI 1994/2421, art 16, Sch 8 para 6(4C) (as added: see note 1 supra).

1299. Disqualification after investigation.

If it appears to the Secretary of State from a report made by an inspector or person appointed to conduct an investigation¹ or from information or documents obtained from certain powers to require production of documents², or pursuant to an entry and search of premises on which such documents are believed to be³, or as a result of the investigative powers of the Director of the Serious Fraud Office⁴, or the Secretary of State's powers to assist overseas regulatory authorities⁵, that it is expedient in the public interest that a disqualification order should be made against any person who is or has been an officer⁶ of any insolvent partnership, he may apply to the court⁷ for such an order to be made against that person⁸.

The court may make a disqualification order against a person where, on such an application, it is satisfied that his conduct in relation to the partnership makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company⁹.

Where it appears to the Secretary of State from such report, information or documents that, in the case of a person who has offered to give him a disqualification undertaking, the conduct of the person in relation to an insolvent partnership of which the person is or has been an officer makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company and it is expedient in the public interest that he should accept the undertaking, instead of applying, or proceeding with an application, for a disqualification order, he may accept the undertaking¹⁰.

Where it falls to a court¹ to determine whether a person's conduct as an officer² of a partnership, either taken alone or taken together with his conduct as an officer of any other partnership or partnerships or as a director³ of any company or companies, makes him unfit to be concerned in the management of a company, the court must, as respects that person's conduct as an officer of that partnership or each of those partnerships or as a director of that company or each of those companies, have regard in particular to the following matters⁴.

In all cases the court must have regard to:

- 1757 (1) any misfeasance or breach of any fiduciary or other duty by the officer in relation to the partnership or, as the case may be, by the director in relation to the company⁵;
 - 1758 (2) any misapplication or retention by the officer or the director of, or any conduct by the officer or the director giving rise to an obligation to account for, any money or other property of the partnership or, as the case may be, of the company⁶;
 - 1759 (3) the extent of the officer's or the director's responsibility for the partnership or, as the case may be, the company entering into any transaction liable to be set aside under the provisions against debt avoidance⁷;
 - 1760 (4) the extent of the director's responsibility for any failure by the company to comply with any of the provisions relating to:
- 19
- 5. (a) the company's duty to keep accounting records⁸;
 - 6. (b) where and for how long records are to be kept⁹;
 - 7. (c) the register of directors and secretaries¹⁰;
 - 8. (d) the obligation to keep and enter up the register of members¹¹;
 - 9. (e) the location of the register of members¹²;
 - 10. (f) the company's duty to make annual returns¹³;
 - 11. (g) the company's duty to register charges it creates¹⁴;
- 20
- 1761 (5) the extent of the director's responsibility for any failure by the directors of the company to comply with the provisions relating to the preparation of annual accounts¹⁵ or the approval and signature¹⁶ of the accounts;
 - 1762 (6) any failure by the officer to comply with any obligation imposed on him by or under any of the provisions of the Limited Partnerships Act 1907 relating to registration of particulars of a limited partnership¹⁷, registration of changes in particulars¹⁸ and advertising¹⁹ a general partner becoming a limited partner and the assignment of the share of a limited partner²⁰.

In addition, where the partnership or the company has become insolvent²¹, the court must also have regard to:

- 1763 (i) the extent of the officer's or the director's responsibility for the causes of the partnership or, as the case may be, the company becoming insolvent;

- 1764 (ii) the extent of the officer's or the director's responsibility for any failure by the partnership or, as the case may be, the company to supply any goods or services which have been paid for, in whole or in part;
- 1765 (iii) the extent of the officer's or the director's responsibility for the partnership or, as the case may be, the company entering into any transaction or giving any preference which is liable to be set aside²²;
- 1766 (iv) the extent of the director's responsibility for any failure by the directors of the company to comply with the provisions relating to the duty to call creditors' meetings in a creditors' voluntary winding up²³;
- 1767 (v) any failure by the director to comply with any obligation imposed on him by or under the provisions relating to:
- 21
12. (A) the statement of affairs where an administrative receiver has been appointed²⁴;
13. (B) the directors' duty to attend meetings and in respect of the statement of affairs in a creditors' voluntary winding up²⁵;
- 22
- 1768 (vi) any failure by the officer or the director to comply with any obligation imposed on him by or under the provisions²⁶ relating to:
- 23
14. (A) the company's statement of affairs where an administration order has been made²⁷;
15. (B) the statement of affairs in a winding up by the court²⁸;
16. (C) the duty of anyone with company property to deliver it up²⁹; and
17. (D) the duty³⁰ to co-operate with the office-holders³¹.

1300 Matters for determining unfitness of officers of partnerships

NOTE 4--Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 s 9(3) omitted: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/COMPANY AND PARTNERSHIP INSOLVENCY (VOLUME 7(3) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 1-628; VOLUME 7(4) (2004 REISSUE) PARAS 629-1310)/15. INSOLVENT PARTNERSHIPS/(7) DISQUALIFICATION/1301. Criminal penalties; offences by body corporate; personal liability; applications for leave.

1301. Criminal penalties; offences by body corporate; personal liability; applications for leave.

If a person acts in contravention of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking he is liable, on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for not more than two years or a fine or both, and, on summary conviction, to imprisonment for not more than six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or both¹.

Where a body corporate is guilty of an offence of acting in contravention of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking and it is proved that the offence occurred with the consent or connivance of, or was attributable to any neglect on the part of any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or any person who was purporting to act in any such capacity he, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of the offence and liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly².

A person is personally responsible for all the relevant debts³ of a company if at any time: (1) in contravention of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking he is involved in the management of the company⁴; or (2) as a person who is involved in the management of the company, he acts or is willing to act on instructions given without the leave of the court by a person whom he knows at that time to be the subject of a disqualification order or disqualification undertaking or to be an undischarged bankrupt⁵. Where a person is so personally responsible, he is jointly and severally liable with the company and any other person who is so liable⁶.

Where a person is subject to a disqualification order made by a court having jurisdiction to wind up partnerships, any application for leave must be made to that court⁷. Where a person is subject to a disqualification undertaking accepted at any time⁸, any such application for leave must be made to any court to which, if the Secretary of State had applied for a disqualification order at that time, his application could have been made⁹; but where a person is subject to two or more disqualification orders or undertakings, or to one or more disqualification orders and to one or more disqualification undertakings, any such application for leave must be made to any court to which any such application relating to the latest order to be made, or undertaking to be accepted, could be made¹⁰. On the hearing of such an application for leave, the Secretary of State must appear and call the attention of the court to any matters which seem to him to be relevant, and may himself give evidence or call witnesses¹¹.
